BULGARIA SEIZED; BLACKS OUT

CHARGES HIGH OFFICIALS WANT DICTATORSHIP

Wheeler Bares War Argument.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1. — A consolidation of the United States and British fleets at either Gibraltar or Singapore is one of the possible courses of action which President Roosevelt may take under the powers granted him in the war dictatorship bill the senate was told today.

Senator Taft.

Senators Robert A. Taft [R., O.], and Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], agreed that the bill gave Mr. Roosevelt power to bring about such a consolidation and also to establish a gigantic base abroad where tanks, guns, and other war weapons could be shipped for transfer to Great Britain, Greece, and Turkey if the latter opposes the axis powers.

Debate Is Heated.

General debate on the measure continued at a sizzling pace on the 12th day. Senator Wheeler held the floor for nearly five hours. He was followed by Senator Scott Lucas, [D., Ill.], who praised the measure, expressing disbelief that it led the nation a step closer to war.

The senate agreed to hold lengthier sessions next week, beginning at 11 a. m. instead of noon. Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, who proposed the longer sessions, expressed hope that they might make possible a final vote on the measure by March 8. Senator Wheeler and others, who had been accused of conducting a filibuster, assented to the proposal.

Senator Wheeler told the senate that "responsible officials of this government have told me that we must set up a totalitarian government in the United States in order to fight totalitarian governments across the water."

"Engine of Autocracy."

The senator dropped that remark into his prepared speech and added that he believed the dictator bill would "convert our great charter of democracy into an engine of autocracy. The rearing of the ugly head of Fascism in this country is evidence of the epidemic of madness sweeping over the world."

Earlier Senator Taft interrupted Wheeler to remark:

"I have been trying to estimate what powers the President might have under the general provisions of the measure. It seems to me perfectly clear that he might, for instance, consolidate our fleet either at Gibraltar or Singapore with the British fleet. In all probability, he could send our fleet over there. He has power to do so.

Further Possibilities.

"Certainly after the bill is passed and we express approval of the policy that Britain's defense is our defense, he would be justified in sending our fleet there. If some British destroyer happened to be damaged he could turn over an American destroyer for use while it was being repaired."

Wheeler agreed that the bill would empower the President to take such steps. He added, however, that he hoped to be able to prove to every senator "who wants to see the light" that the President has no power under the constitution to send our battleships into foreign waters as commander in chief of the army and navy.

A Further Argument.

"I agree," remarked Taft, "but what bothers me is that after congress has deliberately expressed the opinion and belief that the defense of Britain is the defense of the United States, the President could undoubtedly send battleships wherever he wished. The moment we do that we step beyond the mere question of constitutional power. The President will be justified in going ahead and convoying vessels, in landing men in various places where English defense is necessary, in establishing a foreign base where guns and tanks may be stored to be available to the British."

William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France, was stingingly criti-

CHURCH GROUPS WAGE FIGHT ON DICTATOR BILL

Called a Big Factor in Opposition.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Nine out of every ten of the 244,000 Christian clergymen of all churches of the country were declared yesterday to be opposed to the administration's war dictator bill. This fact, according to leading pastors, has been a potent factor behind the growing groundswell against the dictator bill in recent weeks.

The Rev. Charles F. Boss Jr., secretary of the Ministers' No War committee, returned to Chicago from Washington yesterday with the statement that the upsurge of religious resentment against the bill has put prowar senators and administration leaders on the defensive.

Protest at 1,000 Meetings.

Based on orders for bundles of the committee's factual analysis of the bill which was mailed to 92,000 clergymen of major denominations, Dr. Boss estimated that more than 1,000 joint and individual church meetings have been held in opposition to the bill. Orders for the analysis, he added, continue to be received in such quantity that extra secretaries are needed in the Ministers' committee office at 740 Rush street.

The Ministers' committee will be continued "as long as the administration tries to edge us into the wars in Europe or Asia," Dr. Boss said. He listed many additional antiwar movements thruout the country—movements wholly or in part related to churches—which are active in opposing the dictator bill.

These movements are:

The Church League of America, whose constituency is drawn from all churches.

Quakers Active in Fight.

Fellowship of Reconciliation, representing many Protestant communions.

Keep America Out of War Congress, which includes the National Council for Prevention of War, the Methodist Peace commission, and the Youth Committee Against War.

The Youth Committee Against War, which is composed of the National Council of Methodist Youth, the Students Peace service of the Friends [Quakers], Youth section of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, the National Intercollegiate Christian council, Youth section of the War Resisters league, in which both Jews and Christians coöperate, and the United Christian Youth movement.

Still Time to Kill Bill.

"From letters thus far received I'm sure that less than 10 per cent of the clergymen of the country favor the dictator bill," declared Dr. Boss. "Many of the few who favored it were apathetic toward it.

"These pastors have listened to the administration's assertion that the

SELLS AID TO BRITAIN; HIS TERMS: 2 CENTS WORTH FOR A QUARTER

New York, March 1 [Special].—Purchasers of aluminum "victory cards," to be mailed to Britain for aid in building planes, learned today that they have been paying 25 cents for an estimated 2 cents worth of the metal. The cards have been on sale at news stands and novelty stores here for three weeks and each weighs about three-quarters of an ounce.

The state department, at the request of Bundles for Britain, which disavows any indorsement of the cards, has begun an inquiry. Postal inspectors also are investigating because an envelope with the cards reads that only 1½ cent postage is necessary while the usual postage rate to Britain is 5 cents.

The cards are marketed by a firm calling itself Aluminum for Britain, headed by Abril Lamarque, a native of Cuba. Lamarque said the venture was purely a "commercial proposition" and added that 10 per cent of the gross proceeds is turned over to Bundles for Britain. The latter organization said, however, that only two checks, totaling $15, have been received.

EVERY ONE OF THESE—AND VERY PROPERLY—THINKS ALWAYS OF ITS OWN NATIONAL INTERESTS FIRST.

MOTHERS-SENATORS

A hard working mother with two sons now in training with the naval reserve, is going to Washington today to ask for the defeat of the war dictatorship bill. She is Mrs. Harriet Stacker, a widow, of 12722 Elm street, Blue Island. For 14 years she has scrubbed floors and done other heavy housework to support her four children.

Mrs. Stacker is proud of her sons in the navy, and of their service for their country, but she wants to save them from war.

"I have worked so hard," she said yesterday, "to bring up my boys and send them thru high school. Now they have gone into training with the navy in California. I cry nearly all the time."

Assisted by Employers.

In raising the money to pay for her trip to Washington Mrs. Stacker has been assisted by the families for whom she works. She has been employed by some of them ever since her husband died 14 years ago. Besides her sons in the navy, she also has a younger son and daughter.

Mrs. Stacker will be one of 15 mothers who will go to Washington under the sponsorship of We the Mothers Mobilize for America. The party will leave by bus at 11 a. m. from the organization's headquarters at 82 West Washington street.

Mrs. Grace Keefe, mother of nine, who is vice president of the group, said 24 mothers had been expected to make the trip, but Senator Carter Glass' announcement that he had asked for an FBI investigation of the mothers' movement, caused a last minute flurry of cancellations.

Attempts to Discredit Group.

Mrs. Keefe said Glass' statement was similar to other attempts to discredit her group. She told how members of an Italian mothers' club reported that they were warned at the office of Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] that it would be "un-American and dangerous for them to go to Washington to protest against the President's bill." Ald. Rowan denied making any such statement.

"Any woman is entitled to protest against anything she wants to," Rowan said.

Mrs. Keefe said the Italian women had been told something which terrified them so that they canceled their plans to go to Washington, and since then have refused to leave their homes.

Another traveler to Washington to protest against the war bill will be Mrs. Henry W. Hartough, president of the Chicago and Cook County Federation of Women's Organizations, who also is regional director of the National Legion of Mothers of America.

Glass Under Fire

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—The unsuccessful efforts of a group of mothers to state their opposition to the dictator bill to Senator Carter Glass [D., Va.] proponent of a war declaration against Germany, led today to spirited debate on the floor of the senate.

Simultaneously, Mrs. Elizabeth Dilling of Chicago, leader of the women identifying themselves as the "Mothers' Crusade Against H. R. 1776," loosed a verbal broadside against the 83 year old senator for what she termed the "worst insult" she ever heard. She branded the Virginian an "overage destroyer of American youth."

Assailed on Floor.

Glass was both criticized and defended in the senate for asking the federal bureau of investigation to check up on the group of women.

Senator Bennett Champ Clark [D., Mo.], declared the "right of petition won't last long if Senator Glass asks the FBI to investigate every petitioner."

Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.] declared Glass was "entitled" to protection.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], opponent of the bill, told the senate it was "no wonder that mothers of America come here excitedly to protest against this bill, but somebody wants to prevent them from expressing their views—somebody wants them to go to jail."

Seized in Picket Line.

Glass asked the FBI to determine who was financing "the unpleasant visit" of the women to the capital and whether "they have complied with our laws requiring the registration of foreign agents."

Mrs. Dilling and Mrs. Clara Henryetta Nibberich of St. Louis were arrested yesterday when police broke the picket line they and other mothers had thrown around Glass' office. Their trial on disorderly conduct charges is scheduled for Monday.

Glass expressed doubt that the women pickets were mothers, and referred to their demonstration as "a noisy disorder of which any self-respecting fishwife would be ashamed."

Would Take Their Property.

"Old boys who want our young men to go to war should be placed in the front line trenches, or, if they are too old to stand, their property should be taken from them," Mrs. Dilling said.

She offered to produce a picture of "my son, who will be 21 years old on April 11." She also has a 15 year old daughter and declared one woman in her group "has 13 children, five of whom are within draft age."

"I am opposing the traitors in the senate and White House who are tearing down the republic," she said.

State Orders Blue Sunday in Delaware

Wilmington, Del., March 1 [Special].—Residents of the sovereign state of Delaware will be able to attend church tomorrow as usual—but that's about all they will be able to do, legally.

For the state's attorney general has decreed strict enforcement of Delaware's 200 year old Sunday blue laws. Instructions to this effect went out after the house of representatives had rejected an amendment already passed by the senate, to permit every community to decide for itself the extent of the Sabbath observance. Police here announced every effort will be made to see that the laws are obeyed.

Bans "Worldly" Employment.

James R. Morford, the attorney general, interpreted the house's action as a mandate for enforcement of the long disputed law which prohibits all "worldly" employment on the Sabbath. Police are to see that:

There shall be no vehicles for hire, including street cars.

Every store shall be closed.

No newspapers shall be sold or delivered.

Playing cards or dancing shall be subject to a $4 fine.

Motoring will virtually be banned for gas stations must stay closed.

No Food Can Be Sold.

Any one without supplies will be out of luck for restaurants, drug stores and soda fountains must cease operations. There will be no milk delivery.

"The law must be enforced 100 per cent or not at all," the attorney general declared. "I regret that embarrassment and hardship will result to many people. However when enforcement touches their interests they are requested to get in touch with their representatives in the legislature. The matter is out of my hands."

Some business men asserted they intended to keep open tomorrow to make a test case. Others announced they would comply.

SENATE VOTES TO INVESTIGATE ARMS PROGRAM

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—The senate voted unanimously today to undertake an investigation of the armament program. The inquiry will be made by a committee of seven senators, to be appointed by the vice president.

Senator Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.], who proposed the investigation, probably will be chairman.

Proposals for a similar house investigation are pending in that branch.

HITLER'S THRUST OPENS UP PATH TOWARD GREECE

BY E. R. NODERER.

By occupying Bulgaria yesterday the German army placed itself in a position to drive across the mountains toward the Greek seaport of Salonika, key point on the Ægean and a stake in the Italian-Greek war. If the Germans do make such a thrust, there are three routes open to them.

From Sofia, the Bulgarian capital, the Nazis could strike south along the Struma river valley thru a gap in the Rhodope mountains leading toward Salonika.

They also could drive southeastward down the Maritsa river valley along the route of the Orient express toward Turkish Adrianople, Istanbul, and the Dardanelles. And if they plan to use Jugo-Slavia in a march to the south, they could follow the Orient express line northwest from Sofia to Nish in Jugo-Slavia and then cut south down the broad valley of the Vardar to Salonika.

Jagged Mountain Peaks.

The main line of the famed Orient express runs from Belgrade, the Jugo-Slavian capital, southeast of Sofia, then south of the Balkan mountains thru Plovdiv and across the Turkish border to Adrianople and Istanbul. A branch line of this railroad runs from Sofia down the Struma valley toward Salonika.

Jagged mountain peaks line the western and southern borders of Bulgaria, along the Jugo-Slavian and Greek frontiers, and the Balkan mountains cut the country in two. But the Maritsa river system running southeast from Sofia flattens out into the Black sea plain. At the Turkish border the Tunja river offers a barrier to any invading army in front of Adrianople.

A natural border between Greece and Bulgaria is formed by the Rhodope mountains, thru which there are a number of passes, the most important of which is the Struma river gap.

Passes Fortified by Greeks.

The other two main passes thru these mountains are north of Greek Kavala and north of Alexandropolis. There are seven roads across the Bulgarian frontier, most of them little more than mountain paths.

These passes have been fortified by the Greeks, but it is questionable whether they could spare any large body of troops from the Italian campaign to oppose a German thrust.

From Sofia to the Greek border by way of the Struma valley is about 110 miles. Salonika lies 50 miles to the southwest. It is about twice as far down the Maritsa valley.

Believe Turks May Join Axis.

Quick action by the Turks and British might slow the German advance thru Bulgaria, but what these powers will do is not yet clear. Many Balkan diplomats believe the Turks will fight only if their own territory is attacked and some express the view that Turkey, far from fighting, will be the next to join the axis.

The British control the Ægean and altho Salonika is a natural point for a landing by British forces, German bombing might render the port untenable. The British are known to have antiaircraft troops and specialists in Greece, and perhaps on a number of the Greek Ægean islands. About 150 British planes are believed to be operating from Greek airports.

Most observers believe that while Adolf Hitler is interested in forcing the Greeks to come to terms with Italy, he is more concerned with slamming shut the Salonika "window" thru which the British might conceivably launch an offensive as they did in 1915.

QUAKE JARS NORTHERN GREECE; 19,000 MADE HOMELESS IN LARISSA

ATHENS, Greece, March 2, Sunday (AP).—More than 19,000 persons were said to be homeless today in Larissa as a result of a violent earthquake which shook northern Greece yesterday. Reports from the earthquake zone said Larissa was wrecked, buildings tumbling down as the earth moved. The town has a population of 30,000.

The violence of the shock indicated casualties would be heavy. The people were abed when the temblor came.

The government dispatched several special relief trains to the city. Troop detachments tore at the wreckage to rescue the imprisoned. The telegraph and telephone buildings were among those damaged. A hotel was destroyed.

The epicenter of the shocks was at Elassona, where there was much damage. The quake also was felt in Karditsa and Trikkala.

GERMANS ENTER AS SOFIA CASTS LOT WITH AXIS

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 1 (AP).—Germany occupied Bulgaria today—the 11th sovereign state she has overrun since 1938—and tonight the entire country doused its lights in fear that Britain might make good at any moment on a threat to bomb Bulgaria if Nazi soldiers were allowed within her borders.

The arrival of Adolf Hitler's legions in gray-green battle dress by plane, armored car, and truck not only caused fear of British air attacks but concern lest internal disturbances break out against the occupation. All policemen were issued carbines to quell any possible demonstrations.

The military occupation extended to even the heart of Sofia almost before the ink of Bulgaria's signature was dry upon a protocol of the German-Italian-Japanese military pact. Premier Bogdan Philov signed, with Hitler as a witness, at Vienna this afternoon.

Strategic Port Occupied.

Official Bulgarian quarters admitted that Varna, strategic port on the Black sea, was occupied by the Nazis.

The British minister to Sofia, George William Rendel, obtained an audience with King Boris and members of the legation expected him to notify the monarch that German occupation of Bulgaria left Britain no choice but to break relations. The audience was scheduled for tomorrow.

Rendel said recently that Britain probably would declare war on Bulgaria and bomb her communications if Nazi occupation were permitted.

The Bulgarian government was expected in some circles to issue a statement that it had requested German troops to come "in the interest of peace." The rigor of Bulgarian border control was indicated by the fact that American Minister George H. Earle and a party of American newspaper men were turned back when they tried to enter Jugo-Slavia.

The occupation of Bulgaria must have started at dawn today—hours before the Vienna signing ceremony. Bulgarians mutely watched German armored cars roll into their capital even before many had learned that the pact had been signed.

Cross on Pontoon Bridges.

Information on troop movement outside Sofia was scant, but presumably the Germans crossed the Danube on their pontoon bridges. Six hundred thousand Germans are said to have been massed in Rumania.

The vanguard of the German mechanized forces reached Sofia this afternoon only two hours after the Vienna pact signing.

As their long column filed into the traffic cleared streets, fleets of warplanes—fighting craft and troop carrying transports—roared low overhead. Steel helmeted troopers sat like ninepins in the gray, lumbering road cars.

They were in full battle dress. Beside them they carried rifles, gas masks, and packs. Up the main streets they came and the advance unit parked close to the German legation.

One great Junkers transport, presumably carrying air infantrymen, circled at less than 1,000 feet over the German legation and then wheeled away toward Sofia's airport. Other transports followed.

Germans Unfurl Swastika.

Many German business houses promptly unfurled their swastika flags in welcome.

Bulgaria approached general mobilization. Troops newly called from cities to the colors left Sofia in large groups—bound for the Turkish frontier.

Bulgars could not be sure that the recent nonaggression pact with Turkey meant that Turkey would not move when now confronted by German occupation of her neighbors.

Austria was the first nation to succumb to the expanding reich, on March 13, 1938. In chronological order, the Germans since then also have overrun Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, Denmark, Norway, the Netherlands, Belgium, Luxemburg, France, Rumania, and now Bulgaria. Hungary, altho not occupied, has provided railroads for Nazi armies moving into Rumania, whence they entered Bulgaria.

Wheeler Bares Argument for War.

cized in the debate. Senator D. Worth Clark [D., Idaho] recalled that Bullitt "had the effrontery to say to the American people, to gratify his own personal spleen against Hitler, that we could not have peace without victory."

"That is not all he said," commented Wheeler. "He said that those of us who were opposed to the lease-lend bill were affected with political dementia praecox."

He "Ought to Know."

"Of course Mr. Bullitt ought to know," said Wheeler. "I have never been under observation. I have never been in a hospital for treatment for nervous diseases. Those who have, of course, ought to know about political and other kinds of dementia praecox.

[Wheeler presumably referred to a period when Bullitt was near a nervous breakdown as a result of domestic troubles.]

"Think of it!" Wheeler told the senate. "An ambassador of the United States of America still on the payroll who, I charge here on the floor of the senate, was intriguing in Europe in 1938 and 1939, when the members of this congress were saying that we were for peace."

Senator Barkley said it was his understanding that Bullitt was no longer on the payroll.

The Lucas Speech.

In his speech Senator Lucas asserted that supporters of the bill "are the real guardians of peace."

"We are the realistic, hard boiled avoiders of war," he said. "We advocate the only practical method of making America first in naval power, first in national power, first in the power of those ideals which guarantee life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

In order to promote "national unity," Lucas said, he will support some amendments, but irrespective of their final disposition, he will support the bill.

The Illinois Democrat said he refused to believe that President Roosevelt was war minded.

"The people know that the President will avoid war so long as it is within his power to avoid it," he declared.

"If I thought for one moment that H. R. 1776 was a step toward war, I would be standing here opposing it with all of the power and force that I command."

Brewster Wants Compromise.

Senator Ralph O. Brewster [R., Me.], who has thus far refused to commit himself on the bill, announced that he would sponsor a compromise amendment permitting the transfer of larger naval vessels to other governments only when a similar new vessel was added to the U. S. navy.

"Adoption of this amendment would fix a foundation in tonnage and number of vessels at the point of strength of the navy at the time the bill becomes law."

DICTATOR BILL INSURES WAR, BROOKS WARNS

Fight Measure to Utmost, He Urges G. O. P.

New York, March 1 [Special].—Passage of the dictator bill would start the United States on the road to war because the power which would be invested in the President under the bill "could not be used without putting us in war," Senator Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] declared here today.

"I will support the President if we go to war," the senator told 75 Republican leaders at a luncheon in the National Republican club, "but I will fight him to keep us from getting into war.

"Other nations invited us to Europe 24 years ago to fight in a war to end all wars. We gave all we had. We gave even our blood to help, and we won that war, but Europe never admitted we won the war."

His "Right to Speak."

Brooks said he has a right to speak on the question, since he, two brothers, and his father fought in the world war. Senator Brooks himself was wounded seven times, and decorated for valor.

"If we go back to Europe and help them save the world for democracy again," Brooks warned, "they simply will be at it once more in another 20 years. You can't stop it."

Brooks urged the Republican leaders to exert all their strength in the fight against adoption of the bill. He emphasized that it was not the voting senators and congressmen who would do the fighting if this country went to war.

"It will be our sons who will fight," he declared. "If the men who do and say the things that cause wars had to fight them, there would be less wars."

U. S. "Inadequately Defended."

The speaker charged that the United States not only is "inadequately defended" but also that "there is not one first line, armored, self-sealing fuel tank airplane in our fighting forces today."

But answering assertions that the United States would be in danger if Britain fell to the Nazis, he replied: "Nonsense."

"I say quit crying hysteria and fear in America, quit talking fear and start to build," he added. "I say, turn the energies of this country to building millions of airplanes and training millions of American boys to fly them—and fly them they would, like meteors.

"Then, when we have accomplished that, we could sink every ship of Hitler's that came within 500 miles of our shores."

Assails Surrender Theory.

Brooks ridiculed the theory that if Great Britain should fall her navy might be surrendered to Germany and turned against the United States. He suggested that "we desecrate the bravery of British seamen if we say that they certainly will fail without our aid, or that their ships would be used against us, and even turned upon Canada and the colonies."

"If Great Britain would surrender, we better quit them now and start defending ourselves," Brooks declared. "Those same ships and planes that we have sent and would send to an even greater degree, under the lend-lease bill, would come back to Manhattan in the hands of the Nazis if Britain were to surrender."

The senator protested against placing "so much power to scatter our armed forces to the four corners of the world—in the hands of any one man." America's safety, he said, lies in continuing the decentralization of power.

De Gaulle Charges Germans Undermine French Empire

LONDON, March 1 (AP).—Gen. Charles de Gaulle, the "Free French" leader, told a reception of French in London today that 80 carefully chosen Germans had arrived in Casablanca, French Morocco, charged with "carrying on the progressive disintegration of France and her empire."

the Beauty of Easter

CAN BE EVEN MORE BEAUTIFUL with a

HAMMOND ORGAN

Over 3,000 churches in which the Hammond Electric Organ has been placed have found this statement to be very true. On Easter, like every other church day of the year, you want beautiful music to help solemnize the Service. The Hammond will give your church the splendor of great organ music. It will do it for you inexpensively: at a cost of but a few cents a week per member of even a small congregation. And the maintenance is negligible—the Hammond never has to be tuned. These are just a few reasons why the Hammond Organ has found its way into so many private homes, too! You still have time to install a Hammond Organ for your Easter Services.

HINT JUGO-SLAVS WILL BE NEXT TO ENLIST IN AXIS

Bulgaria Joins in Brief Vienna Ceremony.

VIENNA, March 1 (AP).—Bulgaria joined the German-Italian-Japanese axis today in a seven minute ceremony believed to mean the approach of a final showdown with all the Balkan nations. Only Greece, Turkey and Jugo-Slavia among the Balkan countries now remain apart from the lengthening axis, and neutral observers believed that events already were exerting pressure on Jugo-Slavia, which is considered friendly, to sign the one-for-all and all-for-one treaty.

Bogdan Philov.

In welcoming Bulgaria into the alliance, German Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop predicted that other states would join the movement. Greece was not mentioned in today's ceremony in Vienna's Belvedere palace, but Von Ribbentrop declared, "the power of England is to be opposed and smashed wherever it shows itself," and Greece is Britain's lone ally, engaged in war with Italy, the first axis partner.

Premier Signs for Bulgaria.

Present besides Von Ribbentrop were Bulgarian Premier Bogdan Philov, who affixed his signature to the treaty at 1:50 p. m.; Italian Foreign Minister Count Galeazzo Ciano, the Japanese ambassador to Germany, Lieut. Gen. Hiroshi Oshima, and representatives of the other axis members, Rumania, Hungary and Slovakia.

Adolf Hitler, himself, accompanied by the chief of his armed command, Field Marshal Wilhelm Keitel, was waiting in the middle hall of the old palace, to which participants in the ceremony walked to receive the fuehrer's congratulations.

Friendly With Russia.

Philov declared that Bulgaria was determined to "continue friendly relationships with Russia," and defined the purpose of joining the axis as "the possibility for stable development and bringing about a just peace."

The first significant result of Bulgaria's entry into the axis was not long in coming—later in the day Nazi troops entered Bulgaria.

In Rome the Fascist journalistic spokesman, Virginio Gayda, exulted that Bulgaria had taken the plunge; said it would "confirm the isolation of Greece in the Balkans," and interpreted it all as a red light to the United States.

It [the Vienna ceremony] "should, above all, warn the more responsible men of Washington who would like to assume the attitude of arbiters of European destiny," he wrote.

He intimated that Bulgaria now would help, passively or actively, in a spring offensive to smash Greece.

German Troops in Position to Attack Greece

Heavy black lines mark routes by which German forces are believed to have moved in their occupation of Bulgaria yesterday and other ways by which they may advance to the border of Greece. Captions on the map tell of the principal developments of yesterday and of factors that may influence future action.

PARTNERS IN AXIS PLEDGE HELP IN CASE OF ATTACK

The Rome-Berlin-Tokio 10 year military and economic pact with which Bulgaria affiliated herself yesterday provides that the original three signatories shall "mutually support" each other in the event any one is attacked by a power not then involved in the European or far eastern conflicts.

Japan's leadership in "the creation of a new order in the great Asiatic region" and the leadership of Germany and Italy "in creating a new order in Europe" are mutually recognized.

The treaty, originally signed in Berlin Sept. 27, 1940, also provides for the establishment of technical commissions and specifically states that any treaty any of the three powers has with Russia is not affected by the three power pact.

Other partners have not actually signed the treaty, but signed protocols by which they accepted the pact. Other signers and the dates of their affiliation: Nov. 20, 1940—Hungary. Nov. 23—Rumania. Nov. 24—Slovakia.

NAZI BOMBER IS FORCED DOWN BY JUGO-SLAVS

SKOPLJE, Jugo-Slavia, March 1 (AP).—Three Jugo-Slav pursuit planes forced down a three engined German Junkers bomber which appeared over this city this afternoon with a full bomb load. "We thought we were over Sofia," said one of the six German noncommissioned officers who were seized and interned. This city is 120 miles southwest of Sofia, the Bulgarian capital, which the Germans occupied today.

BRITISH PLANES 'LIKELY' TO RAID BULGARIA NOW

Nazi Thrust Is Called a 'Hollow Victory.'

LONDON, March 1 (AP).—British sources said tonight that the royal air force "is just as likely to bomb German troops in Sofia as in Wilhelmshaven," repeatedly raided Nazi North sea naval base.

This declaration, for the time being, was unofficial. The British, with customary caution, said they had no formal confirmation of the entry of German troops in Sofia on the heels of Bulgarian signature of the axis tripower pact.

However, news of the departure of British Minister George W. Rendel from Sofia was expected hourly.

"There is no question," said an authority, "of his remaining in Sofia with German troops parading past his front door."

Call It Hollow Victory.

Bulgarian signature of the three-power Berlin-Rome-Tokio pact was classed by one spokesman as a "hollow victory for the axis."

"It is apparent," he said, "that there is not much fight in a country which has sold its soul for peace."

It was evident that the British had no sympathy for Bulgaria; that they put her in a different street even from Denmark, which did not try to stop the German invaders last spring.

In some quarters it was stated flatly that Bulgaria, with the different examples of Greece and Rumania before her, should not expect any leniency from the British.

Pleased at Turkey's Stand.

General pleasure was expressed with the new Turkish-British agreement effected by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, but details were withheld for reasons of security.

Officials denied reports that Britain had sent a last minute ultimatum to Bulgaria, calling upon her to forswear any intention of giving German troops passage or face a British declaration of war.

But the British minister to Sofia already has said that such a declaration, coupled with R. A. F. bombing of German communication lines in Bulgaria and Rumania, was a likely consequence of such an occupation as was carried out today.

ASSERT GREEKS WILL HOLD OUT AGAINST NAZIS

BITOLJ, Jugo-Slavia, March 1 (AP).—The Greek army will be able to hold out even should Nazi troops aid Italy in Albania, Greek sources in this border city declared tonight.

With German forces one country nearer the Albanian battle front thru occupation of Bulgaria, these sources maintained that the Nazi mechanized equipment was unsuitable for a quick offensive.

Greeks Occupy Enemy Positions.

BRITAIN SEIZES 9,000 PRISONERS IN SOMALILAND

Bardera Taken in Push Up Juba River.

CAIRO, Egypt, March 1 (AP).—The capture of a total thus far of 9,000 Fascist troops in Italian Somaliland and a further British thrust up the Juba river to occupy Bardera, 160 miles from the river's mouth, was announced today by British general headquarters.

The advance was declared to have given the British control of all of the upper Jubaland, and a cleanup of scattered units in this vast area was pursued.

Hundreds of troops, aside from the 9,000 already in hand, were declared to be surrendering daily.

In both Eritrea and Ethiopia, the royal air force announced, a British aerial offensive was effectively supporting the ground troops.

Italian Transports Attacked.

Italian military traffic on the road between Asmara, the Eritrean capital, and Keren was machine gunned and some motor transports were destroyed, the Royal Air force said.

The Asmara railway station was bombed, as were the towns of Assab, Eritrea; Berbera, British Somaliland, and Neghelli, Ethiopia.

Two Italian planes were destroyed at Alomata, in northern Ethiopia between Makale and Dessie, and transports in that area were attacked, the royal air force announced from Aden, across the Gulf of Aden from Africa.

Rome Tells of Retaking Isle.

ROME, March 1 (AP).—Italy's high command reported today that a British force which seized the tiny island of Castelrosso, in the Dodecanese, off Turkey's southwest coast, had been defeated. An Italian force landed by planes and torpedo boats recaptured the island on Feb. 28, three days after the British took it, a communique said.

On the Albanian front, the Italians said, their bombing formations intensely scatter-bombed and machine gunned Greek troops. Nine enemy planes were shot down in air battles, while four Italian planes were lost.

Petain to Give Workers a Voice in French Industry

VICHY, March 1 (AP).—Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain addressing a crowd of workers today at Saint Etienne, former leftist center, said French industry would be reorganized to incorporate "social committees" of workers, technicians and employers. "A class struggle cannot stop without removing its causes," which he listed as unemployment, poverty and slum housing conditions.

More Canadian Army, Air Units Arrive in Britain

OTTAWA, Ont., March 1 (AP).—Safe arrival in the United Kingdom of several more units of the Canadian army and air force was announced by defense headquarters late today.

Quakes Shake Greece

GUARDSMEN WILL GO TO CAMP ON 29 SPECIAL TRAINS

Twenty-nine special trains will be used to transport members of the 33d division, Illinois National Guard, to Camp Forrest, Tenn., for their year in federal service, according to plans announced yesterday. The guardsmen will be inducted into the army Wednesday.

Chicago units will begin entraining next week. Trains for the large Illinois units, like the 122d and 124th field artillery and the 131st and 132d infantry of Chicago, will travel in several sections, leaving three hours apart. Trains for the downstate units—totaling 5,000 men— will pick up troops at various cities and then consolidate, many at St. Louis, Mo.

The 123d field artillery will depart on March 17, carrying guardsmen from Alton, Galesburg, Galva, Macomb, East St. Louis, Rock Island, Monmouth, Moline, and Bloomington. Two days later the 129th infantry will leave from Pontiac, Sycamore, Mount Morris, Dixon, Aurora, Kewanee, Elgin, Kankakee, Streator, Sterling, Rockford, Ottawa, Joliet, and Waukegan. The last downstate unit will leave on March 20 from Decatur, Sullivan, Springfield, Danville, Peoria, Quincy, Delavan, Salem, Carbondale, Cairo, Lawrenceville, Paris, and Champaign.

Twelve hundred guardsmen will be used to transport 600 motor trucks and field guns. The motor caravans are expected to make two overnight stops. The last of the Illinois guardsmen will leave on March 23, and all will be in camp by March 25.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, March 1 (AP).—The half submerged wreck of a trimotored Bolivian plane that crashed in a storm several months ago with 14 persons aboard has been found near the shore of Lake Huanchaca in eastern Bolivia, members of a searching party that returned here today reported. They said alligators prevented them from reaching the wreckage.

BANDITS GET $96 IN STORE.

Three bandits took $96 last night in a clothing store at 84 West Washington street after ordering the manager, Carl Fidler, and a clerk into a basement room.

BRITISH DOWN 4 NAZI PLANES IN RAID ON FRANCE

LONDON, March 1 (AP).—British fighter planes swept over northern France this afternoon, shot down four German planes—three fighters and a bomber—and returned without a loss, the government reported.

The fighter raid followed up overnight bomber attacks in which, the air ministry news service said, the German ports of Wilhelmshaven and Emden were pounded despite thick weather which kept Nazi raids on Britain to a minimum. There were three night alarms in London, but they were of short duration. The only report of bombs was from a south coast town.

Several shells were hurled across Dover strait from the German held French shore and coastal observers said the Nazis apparently were trying out a new gun. No casualties were reported.

AN AUSTRALIAN GIRL SINGS WAY TO FAME FROM GERMAN CAMP

VIENNA, March 1.—Lorna Sydney, young Australian singer who was discovered by Lotta Lehmann, opera star, has become a celebrity of the concert stage of an enemy country in spite of the fact that she had to begin her career abroad in an interment camp.

The outbreak of the war found her in Germany, where she was studying, and she was arrested as an enemy alien. Soon released, she was again seized and sent to an internment camp when Britain seized many German civilians. Later the Germans not only released her but made it possible for her fiancé, Walter von Ronacher, to arrange to marry her.

Miss Sydney has participated in many benefit concerts, including one for wounded soldiers. Tonight she received five encores and almost a dozen curtain calls at the close of a recital in the Brahms hall of the Vienna musikverein.

NEW U. S. ENVOY MET BY KING ON WAY TO LONDON

Formality Is Dropped as George VI. Hails Winant.

LONDON, March 1 (AP). — King George VI. swept diplomatic formality aside today and went halfway across England to greet the United States' new ambassador to his court, John G. Winant, with a hearty hand shake.

King George VI.

The meeting place was a windswept railroad platform between London and Bristol. Winant, the shaggy ex-governor of New Hampshire, landed at Bristol after flying across the Atlantic.

With Winant came his assistant, Benjamin Cohen, and President James Bryant Conant of Harvard university, who is on a government mission to collect scientific information for American military needs.

King Pumps Two Hands.

Spruce in the uniform of a field marshal, the king reached out and pumped Winant's hand and then Cohen's.

"I am glad to welcome you," he said.

Winant's navy blue overcoat and gray suit were crumpled after the long journey and his white collar was a little the worse for wear.

He and the king grinned frequently during their chat as March breezes whistled thru the station. Winant, bareheaded, kept his gray hat clenched in his fist.

Having sought out the ambassador, the first time he ever had driven to the station to greet a new envoy, King George kept up the note of informality by driving him home to tea with Queen Elizabeth.

Welcome by Roosevelt Recalled.

The king's extraordinary gesture was regarded in diplomatic sources as reciprocation for President Roosevelt's reception of Lord Halifax, Britain's new ambassador to Washington. Last Jan. 24, when Lord Halifax rode up Chesapeake bay aboard the British battleship King George V. to take up his post, President Roosevelt drove to Annapolis and sailed out to the British battleship to greet the ambassador.

Duke of Kent Is Late.

The three Americans landed at Bristol at 2:38 p. m. from Lisbon, Portugal, where a Clipper plane had flown them from New York.

In another five minutes the duke of Kent, King George's younger brother, hurried into the waiting room and, appearing a little embarrassed for being late, joined in the welcome.

"I'm glad to be here," said Winant, biting his lip and shifting from foot to foot. "There's no place I'd rather be than in England."

SOVIET ADOPTS RECORD BUDGET; HIKES FARM TAX

MOSCOW, March 1 (AP).—The supreme soviet closed its eighth session today with adoption of a record national budget of 216,052,000,000 rubles for 1941. [The ruble has a nominal value of about 19 cents, but lack of an open market prevents any accurate conversion into American money].

A decree increasing the income tax on collective farms from 3 per cent to 4 to 8 per cent was adopted.

The budget was almost 1,000,000,000 rubles more than that originally proposed. Nearly 30 per cent of it is for military expenditures.

NAZIS IMPOSE $8,000,000 FINE ON AMSTERDAM

AMSTERDAM [Via Berlin], March 1 (AP).—German military authorities today fined the city of Amsterdam 15,000,000 guilders [nominally about $8,000,000] as a penalty for recent disorders against the Nazi occupation. The city must pay the money within a week and then collect within six weeks from inhabitants who are in the $5,000 a year class. If the payments are not made promptly, further reprisals will be levied, it was stated. The towns of Hilversum and Zaandam also were fined a total amounting to around $1,500,000.

CROSSING EUROPE TO PEACE! A VIEW BY MISS SCHULTZ

Beauty Lies a Stranger Amid the Ruins.

[Sigrid Schultz, chief of the Chicago Tribune's Berlin bureau since 1925, has arrived in the United States for a short vacation. She will make at least four speches in Chicago before she returns to Berlin. In the following article she tells of her experiences and impressions on her travels thru Switzerland, France, Spain, and Portugal on the way to America.]

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, March 1.—If it took you 10 days to go from Berlin to New York in what now seems the faraway age of peace you knew you were squandering precious time. Now if you manage to cover the distance in three weeks you are almost setting a record. The trip from war to peace thru countries trembling in fear of what the next day will bring is arduous, but it provides a clear picture of what war means to the whole of continental Europe.

In Germany it means concentration of the entire life of the nation toward one single goal—war. Every phase of life has been altered to fit into the government's plan of totalitarian warfare. When I left Berlin talk of the tremendous offensive to come was the topic of the day. New mystery weapons again were mentioned in whispered conversations the same as a year ago. Others talked about equally fantastic planes which England would send to rain death on Berlin.

In Switzerland the national strength is being mustered to preserve what is left of the country's independence. Plans are being worked out for the further rationing of food to follow the rationing of butter and clothing.

Fill German Orders.

Part of Swiss industry is working to fulfill orders for Germany in an effort to secure the coal and other industrial products that are of vital importance to the country.

France, dazed by defeat and suffering from a shortage of food, is frantically trying to get organized. The Frenchmen I met were pathetically eager to convince one that the old French spirit was not gone. In Spain misery stares at you out of the eyes of mothers clutching their emaciated youngsters and begging for food. The ruins of shelled, bombed, and burned out houses are grim reminders of the civil war. In Madrid foreign observers claim cases of people starving to death are known.

In the big luxury hotels of Madrid and Barcelona the beauty and elegance of the women and the proud bearing of the men are striking. One picture remains etched in my mind. In Barcelona anybody standing in the street could look far into the lobby of our hotel. Young Spanish women and older elegant women who evidently used to fill the Riviera resorts were in the lounge. As dusk gathered their cavaliers turned up and they danced to the strains of a jazz band. Outside beggars would creep up and peer into the lighted hall until the hotel porter would chase them away. Half starved dogs slinking thru the streets searching for a scrap of food were a pitiful sight.

Portugal a Different World.

It seemed like a different world when you reached Portugal with its white and blue tiled railroad stations, its carefully tended fields and villages. And yet Portugal, too, is living in apprehension.

On my journey I took a sleeper train that runs from Geneva, Switzerland, to the Spanish border thru unoccupied France. Since you cannot buy food in France arrangements have been made to provide dinner at Chambery and breakfast at Narbonne. The dinner was frugal, but it had the delicate flavor of even the simplest of French cooking.

In Portbou on the Spanish side of the border registration and examination of luggage and money was a long process. The train for Barcelona left punctually, several hours before baggage inspection was finished. It carried only two passengers, the new Swedish minister to Portugal and his wife, who passed thru quickly, thanks to their diplomatic passports.

Once a Prosperous Town.

The others spent the early part of the night in Portbou. Before the civil war it must have been a thriving little city, but now many of its buildings are boarded up. Whole streets were crumbling, destroyed in the last air raids of the Spanish civil war.

From the border to Barcelona, Madrid, and on to Portugal you pass thru incredibly beautiful and romantic country. At the stations children beg for cigarets or bread. They fight for cigaret stubs thrown out of the windows and in the background, men beckon to the youngsters who manage to collect the most of them. As the train pulls out you can see them dickering for a good bargain for their prize.

Grim Reminders of War.

In Madrid the ruins of University City remain grim reminders of civil war days. You can still see remnants of the trenches. We saw young couples strolling over the ruined fields, oblivious of the past, but in the city itself beggars, pushing thru the milling crowds, told their tales of suffering.

Among young Spaniards faith in the army leaders seemed very strong. In the big Madrid hotel where we stayed only German literature could be found in the reading room.

When I arrived in Portugal I found a steady stream of Americans pouring into the country, coming from France, Italy, and eastern Europe on their way back to the United States. Many are traveling under the protection of the American Red Cross.

Flood of German Papers.

Refugees of other nationalities filter into Portugal from France and Spain. They are feverishly trying to find a chance to cross the Atlantic to North or South America or to go to Africa.

The bookstands are flooded with German newspapers and magazines. Lisbon is the only city on the continent where you also can buy American magazines and papers. In most of them, tho, you find leaflets advertising a German aviation magazine.

Portuguese assure you there is no special significance in this distribution of leaflets—that they are more determined than ever to preserve their neutrality.

When you finally reach the America bound ship you hear a babble of foreign tongues. The crew is resentful of many of the foreigners and makes no effort to hide its dislike of those it believes never will make good Americans.

Storm Adds to Difficulty.

The hurricanes which hit our ship added to the difficulties. Fear of death gripped anxious mothers praying in corners with their children. When the storm abated racial resentment remained strong. The Italian mother would not let her children play with the Jewish children. The Dutch and Scandinavian parents kept their children away from the German children. The French children stayed amongst themselves.

But toward the end of the voyage the melting pot process had started. I saw the French war orphan exchange sign language with the 8 year old boy who came from Berlin. The Berliner had an American passport, but he knew as little English as many of the children of Franco-American parents and other refugees who had abandoned their homes to try to rebuild a new life on the continent which to date has been spared the hatred and suffering which mark Europe's history.

Swiss Receive Warning on Insults to Italian Army

ROME, March 1 (AP).—The newspaper La Tribuna warned the Swiss today against "provoking" Italians living in Switzerland with "insults" to the Italian army. Such insults were heard in the canton of Neuchatel, said the newspaper, which reminded Switzerland that it was surrounded by axis powers.

ROOSEVELT AID IN CHINA LEAVES FOR U. S. TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONGKONG, March 1.—Laughlin Currie, who has been in China as President Roosevelt's personal representative, said today that he had spent a "strenuous but fascinating" time in Chungking, attending social functions, studying conditions, and seeing the people. He will board a Clipper plane for the United States tomorrow.

Currie declined to comment on his study of the Chinese economic situation, declaring: "I must report to Mr. Roosevelt first." He said he had a personal greeting from Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek for the President.

During his visit in China, Currie said he conferred with Gen. Chang-chan, chairman of Szechwan province, and inspected the military college and aviation school there. While here he saw Acting Governor Lieut. Gen. E. F. Norton, and the British ambassador to China, Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr.

FORMER NORMAL MAYOR DIES.

Bloomington, Ill., March 1 [Special].—James S. Courtright, 82 years old, former mayor and postmaster of Normal, died last night. He also had been a member of the school board, tax collector and city clerk, and was employed for 10 years in the secretary of state's office.

HOLD ARGENTINE CHIEF'S DOCTOR FOR HEALTH QUIZ

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, March 1 (AP).—A senate committee today released President Roberto M. Ortiz' personal physician after ordering him held in an anteroom overnight because of his refusal to testify on the physical ability of the president to resume him post.

President Ortiz, who relinquished his duties to Vice President Ramon Castillo last July because of illness, was asked Jan. 23 by the Radical bloc to take up his office again. Dr. Lopez declined to testify on grounds of professional ethics.

DONOVAN FLIES TO LISBON; SEES PREMIER AN HOUR

LISBON, Portugal, March 1 (AP).—Col. William J. Donovan of New York, flew from Madrid to Lisbon today, conferred for an hour with Portuguese Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, and then sped back to Madrid. The purpose of his visit was not disclosed.

Donovan, who has said he is on a private trip but is popularly supposed to be an emissary of President Roosevelt, has visited London, the Balkans, Africa and the middle east in rapid order.

His visit here was so arranged that few persons knew of it until he had gone. The United States legation was not advised until the plane landed, but the British embassy knew Donovan was en route.

THEATER OF AIR FINALE THRILLS OVERFLOW HOUSE

BY MARCIA WINN.

It has been a long time since the Chicago opera house harbored an audience such as it had last night, an audience which filled every seat unto the farthermost reaches and looked not so often at its seatmates to see what they wore as at the stage to see what was happening.

And the audience was quite overshadowed by what transpired on the stage in the production of "I Pagliacci," the 24th and final broadcast in the Chicago Theater of the Air series of W-G-N and the Mutual coast-to-coast network.

Operas have been broadcast there before, but never an opera where the villain was choked without being choked, where the orchestra was on the stage, or where the audience was led in applause by a little man who appeared miraculously from behind a silver microphone.

A Public Demand.

The opera house production, starring Marion Claire, Igor Borin, and Frederick Jagel, was in response to public demand. It was in answer to the appeals of 23,000 persons.

These 23,000 were those who wrote to W-G-N asking for tickets to see one of the series of operettas which the Chicago Theater of the Air inaugurated last May. They were the 23,000 whose applications couldn't be filled because the W-G-N audience studio, altho the largest in the country, seats only 650 and because 15,048 applications were accepted during the course of the series.

With the gala series drawing to a close the decision was made to move the last performance to the opera house, which seats 3,600. A study of the 23,000 applications elicited again an insuperable number of persons who wanted to see the show—15,048. The matter finally was settled by a public drawing Feb. 15.

Cross Section of Midwest.

Thus last night's audience was selected. It was a cross section of Chicago, its suburbs and nearby states. Young, old, shabby, well dressed, shop girls, midshipmen in uniform. The house was filled at 8:30 p. m., half an hour before the theater was on the air. Ten minutes before curtain time 200 still clamored outside. They finally were seated in the orchestra pit. Every one who had a ticket had a seat, and every seat was taken.

The opera stage was transformed with purple and silver backdrops. The W-G-N concert orchestra was increased from 30 to 40 pieces. The W-G-N ensemble chorus, the girls dressed in trailing white gowns, was increased from 15 to 23. A portable control booth was set up in one corner of the stage and sound engineers worked 10 hours with acoustics.

Rarely has opera swung along at so premeditatedly swift a pace. When the illuminated clock on the control booth pointed to 9 o'clock, it was on the air. When it pointed to 9:59 o'clock, the three principals had sung their final death notes. Ten o'clock, and it was off the air.

Encores? No Time for 'Em.

There were no encores. There was no time. No matter how vociferous the audience in its applause, it was silenced always with the wave of a hand of the little man who appeared from behind the microphone. The audience, aware always of the invisible audience with whom it shared the opera, always was obedient.

As for the reaction of the invisible audience, what it thought of the 24th and final Theater of the Air is not known, but in the last two weeks more than 100,000 of its components have written to W-G-N. They wrote from 44 states and Canada, and many appended 200 signatures to a single letter. The reason: they liked it.

William A. Bacher produced the radio version, as he has each of the preceding 23 operettas. He and Malcolm Meacham wrote the radio version of the opera. Henry Weber was musical director.

At the conclusion of the show John Charles Gilbert, manager of the opera house, drew a long and awed breath. "That's the biggest crowd," he said, "that ever saw a show of that kind here."

Attend Gala Opera Broadcast

Numerous notable Chicagoans attended the performance of "I Pagliacci," the last broadcast this season of W-G-N's Chicago Theater of the Air, in the Chicago Civic Opera house last evening. Left to right: Mrs. Walter Kirk, President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago, Mr. Kirk, and Mrs. Hutchins.

GOVERNOR TAKES A NEW ROLE AT MASONIC DINNER

Gov. Green assumed a new rôle last night. After hundreds of appearances as the man the toastmaster introduced, he acted as toastmaster himself as 2,500 Scottish Rite Masons and their wives gathered in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel to honor Carl A. Miller, commander in chief of Oriental consistory and editor of the Scottish Rite magazine, on his election to the Supreme Council.

Speakers included Gov. Julius P. Heil of Wisconsin; Melvin M. Johnson, dean of the Boston Law school and sovereign grand commander; John S. Wallace of Newcastle, Pa., grand lieutenant commander; Gaylard M. Leslie of Fort Wayne, Ind., grand treasurer general; Herbert N. Laflin, of Milwaukee, grand standard bearer, and Dan De Baugh of Chicago, grand master.

JAP PARLIAMENT PASSES RECORD 3 BILLION BUDGET

TOKIO, March 1 (AP).—The Japanese diet [parliament] wound up its business today, preparing to adjourn tomorrow until March 25, after passing the largest budget in Japan's history and adopting among other measures nine emergency bills to tighten government control of commerce and industry.

The budget totaled 12,875,000,000 yen [$3,012,750,000] with an additional appropriation of 1,000,000,000 yen [$234,000,000] to pay special military deficits and some supplementary items. The regular budget included special military expenditures of 4,880,000,000 yen [$1,141,920,000] for the war in China.

The most important of the nine emergency measures provide for executive regulation of the steelmaking industry and control of the machine tool and machinery industries.

CHILD DIES IN GUN ACCIDENT.

Champaign, Ill., March 1 [Special].—Coleen Oliger, 10 years old, was injured fatally this morning when accidentaly shot by a neighbor's child while playing in the Oliger home. The child took the gun from a dresser in the room and pulled the trigger, the bullet entering the Oliger child's stomach.

SWIFTLY MOVING POWER ENHANCES DRAMA OF OPERA

Story Skilfully Pointed Up for Radio.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Leoncavallo's sultry two acter, "I Pagliacci," had been condensed, streamlined, and pointed up for last night's gala performance in the Civic Opera house. Many of its episodes were spoken rather than sung. The language used was English.

The orchestra and the conductor were on the stage instead of in the pit, and the principal characters as well as the townsfolk and strolling players wore impeccable American evening dress instead of the gay garments of a 19th century Italian village.

The reason was that the performance was intended primarily for the huge radio audience of the Chicago Theater of the Air, presented over W-G-N and the Mutual system.

Moves with Swift Power.

The opera moved with a swift power which it often lacks in more conventional performances. For one thing there was no intermission, and from first to last nothing obstructed the breathless progress of the drama. In one packed hour the audience saw the beautiful Nedda go from a girlish delight in the beauty of the day and the songs of the birds to the agony of death under the dagger of her frantic husband, Canio.

Even in its conventional form "I Pagliacci" is one of the most powerful settings of the eternal triangle plot in all the literature of the stage, and in this streamlined version its power was, in some respects, actually increased.

The skilful way in which the spoken and the musical parts were dovetailed helped the general impact of the performance. The music seemed to steal naturally in when a scene was nearing its emotional climax. And the use of the spoken word helped to shorten some of those episodes which exist in virtually every opera—episodes in which the composer has not been above using a little padding.

Never a Let Down.

Singers, musicians, actors, and actresses, conductor, and general director all brought to their work last night a fervor and an alertness which drew storms of applause from the packed house. There was no letdown at any time in the evening.

Marion Claire sang Nedda; Frederick Jagel, Canio; Igor Gorin, both Silvio and Tonio; William Miller, Peppe. Henry Weber conducted. The W-G-N chorus and orchestra assisted. The station's drama staff supplied a double for each of the principal parts.

MRS. STETSON GETS FAST AND FURIOUS HELP

Gary firemen polished their trucks as they always do after a run and hoped fervently yesterday that the next housewife who locks herself out will just telephone them.

Mrs. Yancy Stetson, colored, didn't. She walked back a block from her home at 1532 Jefferson street in Gary to the Froebel school, one of the city's largest. And she used the firm alarm box.

Thinking the school was on fire, Chief Robert McGuire leaped into his car and sped away to duty, followed by Capt. Thomas R. King, two hook and ladder trucks, an aerial truck, two pumpers, a service truck and a flood light truck. Mrs. Stetson explained about her key. The firemen hoisted a ladder, went in a window, and unlocked the door.

The chief estimated the cost of getting out one-third of the city's fire equipment at $25—and that doesn't include polish and elbow grease.

MARCH COMES IN LIKE A LAMB —A MEEK ONE

Lion and lamb authorities decided after considerable wrangling yesterday that March had come in like a lamb—a prudent lamb that wore his overcoat and galoshes. The day wasn't very windy, anyway, and the mercury got up above freezing enough to melt a little of the February snow. But if you prefer to think that March came in like a rather timid lion, why, it's a lion.

Forecaster G. E. Dunn said that as far as he was concerned, March came in like a four letter word beginning with L and that ended the matter. Today, he said, will be partly cloudy and warmer, with the temperature getting up to 48 degrees.

Fourth Cousin of Pershing Is Draftee at Camp Grant

Rockford, Ill., March 1 [Special].—John J. Pershing, 22 year old fourth cousin of Gen. John J. Pershing, was among several hundred draftees arriving at Camp Grant last night. Pershing's home is at 636 North 14th street, Milwaukee, Wis. He had been employed by the Milwaukee road.

CHURCH GROUPS WAGE FIGHT ON DICTATOR BILL

Clergy Protests Called a Factor in Battle.

bill would be driven thru congress by administration pressure; that it would pass regardless of the voice of the churches, and that the situation is therefore hopeless. That psychology, I believe, has been purposely created by the administration. The antiwar senators are fighting a great battle. They assured me in Washington that there will not be a vote for some time—perhaps two weeks—and that there is still time to stop the bill."

Long Preparation Bears Fruit.

The Rev. Albert W. Palmer, president of Chicago Theological seminary who is chairman of the No War committee, and the Rev. Dr. Paul Hutchinson, managing editor of the Christian Century, leading undenominational religious journal, joined Dr. Boss in declaring that the years of preparation by the churches for combatting the crisis created by the dictator bill is bearing fruit. Communion after communion has recorded itself as being opposed to war, they said. The peace efforts of the late Pope Pius XI., known as "The Pope of Peace," also were cited.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.], a leader of the senate opposition to the dictator bill, praised the work of the Church League of America, 53 West Jackson boulevard, in a letter received yesterday by Frank J. Loesch, general chairman of the league. Senator Wheeler's letter was in reply to a church league letter to opposition senators asking them to bring out the real meaning of the bill in senate debate.

League Demands Clarification.

"We are bewildered," the league letter to the senators said. "As citizens we have a right to ask our senators for a clear explanation before this final irrevocable step is taken. If the senators know exactly the purpose of this grant of authority, they should make that purpose known to the people. If they do not know exactly how this bill is going to improve or expedite aid to Britain, short of war, then the senators have no moral right to vote for it."

Senator Wheeler's reply follows in part:

"You propound questions which in my judgment go to the very heart of the issue and which the administration and the proponents of this legislation have clearly failed to answer. It is my intention to propound the sense of some of the questions which you outline. I am taking the liberty of inserting your letter in the congressional record."

Describe Nation-wide Opposition.

Dr. Hutchinson, who returned from Washington on Friday, outlined what clergy and lay leaders of churches are doing in many communities to arouse active opposition to the dictator bill.

In Los Angeles, he said, Dr. Albert E. Day, pastor of the First Methodist church and vice president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, joined Joseph Scott, one of the leading Catholic laymen of the country, in sponsoring a massmeeting last Thursday at which the dictator bill was condemned. The participants sent a resolution of protest to the California delegation in congress.

Dr. Boss said the Ohio Ministers' council had adopted, by overwhelming majority, a resolution opposing the bill. He said the Methodist Ministers' association of Indianapolis also voted against the bill and had condemned what it described as "a drift to one-man government."

Catholic Denunciation Recalled.

Citing Catholic opposition to the bill, Dr. Boss described activities of the Rev. Dr. John A. O'Brien of the graduate school of the University of Notre Dame. In speeches thruout the midwest Father O'Brien said the bill "out Hitlerizes Hitler" and described the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies as "the mass murder committee." The priest also urged telegrams calling on congress not to repeat what he termed "the tragic mistake of 1917."

Dr. Boss said one of the few letters opposing the action of the ministers' committee was from the Rev. James G. Patton Jr. of Waynesboro, Va., who said he was asking the Federal Bureau of Investigation to scrutinize the committee's activities. Dr. Boss said he was eager for such an investigation.

"The administration then would learn how much opposition to the bill there exists among churchmen," he said. "It would be an eye-opener to congress."

Opposition Growing for Years.

The vigor of the church opposition to the dictator bill, Dr. Boss explained, is the result of cumulative antiwar activities and pronouncements by virtually all major denominations since the World war. He cited a review by Dr. Walter W. Van Kirk, a secretary of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ, of the American church movement against war.

Dr. Van Kirk's review does not take up a study of peace pronouncements by the Catholic church, but the author's preface stated that "it need hardly be said, that this communion [the Catholic church], thru the National Catholic Welfare conference and the Catholic association for International Peace," is working toward peace and justice among nations.

Following are exerpts from official antiwar pronouncements of other denominations:

METHODIST GENERAL CONFERENCE—We stand for the repudiation of war and for the discovery of all reasonable methods to attain peace. The Methodist church as an institution cannot endorse war nor support or participate in it.

NORTHERN BAPTIST CONVENTION—We believe that war is wrong, being contrary to the principles of the Prince of Peace.

"Supreme Enemy of Mankind."

CHURCHES OF GOD IN NORTH AMERICA, GENERAL ELDERSHIP—War is not now an inevitable integral part of civilization, but rather the supreme enemy of mankind.

CONGREGATIONAL GENERAL COUNCIL—We record our conviction that war is contrary to the mind of Christ; that the continuance of civilization demands its entire elimination and that it is the duty of all Christians and all churches to find a Christian way to meet international situations which threaten war.

DISCIPLES OF CHRIST—War is incompatible with the teachings of our Lord Jesus Christ.

EVANGELICAL SYNOD OF NORTH AMERICA — International warfare and the gospel of love and brotherhood which we profess, are incompatible.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OF THE U. S. A., GENERAL ASSEMBLY—We, too, renounce war as an instrument of national policy.

Lambeth Denunciation Quoted.

AMERICAN EPISCOPAL CHURCH, GENERAL CONVENTION — As stated by the Lambeth conference [of all Anglican bishops], "War, as a method of settling international disputes, is incompatible with the teaching and example of our Lord Jesus Christ." We believe that as the Christian conscience has condemned infanticide and slavery and torture, it is now called on to condemn war as an outrage on the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of all mankind.

REFORMED CHURCH IN AMERICA, GENERAL SYNOD—War is contrary to the teachings of Jesus Christ.

REFORMED CHURCH IN THE UNITED STATES, GENERAL SYNOD—We repudiate the theory, and all its implications, that God favors resort to war, and we affirm that the Christian's God is forever against the war spirit and the war system.

Youth societies, men's organizations and interdenominational groups of the various churches have developed their own antiwar declarations, and antiwar teachings have been included for many years in Sunday school teachers' journals.

Decatur, Ill., March 1 [Special].—Attorney Walter F. Boye of Chicago told an America First rally tonight that passage of the President's war dictatorship bill would be inviting an attack on the United States.

"Our ships will be convoying supplies to England within the next few months," Boye said. "That means war. Our convoys will be fired upon and we will fire back. H. R. 1776 is a war bill which invites the totalitarian powers to declare war on the United States."

Boye is one of four speakers touring downstate cities under the auspices of the Illinois America First committee. They are pointing out the dangers of the war dictatorship bill and urging citizens to swamp Senator Scott W. Lucas [D., Ill.], with letters demanding that he join the fight against the war measure.

TRAIN INJURES COAL PICKER.

Stanley Brick, 28 years old, 1414 Noble street, was injured yesterday when he was struck by a North Western passenger train while picking up coal on the railroad elevation between Potomac avenue and Blackhawk street.

ENGLISH TO GET NEW FOOD SOON —SEAGULL EGGS

LONDON, March 1 (AP). — Seagull eggs soon will be teamed with breakfast bacon in England. The ministry of agriculture and fisheries has just completed a seagull census and arranged to have eggs collected and marketed during the spring laying season. Seagull eggs long have been a favorite food of hardy British fishermen. They taste like duck eggs.

EX-POLICEMAN FOUND SLAIN.

Charles Wieneke, 77 years old, a retired policeman, was found shot to death in his home at 6312 Hyacinth avenue. He had been in poor health.

New Destroyer Meredith Commissioned at Boston

Boston, Mass., March 1 (AP).—The destroyer Meredith, launched last April, was commissioned today at the Boston navy yard by the yard captain, Ronan C. Grady. Lieutenant Commander William K. Mendenhall was assigned to command the vessel, with Lieut. E. B. Dexter as executive officer.

UNION NOW GROUP SEEKS $250,000 FOR PROPAGANDA

Plans Nation-Wide Drive to Put Over Idea.

New York, March 1 [Special].—Drum beaters for the "union now" idea, a scheme to lump all the English speaking countries of the world under one "supergovernment," are engaged in a campaign to fill a $250,000 war chest for propagation of the "United States of Mankind" plan.

The campaign was launched under the joint auspices of the national organization that calls itself Federal Union, Inc. [the incorporated label for "union now"], and the union's New York chapter. Many members are on record as favoring American participation in the European war, as well as for federal union, and also are to be identified in the membership of The Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies.

Publicized in Eastern Press.

Plans for the $250,000 drive, which has been favored by free publicity and paid advertisments in eastern newspapers, contemplate the use of all forms of information and propaganda.

The union's prospectus stressing its lack of funds states that what has been done is encouraging, but "it is only a start." It adds that to build up articulate public opinion "in a race against time" is a tremendous job. The prospectus sets forth the following ways in which the anticipated $250,000 will be spent.

1. $50,000 for field organizers to build up a stronger following from coast to coast.

2. $30,000 to tell union's story in meetings and rallies and for distribution of free pamphlets.

Use All Means of Publicity.

3. $60,000 for publicity material to be distributed free to newspapers and magazines, and for paid advertisments and for propaganda thru newsreels.

4. $50,000 to provide speakers for organizations of various types; $5,000 of this amount is earmarked for propaganda in New York City.

5. $30,000 to put Federal Union on the air and dramatize "what a larger world union would mean," and to provide and distribute an "educational" film for use in schools and churches.

6. $5,000 to make possible in New York City a model intercontinental convention to draft and adopt a constitution for "the united states of mankind."

7. $15,000 for rent, equipment, postage, telephones, and telegraph for union headquarters.

$10,000 to Organize Chapters.

The union also earmarks $10,000 to organize chapters in colleges and schools thruout the nation.

William Jay Schieffelin is chairman of the New York chapter of Federal Union, Inc. Its guiding spirit is Clarence K. Streit, former foreign correspondent. The "union now" plan first was expounded by Streit in a book of similar title.

Expanding its campaign for passage of the war dictatorship bill in congress the women's division of the Committee to Defend America by Aiding the Allies, plans to blanket the nation with 5,000 billboards.

Honeymooners Hurt

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mr. and Mrs. John Morse Jr. of Des Plaines bandaged because of injuries in automobile accident at Detroit, Mich.

Detroit, Mich., March 1 [Special].—Mr. and Mrs. John Morse Jr., of Des Plaines, Ill., were married six months ago, but until last Thursday were unable to get away for a honeymoon. Then they came to Detroit. Their celebration was interrupted today by a head-on automobile collision, which left both with head injuries. Thirteen stitches were required to close Mrs. Morse's wounds and her husband has a cut over his eye.

Raft Upsets, Drowning 3 Boys in 180 Feet of Water

St. Louis, Mo., March 1 (AP).—Three boys drowned today when they fell off a raft into deep water at an abandoned stone quarry. They were Tony Lumia, 13; William Sherrill, 10, and William Kennedy, 11. The pool is 180 feet deep in places. A fourth boy who was playing near by told how the youngsters fought to keep the raft from tipping them overboard. "The big boy was still on the raft," he said, "and he tried to pull the other two out, then he fell in."

1,600 ON PULLMAN STRIKE TO RETURN IN MICHIGAN CITY

The 1,600 striking employés of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company plant at Michigan City, Ind., will return to work tomorrow under a temporary settlement announced last night by company officials and representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America [A. F. of L.]. The strike was called Jan. 23 when the union demanded recognition as bargaining agent.

Under the agreement which is to be submitted to the employés for approval at a meeting today, the company agrees to recognize the union as bargaining agent in accordance with results in an election held Thursday by the National Labor Relations board.

The company also agrees to begin immediate negotiations for a permanent contract with the union. The union is seeking a wage increase.

STRICKEN FATALLY IN CHURCH.

Spring Valley, Ill., March 1 [Special].—Edward J. Bamrick, Spring Valley grocer, died last night of heart disease. Bamrick, 67 years old, was stricken when attending lenten services in church. Surviving are his widow, a sister, Mrs. Bernard McGraw of La Salle, and a brother, Robert of Chicago.

[ADVERTISMENT] [ADVERTISMENT]

"THE PRESIDENT AND THE KING DECLARE WAR ON MONOPOLIES"

For many years before aggressive enforcement of the Sherman Anti-Trust laws by the United States government, and the vigorous action of the Price Pioneers—men who believed that the public should pay only the LOWEST fair price for merchandise, there flourished in this country, contrary to the AMERICAN WAY, a dictatorship of monopolies. They put a stranglehold on the consumer's buying power, making him PAY and PAY and PAY high, exorbitant prices controlled by a TRUST or SYNDICATE of a chosen few that would REAP the PROFITS for themselves—profits gained by OVERCHARGING the PUBLIC, people like you and I who could ill afford to pay.

Yet—if you couldn't PAY—if you didn't accept the verdict of the monopolies as to HOW MUCH YOU WOULD PAY, you had to be without those things you wanted, and many of them were necessary things. Industries were stifled, the AMERICAN right of a man to do business as he liked, as fair competition dictated, was just an empty phrase!

Then, into the fight came those farsighted men whose sense of justice and honesty was all-important, came those Price Pioneers to awaken and enlighten the people.

One of the most outstanding of those individuals who fought against the HEAVY TOLL monopolies were taking from you—the home owner, the man who WORKS FOR A LIVING, the GENERAL PUBLIC, is KING MIDAS, Always the Lone Wolf, he has battered down the walls set up by the monopolies with such success that today, in his own yards at 22d and Ashland, you find values, such tremendous bargains, such outstanding "buys" that would never be possible in the old days of the monopolies. Reward that fight that has benefited you in your everyday purchases by visiting these yards today, by taking advantage of the almost miraculous bargains that are being offered by that fighting PRICE PIONEER—King Midas—in those three full city blocks of "Everything to Build Anything!"

FRENCH ENVOY DISCUSSES SIAM PEACE IN TOKIO

Pays Belated Visit to Foreign Minister.

TOKIO, March 2, Sunday (AP).—French Ambassador Charles Arsene Henry went into belated conference today with Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, but announcement of a decision in the crisis revolving about Japan's mediation between French Indo-China and Thailand [Siam] was considered unlikely for some time.

Outward appearances indicated confidence in a settlement, despite France's failure to answer by last Friday midnight as demanded in a Japanese ultimatum calling for territorial concessions to Thailand.

Press Says French Agree.

The French ambassador had been scheduled to see Matsuoka on Saturday, but it was said he was unable at that time to present the complete case for Indo-China in keeping with lengthy instructions from Vichy. Matsuoka waited until 10 o'clock last night for Arsene Henry to appear, and then today's meeting was scheduled.

The Japanese press widely displayed suggestions that the French had agreed to Japan's basic terms.

Observers believed the Japanese were hesitant to resort to the "forceful action" which they had hinted would be applied, so long as a peaceful settlement appeared possible.

The flurry of reports of French acceptance included statements in usually reliable quarters that France had agreed to the return of the Luanbprabang and Pakse regions in Laos province to Thailand. France was ready "in principle," it was said, to cede the area around Sisophon in Cambodia province, also, but some details were reported to be still at issue.

Warships Off Saigon.

SAIGON, French Indo-China, March 1 (AP).—Three Japanese men o' war appeared off Cap St. Jacques, 40 miles south of Saigon, late today and reports persisted that 51 other warships were in nearby waters.

French officials said they still were without word of any decision by the Vichy government concerning Japan's terms for peace between Thailand and Indo-China. Reports from Hanoi said the demands had been rejected.

DOODY NAMED ACTING WARDEN OF TWO PRISONS

James J. Doody, superintendent of industries at the two state penitentiaries in Joliet, was named yesterday as acting warden to succeed Joseph E. Ragen, whose resignation is effective tomorrow. Rodney H. Brandon, state director of public welfare, said Ragen would be kept on the state pay roll until April 1 in lieu of a vacation to which he is entitled.

Jas. J. Doody.

Doody, a former detective sergeant of Chicago police, was made superintendent of industries at the prisons by the late Gov. Henry Horner. His salary will not be increased while he is acting warden, Brandon said. Ragen had been warden of Stateville and Joliet prisons for five years. George Sehring will remain assistant warden.

Brandon also announced the appointment of John Petersen as head of the prison honor farm to succeed Lawrence Sullivan. Petersen held the post previously.

755 Pupils Attend

A group of 755 high school students in the Chicago area attended the matinée performance yesterday of the University of Chicago's 16th annual Mirror Revue in Mandel hall. Last night's show was the closing performance of this year's revue, the theme of which was the university's 50th anniversary. The revue is produced and written by students.

British Let Red Ship Sail from Hongkong with Tea

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HONGKONG, March 1.—Bearing a British government permit to carry a general cargo, the 6,000 ton Russian freighter Turksib left here today for Vladivostok, Russian port on the Pacific, with 50,000 to 60,000 chests of tea. The Turksib had been repaired in Hongkong docks.

Finns' Meat Rations Cut to 50 Cents Weekly Each

HELSINGFORS, Finland, March 1, (AP).—Food rationing at Helsingfors was tightened today with a March allotment of less than 50 cents worth of meat or eggs per person per week. Eggs, however, have not been available since early in the winter.

RUSSIA'S ENVOY PROTESTS MAIL SEIZURE BY U. S.

Says Goods Purchased in America Used at Home.

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—Soviet Russia has lodged a protest with the state department against seizure of mail from Russia allegedly containing soviet propaganda. State department officials said today the protest came from Constantine Oumansky, the soviet ambassador, in recent conferences with Undersecretary Sumner Welles. No details were made public.

Postmaster General Walker announced Feb. 21 that more than 75,000 pieces of foreign propaganda mail had been seized by postal authorities during the last two months, most of which originated in Russia and Germany.

The matter was removed from the mails on the ground that it was unmailable in that it emanated from agents of foreign governments living abroad who have not registered at the state department as foreign agents.

Other Mail Seized.

Small amounts of similar mail from Japan, England, and Italy were said to have been seized also, but department officials were unable to say at the moment whether any of those countries had protested.

The state department also announced that Oumansky had informed Undersecretary Welles that all goods being purchased in this country were for the exclusive use of domestic industry in Russia.

The announcement said that "in the course of current discussions with Undersecretary Welles, Ambassador Oumansky today made the statement on behalf of his government that goods which have been and are being purchased in the United States by the union of Socialist soviet republics, including oil products and industrial equipment of all categories, are destined exclusively for the domestic needs of the USSR."

During 1940 American exports and re-exports to soviet Russia totaled $82,092,000, exceeded only by exports to the United Kingdom and France.

British ministry of economic warfare officials have charged from time to time that a considerable amount of American goods shipped to Russia have found their way to Germany, defeating in some degree the efforts of the British blockade to cut Germany off from all outside sources of war materials.

17% OF DRAFTEES TURNED DOWN BY ARMY PHYSICIANS

Eight hundred forty-three men examined for army service last month at the Chicago draft induction station were rejected, more than half of them because of bad teeth, defective vision, or mental disorders, selective service officials said yesterday. Rejections totaled 17.2 per cent of the 4,900 men examined. In January the rejections were 18.5 per cent.

Of the 853 rejected, 310, or 15.8 per cent, were from downstate. Five hundred thirty-three, or 18 per cent, were from Cook county. The draft station inducted 1,6432 men from downstate and 2,414 from Cook county, a total of 4,057.

Mental and nervous defects, including illiteracy and stammering, accounted for 172 rejections, 98 for Cook county draftees and 74 downstate. Next in line among causes for rejection was defective teeth, which caused 163 rejections, 122 in Cook county and 41 downstate.

Defective vision was the third principal reason for rejections, 121 men being turned down for poor eyesight, 84 of them in Cook county and 37 downstate.

Doctors found that overweight, underweight, and hernia, in additioh to defective vision, are more prevalent among city men. On the other hand, more cases of chronic alcoholism, venereal disease, tuberculosis, and bone defects, including flat feet, are found among downstate youths.

MICHIGAN GUARD UNIT MOVES IN AT FT. SHERIDAN

Five officers and 90 men of the Michigan National Guard 210th coast artillery [antiaircraft] moved into new barracks at Fort Sheridan yesterday and began to put things in order for the rest of their regiment, 76 officers and 704 men, scheduled to arrive in camp Wednesday for a year's training.

An advance detachment of one officer and 22 men of the 103 coast artillery [antiaircraft], Kentucky National Guard, will arrive by truck tomorrow. The rest of the battalion, 28 officers and 292 men, will arrive Tuesday.

Sixty-three barracks, each housing 63 men, are nearing completion, and will be ready for the National Guardsmen when they arrive.

ARMY AIRPLANES CIRCLE CAMPUSES IN CADET DRIVE

Six United States army pursuit planes from Selfridge field, Mich., circled college campuses in Chicago yesterday in a campaign for enlistments in the army air corps. The planes, commanded by Capt. J. N. Stone, flew from Selfridge field in an hour and a half and passed over the University of Chicago, Northwestern university, De Paul university, and Loyola university.

Capt. Lauris M. Eek, head of the cadet examining board in Chicago, said the army was accepting unlimited numbers of men with at least two years' college training. Eek made the trip from Selfridge field in an army transport plane, piloted by Capt. J. W. Hickman. Its co-pilot was Lieut. Miguel Melendez of the Colombian air force, who is studying at Selfridge field under an exchange agreement between the two governments.

REPORT BUREAU FEARED SCHEME FOR CENSORSHIP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—House Republicans today charged that President Roosevelt's office of government reports is a blossoming propaganda and censorship agency and urged defeat of a bill to establish the office as a permanent agency at a cost of $1,500,000 a year.

The office was established thru executive order in 1939. It is part of the executive office. The pending bill would perpetuate the agency as clearing house for information concerning the government, inform the President on current information, and distribute information concerning the executive departments.

Republican members of the house committee on expenditures in a minority report filed today by George H. Bender [R., O.] said none of these purposes is essential and each is already performed by existing agencies.

Doubt Director's Word.

The Democratic majority on the committee approved the bill and recommended it to the house after hearing Lowell Mellett, director of the office, explain that the administration had no plans for censorship.

"Should events across the seas create emergency conditions even more acute than those which now exist, such an office of reports would provide an ideal method for imposing a complete and rigid censorship of every kind of news, military and civil alike," said the minority report.

"We do not believe the people desire an agency for the concealment of facts or the coloring of information. We believe our nation certainly does not need an official censorship.

Language Called False Front.

"The language of the bill seems harmless enough. It provides for distributing information for the use of congress, administrative officials and the public. Stripped of its false front this means no more or less than the establishment of a bureau of propaganda. It means the establishment of an agency, whose major purpose will be the perpetuation of power in the administration.

"The word, 'information,' like the word, 'facts,' is capable of great elasticity. Yet even this dangerous foreign innovation of a propaganda bureau might be justified on economic grounds if the office of government reports were to become the exclusive source of information on our departments and agencies.

"As matters stand the work of the office of government reports will simply be in addition to, rather than in place of, the tremendous volume of federal propaganda already pouring out of Washington."

U. S. FLAG IS RAISED OVER BERMUDA SITES OF DEFENSE BASES

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 1 (AP).—The stars and stripes were hoisted over Tucker's and Morgan's Islands by United States marines today in formally taking over sites of new American defense bases. Bermuda volunteer rifle corps buglers sounded a general salute as the first flag was raised on Tucker's Island.

Maj. Gen. Denis Kirwan Bernard, governor of Bermuda, inspected an honor guard. The party then went to Morgan's Island, where the governor turned the first sod with a spade marked "Made in Canada."

SPALDING QUITS TIBBETT'S GROUP, JOINS PETRILLO

New York, March 1 [Special].—Albert Spalding, the violinist, announced today that he had resigned from the American Guild of Musical Artists [AGMA] and had applied for membership in Local 802 of the American Federation of Musicians, headed by James C. Petrillo.

Harold Bauer, concert pianist, who is not a member of the AGMA, disclosed that he also had applied for membership in the AFM, declaring that "as long as there is a musicians' union, every professional musician should join."

Today was the deadline set by Petrillo for instrumental virtuosos in the AGMA to join the AFM or be subjected to a boycott of the services of 130,000 members of the federation. Recently the appellate division of the Manhattan Supreme court upheld Petrillo's right to organize the instrumentalists of the guild, of which Lawrence Tibbett is president.

Strike Ends; Honolulu Car Workers Return to Jobs

HONOLULU, T. H., March 1 (AP).—Striking employés of the Honolulu Rapid Transit company returned to work today after accepting a compromise settlement proposed by the company. The strike was called 28 days ago after negotiations failed to settle difficulties over the closed shop issue.

HERE are the famous fundamental features of the Dodge motor car which are now crowned by the astounding success of Dodge Fluid Drive. These are the unique background advantages which separate Dodge from all other motor cars in its class and make it, we believe, the greatest motor car value in the world.

Countless thousands of enthusiastic owners are always boasting about the dependability of their Dodges—their enduring beauty and the sweetness of their day-to-day performance. None of these leadership results are the product of a day or a year of effort. They have come down through many years from within the walls of America's greatest motor car factory and its famous engineering laboratories.

UNFAIR TACTICS CHARGED TO C.I.O. BY ALLIS FIRM

Complaint Is Filed with Wisconsin Board.

Milwaukee, Wis., March 1 (AP).—The Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing company today filed a complaint against the striking C. I. O. automobile workers' union with the state employment relations board.

The company accused the union of unfair labor practices, charging the union's strike vote was not conducted by secret ballot, that the question submitted for balloting was ambiguous and confusing, and that the union deliberately changed one or two words of the ballot from the wording of a ballot used a few days earlier. The change was made, the company said, to confuse workers.

The huge Allis-Chalmers plant in suburban West Allis has been idle for 40 days. The union went on strike in an attempt to enforce demands for a union shop, wage increases, and seniority adjustments.

Nash Dispute Settled.

Other developments in industrial relations included:

KENOSHA, WIS.—Basic agreement upon all the points at issue between the Nash-Kelvinator corporation and C. I. O. auto workers was announced today by Paul M. Russo, union president. Representatives of the union and the management will meet in Chicago Monday with Edward Hall, U. A. W. vice president, to make a written agreement.

The dispute arose over hiring men for the company's Racine plant to produce a 3 million dollar war department order for 15,000 one-ton trailers. Under the agreement the company will transfer Racine residents from the Kenosha plant to the Racine factory according to the union's seniority list. When this list is exhausted the company will hire Racine members of the union now unemployed, after which unemployed Kenosha union members will be taken.

Production in the Racine plant is scheduled for March 17 with two shifts.

Call Steel Workers' Parley.

PITTSBURGH, Pa.—C. I. O. steel workers today summoned the presidents of 66 locals in United States Steel corporation plants to meet here March 7 to discuss negotiating a new wage agreement with the corporation. A 10 per cent wage increase is asked. The present contract, unless one of the parties gives formal notice, runs perpetually.

TROY, N. Y.—Striking union employés of the Troy plant of Cluett, Peabody & Co., which has a $228,000 order for army shirts, today ratified a new contract agreement and voted to return to work Monday. A 40 cent minimum wage was fixed and 4 per cent raises will be given April 1 and Aug. 15.

Effective until September, 1942, the pact also covers the company's plants in Atlanta, Ga., and Leominster, Mass., where strikes have been in progress, and in Corinth, N. Y.

Parole Hearings at State Prisons Open Tomorrow

Subcommittees of the state parole board will hold public hearings in state prisons, beginning tomorrow. Persons wishing to appear in connection with cases at the Stateville and Joliet divisions and the state reformatory for women at Dwight, will be heard at the old prison in Joliet. Cases involving inmates of Menard and Pontiac prisons will be heard in those institutions.

Ordered to Jail

[TRIBUNE Pho

MRS. THELMA BARRETT.

Judge Robert C. O'Connell sentenced Carl Barrett and his divorced wife, Thelma, to six months in the county jail yesterday for contempt of court for sending their son, Richard Kenneth Barrett, 16 years old, to live with relatives after the judge had ordered him sent to a boarding school. The sentence was suspended pending a hearing on a motion to vacate it by Mrs. Barrett's attorney, Samuel M. Starr. In a custody dispute in December, 1938, Barrett charged that the mother was unfit to care for the boy. The judge denied both parents custody. Barrett, an employment counselor, lives at 6700 Woodland avenue and Mrs. Barrett at 1123 East 47th street.

JUSTICE'S OATH TAKEN BY SMITH IN SPRINGFIELD

Springfield, Ill., March 1 [Special].—June C. Smith of Centralia, was sworn a justice of the Illinois Supreme court today and assumed his duties at once. Smith was elected last Tuesday.

In the extremely brief ceremony there was no sign of Republican jubilation over the unprecedented victory in the second district. Chief Justice Walter T. Gunn of Danville, one of the two other Republicans now in the high court, administered the oath.

Using a Bible that had been his father's, the new justice rested his hand on that part of the nineteenth psalm reading: "Let the words of my mouth and the meditations of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength and my redeemer."

Chickering

AMERICA'S OLDEST PIANO·

IS PRICED AS LOW AS $395

Come to think of it, it's odd that few people can associate quality merchandise and low price. Take, for instance, the Chickering piano: Because Chickering is America's oldest piano name—because in its 118 years it has come to be recognized as one of the finest pianos built—because music-lovers the world over acclaim its rich tone, its easy action, its mechanical perfection—because furniture stylists applaud its smart console designs—the Chickering is looked upon by many as something of a rare gem—and just as unattainable! Yet here is the plain fact: The Chickering, like this Hepplewhite spinet, is priced as low as $395.

WHY DESTROY OURSELVES?

Why are we being asked to consent to the destruction of our economic system and the surrender of our free political strongholds? For what purpose are we to risk our national life? Because of any threat against us? There has been no overt threat. The people who are pushing the country in the direction of a salvation which looks like suicide find all sorts of threats in the air. There has been no menace in word or act by any of the enemies our alarmists see on the horizon.

Germany hasn't threatened us; it hasn't even lodged a protest against the unneutral acts of Mr. Roosevelt's administration. It has accepted the fact that the United States has been made the virtual ally of Great Britain as if it were a thing to be expected. Germany has made no protests. Italy hasn't made any threats. Mussolini in his present situation would be ridiculous if he made any. Japan avows it has no ambitions in any sphere in which our national interests lie, and its statesmen speak only of preserving peace.

This disposition is not to be attributed to good will, to friendliness, or to a regard for honor and decency in international relations; it is sufficiently explained by self-interest. Germany, Italy, and Japan have said that if the United States enters the war it will meet all three. They have ganged together for self-protection and for the promotion of their own schemes.

Our alarmists say that if the three international outlaws sweep all other opposition out of their paths they will come at us, and that the only reason they are soft spoken now is that they want to fool us into an apathy which will expose us in our turn to the avalanche of their forces. Our realists all say that the three axis powers can't get at us. We can't explain the extraordinary expenditures the United States is making and proposes to make for national defense if we are to assume that we are asleep and do not realize what a changed world may mean to us.

Mr. Roosevelt, congress, and our military authorities pretend to be very much awake. They are building a two ocean navy; they are talking of 50,000 warplanes a year, and they are training the greatest army the country ever had in peacetime. Some of our army men tell us we will be perfectly secure and unassailable when the program of rearmament is in full swing. Certainly the doors of the treasury have been thrown wide open to it and cost is of no consideration.

If the country had full assurance that the policy of its government was to preserve its liberties from corruption within and defend its freedom from invasion from abroad—if they were the only and honest purposes—there would be tranquility where now there is a great deal of alarm. It is unfortunate that the short historical memories of many people lead them to overemotionalized views of current events. What is happening in Europe today is not new.

The statement that we are dealing with a changed world and therefore cannot do as we have done in the past is false. The airplane, the submarine, and the tank did not change European policies; they simply provided new instruments with which to execute them. Before Hitler there was the kaiser, and before the kaiser there was Napoleon III., and before Napoleon III. there was the great Napoleon. And he was preceded by Louis XIV. and by the two great Spanish monarchs who sought to dominate the world.

The present situation in Europe which repeats history is due to a series of political and military blunders. What was bad in the treaty of Versailles was made worse by the failure of the powers to uphold what might have been good in it. The attempts at conciliation were not executed in good faith. The attempts at coercion were not carried out with sufficient strength. One critical moment was when Hitler tested the dependability, determination, and strength of the allies by reoccupying the Rhineland. Great Britain then would not support Frenchmen who wanted to expel him. The moral dilemma there was found in the fact that the Rhineland belonged to Germany. Hitler was not prevented from taking it by force and he was not granted it as the free will reparation of a mistake. Thus a military error was joined to a diplomatic error.

It may be useless to recall the historical facts for a molding of opinion in the present day, but, for what it may be worth, we should remember that when the aggressive moves began, which have overturned so much of the world, the United States was out in front in trying to preserve the value of treaties and protect the understandings upon which peace was supposed to depend. Mr. Stimson, now secretary of war and then secretary of state, tried to enlist British aid in keeping the Japanese out of Manchuria. He received no response and was forced to retire. The Brussels conference, which was to consolidate the peaceable world against further Japanese aggressions deeper into China, failed because Mr. Chamberlain's British government was not inclined to go to the lengths required if the aggressor was to be stopped. These and other incidents may be recalled, if only to disprove the charge that the United States in the beginning of the present troubles was inclined to ignore what was happening in the world.

The American people have had no voice in decisions which precipitated the present situation. They are asked merely to accept the consequences of action in which they had no part and to underwrite the decisions of other governments. They are asked to put their form of government in peril, to sacrifice their youth, to undermine their economic structure, and to throw themselves in greater peril at home than they have ever been before.

It is only common sense to make ourselves strong enough to resist any eventuality. To help England to resist invasion is one thing, which public opinion favors, but to insist upon a ghastly, long drawn out war to the ruin of civilization, for no cause at all, will be the greatest crime in history.

BIGGER FARM SURPLUSES.

The department of agriculture has just reported that the crop yield per acre in 1940 was the greatest of all times. Cotton, for example, averaged half a bale to the acre, a new high, and 48 per cent above the average for the 10 years just before AAA. The potato crop amounted to 130 bushels to the acre, whereas in no previous year was the average as high as 125. Before 1939 the maximum tobacco yield was 905 pounds per acre. The 1939 harvest set a new peak at 925 pounds, and in 1940 that was upped to 965 pounds. Oats and flaxseed in 1940 showed the highest yields since 1915. Corn, wheat, and hay crops were good, but not record breaking. Other crops carried the total production to a new peak.

The department of agriculture says in its official bulletin that favorable weather was not the only reason for the bumper crops. There are, it said, more people on the farms than a few years ago. More farm machinery is used. More lime and more fertilizer are applied. The soil building program of the AAA has been in effect long enough to show bigger harvests.

The results of the AAA solutions of the farm surplus problem may be quickly summarized. It has been established by eight years' practice that whoever engages in the occupation of a farmer is entitled to a subsidy just because he follows that line of work, whether he is a poor man who needs the subsidy or a rich one who doesn't. The payments for soil building have been so effective that they have more than offset the payments made for reduced plantings. Farmers are ahead by the amount of the handouts, and farm surpluses are bigger than ever.

WHY CHICAGO IS IN THE UNITED STATES.

Unless it is against public policy to have statues of Americans in Chicago, we should sometime soon pay such honors to the two men by whose efforts the site of this city, as well as the whole Northwest Territory, was secured for the United States. They are George Rogers Clark and Patrick Henry. Clark is honored mildly by a street name. So far as we know, there has been no recognition of Henry in Chicago.

At the outbreak of the revolution Clark went to Williamsburg as spokesman of the Kentucky settlers and was commissioned by Henry, governor of Virginia, to lead the defense of the frontier against the Indians. With such supplies as Henry was able to find him, and more purchased on his personal credit, he equipped a force, routed the British agents who had been directing the Indian attacks from Kaskaskia and Vincennes, and held the frontier to the end of the war. It was his armed possession of these points north of the Ohio that enabled Benjamin Franklin and the other peace commissioners to insist on the inclusion of the western country in the new United States.

Patrick Henry is of contemporary interest for another reason. He is the outstanding example among American patriots who refused to abandon their political principles for the bribe of public office. He considered that the constitution provided too great centralization of powers, and fought unsuccessfully against its adoption. After the new government was established, rather than serve under it, he refused appointments as secretary of state, chief justice of the Supreme court, and ambassador to France, a seat in the United States senate, and the governorship of Virgina after his reëlection by the state assembly.

CHICAGO FINDS A CONGRESSMAN.

It has been one of the disgraces of Chicago in recent years that the city has sent to Washington a group of rubber stamp congressmen. Their votes have been bartered in a bundle by the machine that put them in office. Individually Chicago's representatives have been incapable either of presenting the needs of the city or of making known the will of its people on national problems.

When Charles S. Dewey broke the rubber stamp slate in the election last fall it was predicted that his services would offer a welcome contrast to those recently rendered the city. Mr. Dewey's first important speech in congress, delivered recently in opposition to raising the federal debt limit from 49 billion dollars to 65 billion dollars, indicated that those predictions were right.

"Frankly," he said, "my fellow citizens back in Illinois will be asking in no uncertain terms to what extent extravagance in government will go. These people in 1938 paid 498 million dollars in internal revenue taxes—the second largest amount paid by any state in the union. They will demand an accounting of us, their representatives, both Republicans and Democrats. The same question will be asked in other states."

Mr. Dewey prepared for his accounting to the people of Chicago by voting against the bill. Not so the rubber stamps. Without even waiting for the usual crack of their master's whip they voted to make possible in the future the federal profligacy that has bought their offices in the past.

Editorials of the Day

POMP AND CIRCUMSTANCE.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The press agents of the wage and hour division of the department of labor probably have earned some "time and a half" in compliance with the law in the last few days. At least, they have been busy.

Routine "releases" about wage recommendations for the carpet and rug industry, the appointment of a seamless hosiery committee, and so on, went forth recently. As usual, they mentioned the name of the administrator—no wage hour handout is complete without it. And they referred to him as Col. Fleming.

But while the releases were in the mail—heaven forbid that some press agent made a slip after the event!—Col. Fleming was sworn in as a brigadier general. So corrections have gone forth to all the newspapers and others on the mailing list, fervently calling their attention to the fact, and requesting that "brigadier general" be substituted for "colonel" in "the second and the 13th lines."

Not one star on the collar, not one bar on the cuff, not one inch of gold braid must be overlooked.

A dispatch says British forces operating in Kenya employ "native boats of burden." This throws an added burden on the poor Italians both the infantry and the elephantry.—Nashville Tennessean.

DUTCH AID TO BRITAIN

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON [By Airmail].—The contribution of the Netherlands to the British war effort consists of material aid, a sizable merchant marine, fighting air, army and naval forces, and, thru its colonies, vital war supplies, including tin, rubber and oil.

The Netherlands is represented in Britain by its sovereign, Queen Wilhelmina, and the government, with one exception, that was in power when Germany opened the attack that decided the fate of the country proper in five days. Dr. D. J. De Geer, who was president of the council, resigned and returned to his native land and has been succeeded by Dr. P. S. Gerbrandy, former justice minister.

On the third day of the attack the queen and government were evacuated by a British warship. They brought with them part of the gold reserve, altho most of it previously had been sent abroad.

[The Netherlands assets in the United States alone are $300,000,000 in gold and $1,098,000,000 in investments, a total of $1,398,000,000.]

Later the queen and the government were joined by remnants of the Dutch Southern army which had retreated to the island at the mouth of the Scheldt, all of the navy except six small units that had been sunk during the fighting, and members of the air force.

* *

On May 20, 10 days after the Germans began the invasion, the Dutch government announced it had established itself in London. On May 30 a decree was issued authorizing this government "to assume provisional ownership of all financial claims and property belonging to individuals and institutions established in the kingdom of the Netherlands." Subsequently a royal decree empowered the minister of defense to call upon all Dutch subjects not already serving for service in the armed forces or the mercantile marine.

Holland has a merchant marine of 3,000,000 tons. Most of this, according to Peter Van Kleven, minister of foreign affairs, is helping the British war effort. This figure may be greatly exaggerated, because in the months before Holland was invaded some of her best ships were tied up in Rotterdam and were prevented from leaving when the Germans sowed mines in the waterways on May 10.

The government has the task of financing and organizing the war effort and administering the rich Dutch colonial empire, to which most of the leading financial, insurance, and banking companies have transferred their headquarters.

Most of the Netherlands' splendid civil air line equipment and personnel were based away from Holland and are continuing as much as possible to maintain communications with the far east. They run a service between here and Lisbon, Portugal, too. Some of the pilots and mechanics are serving in the Dutch air force, flying under the British coastal command. They have been joined by an aviation unit raised and trained in the Dutch East Indies.

The Dutch government here publishes a special newspaper, Vrei Netherlands, for its subjects. There is also an army publication, Kamp Klock. These newspapers, besides keeping the Dutch community in touch with government activities, print news about conditions in Holland and the colonial empire.

The Dutch troops who escaped to Britain are now under the command of Gen. Viver, with Maj. Gen. Noothoven Van Gwor as inspector general. They have been reorganized and equipped with American weapons. They wear British battle dress, with the Netherlands lion over the word "Netherlands," in yellow, at the top of the sleeve. They have held part of the British coastline. They will soon be reinforced by Dutch recruits from Britain, South Africa, and Canada. Some of the new men volunteered, while others were brought in under the decree calling upon all Dutch residents in Canada between the ages of 20 and 35 for army service. These men get four weeks training in Canada before being sent to Britain. Their numbers will soon be swollen by the arrival of a Dutch legion raised in the Dutch East Indies.

The units of the Dutch home fleet, which consists of several cruisers, destroyers, torpedo boats, motor torpedo boats, submarines, minesweepers, etc., have been operating under the command of the British admiralty since the capitulation of Holland. They are engaged in convoying merchantmen, patroling the North sea, minelaying and mine sweeping. Only recently it was announced that a Dutch submarine had been lost during these operations. The Dutch hope soon to purchase destroyers from Britain or to be allowed to man some of the French ships which are without crews.

The naval officers cadet training school that used to be at Den Helder has been transferred to Britain and the cadets are continuing their training.

* *

Even without the material assistance that Holland has brought to the British, the presence of the queen and the government in London would have immense value as a symbol of British war aims. The fact that they refuse to yield to the enemy supports Britain's claim that Hitler's "new order" for Europe is not desired by the peoples of the continent and can only be established by force.

The Dutch government derives an advantage in being here to continue the fight. As long as Britain controls the seas, Holland's rich colonial empire will remain under the Dutch flag.

The recruited navy militia, together with the standing army, brings the Netherlands' East Indies troop strength to 100,000.

It is emphasized by the Dutch that these defenses are necessary to keep any nation in the far east from seizing the Indies while Britain is forced to concentrate on war in the Mediterranean and her home waters. However, so that Japan might not have a legitimate excuse to attack, the Dutch East Indies recently, with the approval of the British and American governments and oil companies, signed an agreement allowing Japan to purchase a certain quantity of crude petroleum, part of which is being delivered in Norwegian tankers.

Holland herself, with a population no greater than 8,600,000 and an area no more than 12,704 square miles, rules an empire of 750,000 square miles with a population of 60,727,233.

The Dutch colonial administration has been held up as a model. The vast agricultural and other resources have been developed to a high point of efficiency, and the Dutch East Indies administration has taken special care to see that the natives profit from the exploitation of natural wealth.

Tin, rubber, and petroleum are war requirements produced in the Dutch East Indies. These supplies are available to Britain; and owing to the fact that the Dutch government is an ally, financial transactions are simplified by the operation of the mutual sterling agreement. The Dutch East Indies recently donated £657,377 [about $2,649,000] to the British Spitfire fund. This is sufficient to pay for 40 Spitfires and 18 American Lockheed Hudson bombers.

The Dutch East Indies also purchased from Britain £500,000 [about $2,015,000] worth of cotton piece goods, an order which has kept several Lancashire cotton mills operating many months and helped to relieve the drain on sterling.

The Netherlands colonial government budgeted this year for £55,000,000 [about $232,650,000] expenditure, of which £27,000,000 [about $108,810,000] is being spent to strengthen defenses. Of this £10,000,000 [about $40,300,000] will be spent to purchase American aircraft.

The Dutch East Indies produce more than 7,000,000 metric tons, [a metric ton is 2,240 pounds] of crude petroleum yearly, which is about Rumania's production.

The strongest units of the Netherlands navy, consisting of heavy cruisers, destroyers, and gunboats and some of the longest range submarines in the world, beside a mosquito fleet of motor torpedo-boats, are based in the East Indies. When the Germans invaded Holland, fourteen German merchantmen from among those sheltering there from the British were seized, converted into armed cruisers and put into naval service.

GUARD NATIONAL POISE.

During the world war physicians attached to the armed forces encountered many men who presented a curious galaxy of symptoms. The complex disorder bore up under the name of "neurocirculatory asthenia," which means weakness involving the nervous system and the circulation.

Recent reports indicate that the current unrest and apprehension within our population is bringing a revival of this condition. Whenever civilians or soldiers are frightened, nervous, filled with uncertainty—lacking completely the complacency of peacetime—the ailment may appear.

As we would expect, some will sense the horrors of war more keenly than others, but all of us can understand that powerful emotions which are unpleasant may lead to apprehension and introspection. We can endure periodic episodes of grief or distress, if they are brief. They may leave no permanent scars behind, provided a long enough time is allowed for recovery. But when blow follows blow, the nervous stamina of the most stalwart individual may crash.

"I am almost at the point of insanity" was the remark made recently by a mother whose two sons are included in the draft. One has gone to a training camp; the other is to go soon. She is convinced that we are headed for a general world conflict and that the youth of America will bear the brunt.

"With statesmanship at its lowest ebb in the history of the nation," she continued, "with hysteria at a high peak, our country is sitting on a veritable volcano which may erupt at any moment." Hundreds of thousands of our citizens are experiencing such fearsome thoughts, and it is not surprising that the disease in question is on the increase.

Symptoms include nervousness, fatigue, palpitation, and indigestion. The victim acts as tho he were stricken with the worst type of stagefright. As the malady progresses, tremors develop in the hands, arms, and legs. Many will complain of peculiar head sensations, aching eyeballs, attacks of faintness, periods of excessive perspiration, and frequent urination. Many patients are young, altho those in the fifth and sixth decades may be attacked. In some cases the physician can detect an unstable nervous organism, with the hands excessively moist, the ears and lips red, the heart more rapid, and some loss of weight.

Can anything be done? Certainly there is no specific. But should the confusion in our national preparedness program abate tomorrow, should Germany decline to invade England and restore autonomy to Holland, Belgium, and certain other countries—every sufferer would recover speedily. It is a mental state translated into body symptoms.

Most of our soldiers who broke down in France returned to normal; but it required the home environment, with something to do, to restore confidence and bring equanimity. It is usually wise to reason with the patient and explain that his symptoms are of emotional origin. He can be urged to dissipate his fears and develop a philosophic attitude in which he will be anxious to do his part even tho he cannot enter into the program with feelings of elation.

Anything that brings renewed vigor to the physical organism will be helpful. Engaging in athletics, keeping the mind occupied with good reading, plus sufficient nutrition, may be useful in banishing—or, at least modifying—the characteristic anguish. Some improvement may follow the use of a mild sedative.

FLUIDS IN EPILEPSY.

R. R. writes: Is it advisable for an epileptic to reduce the fluid intake?

REPLY.

Yes, in some cases, the so-called ketogenic diet is employed. This consists in feeding an excess of fat. The desired acid state which ensues would be less effective [more dilute] should the tissues be flooded with water. If the patient has been placed on a bromide régime, the amount of liquids allowed would influence the concentration of the drug.

BASEMENT GARAGE.

E. M. B. writes: Is it detrimental to have a garage in the basement of the home?

REPLY.

Not if adequate ventilation is provided. Of course, the motor should not be operated for even a split second with the outside door closed, as carbon monoxide is liberated. If gasoline fumes are noticeable thruout the living quarters, an exhaust fan may be installed in the garage.

A MEMORIAL TO DR. BANTING.

Chicago, Feb. 26.—The news of the death of Dr. Frederick Banting, discoverer of insulin, in an airplane crash must come as a great shock and tragedy to the thousands upon thousands of diabetics whose lives he saved and prolonged with his wonderful medicine.

I should like to suggest a memorial to this great man, to be built with contributions from any he so assisted, not in statuary, but in a fund to be used for the distribution of free insulin to those too poor to purchase it.

In a day when egomaniacs both here and abroad are trying their utmost to destroy life at its best, here was one man whose daily striving was the preservation and improvement of life, and no testimonial could be too fine.

Let us believe that he has been called to intercede for us poor mortals here below so that peace may soon reign upon earth once again.

M. M. W.

THEY WANT SOCCER EQUIPMENT.

Fort Bliss, Tex., Feb. 22.—Here's Chicago's own 202d coast artillery asking for help. Our battery has become very interested in the game of soccer, due to the enthusiasm and instruction of one of our members, Alex Tait, a past member of the Peoria, Springfield, Taylorville, and Sparta soccer teams. According to Alex, we have excellent material in the battery. All we lack is the equipment—balls, shoes, shin guards, etc. If any one has any used soccer equipment and cares to help us out we would appreciate it very much if they would send it to Headquarters Battery, 2d Battalion, 202d Coast Artillery [AA], Fort Bliss, Tex.

CORPORAL WALTER E. MEINHARDT.

HANDSOME.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 23.—I wish to take this opportunity of congratulating you upon the editorial policies of The Chicago Tribune in connection with the present international situation. I have thought you were wrong in the past several years, but now I am ready to acknowledge that you were able to think more clearly than I was about these issues. However, we have one mistake in common: We both supported Mr. Willkie, and we both wish that we hadn't!

E. W. SKINNER.

GASSED.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—As a matter of preparedness the government should learn what is being used as fuel in the new buses operating on the west side boulevards. A few whiffs of these fumes would rout any enemy. It seems at least peculiar that the health department was so concerned about our drinking milk from paper containers, but is perfectly willing that we be gassed.

GEORGE L. LYON.

FIRST TO BE PAID.

Elkhart, Ind., Feb. 21.—It has been said that the Morgan interests received the first moneys made available to England in 1917 as a repayment of loans made by J. Pierpont Morgan. Does any one care to bet who will get the first moneys when the lend-lease bill goes thru?

H. E. WALTERS.

SENATOR BROOKS.

Bloomington, Wis., Feb. 25.—The United States is fortunate to have a son of Illinois—Senator C. Wayland Brooks—to be a second Patrick Henry. If we in America are saved from a dictator, much credit is due to Illinois' outstanding soldier-citizen senator.

L. H. B.

HOW HITLER DID IT.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—The following excerpt is from a speech made by Adolf Hitler to the German nation on Jan. 30, 1941, the eighth anniversary of the National Socialist revolution:

"When I finally came to power, I did so legally under Field Marshal von Hindenburg, the reich president, as a result of the overwhelming strength of the movement behind me. In other words, the so-called National Socialist revolution defeated 'democracy' in the days of democracy by means of democracy. It insured power for itself by perfectly legal means. I stand before you today on the basis of the mandate entrusted to me by the German people, a mandate which is far more complete than those held at this moment by any so-called 'democratic' statesmen."

In view of the ever accruing powers of the President, and with the lend-lease bill in the offing, it might be well for all of us to ponder the significance of the above statement.

NINA F. SYMONS.

AT THE STADIUM.

Chicago, Feb. 24.—The Chicago Tribune has an established reputation for integrity relative to advertisments; however, The Tribune stated that at 7 p. m. on Feb. 21, at the Stadium, 3,500 general admission tickets would go on sale. However, the promoter apparently instructed the ticket sellers to advise the public that these tickets were all sold out. The fight fans who could not afford to purchase the $2.40 seats were compelled to go home. Then at 8:25 p. m., when no more suckers purchased the $2.40 tickets, the general admission tickets went on sale.

LOUIS RIEDEL.

INCONSISTENCIES.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 25.—Have you bothered to reconcile your recent editorials attacking the Rooseveltians as a group of supercilious Anglophile aristocrats and millionaires with the hundreds you have printed during the past eight years attacking them as communists and enemies of property? Or are you following Hitler's technique of attacking the Jews simultaneously as communists and as capitalists? Or the isolationist technique of representing the United States as too weak to spare a single airplane to Britain and at the same time strong enough to defy a world in arms if Britain should fall? It seems to me that even falsehoods would be more convincing if they were consistent!

PRESTON SLOSSON.

MEMENTO.

Chicago, Feb. 23.—It might be well to recall the neat little envelope which was handed to those of us who landed in England and which bore the superscription, "A message to you from his majesty, King George V." Inside was a small note of welcome to the soldiers of the United States. "The great battle for human freedom" also figured in that note, and it was signed George R. I., April, 1918. If the British have any of these left over they might come in handy. They would not even have to change the signature or the month; merely the year.

HENRY DRENKOW.

MOVABLE FEASTS.

Evanston, Ill., Feb. 25.—I see F. D. R. has changed Thanksgiving day again. Seems to be the fashion, because as far as the G. O. P. is concerned, Wendell Willkie has moved All-Fool's day up into midwinter.

ESTATE PROBATE.

Chicago, Feb. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—John Doe passed away a year and a half ago leaving a wife and two grown married sons. The wife told the sons that she has the will and everything goes to her.

1. She did not show the will to any one nor was it probated. Deceased left no debts. Estate consists of cash deposits and certificates or bonds for money deposited with a loan bank, in name of John Doe or Mary Doe. Also some judgment notes and promissory notes on loans made to various persons. There is no real estate.

2. Should the will be probated?

3. Has the son the legal right to ask the mother to let him read the will?

4. Has the mother the legal right to collect principal and interest on judgment notes made payable only to John Doe [deceased]?

5. Has the mother legal right to collect principal and interest on judgment notes payable to John Doe [deceased] and Mary Doe?

6. Has Mary Doe legal right to demand renewal of judgment note [new note to replace expired note] and to be made out in her name only?

G. A.

1. Any of the heirs could insist that it be filed in the office of the clerk of the Probate court and could examine it there.

2. The necessity for probate depends on facts that are not before us.

3. See 1.

4. No. In the sense that the debtor could insist on probate.

5. Same.

6. She can "demand" anything she pleases. The debtor is not under legal compulsion to make out a new note.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

UNCLAIMED ESTATES.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I should like to know if unclaimed estates are automatically taken over by the state?

2. If not, where would one write concerning an estate in St. Louis, Mo.?

J. P.

1. If an estate is probated, and no heirs could be found, then the proceeds would go to the state. In absence of probate proceedings, outsiders might take possession of the assets, and they might get title by adverse possession. It is not clear which question you intend to ask.

2. Try writing to the clerk of the Probate court there.

DELAY REOPENING OF HARVESTER PLANT IN STRIKE

U. S. Calls Conference of Company and C. I. O.

International Harvester company officials announced last night they will not try to reopen their McCormick plant tomorrow because they fear violence from the Congress of Industrial organizations, which began a strike there Friday.

Dr. Steelman.

They said they would go to Washington, D. C., to confer tomorrow afternoon with C. I. O. leaders at the request of Frances Perkins, secretary of labor. The conference will be held in the office of Dr. John R. Steelman, chief of the United States conciliation service.

The company announcements came after C. I. O. spokesmen had threatened what they described as a holiday in other Chicago industrial plants if police escorted rival union men who want to work and warned the police not to cause what the C. I. O. termed a provocation.

Willing to Hold Election.

The company repeated its willingness to hold a plant election to give the 6,100 employés of the McCormick works an opportunity to choose their bargaining agent as provided by the national labor relations act. The C. I. O. Farm Equipment Workers' union No. 1 demand is recognition as bargaining agent.

But Ben Meyers, general counsel, had anticipated the company when he told police:

"We've decided not to use the labor board because we don't want to get jammed up in delays. We prefer to take it out in a strike."

Term C. I. O. in Minority.

American Federation of Labor men said the C. I. O. does not want a plant election because it is in the minority at the plant. They said the C. I. O. had been anxious for elections under the labor board in harvester company plants where it had a majority. Harry O'Reilly, A. F. of L. organizing director, said an A. F. of L. charter had arrived yesterday for the plant's independent union.

Grant Oakes, head of the organizing committee for the Farm Equipment workers, will head the union delegation to the Washington meeting. Fowler McCormick, second vice president in charge of operations, will head the company's representatives.

The government is understood to be interested in all the strikes involving the company's plants. The 6,500 employés of the tractor works, adjoining the McCormick plant, have been kept idle by a C. I. O. strike since January 29. Other C. I. O. strikes are keeping 1,200 men from working in the company plant at Richmond, Ind., and 250 in the plant at Rock Falls, Whiteside county.

C. I. O. Demands Similar.

C. I. O. demands at all plants are virtually the same: Sole bargaining rights, a higher minimum wage, elimination of piecework, seniority guarantees, and job protection for service men.

The C. I. O. spokesmen delivered their warnings in the city hall to John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police, and Supervising Captain John Stege. There the C. I. O. said it has 5,900 members at the McCormick plant and that the A. F. of L. has 200. The conversation, in part, was:

OAKES—We have talked to the Packing House, Steel and Automobile workers [C. I. O. affiliates]. If the police attempt to escort workers in, there may be holidays in other plants to see that we get a square deal.

PRENDERGAST—There are two unions. There's a way to prove that up.

MEYERS—That is for the unions to decide, not the police.

MEYERS—You cannot be neutral, captain. The only way the police can maintain order is not to cause a provocation.

PRENDERGAST—They are taxpayers and have a right to ask protection. Could the company run the plant with 200 men?

MEYERS—No.

PRENDERGAST—Then they lose.

ROBERT TRAVIS, international representative of the union—There are two things which are the consensus among C. I. O. workers in Chicago. One is that no one is to go thru the picket line. The second is that if any one goes thru, we will show the police how the public in general feels. It will be a city-wide problem, and it will be a serious problem.

File Tax Returns

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Eddy, 9920 South Hamilton street, filing their income tax return at the United States courthouse yesterday.

The offices of the internal revenue bureau in the United States courthouse were thronged yesterday with taxpayers seeking help in filing their income tax returns. Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, said there were 2,500 in line at one time, and that the crowds continued long into the afternoon. Altho the offices normally close at noon on Saturday, the staff was kept on duty during the afternoon. Advice was being given to 750 persons an hour. March 15 is the deadline for filing reports.

2 BANDITS SEIZED AFTER ESCAPE IN JOLIET GUN FIGHT

Two bandits who escaped Friday in a gun battle after an attempted holdup in Joliet were captured yesterday by Chicago police. Police said they confessed.

Frank Carco [top] and Joseph Buttacavoli.

The two are Frank Carco, 23 years old, 3036 Arthington street, and Joseph Buttacavoli, 21, of 2431 Harrison street. They were traced thru the license number on Carco's car. The bandits attempted to hold up the Di Lorenzo travel agency, 21 East Jefferson street, Joliet, and fought a gun battle with John Cirricione, an employé of the agency.

Josiah Treharne, 514 Cornelia street, a former member of the Joliet board of education, was wounded in the knee by a bullet fired by one of the bandits. They escaped in a car after the gu nbattle, and Cirricione noted its license number.

Milk Mixture For Stomach Ulcer Pains

A recent medical discovery now being used by doctors and hospitals everywhere has proven unusually successful in the treatment of stomach ulcer pains caused from excess acid. It is a harmless preparation, yet so effective that in many cases the pains of stomach ulcers disappear almost immediately after it is used. Also recommended for gas pains, indigestion and heartburn due to hyperacidity. Sufferers may now try this at home by obtaining a bottle of Lurin from their druggist. Lurin contains this new discovery in its purest form. Easy to take. Just mix two teaspoonfuls in a half glass of milk. Costs but little and sold under an absolute guarantee that it must satisfy or money refunded. Lurin for sale by Walgreen, Stineway, Service, Fay and drug stores everywhere.

ILLINOISANS RUSH IOWA MARRIAGES TO ESCAPE CURBS

Licenses Boom; Pending Bill Calls for Tests.

Couples from Chicago and Illinois are flocking to the Gretna Green towns in eastern Iowa to marry before Iowa adopts hygiene laws to end quick and easy wedlock, a survey of the Iowa river towns showed yesterday.

At present Iowa is the only state on the Illinois border that does not require a three day notice to wed and venereal disease examination for marriage applicants. A measure incorporating these strict health requirements, however, has been introduced before the Iowa legislature by State Senator John R. Berg [R., Cedar Falls.] The bill has been passed by the Iowa senate and is pending before the state house of representatives.

Report Land Office Business.

I. M. Mullen, clerk of the Scott county, Iawo, District court at Davenport, whose office issues marriage licenses, reported last night that since Friday noon his office had issued 36 licenses to Illinois couples, of which 16 were from Chicago. Other river and eastern Iowa towns reported a similar land office business from out of state couples.

The only difficulty encountered now by out of state couples seeking a quick marriage is the requirement under Iowa law of at least one witness who can testify that the applicants are not first cousins and are of legal age. This problem has been easly solved by picking up witnesses on the streets and paying them a fee in violation of the law.

In Dubuque recently several persons were indicted by the grand jury for serving as witnesses for out of state couples and then directing them to justices of peace. Many justices in the Gretna Greens are said to employ runners to direct couples to them.

Illinois Revisions Proposed.

In Illinois a bill is pending in the legislature to abolish the three day notice to wed provision of the marriage law. Its sponsors say that the requirements for medical tests are ample to stop hasty gin marriages.

Illinois adopted the hygienic marriage law in 1937. Other nearby states which have similar requirements are Indiana, Wisconsin, and Michigan.

Storm Lashes East

New York, March 1 (AP).—Towering snowpiles lined slippery highways in the middle Atlantic states tonight in the wake of a blizzard that took at least 23 lives and extended over a 1,000 mile front south from Nova Scotia.

The storm swept up yesterday from the Virginia capes, whipped along by 50-mile-an-hour winds that piled drifts a dozen feet high on some highways and caused many traffic accidents.

New Jersey, with a snowfall of 19 inches in some sections, eastern Long Island, Pennsylvania, and Delaware were hardest hit.

Pennsylvania counted nine dead while five lost their lives in New Jersey. Maryland and Virginia recorded three fatalities each. In New England, three lives were lost and a child was believed drowned in the Connecticut river at Lebanon, N. H.

New York City traffic was snarled by snow. Philadelphia reported its worst attack of the winter and southern New Jersey had its most severe storm in 20 years.

The town of Rehoboth Beach in Delaware was isolated by drifts, and off the coast near there 35 fishing boats from Wildwood, N. J., were attempting to ride out the storm.

Gale Lashes California.

San Francisco, Cal., March 1 (AP).—California counted its injured today and set to work repairing damage done by the worst gale in years, which lashed virtually the whole state for many hours yesterday.

Los Angeles rainfall totaled more than 20 inches today for the season—about double the normal amount.

JURORS CONVICT EX-IMPORTER AND 2 ALKY RING AIDS

A jury in the court of Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward yesterday found three men guilty on 11 counts of an indictment charging them with revenue law violations, including illegal operation of a still and evasion of alcohol taxes.

The three are Salvatore Cusimano, head of the now defunct Cusimano Importing company, 941 Randolph street; Lawrence Froio, former secretary of the concern, and Frank Mraz, caretaker of the still, which was on the south side. Cusimano, the government charged, supplied sugar to the still and had a financial interest in it.

A motion for a new trial will be heard March 21. Each defendant faces a possible maximum sentence of 27 years in prison and a fine of nearly $50,000.

LIVING WITH WALKER RUINS HER HEALTH, SAYS BETTY COMPTON

Key West, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Mrs. James J. Walker told a judge today that her health would be ruined if she continued to live with her husband, the former New York mayor.

The former Betty Compton, in a hearing before Circuit Judge Arthur Gomez, explained that because of Wolker's prominence so many demands were made upon her that she had no time for herself and as a result she became ill. She added that she desired a "quiet home life."

Pending examination of the record, Judge Gomez withheld decision on the divorce plea of the former danceractress. Walker, now in Havana with the New York Giants baseball team, was represented by an attorney.

WOMAN BUSINESS HEAD DIVORCES A. L. RICHTMYRE

Mrs. Elsa Lampert Richtmyre, 2573 North Deere Park drive, Highland Park, was granted a divorce yesterday by Circuit Judge Ralph J. Dady in Waukegan from Arthur L. Richtmyre on the ground of desertion. Mrs. Richtmyre is president and principal owner of the Universal Form Clamp company, 961 Montana avenue, which her husband formerly headed.

Mrs. Richtmyre waived alimony and her husband waived all claims except those in a contract made last Jan. 31, in which Mrs. Richtmyre agreed to pay him $5,000 at once and $150 monthly for life in return for his stock in the Universal company.

Altho the suit was uncontested, Richtmyre's answer of last September denied the desertion charge. He said his wife's actions forced him to resign as president, and that he had to go to New York to make a living. The couple were wed in 1911 and have two grown children.

Why There's A Difference In Sun Lamps!

The Hanovia patented quartz mercury tube brings you all 12 beneficial bands of ultraviolet. It gives you the true health rays of sunlight.

Ordinary sun lamps have bulb-like tubes. The outer casing of this tube, because of its glass composition, cuts out many of the beneficial ultraviolet rays.

CUTE TRICKS, aren't they? Such robust little bodies ... bubbling with energy and vitality! And what a blessing it is to know their wise parents have found a proven way to keep them full of health and pep! It's the neatest trick of the year—Daily Hanovia sun baths!

You see, because of the patented quartz mercury tube, Hanovia lamps give all 12 effective bands of ultraviolet ... substantially more beneficial rays than any other make of lamp. That's why daily Hanovia sun baths not only give your precious little ones the normal tonic sunshine they need, but promote the development of strong, sturdy bodies, too. But just any sun lamp won't do all this. So insist on the best ... the one lamp that has won world-wide acclaim as being the finest sun lamp ever developed—a Hanovia Alpine Home Sun Lamp.

See about a Hanovia Lamp today. It will pay dividends of better health to the entire family.

7 STATEMENTS OF IMPORTANCE to anyone choosing a car!

STATEMENT 1. In total inside length and in total seating width, this year's Ford bodies are the roomiest in their field.

STATEMENT 2. The soft and quiet ride of this Ford is not just an improved ride but a wholly new one. Frame, springs, ride stabilizer and wheelbase length are all new.

STATEMENT 3. Although all high-priced cars today have 8 cylinders or more, the only car offering this advantage to buyers of lowest-priced cars is the Ford V-8.

STATEMENT 4. The 1941 Ford took first place in its class for gas economy in this year's official Gilmore-Grand Canyon Economy Run—averaging 23.05 miles per gallon and 43.19 miles per hour.

STATEMENT 5. The Ford has hydraulic brakes larger than those of any other car near its price, giving fast, smooth stops with extra-long brake-lining wear.

STATEMENT 6. Windshield and rear window of the Ford are the largest in its field. This adds both to riding comfort and to driving safety.

STATEMENT 7. The Ford Motor Company has now built nearly 29 million cars, over 38 years, all under the same management. No other car is backed by such a record.

3 KILLED, 2 HURT AS AUTO PASSES UP A STOP SIGN

Crashes into Truck at 111th and Cicero.

Two young men and a young woman died yesterday in Little Company of Mary hospital of injuries incurred Friday night in a car-truck collision at 111th street and Cicero avenue. The truck driver and another young woman were hurt.

The dead are Robert Collins, 19 years old, 6140 West 97th place, driver of the car; George R. Couch, 19, of 6140 97th street, and Rosemary Dwyer, 9645 Moody avenue, all of Oak Lawn. The injured are Virginia Slepp, 16, of 9533 Moody avenue, Oak Lawn, and Everett Martin of Decatur, Ill., the truck driver.

Fail to Obey Stop Sign.

State police said the car with the four young people was going west in 111th street and failed to observe a stop sign at Cicero avenue, crashing into the side of the truck.

An investigation was launched yesterday into the deaths of three persons in a crash between an army transport truck and an automobile at the intersection of routes 22 and 45, three miles west of Lake Forest in Lake county. Fort Sheridan officials, Sheriff Thomas E. Kennedy and Acting Coroner M. D. Penney were conducting the probe.

Those killed, passengers in the car, were Miss Lucille Miller, 21, of Aptakisic, near Libertyville, and John Chapman, 18, of 122 Austin avenue, and Miss Caryol Reid, 20, of 148 East Sunnyside avenue, both of Libertyville. Albert Drecoll, 21, of Hurlbut court, Libertyville, driver of the car, was injured.

Others Hurt in Crash.

Also injured were Corporal James Duncan, 21, colored, of Rosedale, Miss., driver of the truck; Corp. Charles Moody, 19, colored, 3612 Indiana avenue, whose injuries may prove fatal, and Private Alexius Gibson, 23. Gibson told police the army truck reached the intersection just as the lights changed from red to green for the truck. Drecoll said the truck ran a red light. A warrant charging Duncan with involuntary manslaughter has been issued.

Julius S. Blackney, 57, of 6657 South Halsted street, was killed yesterday when his automobile was struck by a Grand Trunk passenger train near the Kingsbury ordnance plant in La Porte county, Ind., where he was employed.

Up to 2 p. m. yesterday 138 persons had been killed in Cook county traffic since Jan. 1. Of these 109 died in Chicago, where 3,483 were injured during the same period.

BOOKIE IS SUED FOR STOLEN CASH LOST ON HORSES

A suit seeking to collect $1,839 which a filling station manager says he embezzled and then lost betting on the races was filed in Circuit court yesterday against William J. Mischall, described as the operator of a handbook at 3047 63d street, by the National Surety corporation. Filed with the suit was an affidavit signed by Arthur St. Julien, formerly manager of a filling station at 3039 63d street, in which St. Julien said he embezzled the funds last summer and lost them in bets.

Fort Myer Barracks Is Damaged by Blaze

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—The interior of a half century old brick barracks at nearby Fort Myer, Va., was destroyed today by fire. The barracks housed 160 men of battery C, 16th field artillery. Fort Meyer barracks are of a permanent construction and have central heat.

DR. KLEMPERER FLEES ASYLUM; CAPTURE ASKED

New York, March 1 [Special].—An alarm calling for the capture of Dr. Otto Klemperer, internationally known orchestra conductor, was broadcast today by police of Rye, N. Y. The alarm said Dr. Klemperer had disappeared from Wallingford house, a private sanitorium for mental cases.

Dr. Klemperer, a refugee, who fled Germany in 1934, was said to have called on various friends here. One, Miss Marion Shacko, informed police he left her apartment to go to a health institute in Morristown, N. J. At that institute it was said Dr. Klemperer had not appeared.

Dr. Klemperer underwent a brain operation a few years ago and his health has been bad for some time. He lost the post of conductor of the Los Angeles orchestra, which he had held for several years, and quit as conductor of the WPA orchestra here after a quarrel with WPA authorities.

Spend Night on Crib

Thirty members of the crews of four fishing boats and two tugs returned to Chicago harbor early yesterday after spending the night at the Harrison crib in the lake. Capt. Edward Warner, in charge of the crib, said heavy ice choked the harbor mouth and the boats couldn't reach the river Friday. The fishing boats are the Roy K. Smith, Carolyn, Fred Wiemer, and Waterhill.

GOVERNOR DRIVES U.S. BUILDERS OFF OKLAHOMA LAND

Halts Work on Dam Until State Is Reimbursed.

Durant, Okla., March 1 (AP).—Oklahoma's governor, Leon C. Phillips, reopened his old state's rights feud with the government today—this time over the $56,000,000 Red river dam on the Texas-Oklahoma border. He ordered United States army engineers at the dam site to stay off state lands in the area pending arrangements to compensate the state for "losses we will suffer."

The fiery Phillips, who also fought the government over the $22,000,000 Grand River dam project in northeastern Oklahoma—with a martial law order and legal maneuvering which reached the Supreme court—arrived unheralded today. He went directly to the engineers' office, a quarter of a mile from the dam site; delivered his ultimatum, then turned back without even looking at the huge, partially completed project.

Demands Pay for Losses.

Phillips met Maj. R. C. Brown, in charge of land acquisition for the project, and Capt. J. H. Anderson, in charge of relocating highways and railroads. He advised them that under the law, state lands may not be sold without his consent, and added:

"I notify you now, as governor of Oklahoma, to stay off it until a program of actually repaying us for the losses we will suffer has been worked out."

Phillips said 90 per cent of the land in some school districts will be inundated "and the little balance left will have to carry the amount of indebtedness of the entire district." He added that unless something is done, many people in these districts "will lose their life savings."

School Lands Needed.

Maj. Brown advised the governor that three tracts of school land are needed at an early date for relocation of railroad tracks.

"You notify the proper authorities that no temporary arrangements can be made," Phillips replied.

Phillips has opposed the Red river project since its inception. He contends that Oklahoma will suffer most of the damage while Texas will enjoy most of the benefits. His dispute over the Grand river project ended last week in a compromise settlement.

15 INVADE CLUB; SHOOT DANCER.

Fifteen colored hoodlums invaded a club at 3016 Lake Park avenue early yesterday and fired several shots. Ernest Lowe, 17 years old, colored, of 23 East 23d street, one of 200 dancers, was shot in the left arm. Police arrested several persons for questioning.

HERE IS THE SIMPLE SOLUTION:

Study the puzzle picture printed above. It contains the name of CHARLIE MC-CARTHY. In the first illustration you will observe the letter "C" on the banner and the letters "H A R" in the bystander's merriment. The second quarter contains the letters "L I E", the reason for the boy's punishment. In the third quarter you will observe the letters "M C" on the railroad sign and the little "C A R T" which the boy is pulling across the track. Then follow the officer's direction in the final illustration. "Take the 'A' out of hay" and there are the letters "H Y". Put the letters together and you have CHARLIE MC-CARTHY. Easy, wasn't it?

53 STATE AUTOS MISSING AFTER 3 WEEK SEARCH

Green Pushes His Drive to End Free Car Evil.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., March 1.—Investigation of what Gov. Dwight Green considers the free automobile evil reached the end of its first chapter today with an official report that three weeks of search have failed to uncover 53 of the 1,341 passenger cars belonging to the state.

Fred F. Emich of Chicago, whom Green appointed as superintendent of transportation on February 7 filed his first report at the governor's office and made ready to take up the second phase of the new administration's inquiry to reduce materially this form of state expense.

Emich's next job will be to go into the present allocation or assignment of cars to employés. It has been known for years that this form of state property has been distributed on a basis of political pull in many cases, and that many cars have been turned over to jobholders whose duties do not require the use of transportation. Many of these persons are state house desk workers.

Many of these cars are parked all day long at the capitol building, but others are used by the families of the employés to whom they are assigned. Gov. Green has said that he will put an end to this misuse of taxpayers' money.

In his first report Emich said that with the aid of state and local police and the volunteer assistance of many private citizens he has been able to pick up 104 of the 157 passenger cars originally missing. Some of them were found deserted on the streets where they were left by employés ousted by Gov. Green.

"But most of them were found still in the possession of discharged employés," said Emich, "and we learned that one popular man had provided a car for each of three girl friends."

Many of the recovered cars and other state cars are now being reconditioned as rapidly as possible to shut off a threatened flood of requisitions for new cars.

RICKENBACKER GAINS; CONDITION IS CALLED 'FAIR'

Atlanta, Ga., March 1 (AP).—Eddie Rickenbacker was in "fair" condition today after a "comfortable night" at Piedmont hospital, where he is confined by multiple injuries incurred in an airplane accident.

C. M. Tappen of New York, American Oil company executive, was reported in "very serious" condition from spinal injuries. Other survivors of the crash who remain in hospitals were listed as doing satisfactorily. Seven were killed and nine hurt in the wreck of an Eastern Air Lines sleeper plane.

The board of directors of the line, which originally planned a meeting in Miami today, changed the location to Atlanta "in order to be near Rick.'"

NAVY EXPECTED TO ASK O. K. ON 300,000 FORCE

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—Prediction that congress will be asked within a few days to increase the navy's strength to 300,000 men was made today by the Army and Navy Register.

The service publication said this increase from the present force of 220,000 would suffice only for 1941. The navy has estimated 500,000 men will be required for the two ocean fleet in 1946.

Two battleships are to be commissioned this spring with other warships and the navy desires trained men in advance. Pay for 232,000 sailors and 50,556 marines was provided in an appropriation approved this week in the house. This maximum fixed by law will be attained by the navy April 1. Increase in the navy's strength to 300,000 would automatically permit expansion of the marine corps to 60,000.

TO ALL EMPLOYES OF McCORMICK WORKS

On Friday McCormick Works was forced to suspend operations because of the use of violence within the plant by C. I. O. flying squadrons which interrupted work on the day and night shifts and forced employes to leave their jobs.

A large number of employes have publicly announced that they do not support the strike and are ready to report for work Monday morning. The C. I. O. is now picketing the plant and doubtless will have more pickets on hand on Monday. The danger of further violence and injury to employes is clearly present.

After consultation with Washington officials and Mr. P. J. Cullen, of the Illinois State Conciliation Service, and because of the danger of violence, the Company has decided not to operate the plant on Monday.

Therefore, the Company announces:

PRODUCTION EMPLOYES OF McCORMICK WORKS SHOULD NOT REPORT FOR WORK ON MONDAY OR UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE FROM THE COMPANY

The Company wants maintenance department employes, power house employes, and employes of the fire and watch services, as well as foremen, department heads and office employes required to prepare the payroll, to report for work as usual. The presence of these employes is essential to protect the plant from fire, freezing or other damage, and to make it possible to pay employes for their last week's work. Pay checks will be mailed to employes' homes.

This situation has been caused by a dispute over what group should have bargaining rights at McCormick Works. The Company's position is that that question should be settled in an orderly and legal way which is provided by the National Labor Relations Act, that is, by employe election, and hopes that such a peaceful and lawful solution will be forthcoming.

INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER COMPANY

A United Medical Service enters its ninth year . . . more fully complete and modern in all of its facilities . . . more widely experienced . . . more efficiently staffed . . . more adequately prepared to provide friendly, competent medical and surgical care . . . at still lower costs.

When this determined and courageous attack on the high cost of medical care was put into operation in January, 1933, it attracted nation-wide attention. The big question in many minds was "Could the prevailing high cost of medical care be reduced?" A nation-wide survey into the high cost of medical care by a group of outstanding medical and lay individuals had just been completed. The results of this investigation prompted assertions by prominent persons that "high medical costs were irreducible." It was also pointed out that here was a service which many private, charitable and philanthropic organizations, including leaders in the medical profession, considered necessary to public welfare . . . yet had been unable to provide. There were no doubts, however, in the minds of the originators and organizers of this new and practical idea in medical economics. They knew from a previous experience in a highly specialized field of medicine that medical costs could be substantially reduced and made available to persons of limited income within their ability to pay. The past eight years have demonstrated conclusively that the founders and their associates were right. For during this period responsible medical care in all its branches has been provided at low cost to almost 200,000 patients for almost every ailment known to medical science. Of this number sixty to seventy per cent came through the recommendations of others. Over 25,000 patients were referred by approximately 5,000 physicians in private practice for X-ray examinations, medical laboratory tests and other diagnostic services. Facilities occupy four entire floors in the Finchley Building, one of Chicago's most modern office buildings. Members of its present medical staff and associated physicians are graduates of prominent medical schools and hospitals, with years of special training and experience in all departments of medicine. To support this medical knowledge one of the finest X-ray Departments in the middle west . . . a complete medical laboratory and other scientific equipment have been provided This combination of all medical services under one roof makes it possible to render complete medical protection and care not only more efficiently, but more economically. Inspection invited.

'ELIJAH' IS SUNG AS DRAMA WITH POWER, BEAUTY

Mark Love Leads Cast in Great Oratorio.

Dramatized oratorio in two acts and six scenes. Music by Felix Mendelssohn-Bartholdy. Settings by Jesse Cox. Chorus directed by Frank Bennett. Choreography by Jane Burkhalter. Organist, Stanley Martin. Pianists, Cathryn Bennett and Betsy Reed. Presented by John Ross Reed in the Auditorium theater, Saturday evening, March 1, 1941, for an engagement of 10 performances.

THE CAST.

Elijah	Mark Love
The Widow / An Angel	Naomi Cook
An Angel / Queen Jezebel	May Barron
Obadiah	Charles Sears
King Ahab	David Johnson
A Youth	Mildred Ross
The Widow's Son	Martin Beisner
Conductor	Edgar Nelson

BY CECIL SMITH.

The feat of turning Mendelssohn's familiar oratorio, "Elijah," into an effective stage piece is not easy. It was apparent from the response of last night's audience, however, that Mark Love and his associates on the stage of the Auditorium theater have a success on their hands. By judicious cutting and rearrangement of the music and by economical and simply directed action, the oratorio has been made into a dramatic performance that has force, vigor, movement and picturesqueness.

The plot is, of course, concerned with Elijah's prophecies, with his triumph over the priests of Baal, his exile to the wilderness to escape the wrath of queen Jezebel, and his return to the children of Israel at the moment in which rainfall breaks the long drouth. The strong figure of Mark Love carries the central action thru in a straight line; dramatically he is the kingpin of the performance, and all the rest of the action, as it should, focuses upon his dominant central character.

Sings With Great Mastery.

But Mr. Love's accomplishment does not stop short with the depiction of Elijah as a character credible to a modern audience. He sings the music with phenomenal mastery, with power and with completely satisfying musicianship. By now he has so fully identified himself with the music that he seemingly can do no wrong with it. A quality of inner passion and conviction suffuses his singing, making the performance not only the best he has ever given here, but also the most notable Elijah Chicago has heard in this generation.

Naomi Cook's supremely beautiful soprano voice is also a great asset to the performance. In "Hear ye, Israel" minor vocal blemishes were forgotten in a torrent of glorious tone. In her first act duet with Mr. Love, when the child comes back to life, the singing of both principals attained exciting operatic projection.

Excellent Stage Chorus.

Charles Sears sings the grateful music of Obadiah sympathetically, if with painful tempi. May Barron tended to be submerged by the contralto solos.

An excellent stage chorus, assisted by a large supplementary chorus in the orchestra pit, kept the choral episodes lively and well accented, and fitted successfully into the somewhat panoramic action required by the massed scenes. The performance will appeal profoundly to religious audiences, naturally, but it will also surprise thousands of other listeners who may never have thought of attending the "Elijah."

Wins Annulment

[Acme Photo.]

JANE GRASSELLI.

Santa Ana, Cal., March 1 (AP).—Jane Grasselli Buzzi, heiress to a Cleveland, O., chemical fortune, won an uncontested annulment today of her marriage to Caesare Buzzi of the Italian foreign office.

Judge K. Scovel granted the annulment after Buzzi's attorneys failed to make use of a 10 day postponement recently granted.

The Buzzis were married in Rome in 1935. At that time, her petition stated, she believed Buzzi's story that he was of noble lineage and had inherited a family castle and villas.

She charged that his claim of noble blood was false and that he also was untruthful about his age.

She was 20 at the time of her marriage and he was more than twice her age, her petition said.

ANGNA ENTERS HAILED IN CIVIC THEATER SHOW

Last night in the Civic theater Angna Enters presented another of her unique programs, making her solitary appearance in Chicako this season. There seems to be no slackening in her special kind of appeal, and a large audience was witness to the extent, variety, and interest of her répertoire.

Miss Enters' art is a happy balance between dancing and pantomime. She veers from one type to the other, and with an imaginative choice of costumes, props, and background music, creates or recreates episodes as varied as an 1860 French picnic and a 16th century Spanish court.

Little if anything on last night's program was new, but her material wears well, and her extraordinary ability to communicate so much with her wordless movement is constantly fascinating.

None of the ridiculous humor of "Balletomane-Connoisseur" has worn off. If "O, the Pain of It!" seems dated, it is still pretty funny. The two studies in "Narcissism" are thoroly contemporary, on the other hand, and painful in their morbid realism. And only Miss Enters, it seems to us, could hold the attention of an audience while she went thru all the details of preparing a delicious liqueur-flavored fudge, as she does in "La Cuisine Française."

CHICAGO ALUMNI JOIN IN ILLINOIS U. BIRTHDAY PARTY

Chicago alumni of the University of Illinois gathered in the Columbia Yacht club last night for dinner and dancing as part of a nationwide program to celebrate the university's 73d anniversary. The university was chartered by the Illinois general assembly on Feb. 28, 1867, and was opened March 2, 1868.

During the evening the alumni heard a nationwide broadcast from Champaign-Urbana, including talks by President A. C. Willard and Dean C. M. Thompson, Alumni association president. Carl Van Doren spoke from New York.

North Shore Heavy Purchaser of Costlier Homes

BUYERS HEDGE AGAINST LOWER DOLLAR VALUE

Higher Rents and Costs Also Are Factors.

BY AL CHASE.
[Real Estate Editor.]

Chicagoans of above average incomes are getting into the suburban residential market in ever increasing numbers. This was disclosed yesterday in a survey of some of the leading builders of homes in the $15,000 and higher cost bracket along the north shore and adjacent suburbs. All real estate men agreed that there had been more purchases in the last few weeks of the more expensive residences, and greater inquiry for that type of home than in several years.

Irvin A. Blietz.

Increased rents, rising cost of construction, and uncertainties in the national financial outlook were said to be factors which are prompting these Chicagoans to buy homes.

Buy Real Estate as Hedge.

"Ninety per cent of recent buying inquiry is based on the use of real estate as a hedge against a possible future lower value of the dollar," said Irvin A. Blietz, owner of a development on the Kenilworth-Wilmette line.

"Thirty per cent of actual sales is for all cash and 20 per cent for half cash. About 60 per cent of buyers take the longest terms and largest loans obtainable, figuring there's nothing like a big mortgage to stabilize one's finances thru a possible period of inflation. In such times the debtor always has the advantage. He may pay part of his obligation in dollars that are worth less than when he made the deal."

Blietz said that he has only 8 homesites left of the original 38 in his development. Twenty-five homes have been finished and are occupied. Five are under construction, to be ready for occupancy between April 1 and June 15.

Take Long Term Loans.

George F. Nixon also said a large percentage of house buyers consider their purchase as a hedge against possible depreciation of the dollar.

"For that reason," he said, "many who easily could pay all cash are asking for as large and long a mortgage as possible. One buyer of a $50,000 house, who planned to pay cash, changed his mind and put a $16,000 long term FHA insured mortgage on it."

Nixon has built and sold 35 homes in the $19,000 to $25,000 class in his development east of Glenview. Six more are under construction and figures are being taken on three additional. Improvements have been put in for 25 more which Nixon expects to build this summer. He also has five under construction in Skokie, ranging from $11,000 to $17,500.

Hubert S. Nelson of Swain, Nelson & Sons company said there has been a tremendous increase in inquiries at the firm's Glenview development during the last month and a half, and during that period he said there were more actual sales than during all of 1940. These were all in the $15,000 to $25,000 bracket.

Drawing Plans for Four.

Ten homes have been finished, seven of which are sold, and four are under construction, all of them sold. Plans are being drawn for four more, all sold. Specifications for three additional will be started in the next 30 days, Nelson said. He expects to build four a month during the rest of the year.

C. A. Hemphill and Associates of Evanston reported unusual activity in home building. In the Lincolnwood area of Skokie they have completed 20 homes and have 8 more under construction.

The same firm reported 20 homes completed and occupied in its development in Winnetka since November, 1939, with 4 more nearing completion and work scheduled to start on six at once. Their price range is from $18,000 to $31,000.

In a third Hemphill development in Evanston two homes have been completed and sold, and two others are nearing completion. Prices range from $22,500 to $27,500.

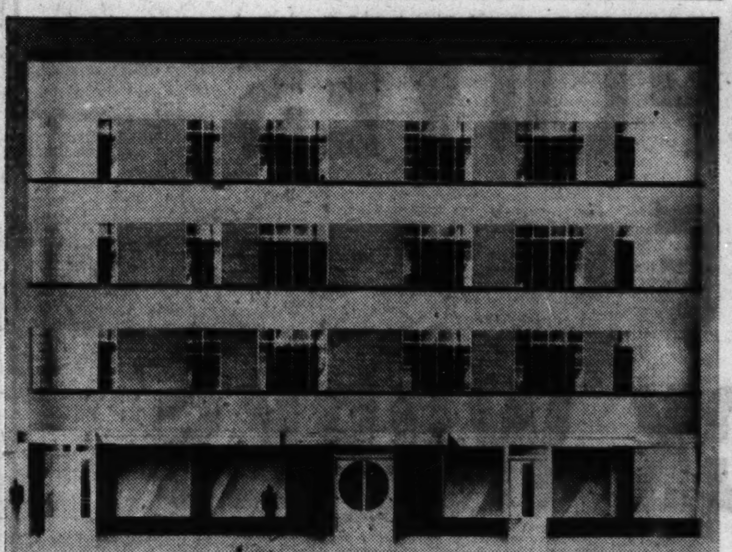
News of the Architects

Olsen & Urbain has moved from the Builders' building to larger quarters at 8 East Huron street.

Glenview Suburban Home

Designed by C. W. and George L. Rapp, Inc., this $20,500 colonial residence was built in Swainwood, Glenview, by V. M. Nelson, president of Mandus Nelson & Co., leather. It has seven rooms, two and a half baths, an attached two car garage, and is heated by gas. Exterior walls are of Wisconsin Lannon stone and clapboard.

New Flats for Near North Side



One of the first new flat buildings in several years on the near north side will be built at the northwest corner of Dearborn and Erie streets. It will have 54 one room suites with elevator service. Arthur J. Sir designed it for John Marsch, owner.

Plan 54 Apartment Building for Dearborn and Erie Corner

Wreckers will start at once clearing the northwest corner of Dearborn and Erie streets as the site for a four story, 54 apartment building, to cost a reported $125,000.

The property, fronting 110 feet on Erie and sixty feet on Dearborn, is owned by John Marsch, railroad contractor and Luxumburg consul, altho title is held by his wife Elizabeth S. Marsch.

The building will contain two stores in addition to the 54 one room dining alcove suites, and is scheduled for October occupancy.

Marsch owns the entire block of frontage on the west side of Dearborn, extending from Erie to Huron streets. In 1932 he remodeled the southwest corner of Dearborn and Huron into a four story flat building containing 38 suites and 6 stores. In 1939 he rebuilt the building south of it into 14 flats. Both of these units, he said, are fully occupied.

At the Realty Boards

Carl F. Zeidler, 33 year old mayor of Milwaukee, will speak on "The Business End of Running a City Government" before the Chicago Real Estate board next Wednesday evening, March 5, at 32 West Randolph street. Zeidler, said to be the youngest mayor of a major American city, last year defeated a 24 year incumbent of the Milwaukee mayor's chair. At the board's business meeting Mark Levy will announce nominations for officers for the coming year.

Carl F. Zeidler.

Realty Miscellany

Republic Realty Mortgage corporation has enlarged, modernized, and installed an air conditioning system in its offices in the Conway building. Earle Vincent Johnson, vice president, said the personnel also has been increased.

LAST SECTION OF OLD NORTH SIDE FARM SOLD

The last portion of one of the north side's one time prosperous farms, for 75 years in possession of the Sontag family, was sold yesterday by the New York Life Insurance company. The northwest corner of Clark street and Belmont avenue, now an active outlying business intersection, was purchased by the Thirty-two Hundred North Clark Street Building corporation for $75,000, according to revenue stamps on the deed.

Fronting 215 feet on Clark and 172 feet on Belmont, the land, once part of the well known Sontag farm, is improved with five various sized buildings. They contain a total of 17 stores, 2 apartments, 17 offices, and 1 garage. James W. Belanger, vice president of Gordon Strong & Co., was the only broker.

The buyer, which gave a purchase money mortgage of $60,000 and the balance in time payments, expects to modernize the property, it is understood.

WOOLWORTH LEASES CORNER.

The F. W. Woolworth company leased the store at the southwest corner of Diversey and Kimball for a term of years beginning May 1, from Joseph Keller. N. Lickerman & Co. was broker.

BUTTON HOLDING ITS OWN IN U. S. MILITARY PLANS

Chicago Maker to Triple Its Floor Space.

Everything isn't zippered these days—the humble button still does a major job in holding clothes, especially uniforms, together. For that reason the Handy Button Machine company is expanding for the third time. Having outgrown its present plant at 540 North Western avenue, Joseph Perlman, chairman of the board, said it will triple its floor working area by building a new $250,000 plant at the northeast corner of Rockwell and 23d streets. Anticipated defense orders for buttons for service men is a reason for the expansion.

Joseph Perlman.

Designed by A. Epstein, engineer, the new building will contain 75,000 square feet of floor space. The Benjamin Chemers company is the general contractor. In addition to being three times as large as the company's present plant, it will give employment to twice as many persons. The pay roll will be increased from 150 to 300 when the company moves next June, it was said.

In addition to making button machines the company manufactures about a half billion buttons yearly.

Perlman said the company plans to make bids on contracts for metal uniform buttons under the national armament program.

ANDES CANDIES RENTS DEARBORN-MADISON CORNER

Andes Candies, Inc., yesterday leased the corner store in the two story building nearing completion at the northwest corner of Madison and Dearborn streets. Charles L. Schrager & Co., who negotiated the lease, said the term is seven years beginning May 1 on a minimum guarantee basis of slightly over $12,000 a year, plus a percentage of gross earnings.

Andrew G. Kanelos, president of the candy company, said $20,000 will be spent on the new shop, to be the 58th in the company's chain in the metropolitan Chicago area. It will be air conditioned. Herbert Beidler, in association with Loewenberg & Loewenberg, will be the architect.

To Tenant Farmers who are wondering about the Future
ARE THOUGHTS LIKE THESE bothering you these days?
"Wonder where I'll be in a year, two years from now. There's Jim, who used to lease the Wright farm—he had to move when the farm was sold. Couldn't find another decent farm and had to get a job in town..."
If you are worried by the fear that some one else will come along and buy the farm you are living on, we suggest that you investigate the Tenant Purchase Plan offered by Opportunity Farms. Last year 1100 families invested their savings in Opportunity Farms; 770 of these were tenant farmers. Today they own their farm home and face the future with the comfortable feeling of knowing that they stand on their own ground.
Today's prices are low and terms are very easy—a small down payment and then just 6% a year on the balance covers payments on both principal and interest.
Our farms are now leased for 1941, but we can arrange today for March 1st, 1942, possession. Delaying the matter is unnecessary. We are always glad to discuss your plans with you. There is no obligation. Write or call:

OPPORTUNITY FARMS
WHAT IS AN OPPORTUNITY FARM?
An Opportunity Farm, to earn that name, must have adequate, sound, well-painted, weather-tight buildings; improved soil, with good drainage; and expertly planned crop rotation. Every farm is a going concern.

LONGSHOTS WIN SANTA ANITA AND HIALEAH STAKES

BAY VIEW, 58-1, BEATS MIOLAND BY NECK IN MUD

Field Horse Third in $100,000 Handicap.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Arcadia, Cal., March 1.—Bay View, a 4 year old gelding speedster, property of Mrs. Anthony Pelleteri of New Orleans and Chicago, kept right on going after he was supposed to tire and won the Santa Anita $100,000 handicap today from Mioland and other highly rated thorobreds. Bay View, in beating out the favorite, Mioland, by a neck, won $89,360 net for his owner and returned $118.40 for each straight $2 bet on him in the pari-mutuels. He paid $26.20 to place and $9.80 to show.

Mioland was second, paying $3 and $2.60, and winning a purse of $20,000 for his owner, Charles S. Howard. Bolingbroke, a field horse, was third, paying $6.40 and winning $10,000 for his owner, T. B. Martin. Royal Crusader was fourth, returning nothing to his betting fanciers, but $5,000 for his owner, the Rancho Casitas stable.

Challedon? He's 14th.

Challedon, the turf champion in 1939 and 1940, whose owner, W. L. Brann of Maryland, had clung to the hope his pet could add to total winnings of $322,835, finished a miserable 14th in the array of 16 starters.

Little Nick Wall, who steered Stagehand to victory in the 1938 Santa Anita handicap, rode Bay View today, thus becoming the first jockey to repeat as a winner of the hundred grander. Bay View carried 108 pounds this afternoon.

Wall admitted after the race he was as surprised as those who didn't bet on his mount. And speaking of betting, of the $388,467 wagered on the race only $8,830 was laid on Bay View—$2,514 straight, $1,762 place, and $4,554 show.

Even Surprises His Jockey.

Wall had this to say after his triumph:

"I was pretty surprised. I knew he was a good horse, but I didn't know whether he could run a mile and a quarter. However, on the back side we were just breezing and right there I got a good idea that we were going to win. I didn't move with him until the head of the stretch, when Mioland challenged. I reached back and tapped him twice and he drew out. Then I just sat still until we got an eighth of a mile from home. I must have cracked him four or five times in that last drive. He was all out to win."

Bay View's First Big Victory.

Bay View, altho owned by a prominent stable, previously had earned only $7,785—$1,600 this year, $5,485 last year, and $700 in 1939. His last victory was at Saratoga last August. He was third to Mioland and Hysterical in the San Antonio warmup for the big handicap a week ago today.

The horses were not at the post long, and as soon as they broke, Jockey Wall, who dearly loves to be out there setting the pace as long as his horse can last, went right into his act.

When they came sloshing thru the mud the first time they went past the stand Sweepida and Hysterical were giving Bay View something of an argument, tho unable to break into Jockey Wall's "wire to wire" routine.

Challedon Tires Quickly.

Those of the 50,000 flood-braving fans who had bet on the Howard entry with such confidence were un-

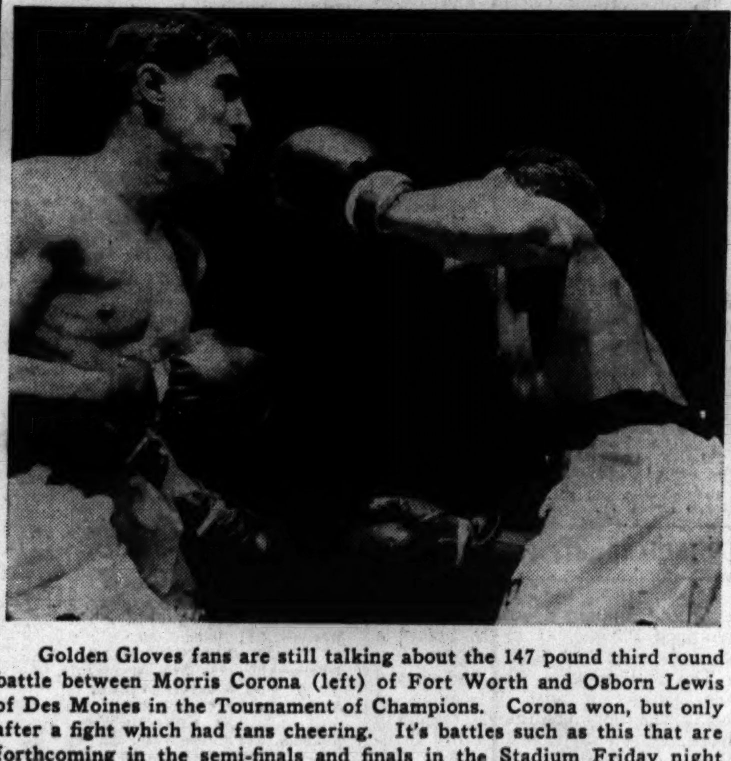
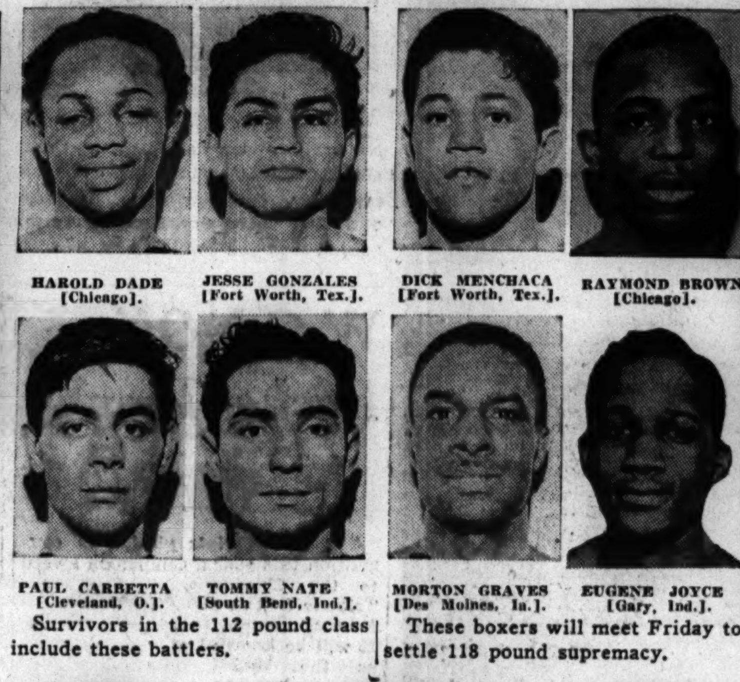
THEY'RE NEAR THE HEIGHTS ON TRAIL TO A GOLDEN GLOVE!



Golden Gloves fans are still talking about the 147 pound third round battle between Morris Corona (left) of Fort Worth and Osborn Lewis of Des Moines in the Tournament of Champions. Corona won, but only after a fight which had fans cheering. It's battles such as this one that are forthcoming in the semi-finals and finals in the Stadium Friday night when the Golden Gloves champions of 1941 will be decided.



HAROLD DADE [Chicago]. JESSE GONZALES [Fort Worth, Tex.]. DICK MENCHACA [Fort Worth, Tex.]. RAYMOND BROWN [Chicago].

PAUL CARRETTA [Cleveland, O.]. TOMMY NATE [South Bend, Ind.]. MORTON GRAVES [Des Moines, Ia.]. EUGENE JOYCE [Gary, Ind.].

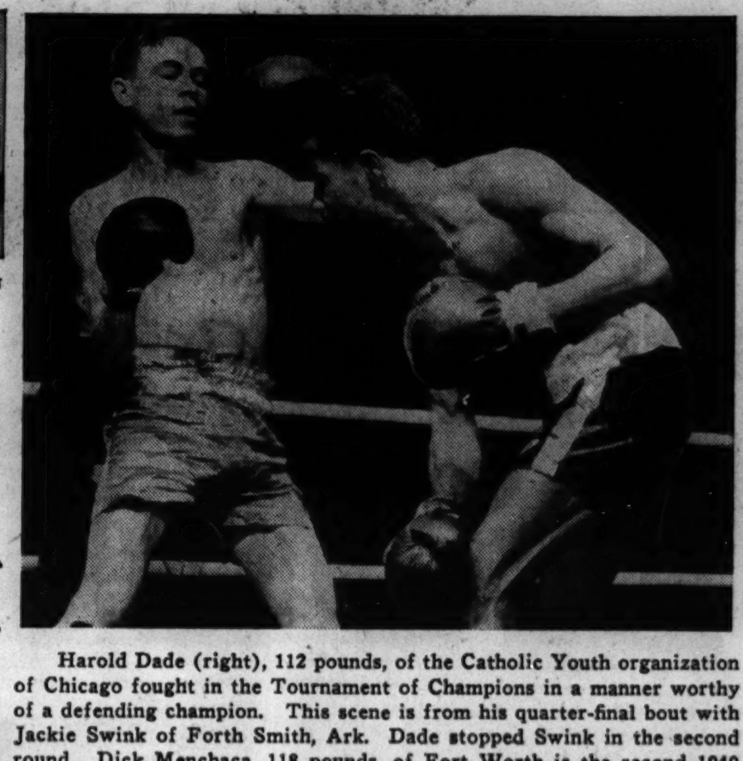
These boxers will meet Friday to settle 118 pound supremacy.



Harold Dade (right), 112 pounds, of the Catholic Youth organization of Chicago fought in the Tournament of Champions in a manner worthy of a defending champion. This scene is from his quarter-final bout with Jackie Swink of Forth Smith, Ark. Dade stopped Swink in the second round. Dick Menchaca, 118 pounds, of Fort Worth is the second 1940 champion to go to the semi-finals.

EMMETT GRIER [Detroit, Mich.]. RICHARD SCHOLL [Peoria, Ill.]. WILLIAM JOHNSON [Streator, Ill.]. BOB BURNS [Fort Wayne, Ind.].

Golden Gloves semi-finalists at 147 pounds.

WILLIAM JEFFERSON [Chicago]. JACK HALEY [Kansas City, Mo.]. EDDIE HUDSON [Moline, Ill.]. PHIL BROWN [St. Louis, Mo.].

Semi-finalists in the 126 pound division are shown grouped around a Golden Glove, symbol of the highest honor in amateur boxing. A field of 23,000 boxers has been cut to 32 of the best in the nation who Friday night will fight for Golden Gloves titles before a capacity crowd in the Stadium.

CHARLES HAYES [Detroit, Mich.]. ROOSEVELT THOMAS [Chicago]. BENNIE McCOMBS [Grand Rapids, Mich.]. VANCE BASLER [Des Moines, Ia.].

TOM PROCTER. [Oklahoma City, Okla.]. CLAYTON WORLDS [Chicago]. AL JORDAN [Kansas City, Mo.]. ALLEN AUBREY [Cleveland, O.].

BIG PEBBLE CAPTURES WIDENER CUP AS BIMELECH FINISHES 4TH

Miami, Fla., March 1 [Special].—For the first time in the history of the Widener Challenge cup, horses from the same stable finished first and second in the running today of the Hialeah feature. Mrs. Edward Moore's Circle M ranch entry of Big Pebble and Get Off finished a head apart in that order, before 21,499 persons who bet a record amount of $160,878 on the mile and a quarter classic.

For years E. R. Bradley, owner of Bimelech, had been called "one-two Ed Bradley" because his horses finished that way in the Kentucky Derby. But this afternoon Moore purloined the Bradley technique to humble Bimelech, odds-on favorite, and the colt the master of Idle Hour farms called "the best horse I have ever seen."

Bimelech Finished Fourth.

Bimelech was fourth under his top weight of 126 pounds after having momentarily gotten to the front at the head of the stretch. There it was that first Big Pebble and then Get Off swept up on him and dashed on past.

So tired was the son of Black Toney that he could not save third from the tired Haltal, who already had been raced into defeat by Bimelech at the half mile ground.

Big Pebble surprised a fortnight ago in winning one division of the McLennan handicap. He was just as much of a surprise today, returning $34.60, $26.50, and $12 across the board.

Winners Collect $59,800.

The Widener grossed $65,800, the Circle M shares being $51,800 for first, and $8,000 for second.

Over a fast track, Big Pebble finished the mile and a quarter in 2:02 4-5 under his 109 pounds. He was ridden by Jockey George Seabo.

The day was a big one for the Miami Jockey club, bringing the 46 day meeting to an end with a record total attendance of 579,119; surpassing last year's total of 573,162. The total betting calculated for 45 days—"Charity day" being disregarded—ran to $25,354,406 this season, a record for Florida.

Aside from the Widener, other thrills were in store for the crowd. Undefeated Albatross took the $7,890 Hialeah juvenile championship by three quarters of a length. The entry of Eternal Bull and Bold Question ran two, three, after the former had held the lead. Albatross was a 1 to 2 shot under top weight of 122 pounds.

Indiana Governor Gets Sunday Night Sports Bill

Indianapolis, Ind., March 1 [Special].—An Indiana senate bill to legalize Sunday night baseball and hockey games today awaited the anticipated signature of Gov. Henry F. Schricker before becoming law. The bill amending Sunday blue laws which prohibited playing baseball after 6 p. m. on Sundays passed the senate two weeks ago. It was sent to the house, where it was amended to include fishing, and was passed.

Riggs and Talbert Win in Southeastern Tennis

Jacksonville, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Bobby Riggs of Chicago today defeated Jack Kramer of Los Angeles, 8-6, 1-6, 6-4, in the Southeastern tennis tournament's semi-finals. A short time before, William Talbert of Cincinnati won from Gardner Larned, 6-1, 6-2. The Chicago player had eliminated Frankie Kovacs of Oakland, Cal., yesterday. Riggs and Talbert meet in the finals at the Riverside Tennis club tomorrow.

Santa Anita Handicap Chart

SIXTH RACE—The Santa Anita handicap. Purse $100,000 added. Three year olds and up. Mile and a quarter. Went to post at 6:26. Off at 6:27. Start good from gate. Won driving, place same. Winner, b. g., 4, by Sweep All-Dangertude, by Danger Rock. Owner, Mrs. A. Pelleteri. Trainer, P. F. Dwyer. Net value to winner, $89,360; second, $20,000; third, $10,000; fourth, $5,000. Time, 2:05 2-5. Weather cloudy; track muddy.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Bay View, $118.40 straight, $26.20 place, $9.80 show; Mioland, $3.00 place, $2.60 show; Bolingbroke, $6.40 show.

BAY VIEW away fast, was taken under steady restraint after the first five-sixteenths, responded to light urging to increase his advantage when nearing the stretch, and weakened in the final eighth, but, aided by strong handling, had enough left to withstand MIOLAND'S challenge. MIOLAND, also away well, met light interference from CHALLEDON on the first turn, remained in the middle of the track when clear, responded willingly to strong pressure after reaching the final half mile, and, holding on doggedly, was wearing down the winner. BOLINGBROKE, badly outrun early, started up slowly when leaving the backstretch, was directed between horses as he entered the stretch, and closed his effort in resolute fashion. ROYAL CRUSADER began to improve his position before reaching the final half mile, hung briefly after reaching the stretch, but came again when straightened up, and wore down CAN'T WAIT in the closing strides. CAN'T WAIT, a factor from the start and in hand for about seven-eighths, went gamely under pressure to the last three-sixteenths, where he gave way gradually. GEN'L MANAGER raced wide, swerved badly when entering the stretch, and closed well when straight. SWEEPIDA forced the early pace, did not rally to light urging on the final turn, and weakened under increased pressure in the stretch. HYSTERICAL saved much ground but did not keep up in the backstretch and was not dangerous thereafter. FAIRY CHANT had no mishaps. PORTER'S CAP, in hand when close up early, was eased back on the final turn, suffered from blocking in the stretch early, and did not rally when clear. VISCOUNTY held a contending position under restraint but flattened out when called upon. CHALLEDON swerved out on the first turn, gave way badly before reaching the final half mile, and was not unduly persevered with in the final quarter. WOOF WOOF, in close quarters early, could not improve his position when clear and quit badly.

Chicagoland Awaits Friday's Thrilling Golden Gloves Climax

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Thirty-two fighters will reassemble in Chicago this week—32 fighters who still are carrying out a quest on which more than 20,000 others already have failed. Their goal is a Golden Gloves championship. Their long and difficult campaign, which started weeks ago in far flung centers, will be crowned with success or failure Friday night when they come together in the stadium for a climatic battle—the semifinals and finals.

Last week nearly 350 youngsters, high spirited and hopeful, poured into the city from all parts of the vast Golden Gloves territory. They were fired with ambition to fight their way thru the Tournament of Champions, one of the toughest and most spectacular events in all amateur sport. Beaten and disappointed most of them went home to bide their time for another year.

The Pick of 350 Champions.

This week's group is comparatively small but it's the pick of those 350 sectional champions who fought so valiantly last Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights. Now that their objective is within striking distance at last they will cut loose with everything they have when they go into the ring Friday night.

The crowd which gathers in the Stadium will be eager to see how the two defending champions—Harold Dade, Chicago's flyweight, and Dick Menchaca, Fort Worth's bantamweight—stand up against the strong bids of newly developed challengers. What will happen, for instance, when and if Menchaca gets into the ring with Chicago's Ray Brown?

No Fluke in Procter's Victory.

Most spectators at the Tournament of Champions agreed that Brown is among the most improved of any of the fighters who are back for another bid at a championship this year. When his opponents tried to stand off and box him, he outmaneuvered them handily. Those who tried to

DYKES IRKED AS RAIN DELAYS SOX; PASSEAU DROPS IN ON CUBS BY AIR

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 1. — The White Sox training chores today were quite simple, so much so that even Prof. James Dykes, a staunch supporter of the theory that conditioning should be reached by easy stages, was a bit disturbed.

With all his pupils accounted for with the exception of Mike Kreevich, the professor was forced to abandon his open air classroom under the pressure of a deluge. The boys were on the field about 15 minutes before the rains came.

Even tho his program was slowed down Dykes refused to cancel his previous notice that his school would be closed tomorrow. However, he hopes to make up for today's setback by conducting classes for three hours or more on Monday.

Luke Appling Shows Up.

Much to the surprise of everybody, Luke Appling, who never looks at a clock or calendar, showed up as scheduled. Luke came in this morning from Georgia, complaining that he was very tired. That got him nowhere with Dykes, so the shortstopping expert thought up another argument. His trunk had been delayed and it contained his baseball shoes and glove. Dykes' response to that was that Luke had walked around in bare feet before and could do it again.

So Luke decided he might as well go down to the clubhouse. When he arrived there he found his locker crammed with enough equipment to outfit a baseball army. However, he wasn't quite dressed before the brief drill had been concluded.

There isn't much reason to worry about the condition of Luke or Joe Kuhel or Larry Rosenthal who also enrolled today. They are three fellows who do not have a weight problem to solve. All they need is a few days of batting and they will be fairly well primed for the inaugural exhibition with the Pirates here on March 9.

Dykes Hunts Outfielder.

Dykes doesn't know much about his only two outfield rookies, Dave Short and Thurman Tucker, but he needs a fifth fly chaser just as he needed the same last season. The two rookies undoubtedly will show they require additional experience, so the Sox boss is going to bait a waiver trap. His chances of success in that direction are excellent, what with Commissioner Landis' recent ruling hampering clubs from keeping control of good players for whom they have no regular jobs.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 1.—Claude Passeau, who won 20 games for the Cubs last year to qualify as the team's top pitcher, arrived by plane today on Catalina Island from the California mainland and put to rest growing fears that perhaps he wasn't signed, after all.

Passeau was three days late, but down in Mississippi where the big right hander lives, three days don't mean a whole lot. To inquiries, Passeau replied he had some unfinished business, which prevented his scheduled arrival in Los Angeles Wednesday, when the main body of Cubs arrived there from Chicago.

Passeau signed his 1941 contract immediately after the close of the 1940 season following a conference with P. K. Wrigley, the owner.

Added light was thrown today on the salary difficulties which are weighing heavily on Bill Lee, the Cubs' erstwhile mound ace.

Offer to Lee Melts to $10,000.

It is told now—not by General Manager Jim Gallagher—but by a close friend of Lee's on the club, that the slash which has kept Bill sulking and unsigned in Plaquemine, La., was one from $18,000 to $10,000, and that while Gallagher did lift the offer to $12,500, when Bill didn't sign right away, the $2,500 was snatched away and the price is back to $10,000.

Gallagher, marking time with the rest of the camp today, when wet grounds cramped the training style, voiced some rude sentiments about holdout Lee.

Tomorrow, if the rains and the winds subside, the Cubs will indulge in their first batting practice of the year. Manager Jimmy Wilson has intended to give the boys the day off Monday, but the loss of half a workout yesterday, and a whole workout today probably will cancel the holiday schedule.

BILL LEE ASKS $15,000.

Dallas, Tex., March 1 (AP).—Bill Lee of Plaquemine, La., holdout from the Chicago Cub pitching staff, followed the hounds today but his mind was on baseball.

"Five thousand dollars is too much of a cut for me to take," he said while watching his dogs compete in the Southern Beagle club's field trials.

"The Cubs paid me $17,500 last season and I'm willing to take a cut of $2,500. But $5,000—hmmh! That's too much."

Lee said he had written to President Philip K. Wrigley explaining why he thought he deserved at least $15,000.

Madison, Wis., March 1.—Madison again is the capital of Western conference basketball. Before 13,750 wildly partisan fans the University of Wisconsin tonight won its 11th consecutive Big Ten game, defeating Minnesota, 42 to 32.

By this triumph, a victory never doubted after 15 minutes, Wisconsin revenged its opening night defeat by the Gophers, took its first undisputed championship in 23 years, and broke the all time conference scoring record.

Wisconsin's half time lead of 25 to 16 provided the points to tie the conference mark of 519 established last year by Indiana university.

A Fitting Climax.

Tonight Wisconsin climaxed a season in which the championship seemed lost time and again. An overtime period was required to whip Purdue, the defending champion, on this court. Another overtime period brought victory over Northwestern in Evanston. One point was the victorious margin at Purdue.

Then, when many Wisconsin supporters lost heart, these Badgers, led by Capt. Gene Englund, whipped Indiana, national collegiate champion, on the Hoosier court seven days ago.

Tonight's workmanlike victory earned sole possession of the conference title, which otherwise must have been divided with Indiana, for tonight Indiana licked Purdue and no one will question Indiana's superiority over Chicago in the final game Monday.

Badgers are Cautious.

Wisconsin founded its success on cautious percentage play. This attack, in contrast to the fire brand type of the 1940 champions, clicked against the Gophers. Physically the Badgers had superior height, which shackled touted Gopher speed. Minnesota fouls helped pile up the winning points. The Badgers hit 18 times from the free throw line in 25 attempts. Minnesota made 12 in 15.

The Badgers led 6 to 2 before Don Carlson scored the Gophers first field goal after 6 minutes. Minnesota then led momentarily, 7 to 6, but with 14 minutes played Wisconsin had the advantage, 16 to 10. In this spurt Ted Strain's speed and dribbling were as valuable as John Kotz' accurate passes.

When Warren Ajax replaced Minnesota's center, Bill Lind, Englund immediately broke loose under the basket for two goals. Charles Epperson and Don Timmerman then carried the score to the half time margin, 25 to 16.

Englund Stands Out.

The Gophers rallied futilely in the second half, once trailing 21 to 24, and again 36 to 29. But by this time Don Smith and Willie Warhol had fouled out and the battle became a constant procession of players to the penalty lines.

Englund's 13 points tonight kept the Badger leader in first place in the individual scoring. His team play, his accuracy on attack under the backboard, and his defensive skill in recovering enemy shots make him the most valuable player on the championship. Lineups:

INDIANA TRACK RALLY DEFEATS PURDUE, 45 TO 43

Hoosiers Take Last Three Events to Win.

Lafayette, Ind., March 1 [Special]. —The Indiana university track team came from behind to take the broad jump honors in the final event, and narrowly averted an upset here this afternoon as the Hoosiers beat Purdue, 45 to 43. Points were awarded for team strength in each event, rather than for the usual 1-2-3 ranking of individuals. Five points were awarded to the team with the best combined showing in each event; three points to the losing team.

The Boilermakers, due principally to the anchor running of Dave Rankin in the shuttle hurdle relays, got off to an early lead and with three events remaining, the two mile relay, high jump, and broad jump, Purdue led, 34 to 30. The Hoosiers, however, won the last three events by narrow margins.

POLE VAULT—Won by Purdue [Carter and Grimm, 12 feet 2 inches; Lovett, 12 feet]; Indiana [McAdams, 12 feet 2 inches; Wible, 11 feet 6 inches; Harris, scratched]. Purdue height—36 feet 4 inches; Indiana height—23 feet 8 inches, with one man not jumping.

CHICAGO, 55; N. U., 49

Chicago swept the mile run and won 6 of 12 events to defeat Northwestern yesterday, 55 to 49, in a track meet in the Midway fieldhouse. The result was determined in the final event, the mile relay, when Jerry Schneider, Northwestern anchor man, was seized with a cramp and could not finish. Last year the Maroons lost the meet on a freak baton exchange in the relay which gave Northwestern the race.

NOTRE DAME WINS, 79-25

Notre Dame, Ind., March 1 [Special].—Notre Dame's track team, paced by sophomores, made track history in beating Marquette, 79 to 25 today. It was Marquette's first dual meet defeat in 16 starts in three years and it established the Irish as favorites to dethrone the Hilltoppers in the Central Collegiate conference meet here next week.

ONE MILE RUN—Hunter, Notre Dame, and Conforti, Notre Dame, tied for first; Wickersham, Marquette, third. Time, 4:22.4. [New meet record. Old record, 4:24.3, by Rice, Notre Dame, in 1938.]
60 YARD DASH—Won by Gibson, Notre Dame; Millen, Marquette, second; Shelton, Marquette, third. Time, :06.4 seconds.

RISING YOUNG MEN IN THE ATHLETIC WORLD

Edward Thistlethwaite of Northwestern university soars over the bar at 13 feet on his way to victory in the annual track meet with Chicago in the Midway field house yesterday. He won the event with a leap of 13 feet, 6 inches, but Chicago took the meet, 55 to 49.

Out at North Central college in Naperville, where athletes from six states competed in the Midwest Intercollegiate indoor meet, Alsbury of Butler university, shown here in action, won the broad jump.

LOYOLA DEFEATS OMAHA, 42 TO 32; 12TH TRIUMPH

Loyola defeated the University of Omaha in the Loyola gymnasium, 42 to 32, last night for its 12th victory of the season. Mickey Rottner paced the Rambler attack with 12 points.

Loyola was unable to find the range in the first period, scoring only nine baskets out of 35 attempts. When one handed shots from all over the floor clicked for the visitors, Loyola came out of its zone defense to stop a rally. With five minutes remaining to the half, Bob Matthews' second long shot put Omaha ahead 13 to 12, but Jack Stanton, Danny Cahill, and George Wenskus put Loyola back in front at the half, 19 to 13.

It was all Loyola in the second half with Cahill's defensive work under the backboards featuring the play. Lineup:

MacMillan to Stay as Coach of Gopher Five

Minneapolis, Minn., March 1 (AP).—Rumors on the University of Minnesota campus that Dave MacMillan, basketball coach, might not be around for the 1941-'42 campaign were quieted today when Frank McCormick, university athletic director, announced he would recommend MacMillan's reappointment for next season. The Gopher squad, playing at Wisconsin tonight, is currently in third place in Big Ten conference standings.

W-G-N Offers Basket Trophy to Big 10 Star

Station W-G-N is placing in competition this year a companion award to the Chicago Tribune Silver Football trophy. It will be known as the W-G-N Basketball award, and will be presented to the most valuable player in Western conference basketball.

Maj. John L. Griffith.

Each school in the conference will name one member of its basketball team its most valuable player. The 10 thus chosen will be presented miniature gold basketballs, and their names will be submitted to a 23 man board which will select one of these as the most valuable basketball player in the Western conference. Sitting on this board will be the 10 conference basketball coaches; 10 representative officials; Maj. John L. Griffith, conference commissioner of athletics; Bob Elson, W-G-N sports announcer, and Grayle Howlett, W-G-N sports editor.

Bob Richmond, Illinois senior guard, last night became the first candidate for the award. He was named by teammates before they met Chicago in their closing game in Champaign. Richmond was the unanimous choice of the squad.

The player honored as the Big Ten's most valuable will receive an actual size gold basketball and will be honored on a special W-G-N program Saturday night. The official presentation of the trophy will be made at the winner's regular basketball team dinner.

Irish Quintet Loses, 44-35, to Michigan State

Lansing, Mich., March 1 [Special]. —Michigan State closed its basketball season tonight with a victory over Notre Dame, 44 to 35. Michigan held a 17 to 14 lead at the half.

Capt. Ed Riska of Notre Dame tied the score at 17 to 17 in the first ten seconds of the second half and the lead changed hands 14 times within the first 15 minutes of the period. With the score tied at 32 to 32, the Spartans quickly gained a 6 point lead which they increased to 9 as the game ended.

NORTHWESTERN TROUNCES IOWA FIVE, 45 TO 36

M'Carnes Stars as Mates End Losing Streak.

Northwestern's basketball team ended a three game losing streak by defeating Iowa, 45 to 36, in the final home game of the season in the Evanston High school gym last night. The Purple led, 19 to 13, at the half.

Don McCarnes paced the Wildcats to their third conference victory with 12 points on six field goals. His teammates, Hank Clason and Russ Wendland, scored 10 points each.

Rudy Soderquist carried the brunt of the Iowa attack by collecting six field goals and a pair of free throws for 14 points. Three of Soderquist's baskets came in the closing moments of the game when the visitors put on one of their few scoring flurries.

INDIANA, 47; PURDUE, 29

Bloomington, Ind., March 1 [Special]. — Indiana's basketball team whipped Purdue, 47 to 29, before a capacity crowd of 6,300 tonight.

The Boilermakers, who had shared the distinction with Wisconsin of being the only conference teams to have stopped the fast breaking Hoosiers, were behind all the way and never remotely threatened to overtake the team they had subdued, 40 to 36, in Lafayette, earlier in the season. The victory clinched second place in the Big 10 standings for Indiana.

After missing their first two shots, the Hoosiers hit seven consecutive field goals to run up a 14 to 2 advantage in the first six minutes and led at half time, 28 to 17. Lineups:

ILLINI ROUT MAROONS

Champaign, Ill., March 1 [Special]. —Led by Bob Richmond, the Illinois basketball team tonight routed Chicago, 52 to 33. The Illini led at the half, 29 to 7, the Maroons failing to score from the floor in that time. Richmond, chosen by his teammates as the team's most valuable player and a candidate for the W-G-N trophy, scored 17 points. Joe Stampf, Chicago candidate for Big Ten scoring honors, added 14 points to bring his season total to 154. He has one more game to play. Lineup:

BUCKEYES WIN

Columbus, O., March 1 [Special].—Ohio State closed its Big Ten basketball season tonight by defeating its traditional rival, the University of Michigan, 45 to 37, before 4,070.

The Buckeyes, after playing rather raggedly during the first half, steadily drew away in the last eight minutes after leading only 37 to 36. They had led at the end of the half, 24 to 19.

George Ruehle, Michigan guard, who was forced from the game on fouls in the second half lead all the scorers with 14 points on six field goals and two fouls.

374 ELIMINATED IN ILLINOIS PREP TOURNEY COMBAT

Field Cut to 480 Teams in Regionals This Week.

Champaign, Ill., March 1 [Special]. —The drive for the Illinois high school basketball championship moves into its second stage next Tuesday night, as the first of 60 regional tournaments open their schedules. The regionals bring 360 teams into action for the first time. They had byes this week while all but 120 of the schools of smaller enrollment were eliminated in district competition.

With 374 weeded out in district combat, which closed tonight, the original starting field of 854 was cut to 480. The district winners and runners-up join the 360 schools of larger enrollments for next week's play.

Little Hebron Advances.

Ranking No. 1 among all the regionals is the Woodstock tournament, in which four of the strongest of next week's 360 newcomers are entered. They are Dundee, Elgin, Woodstock, and Hebron, at least two of which will be eliminated in next week's games. Hebron, one of the last 16 survivors in the 1940 state race, again was forced to qualify in district play, succeeding on its own court last night.

No one is in a less enviable position than R. I. Hartley, coach at Ashton, whose team must meet Centralia in the first round of the latter's regional tournament. Centralia, current No. 1 contender for the state title, already has beaten little Ashley twice, 33 to 16 and 68 to 14. Still regarded as the No. 1 contender for the state title, Centralia boasts 34 consecutive victories and 35 in 36 games.

Congestion of large schools in a small area has made the Glen Ellyn regional one of the most competitive in prospect, in the state. Morton High of Cicero, champion of the Suburban league, meets Downers Grove in the first round. York of Elmhurst, the West Suburban champion, opposes Glenbard. York and Morton are in opposite brackets.

Canton to Play Glasford.

Canton, which won all but three of its scheduled games, opens play in its own regional against Glasford. Lewistown, which enjoys a rating in Fulton county on a par with Canton, meets Elmwood in the same tourney.

Paris, which has won three straight sectional championships, opens its drive against Oakland at Casey.

The Chicago Heights regional has opened possibilities of some strong semi-final games. In the upper bracket are Joliet, co-champion of the Big Eight, and Bradley, which won 17 of its first 20 starts. In the lower bracket, Bloom of Chicago Heights and Thornton Fractional of Calumet City are the potential semi-finalists.

Waterman Meets Marengo.

Decatur, a perennial contender which has reached the sectionals eight successive years, opens against Tri-City High of Buffalo, in the Decatur regional. Waterman, whose recent spurt found it victorious over Joliet and Cicero, meets Marengo in the first round at De Kalb.

A highly competitive situation has arisen in the Flora regional, as a result of the composite seeding done by coaches in that area. At the time of their seeding a month ago, they ranked Flora first, Clay City second, and Olney third. Since that time, Olney has improved so much that it is now regarded as a threat to Flora in the upper bracket.

Champaign Boasts Great Record.

Champaign, undisputed champion of the Big 12 conference, starts in the Gibson City regional against Fisher, a team against which Champaign scored 50 points in a scheduled game. Champaign finished its regular schedule last night, and altho Mattoon won, 41 to 29, to end a long winning streak, Champaign boasts a record of 21 victories in 23 games.

Edwardsville, co-champion of the Southwestern conference, plays Carlyle at Highland. Gillespie, a favorite for sectional honors in the southwest, has drawn a perennial stumbling block, Hillsboro, for its first game.

Hoopeston, winner in 21 of 22 games, and Milford, co-champion of the Wauseca conference, are in the same bracket at Hoopeston. New Berlin, which suffered its first loss of the season this week after 25 victories, drew Illinois School for Deaf.

Sullivan Menaces Mattoon.

Semi-finals in the Mattoon meet promise to be of the best. Mattoon, whose record includes 14 victories in the first 18 games, finds itself in the same bracket with fast improving Sullivan. In the opposite half is Tuscola, Okaw Valley champion.

The Mount Carmel tournament presents interesting posibilities with the home team in one bracket and Albion and Crossville in the other. Another instance of triangular competition is in the Peoria regional, where Peoria Woodruff and Peoria Manual are in the upper bracket, with Peoria Central in the lower. Manual was originally seeded No. 1 but was hard hit this week when its best scorer, Jimmy Graham, was killed when struck by an automobile.

TORONTO, Ont., March 1 (AP).—The Toronto Maple Leafs protected their two point margin over Boston in the National Hockey league tonight by battling the Bruins to a 0 to 0 tie in 70 minutes of bruising action before 14,865, largest crowd of the season.

The rival goalies, Turk Broda of Toronto and Frankie Brimsek of Boston, time and again made spectacular stops. The Leafs were without their captain and center ice star, Syl Apps, which weakened their attack.

Play Hawks Tonight.

Boston, still hoping to overtake Toronto, moved on to Chicago tonight and tomorrow they will battle the Blackhawks in the Stadium of that city. The two teams are tied in their season's play with each other, each with two victories, two ties and two defeats.

The teams will conclude their regular season's rivalry Tuesday night in Boston. The Blackhawks will be below par, because of slight injuries to some of their key players. Lineups of tonight's game:

RANGERS WIN, 3 TO 1

MONTREAL, Que., March 1 (AP).—The New York Rangers scored three goals in a last period surge to defeat the Montreal Canadiens, 3 to 1, tonight before 9,926. The victory again sent the Rangers into a tie with Detroit for third place.

Alfie Pike started the Ranger rally with a goal at 7:47 in the third period after Tony Demers' second period goal had given the Canadiens the lead. Then Bryan Hextall fired his 21st and 22d goals of the season for New York. Lineups:

IT'S NECK AND HEAD FOR THE BIG MONEY AT 2 TRACKS

Big Pebble from the Circle M ranch, owned by Mrs. Edward S. Moore, closes brilliantly to score a head victory over his stablemate, Get Off, in the $50,000 added Widener handicap at Hialeah Park yesterday. In third place was Haltal, a length back of Get Off and two lengths in front of Bimelech, the favorite, which wound up fourth. The victory was worth $51,800 to Big Pebble's owner. Jockey George Seabo had the mount on Big Pebble, which turned in a remarkable stretch run when taken to the outside. [Acme Photo.]

Chart of Widener Cup Race

SIXTH RACE—Purse $50,000 added. Three year olds and up. Mile and a quarter. Start good. Won driving, place same. Went to post at 4:45. Off at 4:46. Winner, b. h., 5, by Black Servant-Beach Talk, by Sundridge. Owner, Circle M ranch. Trainer, W. B. Finnegan. Net value to winner, $51,800; second, $8,000; third, $4,000; fourth, $2,000. Time, :23 3-5, :46 4-5, 1:11 1-5, 1:36 2-5, 2:02 4-5. Weather clear; track fast.

Two dollar mutuels paid: Big Pebble, $34.60 straight, $26.50 place, $12.00 show; Get Off, $26.50 place, $12.00 show. Haltal, $4.00 show.

BIG PEBBLE ran a remarkable race. He was slow to get away, but was rated along and allowed to get into his stride. He weaved his way up and, taken to the ouside in the stretch, finished with a rush to win in final stride. GET OFF, away fast and clear of interference, ran into lead entering stretch and gamely stood a drive. HALTAL broke good, was hutled into a contending position, and made a game effort. BIMELECH was whipped away from the gate, was kept on the outside of HALTAL all the way, made his bid entering stretch, but flattened out completely and was a very tired horse at the end. HASH was outrun in early part. He closed fast. JOE SCHENCK was kept well up and held on well. CHERRY JAM was sent to the front with a rush and attempted to race his field off their feet and he tired badly in the last three furlongs. SHOT PUT never a factor.

disturbed, for there was the 3 year old Porter's Cap lurking not far off the pace. And Mioland, the No. 1 standard bearer, was neither too far back nor too shy on racing room on a track all felt was made to his order.

Challedon, the once great, went by the stand the first time in sixth place and well out of trouble, but as the field swept down the back stretch with no material change in the top four Challendon faltered and fell back. Long before they turned out of the back stretch every one knew that Challendon's bid for the handicap wasn't going to get him anywhere today.

Porter's Cap Fails, Too.

Porter's Cap, which had evidently been retained in the race to carry along the accepted front runners, did his level best to meet the issue, but as the field rounded the next to the last turn it became obvious that Porter's Cap wasn't going to come close.

About this time Jockey Buddy Haas on Mioland began to make his move. Mioland picked up horse after horse as the favorite surged toward the front. As they turned into the stretch he had caught everything but Bay View, and while, no later than a week ago, Mioland seemed able to overhaul the Bay Views and the Hystericals without much effort, this was another day.

The supreme thrill of the race came in that bid of the Howard horse thru the stretch. Under the urging of Haas, Mioland did cut down Bay View's Margin, but when they were a sixteenth of a mile from home, even the staunchest supporters of the Howard stable began to lose heart. Bay View wasn't coming back to Mioland, today, and Mioland wasn't coming up fast enough to Bay View, not by a neck at least.

Rain Holds Down Crowd.

Renewed storms in the series that have been besetting California for weeks yesterday and last night produced floods in Southern California. There was rain this morning, but at 11 o'clock, two hours before the start of the first race the sun broke out and continued until 1 o'clock when the only shower of the afternoon cut loose briefly.

But everybody knows how weather-conscious Californians always are and today's wetness was enough to hold the crowd to 20,000 under last year's total of 70,000. The record handle for the handicap was $406,994 on the occasion of Wall's earlier triumph, so today's total of $388,467 was not off as much as the spectator total. The total handle for the afternoon was $1,636,555, as compared with last year's record $1,707,151.

WELL KNOWN IN CHICAGO

Mrs. Anthony Pelleteri, whose Bay View won the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap yesterday, is a member of an old New Orleans family which has raced horses for generations, but her colors and those of the Millsdale stable, in which her husband has an interest, are familiar to Chicago turf fans.

The most famous Millsdale horses were Andy K. and Sun Lover. Andy K. won the Arlington Futurity in 1939 and Sun Lover ran second to Challedon in the Arlington Classic last year. That was the race which marked the final upset of Johnstown.

Tho Pat Dwyer is the registered trainer of Mrs. Pelleteri's stable, Mr. Pelleteri has actual charge and personal supervision over the conditioning of the horses. He also is a native of New Orleans, but has been a wandering horseman thru all of his career. Mrs. Pelleteri is a daughter of the well known New Orleans horseman, F. P. Letellier, who died recently.

Millers Send Red Evans to Chattanooga on Option

Minneapolis, Minn., March 1 (AP).—Pitcher Russell [Red] Evans today was released on option by Minneapolis of the American Association to Chattanooga, Southern Association.

Wisconsin Coach to Speak at Illini Basketball Dinner

Champaign, Ill., March 1 [Special].—Harold [Bud] Foster, Wisconsin coach, will speak at the annual dinner given by the Kiwanis club to the University of Illinois basketball squad Thursday. A captain for next season will be elected.

FRANKS, DODGERS DEFEAT GIANTS AGAIN, 10 TO 5

Relief Catcher Hits Triple, Three Singles.

HAVANA, March 1 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the New York Giants again today, 10 to 5, with a four run outburst in the first inning and a five run flurry in the seventh.

Herman Franks, Brooklyn's third string catcher, who led his team in yesterday's victory with a home run, hit a triple and three singles today while Rookie Kemp Wicker monopolized pitching honors by holding the Giants to three hits and no runs in four innings.

All the Dodger scoring was done off Joe Bowman and Jim Lynn. Harry Gumbert pitched three scoreless innings.

Bowman pitched another potential bean ball at Joe Medwick in the first inning and yelled "Look out, Ducky!" when he knew he had let go a wild pitch. Medwick pulled away in time, something he didn't do last June 18. Medwick dug in for the next pitch, blasted a two run single to center and started the Dodgers off on a scoring jamboree.

LAKE COMES TO TERMS.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Manager Billy Southworth of the St. Louis Cardinals announced today that Infielder Eddie Lake has signed his contract leaving five holdouts, Johnny Mize, Don Padgett, Martin Marion, Clyde Shoun and Hy Vandenberg. They represent some of the most important players on the Cardinals' roster.

JOOST JOINS REDS.

Tampa, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Eddie Joost signed his Cincinnati Red contract today. Joost, who made a five day trip from the Pacific coast, brought word Catcher Ernie Lombardi was as determined as ever out in Oakland, Cal. However, he added, Lombardi is getting anxious to play ball. Neil Clifford, rookie catcher, is the only other holdout on the roster.

MACKS FACE SEATTLE.

Anaheim, Cal., March 1 (AP).—Connie Mack nominated Chubby Dean, Truman Harris, and Porter Vaughan to pitch for the Philadelphia Athletics tomorrow in their first training camp game against Seattle of the Pacific Coast league. The remainder of the starting lineup:

WEATHERLY AWAITS WORD.

Hot Springs, Ark., March 1 (AP).—Roy Weatherly, outfielder for the Cleveland Indians, said today that he hadn't heard from the management since he returned his contract, unsigned, three weeks ago and meanwhile, "I'm enjoying the fishing and racing." Weatherly is a guest of Willis Hudlin, veteran Indian hurler, at Hudlin's home near here.

FIVE YANKS REPORT.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Five more players donned New York Yankee uniforms today to participate in a three hour workout. They are George Selkirk and John Murphy, who signed contracts yesterday, Red Rolfe, Charley Keller, and French Bordagaray, the last still bound to a Kansas City contract. Joe Gordon also appeared at the field to talk to McCarthy and telephoned President Ed Barrow in New York, but did not participate in the practice.

DENY CHICAGO WILL DROP OUT OF BASKETBALL

Reports that the University of Chicago, already self-exiled from Western Conference football, was contemplating withdrawal from Big Ten basketball, were denied yesterday by Robert Maynard Hutchins, university president.

"There is a big 'if' before the assertion I made to the Daily Maroon in reply to a direct question," Hutchins said.

When asked by the editor of the Daily Maroon, student paper at Chicago, whether any deëmphasizing action might result from the basketball team's poor Big Ten showing, Hutchins said:

"I do not know how seriously people take basketball losses, but I feel that if our succession of defeats does interfere with the happiness, or the welfare of the university, we can lighten our schedule and play teams of our caliber more easily than we could in football. The university, however, has no intention of withdrawing from intercollegiate basketball."

Three athletes, Capt. Art Lopatka of the baseball team, Hugh Rendleman, a member of Chicago's last Big Ten football team and now a shot putter on the track team, and John Crosby of the swimming team, said they favored more emphasis, instead of deëmphasis, in basketball.

Jane Cothran Wins Title in South Atlantic Golf

Ormond Beach, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Jane Cothran of Greenville, S. C., the medalist, defeated Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., 5 and 4 today to win the South Atlantic Women's Golf tournament. Elizabeth Hicks of Long Beach, Cal., the 1940 winner, was eliminated by Miss Cothran yesterday.

Yale Swimmers Defeat Wayne for 11th in Row

New Haven, Conn., March 1 (AP).—The undefeated Yale swimming team made it 11 straight today, winning from Wayne university, 48 to 27. Bill Prew of Wayne turned in a record equaling 100 yard free style effort of 58.1 seconds and scored the only double of the meet by taking the 50 yard event in 23.2.

Box Scores that tell Baseball's History

[This is the 19th of a series of baseball's most famous box scores. All are milestones in the history of the national pastime.]

The Cubs clinched their second consecutive National league pennant under Manager Frank Chance on Sept. 23, 1907, when they defeated the Philadelphia Phillies, 4 to 1, in the old West Side park. The Cubs finished the season with 107 victories and 45 defeats for a percentage of .704—their second consecutive percentage over the .700 mark. They finished ahead of the Giants by 20 games in 1906 and in front of the Pirates by 17 games in 1907.

The Cubs' victory over the Phillies in the deciding game was featured by a triple play, Del Howard to Joe Tinker. The Phillies' third baseman, Eddie Grant, later on as Capt. Eddie Grant, was the first major league baseball player to be killed in action in the first world war. The Cubs' catcher in the game, Pat Moran, later won pennants as manager of the Phillies in 1915 and Cincinnati in 1919. The box score:

DAVIS WINS IN CASTING WITH PERFECT SCORE

Two Others Get Trophies in Tribune Event.

BY BOB BECKER.

A former national casting champion, a Chicago auto dealer, and the 14 year old son of a Wisconsin resort owner shared honors in the climax of the Tribune casting tournament last night at the International Sportsmen's show in the International amphitheater.

Eddie Davis, who has won many titles in local, state, and national tournaments, made a perfect score of 100 to win the finals of the club event. The automobile dealer who carried home a Tribune trophy was Edward Nieburger, 10201 South Sangamon street, winner of the fishermen's event with a mark of 95. Bobby Cammack, whose father operates a fishing resort, won the junior title with a score of 92.

Three Have Perfect Scores.

At the end of seven rings in the club finals, Davis and two other casters, Margaret Weaver and Walter Brewer, all had perfect scores, but Davis' ability to withstand competitive pressure gave him the edge. Miss Weaver was outside the eighth and ninth rings to finish second with a score of 98. Brewer missed the final three rings to finish in a third place tie with Sterling Shoemaker.

Joe Wanzung, who made a score of 99 in the fishermen's event Friday night, finished second to Nieburger in last night's final with a score of 94 and Richard Grutzmacher was third with 93.

Show Closes Today.

Howard Speiser finished second to Cammack in the junior event with a score of 91 and Adolph Tomisek was third with 90.

Today marks the close of the sportsmen's show, which has set a new Chicago attendance record for events of this type.

The final day's showing opens at 1 o'clock this afternoon and lasts until midnight, with feature events at 3:30 and 9:30. F. W. Kahler, show manager, said last night that more than 375,000 outdoor fans saw the show during its first eight days.

Final events on the casting schedule are the five man team event to be held in the south wing this afternoon and the dry fly event this evening.

STAR CASTERS REEL IN SOME TROPHIES

Eddie Davis, who has won a lot of casting trophies, adds another award to his collection by winning in the finals of the club event of the tournament sponsored by The Tribune at the Sportsmen's show in the International Aphitheater last night. Here Davis (left) accepts the trophy from William J. Butler, tournament manager.

Fifteen year old Robert Cammack of Hayward, Wis., (left) won the championship of the junior division and Edward C. Nieburger of Chicago was the best in the fishermen's casting competition. Other casting features are on the show's final program tonight.

Navy Beats Army Five, 48-36, to Even Series

Annapolis, Md., March 1 (AP).—Navy climaxed its basketball season in a blaze of glory today, whipping Army, 48 to 36, before 5,000 fans in their annual game which closed the season for both teams.

Sparta Soccer Team Gets Test with Germans

BY OFFSIDE.

Practice games are on the soccer schedule today in preparation for next Sunday when first round games for the state cup will be played.

Sparta, which finished as joint champion in the national cup competition last year, will meet the strong German-American team of the International league in Sparta stadium, 21st street and Kostner avenue.

Sparta and Germans will be without the services of some of their regulars. Sparta in winning last week over the Centers lost the services of Enid Pearson, star half back, who suffered an ankle injury. Jerry Silovsky, goalkeeper, is a doubtful starter as he has been suffering from influenza.

The match starts at 3 o'clock. The Sparta Seconds will meet the Slavias in an opening game at 1 o'clock.

The Slovaks meet the Chicago Kickers at 51st street and California avenue and at 59th and Paulina streets the Linneas will battle the South Side Swedes. The Sam Redas oppose the Macabees in Reda stadium, 2600 West Grand avenue. Today's schedule:

Slovaks vs. Kickers, 51st street and California avenue, 3 p. m.
Linneas vs. Southside Swedes, 59th and Paulina streets, 3 p. m.
Sam Redas vs. Macabees, Reda stadium, 2600 West Grand avenue, 3 p. m.
Olympia vs. American Eagles, 19th street and Kilpatrick avenue, 3 p. m.

HEDI STENUF TO APPEAR ON ICE CARD IN STADIUM

Hedi Stenuf, gold medalist and Olympic star as an amateur and now a professional, is one of the headliners with the newly designed ice revue, "It Happens on Ice," that comes to the Chicago Stadium on Wednesday night, March 12, for the first of 13 performances.

Miss Stenuf, who learned to skate in Vienna, Austria, the birthplace of modern day figure skating, has been in the United States for five years and in 1938, 1939, and 1940 represented the Chicago Figure Skating club in national, North American, and world figure skating competition. She turned professional to join "It Happens on Ice" last August and is starred in solos and in doubles skating with "Skippy" Baxter, her amateur partner in the new show.

The show will present three matinée performances in Chicago on Saturday, March 15; Saturday, March 22, and Sunday, March 23, and because of Blackhawk hockey games there will be no performances on Sunday night, March 16, or Thursday night, March 20.

CHICAGO ROLLER TEAM DEFEATS NEW YORK, 18-11

A capacity crowd jammed the Coliseum last night for the third match of the Chicago-New York Roller Derby series. Chicago won, 18 to 11, and leads the series, two to one.

Even the debut of Elmer Anderson and Mary Youpelle in the New Yorkers' lineup failed to stem the fast and hard-charging Chicagoans. The hard racing and checking resulted in many penalties, Anderson being ejected by Umpire Brick Owens.

Tonight the time limit on point-jamming will be lifted for the second half.

Abandon Hope in Key West for 2 Missing Fishermen

Key West, Fla., March 1 (AP).—Hope virtually was abandoned tonight for two middle-aged winter visitors who have been missing since they left a fishing camp here in a 14 foot open boat at 1 p. m., Friday. The two men, Henry W. Esser, 42 years old, of Cleveland, and Robert Armour, 55, of Detroit, were clad only in bathing trunks when they left the camp.

SPOTTING THE PINS

BY C. H. BEUKEMA.

Chicago's two hardy campaigners, the Joseph L. Gills and Budweisers, friends and invariably traveling companions on trips, but deadly rivals in the sport of American ten pins—met twice last week and split honors. On Monday night, at Windy City, the Buds won the odd game and took the series, 3,085 pins to 3,003. The next night, at Stevenson's the Gills won the first two games and took the series, 3,045 pins to 3,007. George Theel with 642 and 640, Joe Wilman with 634 and 632, and Harry Lippe with 641 and 625, were the individual stars.

The Gills are out in front in three leagues, Windy City, Stevensons, and Randolph, with the Buds second in each case. The Gills have a 10 game margin at Stevenson's, and with it the title all but wrapped up. They lead by a game at Windy City, and by six games at Randolph, where, Thursday night, they took two from the Butlers and the Buds scored twice over Pepsi-Cola. Wilman got 628, Lippe 623, and Ad Carlson came up with 694 at Randolph.

Tomorrow night's Windy City matches:

Bireley's Beverages vs. Quality Laundries; Furman Funerals vs. J. M. Kralovec & Son; O'Keefe Coals vs. None Better Ice Creams; Houcek Senators vs. Betinis Boosters; Reichman Jewelers vs. Budweisers; Mineralites vs. Blue Rock Beverages; Vogel Bros. vs. Nemecek Tailors; Burlington Zephyrs vs. Gills.

Monarchs, Pabsts to Clash Tonight.

The two team race in the Classic league's Sunday division will be renewed at White City, 6338 South Park avenue, at 8 o'clock tonight when the Monarch Beers—40 games won, 20 lost, team average 989—meet the Pabst Blue Ribbons—38 won, 22 lost, average 999. In other matches the Ambrosias meet the Rupperts, Blatz opposes Koenig Brau, and Schlitz faces Michelob. The Monarchs and Pabsts, incidentally, are tied for No. 1 spot in the league's Wednesday section. . . . Eight out of the North West Traveling league's 10 teams shot 3,000 or more last week. Sportsman's club hit 3,093, but lost twice to West Ridge. Budweiser, with an 1,107 game, won two from Monte Cristo. North Center scored only once over Schamberger Schlitz, but its Bucky Walters came up with 279 and 703. The 703 was worth $10 to Bucky, whose mother pays off in that amount for every 700 series he rolls.

Old Corner Budweisers won three games to take a one game lead over Vogue Tyres in the South Shore major. But that lead isn't too important, as there are only six games between first and eighth places. Honor roll includes:

Have you ever wondered what happens to the little pea under the walnut? Well, here's something really to wonder about. George Calder left the 3-6-7-8-10 pins on his first ball in a Gold Coast major league match. Where did the ball travel? Marx Restaurants and the Gills are leading at Gold Coast, each with 45 won and 21 lost. Budweisers are a game behind. Herb Freitag's 216 is top among the individuals. . . . FitzPatrick's Trafficeers won three from Faricy's Firemen to boost their lead to seven games in the "400" league.

Roll Double Round and How They Roll.

Schalk's Tuesday women's league rolled a double round last week, with the result that 12 members twice turned in honor roll series. Grace Cavallini had 601, 520; Marie Reising, 582, 510; Lilliam Koehler, 573, 570; Ann Unhoch, 553, 539; Pauline Ellis, 553, 528; Marie Lindell, 532, 508; Ruth Hartmann, 519, 534; Laila Gierman, 535, 506; Evalin Ogden, 522, 508; Theresa Wymer, 518, 501; Ann Hylander, 515, 509, and Nina Van Camp, 510, 504. Besides which Ella Thompson had 595.

Ethel Corbeil's 569, Marie LeRoy's 531, and Amanda Kath's 522 were high in Pioneer's three leagues. . . . Martha Leve led the women's division of the Merchandise Mart league, rolling a 208 game. . . . Martha Alvarez, with 529, and Helen Haigh, with a 225 game, were high in the South Shore Monday league. In the establishment's Tuesday circuit, Kittie Gebler had 235, 586, and in the Friday major, Mary Covell was high with 210, 600, followed by Agnes Pitelka with 212, 598.

The Kids Roll 1,125— It Wins the Odd Game.

Samuelson's Kids not only won the odd game from the Budweisers, but rolled a record score, 1,125, in doing it in Samuelson's Major. Meanwhile Vogue Taproom dropped Mee & Ramme twice to cut the loser's margin at the head of the league over the Kids to three games. Joe Gruenes of the Kids rolled a 276 game—one of that 1,125 total, of course. . . . It was no fault of Norman Shogren's, that the Store for Men dropped three games to Johns-Manville in the Merchandise Mart league. Norman's 635 was high in the league.

North End Traveling league winds up its third round tomorrow, with the Pepsi-Colas out in front by five games, followed by Chapin & Gores. The schedule:

Samuelson's Kids vs. Pepsi-Colas at Milford, 7 p. m.; Jolly Jacks vs. C. & G. at Faetz & Sons, 7 p. m.; Koenig Brau vs. Birk Trophy Beers at Willow, 7 p. m.; Fox De Luxe at De Luxe recreation, 7 p. m.; Schamberger Schlitz vs. Budweisers at Gold Coast, 9 p. m.

The Tomans beat the Gills twice, despite Eli Maricich's 646 series in the City & County Employés' league. Gordons took two from the Gaytons, Cullens shut out the Flynns, Health Department blanked the Schmidts, and Webers dropped three to the Horans. . . . Ray Kreusler, a 149 bowler, batted out 257, 213, 191—661 as Summerdale No. 2 won three games—including one by one pin—in the Patrolmen's league north division. Al Olson got 614 in the same match and Len Abbott and Frank Jensen, hit 619 and 623, respectively, as Hudson avenue beat Summerdale No. 1.

On the South side, Wabash No. 1 blanked No. 2; Woodlawn did the same with Englewood No. 1; Chicago Lawn shut out Englewood No. 2, and East Side took two from Traffic. . . . John Gacek got 289, 687 as Fortune Brewing beat Mario's twice in the Congress Major. Englewood Electric, Goebel's Beer, Garden City Brewing, and Birk Bros. each won two games.

Officers of the Metropolitan Amateur Baseball league, which is being organized for the new season, have been named. James Archer again will be the league commissioner. Other officers include: Olen E. Voight, president; Joseph Minardi, vice president, and Frank Zylstra, secretary-treasurer. The advisory committee includes George Halas, Ray Schalk, Archer, and Voight.

The league will meet every Tuesday evening at 127 North Dearborn street, Room 401, at 8 o'clock. All managers of amateur baseball teams are invited to attend.

DePauw Swimmers Beat Illinois Tech, 57 to 18

Greencastle, Ind., March 1 [Special].—DePauw university's swimming team set two new varsity records in defeating Illinois Tech, 57 to 18, today. Huxhold was the only Tech first place winner, taking the 150 yard back stroke. Jack Ketcham of Chicago broke his own varsity mark in the 200 yard back stroke, shaving a half second from his time. He won in 2:44. DePauw's 400 yard free style relay team composed of Johnson, Cook, Schobinger, and Dean set a new varsity mark of 3:59.5. The former mark was 4:00.3.

Nina Van Camp Wins with 657 in Pin Contest

Nina Van Camp, one of the city's ranking women bowlers, topped not only women, but also all of the men in her class when she took first prize in class B of the League of Leagues competition last week. Miss Van Camp bowled 657 at Schalk's to lead the bowlers in the group averaging between 180 and 190. In fifth place in the group was Charley Wass, captain of the Classic league Michelobs, with 637.

DUDLEY POPE RETAINS CHICAGO SQUASH CROWN

Dudley Pope, Dartmouth Alumni club squash racket star, retained the city singles squash title by defeating Elmer Voight of the Chicago Dearborn club, in three straight games yesterday afternoon in the final round of the tournament in the Lake Shore club. The scores were: 15-11, 15-8, and 15-10.

In the Class B tournament, Willard Cole of the Union League club, won the singles title, defeating Gene Cary of the John Marshall Squash club, 15-9, 15-12, 6-15, 15-11. The consolation title went to S. L. Greeley of Alman's gymnasium, who defeated Dr. Paul Wosicka of the Lake Shore club, 15-2, 11-15, 15-12, 18-17.

De Kalb Defeats Macomb, 62-46; Wins Title Share

De Kalb, Ill., March 1 (AP).—De Kalb Teachers won an equal share of the Illinois Intercollegiate conference basketball championship with State Normal tonight by whipping Macomb Teachers, 62 to 46, in the final league game of the season. Peppler and Price led the attack with 25 and 23 points, respectively, for De Kalb.

PRYOR TO MAKE CHICAGO DEBUT AGAINST BOLDEN

10 Round Battle Heads Marigold Garden Card.

Billy Pryor, Boise, Idaho, middleweight, will make his Chicago debut in a 10 round bout against Nate Bolden, 1937 intercity Golden Gloves winner, in Marigold Gardens tomorrow. Pryor's best achievements are victories he scored over Tony Bruno of Milwaukee in Houston Dec. 5, 1939, and Feb. 12, 1940. Bolden, however, has been well nigh unbeatable in recent months, not having lost a decision since last November. In four appearances since that setback, Nate has stopped Henry Chmielewski, defeated Tony Cisco, and Saverio Turiello, and fought to a draw with George Burnette. Supporting matches include:

Johnny Rozina vs. Tony Vino [4], 150.
Jerry Pitro vs. Wayne Fidler [4], 137.
Speedy Schaefer vs. George Feltes [4], 165.

Another card tomorrow will be held in Hammond Civic center, headed by a 10 round event involving Joe Ghnouly, St. Louis lightweight, and Gene Spencer of South Chicago. Preliminary encounters bring together Lloyd Abrams, Detroit heavyweight, and Bill Petersen; Mike Sopko, Indiana Harbor middleweight, and Bob Dahlia; Anthony Jones, Springfield, Ill., middleweight, and Johnny Rhodes. . . . Karol Krauser and Dizzy Davis will meet in the windup bout of a wrestling program in White City tomorrow.

Jimmy Bivins, 1939 Cleveland Golden Gloves sectional champion, who has lost only one encounter in 21 professional appearances, will continue drills today for an important 10 round meeting with Teddy Yarosz, former middleweight title holder, in Cleveland Wednesday. Yarosz has the distinction of being the last fighter to beat Billy Conn. He scored a 12 round victory over Conn in Pittsburgh July 25, 1938.

Gunnar Barlund will collect 15 per cent of the net receipts for a 10 round contest against Conn in Chicago Stadium April 4. . . . Carl Vinciquerra, Omaha heavyweight, may retire from the ring following his recent one round knockout at the hands of Lem Franklin. Plans to present a dance at the Midland hotel April 3 will be discussed at a meeting of the Veteran Boxers' association on Tuesday.

Chicagoland Awaits Golden Gloves Finals

rush him and overwhelm him were cut down in their tracks by his accurately timed blows.

Then, too, the fans are wondering about this new heavyweight—Tom Procter of Oklahoma City. With three rings in action many of the spectators might have let their attention wander while Procter was beating the International Golden Gloves veteran, Ragon Kinney of Fort Smith, in one of the quarter-finals. There was no fluke about that victory, however, he just whaled away and hit Kinney harder and more frequently than Kinney hit him.

Followers of the sport also are asking themselves what Jack Haley of Kansas City will do when he runs up against the southpaw stance and the unruffled ring generalship of Chicago's featherweight—William Jefferson. Can Haley land those straight, strong punches that have battered down one opponent after another in his previous engagements?

And how about Charley Hayes—Detroit's brilliant middleweight? He whipped a 1939 Golden Gloves champion, Milton Jones, in a third round bout and he beat last year's Golden Gloves titleholder, Joe Maxin, in an amateur show in Detroit several months ago. He hasn't been in the ring yet with Chicago's Roosevelt Thomas—but if they meet Friday in the semi-finals or finals, what a bout it will be!

16 Centers Still Represented.

The field for the last of the Golden Gloves battles is truly representative of the great territory which contributes its fighters to the event. In 43 out of town centers, newspapers coöperated with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in the sponsorship of eliminations. Sixteen of these centers still are represented among the survivors.

They range from Cleveland in the east to Fort Worth and Oklahoma City in the southwest. There are big cities and small towns. Tho Chicago landed six of its eight representatives in the semifinals, the big metropolitan areas by no means dominate the picture. Streator has a representative, as well as St. Louis. Moline has two—the same as Detroit.

16 Bouts to Des Moines.

In the course of the Tournament of Champions, a comparatively small town like Des Moines won 16 bouts, which was exceeded only by Chicago's 20, and equalled by no other town except Cleveland. Des Moines has two survivors in the semi-finals.

The boys from the small towns and the rural areas have shown just as much fighting spirit and almost as much skill as the fellows from the gymnasiums and athletic clubs of the big cities.

Ivy Wingo, Catcher for Reds in 1919, Dies at 50

He played with the St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds, and was regular catcher on the Reds' world championship team of 1919. He also was a member of John McGraw's all-star team which toured the world in 1913.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK

Packers at the Chicago stockyards last week paid an average of $9.80 a hundred pounds of the three principal classes of meat animals combined—steers, hogs, and lambs. This live cost was 4 per cent under the January peak, and showed an increase of 21 per cent over the corresponding week in 1940.

Hog prices averaged $7.60 a hundred pounds, the lowest since the week ending Jan. 4. However, this price was only 50 cents or 6 per cent, below the highest weekly average this year, and it was $2.45 higher than for the same week last year, an increase of 47 per cent.

The live steer average at $10.90 a hundred pounds, showed a loss of 40 cents for the week, but this price compared with $9.15 the same week last year.

COTTON

Outside interest in the cotton market was small yesterday and prices held within narrow limits. Closing trades were .01 cent lower to .05 cent a pound higher on the active deliveries.

It is understood that cotton being delivered on March contracts at New Orleans is being taken for export to Sweden.

Cash cotton closed .04 cent lower to .01 cent higher, with New York, 10.90 cents; Houston, 10.19 cents, and Galveston at 10.15 cents a pound. Futures prices follow:

BANKERS URGE FREE VOTE FOR RESERVE POST

Fight Interference by Jesse Jones.

A demand that directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago be permitted to select a new president of the bank without interference by Jesse Jones or other Washington authorities was made yesterday by Illinois bankers. In telegrams to the federal reserve board, two banker groups expressed concern over indications that Jones was attempting to influence the choice.

The protests were made after efforts to elect Emil Schram, a "Jones man," to the $35,000 a year post had resulted in a deadlock. George J. Schaller, head of the bank since 1934, retired Friday. Schram is chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Jones formerly headed the RFC, but is now secretary of commerce and federal loan administrator. The effort to put Schram into the bank job was regarded by many banking leaders as a move which, if successful, would subject the bank to RFC domination.

Subject Before Reserve Board.

The question of the deadlocked election held by the bank's directors Thursday is before the reserve board in Washington. Selection of a reserve bank president is subject to approval by the reserve board. After THE TRIBUNE on Friday disclosed the impasse in the election and the fight to head off the Jones forces, the reserve board received telegrams from many parts of the nation demanding that the selection be made without regard to political considerations.

The reserve board had not announced any action at a late hour last night. It was expected that the bank's directors will hold another election, probably this week.

Meantime, it was learned that Clifford S. Young, a ranking vice presidents, had been designated under the by-laws of the bank as the acting head of the institution pending the final decision on the new president. Designation of an acting head was necessary because the term of the first vice president, Howard P. Preston, expired Friday with Schaller's term, and the directors failed to complete action on the first vice presidency.

Four Against Schram.

The deadlock over the presidency resulted when four of the nine directors voted for Schram and cast a fifth vote delegated to them by the bank board's absent chairman, while the other four directors voted against Schram and challenged the power of a member to delegate a vote. The reserve board gave no indication of its attitude on that point.

Protesting while the issue still was undecided by the reserve board, the Chicago district of the Illinois Bankers' association dispatched the following telegram to the board:

"The board of governors of the Chicago district of the Illinois Bankers' association, in executive session, has viewed with apprehension this morning's newspaper article on the controversy with respect to the election of a president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

Opposes Outside Influence.

"We trust that the final selection for this most important office will represent the individual opinion of the majority of the members of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, and that their judgment will not be subject to outside influence which may be injected by the Reconstruction Finance corporation as the press reports.

"These rumors as reported tend to create a lack of confidence in our great federal reserve system and it is hoped that they are not based on facts."

The Illinois Bankers' association, the state-wide organization, also sent to the reserve board a somewhat similarly worded telegram.

New Dealer Gets Post.

Interest in the Chicago situation was heightened by election of a New Deal political figure, Chester C. Davis, to the presidency of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, to succeed William Martin, who retired. Davis formerly headed the Agricultural Adjustment administration, and has held various other federal offices.

The presidency of the reserve bank at Kansas City also has been made vacant by a retirement.

Young, acting head of the Chicago bank, joined the institution in 1921 as an examiner, and after holding various other positions in the bank was appointed a vice president in 1936. It was understood that the four directors who opposed Schram favored the election of Young.

Stock Exchange Calls First Full Meeting in 15 Years

New York, March 1 (AP).—The first general meeting of members of the New York Stock exchange in about 15 years has been called for next Wednesday after the market closes. William McChesney Martin Jr., president, will discuss "certain major problems of the exchange," said the announcement by Charles B. Harding, chairman of the exchange.

Bond Dealers Resent RFC's Trade Inroads

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Bond dealers in La Salle street were resentful yesterday over the recent purchase by the Reconstruction Finance corporation of $136,330,557 of Arkansas state road refunding bonds after an apparent accord had been reached between the RFC and a syndicate for the handling of the issue. The RFC took $118,300,557 of the bonds at 3¼ per cent and $18,000,000 at 3 per cent. The bonds to be refunded bore interest at an average of 4.4 per cent.

Dealers, who did not wish their names used for fear of reprisals, declared that the RFC action was another example of the government forcing its way into private business.

Trend to Socialization.

"The RFC action in the Arkansas case illustrates the tendency toward socialization of the nation thru governmental control over the money markets," one dealer said. "Another recent example was the action of the RFC in forcing commercial bankers to abandon proposals for a 2½ per cent rate for armaments financing by offering to lend at 1½ per cent."

The banking syndicate that believed it was to handle a substantial amount of the Arkansas bonds included the Chase National bank, New York, and some 250 investment houses scattered thruout the country. The syndicate was to have sold about $61,000,000 of the Arkansas bonds at 3¼ per cent interest and the RFC was to have taken the remainder, under the latest agreement.

Jesse Jones Objects.

Originally the syndicate had proposed to take $91,000,000 of the bonds at a 3½ per cent rate, but Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, objected. As a result of the reduced rate many of those originally in the syndicate dropped out because they did not expect a sufficient profit to warrant handling the business, and the amount was cut to $61,000,000.

Dealers said that the 3¼ rate would have made possible a profit of about 2 per cent, described as "fair" in view of the size of the deal.

When Jones announced unexpectedly that the RFC would take up the entire issue he explained that the rate asked by the syndicate was "too high" for the bonds of a sovereign state. Actually, he took only $18,000,000 of the bonds at 3 per cent, the rest, or $118,300,557, carrying the same rate proposed by the banking syndicate.

Uses Taxpayers' Money.

Dealers declared that the slightly lower overall rate for the bonds demonstrated the power held by the government to hammer interest rates down to a level at which private enterprise was unable to compete on a profitable basis. In the Arkansas case, it was explained, the RFC was able to cut the interest because it had the use of unlimited amounts of money contributed by the taxpayers of the entire country. And this money collected from private individuals and enterprises was used to compete with private enterprise.

Bond dealers also recalled the action taken by Jones in 1935 when he used the power of the RFC to upset banker plans for refunding about $100,000,000 of Great Northern railroad 7 per cent bonds on a 4 per cent basis. Jones said the proposed 5 per cent rate was too high and announced that the RFC would take up all 4 per cent bonds not exchanged by security holders at that price.

Holders Take Up Issue.

In this case the security holders took all the 4 per cent refunding bonds, altho the higher rate suggested by the bankers may have been justified by conditions in the money market at that time.

Dealers said it was the thrifty part of the public that was penalized by the easy money policy [low interest rate] of the government which wished to make its vast borrowing easier. Interest rates on prime securities are so low that the small investor has little incentive to buy them.

POWER CAPACITY CALLED AMPLE FOR 1941 NEEDS

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—The Federal Power commission said today that the power supply appeared sufficient to meet 1941 military and civilian demands, but that 800,000 kilowatts of capacity in addition to that now on order should be provided by late 1942 to insure against a shortage.

Areas in which it said additional capacity should be provided by late 1942 were upstate New York, Pittsburgh and vicinity, Georgia, Alabama, Virginia, Arkansas, Louisiana, and the northern California-Oregon-Nevada area.

Chicago Bank Clearings Rise Above Holiday Low

Bank clearings rose to $399,800,000 last week, from $294,300,000 the week before, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. The preceding week contained a holiday. Clearings for February were $1,338,300,000, compared with $1,233,300,000 a year ago. The report follows:

	Clearings.	Balances.
Monday	$ 69,200,000	$ 5,100,000

GAINS OUTWEIGH DIPS IN WEEK'S BUSINESS NEWS

Heavy Construction Contracts Rise.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

The main trend of production in the nation last week was upward, with gains in the heavy construction, steel, cotton textile, and electric power industries more than outweighing declines in automobile output, freight movement and residential construction.

Still feeling the effects of the rush to build armament plants, engineering construction contract awards more than doubled the volume for the corresponding 1940 period, amounting to $119,201,000 for the 1941 week, against $59,094,000. The volume for 1941 already has crossed the billion dollar mark.

While contracts for new plants were being let, factories which were begun last year neared completion, and the preparations for tooling them up put an additional strain on supplies of metals.

Set Up Rationing System.

Taking note of that development, the government applied a mandatory priority or rationing system to aluminum and to machine tools, directing that armament demands be filled, even if civilians' requirements have to go unsupplied.

The action, taken by E. R. Stettinius Jr., director of priorities in the Office of Production Management, was the first that has been taken formally on an industry-wide basis under the current armament program. OPM officials indicated nickel, nickel-steel, tungsten, and synthetic rubber may be rationed to some degree. Manufacturers for some time have been giving the government voluntary coöperation in conserving scarce metals, including copper, tin, and zinc.

President Roosevelt, after receiving a report from the OPM on the steel industry, said that steel mills have plenty of production capacity, and that there is no indication that steel will have to be rationed.

Texas Gets First Tin Smelter.

After a long delay Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator, announced that his home state will get America's first tin smelter, to be built at a cost of about $3,500,000 to process Bolivian ore. The smelter will be located at Texas City, Tex., and is expected to have a production capacity of 18,000 tons of fine tin a year.

The railroads learned for the first time how much of a load to expect when armament production hits its stride. Ralph Budd, the Burlington railroad's president and the transportation industry's representative on the national advisory commission, said railroads probably will handle 39,780,237 carloads of freight in 1941, or 9.4 per cent more than in 1940. He estimated the 1942 load at 42,493,982 cars, 16.9 per cent more than the 1940 volume. He expressed the opinion that the carriers will be able to do the job, without congestion or delay.

Railroad freight volume shown in the latest weekly report was 678,493 cars, a more than seasonal decline of 5.9 per cent from the loadings of the preceding week.

Auto Assemblies Slip.

Automobile production slipped to 126,550 units last week, from 127,740 in the preceding week. In the corresponding 1940 week assemblies totaled 100,855.

Steel mills produced ingots at a national average rate of 96.3 per cent of theoretical capacity, compared with 94.6 per cent in the preceding week.

The Associated Press weekly index of industrial activity rose to an all time high mark. The index, based on 1929-'30 levels as 100, compared as follows:

	Latest wk.	Prev. wk.	Yr. ago.

BLOW IN FIRST BLAST FURNACE WITH STACK ELECTRICALLY WELDED

Lorain, O., March 1 (AP).—The National Tube company is blowing in today a 1,120 net ton blast furnace which its builders said has the first completely electrically welded stack in the United States.

One of similar construction being built for another United States Steel corporation subsidiary—the Homestead, Pa., works of Carnegie-Illinois Steel company—is expected to be blown in about April 1.

Electrical welding has replaced riveting in fashioning the 200 foot high stack from heavy steel plate. Engineers said the new construction method may save money and make for more speed.

EXTRA DAY LAST YEAR DISTORTS TRAFFIC FIGURES

The extra day given February, 1940, by leap year distorted comparison with traffic figures for last month which were issued by local transportation agencies yesterday.

The Chicago Surface Lines announced 55,169,851 revenue passengers were carried last month. This represents a decline of 3.09 per cent from traffic for the 29 days of February, 1940, but an increase of 0.84 per cent when 1940 figures are adjusted to a basis of 28 days to make them exactly comparable with this year.

The Chicago Rapid Transit company reported that 12,129,871 revenue passengers were carried on the elevated lines, or 2.52 per cent fewer than last year. Adjusted to a 28 day basis for last year, however, an increase of 1.36 per cent is indicated.

The Chicago Motor Coach company carried 4,770,412 revenue passengers, or 0.46 per cent fewer than last year. There was an increase of 3.53 per cent, however, with February, 1940, figures adjusted to a 28 day basis.

JAPANESE BONDS RISE ON REPORT VICHY GIVES IN

New York, March 1 (AP).—Japanese dollar loans rose in the bond market today on indications demands of French Indo-China would be allowed by the Vichy government.

Domestic corporate bonds were uneven with a slight preponderance of changes upward. Many low priced rails slipped. United States government obligations closed with gains of 10/32d point to losses of 5/32d.

Foreign loans marked up included Japan 6½s at 65½ and 5½s at 46, Tokio Electric Light 6s at 47 and Taiwan Electric Power 5½s at 41½. Akershus [Norway] 4s plunged 17 points to 23 on transfer of two bonds. German 5½s of '65 and 7s of '49 improved fractionally.

Chicago Area Steel Rate to Set Record This Week

Steel mills in the Chicago district are scheduled to operate next week at 99.7 per cent of theoretical capacity—a new all time high rate. This compares with 98.9 per cent last Monday and with a 56 per cent rate a year ago. In Pittsburgh the mills are scheduled to start operations at 98 per cent of capacity—unchanged from last Monday.

OPM Requests Quick Sale of Machine Tools

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—Coupled with a second warning against charging high prices for machine tools, the Office of Production Management today issued an urgent appeal for the immediate sale of idle machine tools to armament industries.

Leon Henderson, price czar for the national defense advisory commission, advised that the maximum price schedule for the sale of second hand machine tools, issued on Feb. 17, became effective today. The government has warned that it will crack down on any owner who disposes of tools at a price above the maximum set for various classifications. The price limitations apply to both dealers and manufacturers who wish to dispose of surplus tools and reports on tools sold during March must be submitted to Henderson by April 10.

Priorities Are Imposed.

Earlier in the week the government, thru the OPM, imposed rigid priorities on machine tools and aluminum, cutting off nonarmament orders for new tools. Orders from Britain for such tools were given equal priority with domestic arms contracts.

Meanwhile, Russian Ambassador Constantine Oumansky formally assured the state department that American goods imported by the soviet are solely for domestic use by the Reds. The British have protested that Russia is replacing goods sold to Germany with United States products, and may be reëxporting such imports to Germany. The Reds have demanded that machine tools, oil products, and industrial equipment ordered by Russia be released by the United States government.

The appeal for sale of idle tools to manufacturers working on military contracts came from Mason Britton, chief of OPM's machine tool section.

Asks Imediate Sales.

"Owners of such equipment," said Britton, "will perform a patriotic service to the defense program and the entire country if they will offer for immediate sale all machine tools that are not engaged in current production."

He said that the most urgent demand is for boring mills, planers, radial drills, lathes, and milling machines, especially machine tools of the heavier types. He said there were substantial quantities of such equipment idle in the automotive, railroad, canning, mining, textile, paper, printing equipment, and other industries.

"Despite the remarkable record of the machine tool industry in expanding output of new equipment from a value of 200 million dollars in 1939 to an estimated 750 million dollars in 1941, the need for more machine tools is extremely urgent," said Britton.

U. S. Firm Loses Bermuda Cooler Order to British

JANUARY'S 6½ BILLION OF INCOME PAYMENTS WELL ABOVE YEAR AGO

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—Income payments to individuals amounted to $6,517,000,000 during January, the commerce department said today. This was a decline of $869,000,000 from the December total, but an increase of $424,000,000 over January of last year.

Making adjustments for seasonal influences, the department's index rose seven-tenths point to 96.3 per cent of the 1929 January figure and was at an annual income rate of 79 billion dollars compared with an actual income last year of 74 billions. The actual dollar drop from December was attributed to seasonal factors including the usual decline in dividend disbursement.

Salaries and wages made up $4,195,000,000 of the January payments, an increase of 11 per cent over the January, 1939, figure. Dividend and interest disbursements totaled $811,000,000, which was $762,000,000 below December and $29,000,000 under January a year ago.

CHICAGO FIRMS RECEIVE MORE MILITARY ORDERS

The war department yesterday announced award of several small orders to companies in the Chicago area. The awards were:

Chicago Rawhide Manufacturing company, oil retainers, $2,011.
National Safety Council, services, $2,397.
Edward Katzinger company, kitchenware, $1,101.
H. A. Satin & Co., Inc., 24,000 one piece working suits, $26,334.
Protectoseal Company of America, Inc., 2,079 gasoline cans, $4,906.
Elgin Softener corporation, Elgin, water softening units, $1,071.

The award of a $9,850 contract to Bell and Howell company, Chicago, for motion picture cameras and printers was announced by the navy department. The navy also reported that a contract for motor generator sets awarded to Charles F. L'Hommedieu and Sons company, Chicago, was for $32,223, instead of the $10,741 previously announced.

BRITAIN TO MAKE TRADE FIGURES A MILITARY SECRET

LONDON, March 1 (AP).—The British board of trade announced today it had ceased publication of monthly import and export totals to prevent German submarines from learning more about ship movements.

Capt. Charles Waterhouse, parliamentary secretary of the board, said that even the limited information given out since the war began was of potential value to Germany. While published figures had been limited to principal classifications, he said that if, for example, they showed increased imports of food at certain times, German submarine commanders could guess where they might lie in waiting for British ships.

Report 90 Pct. of Called U.S. Bonds to Be Converted

Washington, D. C., March 1 (AP).—The treasury announced today that holders of 90 per cent of $1,222,000,000 in 3⅜ per cent bonds and 1½ per cent notes had submitted them for exchange under an offer made Tuesday thru which they will receive 2 per cent seven to nine year bonds, the first fully taxable bonds ever issued by the government. Bonds and notes not offered for conversion will be redeemed in cash on March 15.

Machine Tool Makers' Profit Sets New High

Additional companies which are sharing in the national military production program announced the financial results in reports to stockholders yesterday.

Elmo Roper, who is expected to become director of Spiegel, Inc.

Bullard company, large Bridgeport, Conn., producer of machine tools in armament industries, had the most profitable year on record during 1940. Net income was $1,697,408, equal to $6.15 a share, compared with $286,241, or $1.04 a share, in 1939.

General Cable company, which operates a number of plants fabricating copper wire, much of it going into the arms program, reported its most profitable year since 1929. The 1940 profit was $2,455,362, equal to 26 cents a common share, against 1939 profit of $733,166, or $4.88 a share on the 7 per cent preferred stock.

Spiegel Earns $1,791,446.

Spiegel, Inc., Chicago mail order firm which recently estimated its 1940 net income at $1,790,000, issued its pamphlet report showing the actual figure was $1,791,446, equal to $1.05 a share of common stock. The 1939 profit was $1,751,092, or $1.02 a share.

Stockholders at their annual meeting on April 1 will be asked to vote for the election of Elmo Roper, a market research specialist, as a Spiegel director.

United Stockyards corporation, Chicago firm which operates stockyards in several cities, reported net income of $114,860 for the quarter ended Jan. 31, against $151,067 the year before.

Brewer Earns Less.

Berghoff Brewing corporation, Fort Wayne, Ind., announced 1940 net income of $321,025, equal to $1.07 a share, against $503,844, or $1.68 a share, in 1939. Franklin B. Evans, president, told shareholders the decline was largely the result of the $1 a barrel federal tax on beer last July which raised the tax to $6 a barrel.

A. Stein & Co., Chicago manufacturer of wearing apparel accessories, operated last year at a net profit of $368,852, equal to $1.57 a share. The 1939 profit was $308,474, or $1.25 a share.

Diamond Match company reported 1940 net income of $1,962,394, equal to $1.52 a share, against $2,136,750, or $1.75 a share, in 1939.

WAR DISRUPTS AMERICAN FARM EXPORT MARKET

Potential Buyers Get Munitions Instead.

BY GAIL COMPTON.

Authorities are unanimous in predicting dark days ahead for the American farmer. Because of the war in Europe, America is rapidly losing her foreign markets.

The export value of American farm products showed a decline from 655 million dollars in 1939 to 517 million in 1940, a drop of 21 per cent in value. Imports of agricultural products, on the other hand, showed an increase of 15 per cent in value.

Altho American farm products are badly needed abroad, foreign consumers have been unable to purchase them in normal quantities because of shipping and payment difficulties. The need for conserving foreign exchange and shipping for guns, combat planes, munitions, and industrial tools has led them to forego buying our farm products.

Tumble After June.

A comparison of the annual export figures for 1940 does not show too badly against those of 1939. However, an examination of American farm exports for the last six months of 1940 presents the bleak picture.

From July to December of 1940, the exports of United States agricultural products were valued at only $166,000,000 compared with $387,000,000 in the corresponding period of 1939—a decline of 57 per cent. There were large reductions in the exports of all major farm commodities such as tobacco, raw cotton, grains and flour, pork and lard, and cake and meal.

The reason behind this startling decline is that the westward sweep of the German army did not begin until the early summer of 1940. The invasion of Denmark and Norway was the start. After this, in rapid succession, came invasion of the Lowlands, the fall of France, the launching of heavy attacks against England, and the tightening of the blockade around Europe. The combination of these factors dealt the big blow to American farm exports.

Latin American Trade Rises.

With the increase in the tempo of the war has come a shift of world trade. While American dealings with Europe died off, exports to the Latin American countries grew. They became a natural outlet for much of the goods that previously had been destined for Europe.

The total value of American farm exports to Europe dropped from more than 411 million dollars in 1939 to a little more than 270 million in 1940. Exports of farm products to Latin America, on the other hand, rose to only 64 million dollars in 1940 as compared with 58 million in 1939.

With the so-called ever normal granary filled to overflowing, the prospect of a good crop year in 1941, and the loss of most of our export

THE facts ABOUT OFFICES IN THE America Fore BUILDING
—as reported by its tenants:
"AN IDEAL LOCATION," customers, visitors and employes say. Quiet—natural light—freedom from dirt—unobstructed view. These are incentives to concentration, efficiency and better functioning.
ACCESSIBILITY—Unusual. From all sections. Unrestricted parking.
TRANSPORTATION — Buses, Street Cars, New Subway, all only 1 short block with transfer to nearby elevated station.
LOBBY is impressive and dignified.
ELEVATOR SERVICE—Excellent with 8 big high-speed passenger elevators. Huge, heavy duty freight elevator. Loading platforms are all under cover.
RENTALS—Far less than you would expect in such an excellently serviced and maintained modern office building.
BEST THING TO DO — Come in and see for yourself how very real these advantages and values are.

STOCKS OF MAIL ORDER CONCERNS STEADY MARKET

List Is Irregular to Close Firmer Week.

New York, March 1 (AP).—The stock market today finished the week with mildly irregular price changes in dealings that were the slowest for six months.

Mail orders and specialties did fairly well. Utilities, buoyant in the preceding session, took a rest and steels, motors, aircrafts, coppers, and rails were unable to record progress.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off .1 of a point but on the week retained an advance of .7. The month's decline was .6.

Volume Lowest Since August.

Transfers of 141,190 shares were the smallest for any session since Aug. 24 last year. February turnover of 8,971,205 shares was a new low in 26 years. It was recalled that in one day in 1929 there was a volume of around 16,000,000 shares.

The recent feeble recovery trend met opposition today as Bulgaria signed up with the axis. Far eastern tension still was a handicap and business news, while fairly good, was uninspiring.

Stocks on the "big board" had their day of the week on Monday as a bill was introduced in the house to amend the excess profits tax law which many corporations claim is inequitable. There was a half hearted extension of the recovery Tuesday when the house quickly passed the tax amendments. Shipping shares were given a whirl Wednesday, but other groups softened. The list slipped Thursday. Utilities swung up Friday and helped steady an otherwise wavering market.

CHICAGO PRICES LAG.

Prices were irregular in trading on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday, with net changes largely confined to fractions and losses in the majority. Commonwealth Edison closed down ⅛ in restricted volume and Zenith Radio was ⅜ higher. Last month's transactions on the exchange totaled 437,000 shares, against 561,000 in January and 510,000 in February, 1940. Volume for the first two months of the year was 998,000 shares, against 1,117,000 a year ago.

Dividend payments made last month by listed corporations totaled $21,519,312, the exchange announced, compared with $23,275,606 a year ago. The total for the first two months of the year was $88,228,854, against $80,925,393 in the 1940 period.

COPPER, COFFEE AND SUGAR SET FUTURES PEAKS

Tin and Rubber Prices Fail to Advance.

Commodities for future delivery pointed higher last week as trading moved at a faster pace and buyers showed more interest. Copper, domestic sugar and Santos coffee rose to their highest levels of the year, while only tin and rubber failed to join in the advance. Cash prices were generally firm.

With the exception of tin, which dropped 1¾ cents a pound to 51.10 cents for May, nonferrous metals found support in the "tight" supply situation.

Copper Rises to 11.88 Cents.

In the May futures, copper hit a top of 11.88 cents a pound and ended at 11.80 cents for a gain of 0.18 cent. Lead crept forward 0.03 cent to 5.63 cents and zinc was 0.05 cent forward at 10.55 cents.

Domestic sugar and Santos coffee were lifted by active demand, cash market strength and anticipated freight rate increases. Sugar reached 2.25 cents a pound in the May position before finishing 0.09 cent ahead at 2.24 cents. Coffee closed ¼ cent higher at its peak of 8.33 cents in the same contract.

Hides Climb ½ Cent.

Hides made the best showing in several weeks, gaining 0.56 cent at 13.35 cents a pound in June futures, while the cash price added ½ cent at 12½ cents. Rubber lost 0.02 cent a pound at 20.70 cents in May. Wool tops, mostly steady thruout the week, advanced ½ cent to $1.24½ a pound in May and the cash market was 2 cents higher at $1.30.

The Associated Press weighted wholesale price index of 35 cash staples, based on 1926 as 100, advanced 0.48 to 77.78. The Dow-Jones commodity futures index was 1.44 higher at 58.03.

SALES OF GRAIN SECOND LIGHTEST FOR FEBRUARY

Closing Markets Show Little Change.

Sales of grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade in February were the second smallest on record for that month, the Commodity Exchange administration reported yesterday. Sales of all futures aggregated 276,043,000 bushels. This was 26,031,000 bushels in excess of January, but the total showed a reduction of 344,797,000 bushels, or about 55 per cent, from February, 1940. In February, 1939, sales were 210,000,000 bushels.

A new record for trading in soy bean futures was established last month on sales of 41,974,000 bushels, compared with the previous record of 40,884,000 bushels in January.

Week's Sales Larger.

Grain sales for the week ended Feb. 27 were the largest in any week since late last December. Sales totaled 86,362,000 bushels, or about 21,000,000 bushels in excess of the total of the preceding week. Sales of soy beans, 12,849,000 bushels, were said to have established a new all-time record for a single week.

Grain markets swung uncertainly yesterday. Trading was largely of a professional character. Wheat held within a range of ¾ to ⅞ cent a bushel and closed ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher. The new crop months showed the most strength. Selling of May wheat against purchases of the new crop futures was responsible for the easiness in the nearby delivery.

Corn Little Changed.

Outside interest in corn was reported light and futures closed unchanged to ¼ cent lower. Oats finished unchanged to ¼ cent lower, but rye was ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher. Soy beans closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.

There was little pressure of cash wheat on the market due to the large holdings at terminal markets by the Commodity Credit corporation. Minneapolis grain men estimated that only 3,750,000 bushels of the 25,500,000 bushels of wheat in storage at that market were "free" grain.

REPORT 5 PCT. RISE IN SHIPMENTS BY MANUFACTURERS

New York, March 1 (AP).—Shipments by manufacturers in January rose 5 per cent and inventory holdings increased 2.2 per cent, indices compiled by the National Industrial Conference board showed today. New orders were maintained at record levels, the board said. Inventories are slightly higher than at the 1937 peak, the board disclosed, but the ratio of inventory holdings to the volume of shipments is the lowest since 1929.

In the durable goods industries, inventories increased [on a seasonally adjusted basis] in electrical equipment, machinery, and machine tools, metal products, house furnishings, and office equipment. Declines were shown by the building, iron and steel, nonferrous metals, railroad equipment, and glass industries.

Investors' Guide

PERSONAL INCOME TAX—12.

The final step in preparing your 1940 personal income tax is reached when you have determined your surtax net income and the balance of net income subject to the normal tax.

If your surtax net income is more than $4,000, it is subject to graduated surtax rates. The first $4,000 of surtax net income is exempt from surtax.

Surtax net income over $4,000 is taxed at progressively higher rates. The first $2,000 of surtax net income after allowing for the $4,000 exemption is taxed at a 4 per cent rate; the next $2,000 [between $6,000 and $8,000], at 6 per cent. The rate increases to 8 per cent on surtax net income between $8,000 and $10,000 and reaches a maximum of 75 per cent on that portion of surtax net income over 5 million dollars.

Many taxpayers make the error of applying the largest surtax rate shown in the table of their returns on their entire surtax net income, instead of only upon that portion of the surtax net income falling into the bracket to which the rate is assigned.

Investors' Guide has available copies of the revised surtax rate table which includes the changes made last year. It will be mailed upon request.

The normal tax of 4 per cent is levied against the balance of net income remaining after deducting from surtax net income an amount for earned income credit and other miscellaneous credits.

The new defense supertax of 10 per cent is imposed on the sum of the normal tax and the surtax. The total income tax payable generally is composed of the normal tax plus the surtax plus the supertax of 10 per cent of the sum of the first two taxes.

For an illustration of how to compute the total tax, suppose a married man with two dependent children files a joint return covering net income of $13,600, of which $8,000 was salary and commissions. The tax is computed as follows:

Net income	$13,600
Less: Personal exemption [$2,000]
Credit for 2 dependents [$800]	2,800
Surtax net income	10,800
Less: Earned income credit [10 per cent of $8,000]	800
Income subject to normal tax	10,000
Normal tax of 4 per cent on $10,000	400
Surtax on $10,800	440
Normal tax plus surtax	840
Defense tax, 10 per cent of $840	84
Total income tax due	924

Thirteen days remain in which to file your 1940 income tax return. The return and the first instalment on your income tax are due March 15. Mail your return to the collector of internal revenue in your district as early as possible. Read and study all the instructions before preparing the return. Don't neglect to fill in all items and schedules required by law. If you have any specific questions not answered in this series of articles write to the Investors' Guide. Any complex situation should be referred for ruling to the commissioner of internal revenue in Washington, D. C.

WAR DISRUPTS AMERICAN FARM EXPORT MARKET

Potential Buyers Acquire Munitions Instead.

trade, the next year will probably see the national farm problem come to a head.

American farm surpluses are mounting to an uncontrolable figure. Yet if an attempt is made to reduce the production of crops to domestic requirements, millions of farmers will be thrown out of work. On the other hand, if the government attempts to buy up the surplus the bill will reach staggering proportions.

Dairy Exports Growing.

The one bright spot in the export figure lies in the dairy products group. The American dairy farmer is now the world's leading source of milk products, and the value of exports of dairy products rose 218 per cent in value in the last six months of 1940.

The German invasion of the Lowlands last spring cut off nearly 70 per cent of the world's concentrated milk exports, and as a result the production of evaporated milk in the United States has increased enormously.

In 1940 America exported 146,132,058 pounds of evaporated or condensed milk, companred with 29,765,850 pounds in 1939.

The United States exported its heaviest supply of butter in years in 1940, shipping 2,941,869 pounds.

Cuba Buying More Rice.

Another export product that has emerged from the war activity on the plus side of the ledger is rice. Cuba has risen to a position of importance as an importer of our rice, and while American rice has been going to Cuba in increasing amounts during recent years because of the Cuban trade agreement, war conditions have made it difficult to obtain rice from the usual Far Eastern sources, with the result that further increases in imports from the United States have occurred.

During the crop year of 1936, Cuba took a little less than 24 million pounds of rice from America. Last year rice exports to Cuba totaled 289,461,387 pounds.

All fruit exports, including dried, canned, and fresh, fell in 1940 except for grapes and oranges, which increased slightly due to a larger Canadian demand. The decline in canned fruit exports alone amounted to 96 per cent.

Exports of grains and grain products declined 16 per cent in value. Total wheat exports for 1939 were more than 63 million bushels. Last year the figure fell to a little more than 14 million bushels. Exports of American corn in 1940 increased 6 million bushels to 38,438,802 bushels.

Cotton Sales Off Sharply.

The value of cotton exports in 1939 was 243 million dollars. In 1940 it dropped to 214 million. The exports fell from 3,426,000 bales in the last six months of 1939, to 786,000 bales for the same period in 1939.

Leaf tobacco exports suffered with most other export groups. From July to December of 1939, America exported 171,173,000 pounds as against only 67,460,000 pounds in the same period last year. This drop resulted in the value of American leaf tobacco exports declining to $16,573,000 in 1940 from $37,553,000 for the same period in 1939.

Canned and corned beef exports fell to 211,000 pounds in the July-December period of 1940 as compared with 681,000 pounds for the same period in 1939. The total pork exports during this period in 1940 were 21,001,000 pounds, against 67,522,000 pounds in 1939.

Thus the list of exports that showed an increase in 1940 is relatively small. The effect of these increases was slight and did little to help the export situation as a whole. The total net rise in value of these increased exports for the six months' period ending December, 1940, was only 15 million dollars, while the total net decline in value of all agricultural exports amounted to more than 220 million dollars.

SALES OF GRAIN SECOND LIGHTEST FOR FEBRUARY

Closing Markets Show Little Change.

Sales of grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade in February were the second smallest on record for that month, the Commodity Exchange administration reported yesterday. Sales of all futures aggregated 276,043,000 bushels. This was 26,031,000 bushels in excess of January, but the total showed a reduction of 344,797,000 bushels, or about 55 per cent, from February, 1940. In February, 1939, sales were 210,000,000 bushels.

A new record for trading in soy bean futures was established last month on sales of 41,974,000 bushels, compared with the previous record of 40,884,000 bushels in January.

Week's Sales Larger.

Grain sales for the week ended Feb. 27 were the largest in any week since late last December. Sales totaled 86,362,000 bushels, or about 21,000,000 bushels in excess of the total of the preceding week. Sales of soy beans, 12,849,000 bushels, were said to have established a new all-time record for a single week.

Grain markets swung uncertainly yesterday. Trading was largely of a professional character. Wheat held within a range of ¾ to ⅞ cent a bushel and closed ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher. The new crop months showed the most strength. Selling of May wheat against purchases of the new crop futures was responsible for the easiness in the nearby delivery.

Corn Little Changed.

Outside interest in corn was reported light and futures closed unchanged to ¼ cent lower. Oats finished unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, but rye was ⅜ to ⅝ cent higher. Soy beans closed unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.

There was little pressure of cash wheat on the market due to the large holdings at terminal markets by the Commodity Credit corporation. Minneapolis grain men estimated that only 3,750,000 bushels of the 25,500,000 bushels of wheat in storage at that market were "free" grain.

REPORT 5 PCT. RISE IN SHIPMENTS BY MANUFACTURERS

New York, March 1 (AP).—Shipments by manufacturers in January rose 5 per cent and inventory holdings increased 2.2 per cent, indices compiled by the National Industrial Conference board showed today. New orders were maintained at record levels, the board said. Inventories are slightly higher than at the 1937 peak, the board disclosed, but the ratio of inventory holdings to the volume of shipments is the lowest since 1929.

In the durable goods industries, inventories increased [on a seasonally adjusted basis] in electrical equipment, machinery, and machine tools, metal products, house furnishings, and office equipment. Declines were shown by the building, iron and steel, nonferrous metals, railroad equipment, and glass industries.

Investors' Guide

PERSONAL INCOME TAX—12.

The final step in preparing your 1940 personal income tax is reached when you have determined your surtax net income and the balance of net income subject to the normal tax.

If your surtax net income is more than $4,000, it is subject to graduated surtax rates. The first $4,000 of surtax net income is exempt from surtax.

Surtax net income over $4,000 is taxed at progressively higher rates. The first $2,000 of surtax net income after allowing for the $4,000 exemption is taxed at a 4 per cent rate; the next $2,000 [between $6,000 and $8,000], at 6 per cent. The rate increases to 8 per cent on surtax net income between $8,000 and $10,000 and reaches a maximum of 75 per cent on that portion of surtax net income over 5 million dollars.

Many taxpayers make the error of applying the largest surtax rate shown in the table of their returns on their entire surtax net income, instead of only upon that portion of the surtax net income falling into the bracket to which the rate is assigned.

Investors' Guide has available copies of the revised surtax rate table which includes the changes made last year. It will be mailed upon request.

The normal tax of 4 per cent is levied against the balance of net income remaining after deducting from surtax net income an amount for earned income credit and other miscellaneous credits.

The new defense supertax of 10 per cent is imposed on the sum of the normal tax and the surtax. The total income tax payable generally is composed of the normal tax plus the surtax plus the supertax of 10 per cent of the sum of the first two taxes.

For an illustration of how to compute the total tax, suppose a married man with two dependent children files a joint return covering net income of $13,600, of which $8,000 was salary and commissions. The tax is computed as follows:

Net income	$13,600
Less: Personal exemption [$2,000] Credit for 2 dependents [$800]	2,800
Surtax net income	10,800
Less: Earned income credit [10 per cent of $8,000]	800
Income subject to normal tax	10,000
Normal tax of 4 per cent on $10,000	400
Surtax on $10,800	440
Normal tax plus surtax	840
Defense tax, 10 per cent of $840	84
Total income tax due	924

Thirteen days remain in which to file your 1940 income tax return. The return and the first instalment on your income tax are due March 15. Mail your return to the collector of internal revenue in your district as early as possible. Read and study all the instructions before preparing the return. Don't neglect to fill in all items and schedules required by law. If you have any specific questions not answered in this series of articles write to the Investors' Guide. Any complex situation should be referred for ruling to the commissioner of internal revenue in Washington, D. C.

American farm surpluses are mounting to an uncontrolable figure. Yet if an attempt is made to reduce the production of crops to domestic requirements, millions of farmers will be thrown out of work. On the other hand, if the government attempts to buy up the surplus the bill will reach staggering proportions.

Dairy Exports Growing.

The one bright spot in the export figure lies in the dairy products group. The American dairy farmer is now the world's leading source of milk products, and the value of exports of dairy products rose 218 per cent in value in the last six months of 1940.

The German invasion of the Lowlands last spring cut off nearly 70 per cent of the world's concentrated milk exports, and as a result the production of evaporated milk in the United States has increased enormously.

In 1940 America exported 146,132,058 pounds of evaporated or condensed milk, companred with 29,765,850 pounds in 1939.

The United States exported its heaviest supply of butter in years in 1940, shipping 2,941,869 pounds.

Cuba Buying More Rice.

Another export product that has emerged from the war activity on the plus side of the ledger is rice. Cuba has risen to a position of importance as an importer of our rice, and while American rice has been going to Cuba in increasing amounts during recent years because of the Cuban trade agreement, war conditions have made it difficult to obtain rice from the usual Far Eastern sources, with the result that further increases in imports from the United States have occurred.

During the crop year of 1936, Cuba took a little less than 24 million pounds of rice from America. Last year rice exports to Cuba totaled 289,461,387 pounds.

All fruit exports, including dried, canned, and fresh, fell in 1940 except for grapes and oranges, which increased slightly due to a larger Canadian demand. The decline in canned fruit exports alone amounted to 96 per cent.

Exports of grains and grain products declined 16 per cent in value. Total wheat exports for 1939 were more than 63 million bushels. Last year the figure fell to a little more than 14 million bushels. Exports of American corn in 1940 increased 6 million bushels to 38,438,802 bushels.

Cotton Sales Off Sharply.

The value of cotton exports in 1939 was 243 million dollars. In 1940 it dropped to 214 million. The exports fell from 3,426,000 bales in the last six months of 1939, to 786,000 bales for the same period in 1939.

Leaf tobacco exports suffered with most other export groups. From July to December of 1939, America exported 171,173,000 pounds as against only 67,460,000 pounds in the same period last year. This drop resulted in the value of American leaf tobacco exports declining to $16,573,000 in 1940 from $37,553,000 for the same period in 1939.

Canned and corned beef exports fell to 211,000 pounds in the July-December period of 1940 as compared with 681,000 pounds for the same period in 1939. The total pork exports during this period in 1940 were 21,001,000 pounds, against 67,522,000 pounds in 1939.

Thus the list of exports that showed an increase in 1940 is relatively small. The effect of these increases was slight and did little to help the export situation as a whole. The total net rise in value of these increased exports for the six months' period ending December, 1940, was only 15 million dollars, while the total net decline in value of all agricultural exports amounted to more than 220 million dollars.

BARRETT NAMES 13 ASSISTANTS, 7 FOR CHICAGO

Stillman Stanard to Head Springfield Office.

Attorney General George F. Barrett yesterday announced the appointment of thirteen assistant attorneys general to serve in his Chicago and Springfield offices. One of the appointees is Stillman J. Stanard of Carbondale, who will be executive assistant in the Springfield office, a position similar to that held by James W. Breen in Chicago.

Stanard formerly was state director of agriculture and was also super intendent of the state dairy division and president of the National Association of County Fairs. He was also secretary of the Illinois Association of Agricultural Affairs and recently has been serving as secretary of the state dairymen's association.

Appointees in Chicago.

Seven of the appointments were to the Chicago office. One of those named is William L. Morgan, who was a judge of the Municipal court from 1920 to 1926. Morgan was an assistant city attorney for four years before his election to the bench, has taught at De Paul university, and was an assistant attorney for the old west park board.

The other Chicago appointees are:

Stewart P. Mulvihill, an attorney in Chicago since 1929. He edited the Illinois Blue Book, official state manual, in 1931 and 1932.

Alva L. Bates, a native of the British West Indies and a Chicago attorney for 26 years. He was formerly an assistant state's attorney and was president of the Cook County Bar association.

Duane E. Reed, a Chicago lawyer since 1926 and a former assistant state's attorney.

Joseph J. Arrigo, a Chicago lawyer since 1934, and prominent in American-Italian activities.

William J. Colohan Jr., a lawyer here for 10 years. He has been legislative counsel for the Chicago Teachers' federation since 1939 and was a candidate for the state legislature from the 21st district in 1940.

Frank M. Ozinga, of Evergreen Park, a justice of the peace in that village for four years. He has been attorney for the village board of education and president of its business men's association.

Other Springfield Appointees.

The other appointees to the Springfield office are:

John F. Spivey of Danville, Vermillion county, city attorney of Danville.

Robert Porter, of Vienna, Johnson county.

Col. O. C. Smith of Benton, Franklin county, Spanish-American and world war veteran.

Clarence Wright, of Carbondale, former state's attorney of Jackson county.

On Friday it was announced that Louis M. Nowlan had resigned as an assistant attorney general. Nowlan asserted yesterday that had not resigned but had been discharged. This was confirmed by the attorney general's office. Nowlan had been appointed by former Attorney General John E. Cassidy to prosecute handbook cases.

Bananas in Chicago

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Madeline McCoy, 5220 Kenmore avenue, looking at a bunch of bananas growing in Garfield park conservatory yesterday.

Seven bunches of bananas are now hanging from trees in the Garfield park conservatory and may be seen from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily. This information is of value chiefly to those who would like to see what bananas look like before they are plucked for delivery to the grocery store.

ALFONSO'S BODY TO BE ENTOMBED BESIDE 2 POPES

ROME, March 1 (AP).—Two death masks of former King Alfonso XIII. of Spain were made tonight and the body was embalmed preparatory to temporary entombment Monday beside the sarcophogi of two popes, Calixtus III. and Alexander VI., in the chapel of the Spanish National church in Rome.

Italy's Queen Elena and the Latin American diplomatic corps visited the hotel room where Alfonso died yesterday of angina pectoris. He had left Spain voluntarily in 1931. King Victor Emmanuel of Italy today ordered three days of mourning in the Italian court for the late former monarch.

[Spanish Generalissimo Francisco Franco has granted permission for the former monarch to be buried in the royal pantheon at El Escorial.]

BOY FALLS OFF BICYCLE; HURT.

OBITUARIES

Dr. George C. Dittmann.

Dr. George C. Dittmann, a native Chicagoan and a practising physician here since 1903, died yesterday in his home, 729 Belmont avenue, at the age of 65. Services will be held Tuesday at 3 p. m. in Rosehill cemetery chapel. Dr. Dittmann first was graduated as a pharmacist in 1897 by the University of Illinois. He obtained his medical degree in 1902 from the College of Physicians and Surgeons, now the University of Illinois College of Medicine. His widow, Hulda, survives.

Rev. Paul Joseph Foik.

Austin, Tex., March 1 (AP).—The Rev. Paul Joseph Foik, 60 years old, dean of arts and letters and librarian at St. Edward's university, died today. Funeral services will be held Tuesday and the body will be sent to Notre Dame, Ind., for burial. Father Foik from 1912 to 1924 was librarian of the University of Notre Dame and archivist of the Catholic archives of America. He had been a member of the St. Edward's faculty since 1924.

Dr. James R. Harris.

BIRMINGHAM, England, March 1 (AP).—Dr. James Rendel Harris, theologian, archeologist, and expert on the writings of antiquity, died today at the age of 89. His first teaching assignment was at Johns Hopkins university in 1882. A column of the British "Who's Who" is devoted to Dr. Harris' writings. He owned a cup believed by some persons to be the one used by Christ and the apostles at the last supper.

Charles T. Barnett.

Funeral services were held yesterday in Los Angeles, Cal., for Charles T. Barnett, former Chicagoan, who died Jan. 26 at Altadena, Cal. Mr. Barnett was 76 years old and was a retired textile salesman. During the world war he served the government as a textile expert. He leaves four daughters and a son.

Emil A. Siebel.

Friends received word yesterday of the death Friday in Oakland, Cal., of Emil A. Siebel, industrial chemist, while on a business trip. Mr. Siebel, who was head of E. A. Siebel & Co., consulting chemists, was 56 years old and lived at 3528 Janssen avenue. His widow, Edna, and a son, Robert Vernon, survive.

Charles Costenbader.

Lady Maud Agnes Bowes Lyon.

LONDON, March 1 (AP).—Lady Maud Agnes Bowes Lyon, aunt of Queen Elizabeth, died yesterday in a Worcestershire hospital.

Walter G. Bryan.

New York, March 1 (AP).—Walter G. Bryan, 62 years old, former publisher of the Atlanta Georgian and New York American and one-time member of the Hearst executive council, died today. In 1912 he founded in Chicago the Walter G. Bryan organization, advertising counsel for newspapers. He had been publisher of the Villager, weekly newspaper for the Greenwich Village section of Manhattan, since 1933.

Mrs. Luella C. Francis.

Mrs. Luella C. Francis died yesterday in the Evanston hospital after a long illness. She was the widow of William Francis, former president of the Young Men's Christian association of Chicago, who died five years ago. Mrs. Francis lived in the Homestead hotel. Services will be held at 2 p. m. tomorrow in the chapel at 1567 Maple avenue, Evanston. Burial will be in Rosehill cemetery.

Michael D. Fritz.

Mankato, Minn., March 1 (AP).—Michael D. Fritz, 72 years old, vice president of the Mankato Free Press company, died today. He had been associated with the Free Press since 1891, when he joined the staff as a printing foreman. Eleven years later, with two other men, he bought the paper.

Dr. Charles W. Edmunds.

Ann Arbor, Mich., March 1 (AP).—Dr. Charles W. Edmunds, 68 years old, member of the medical staff at the University of Michigan since 1902, died today.

CUPID GETS OFF TO RECORD START IN MARITAL RACE

Michael J. Flynn, county clerk predicted yesterday that 1941 will be a record year for marriages. He said that if weddings continue at the present rate, 50,000 marriage licenses will be issued in Cook county this year. The all-time record was 44,126 last year. There were 2,412 marriage licenses issued in February, bringing the total for the year to 4,993. In February of 1940, 1,466 were issued, and the total for January and February last year was 3,722.

Finds Bed on Fire, Leaps to Death from Window

Carbondale, Ill., March 1 (AP).—A cash register salesman plunged to his death from a window on the third floor of a hotel here early today after discovering his bed was afire. The victim, John A. McCallen, about 32, came here a year ago from Memphis, Tenn., home of his father, W. E. McCallen.

STORMS DISTURB ATLANTIC RADIO AND CABLE LINES

New York, March 1 (AP).—Magnetic and atmospheric disturbances today completely suspended for a time all wireless and cable communications with Europe and erratically disrupted domestic communications. Ground currents caused some disturbance on Western Union lines. Similar difficulties were encountered on wireless circuits to South America.

Pacific Radio Silenced.

San Francisco, Cal., March 1 (AP).—An extensive magnetic storm smothered wireless communication over the Pacific today. Scarcely any traffic could be moved between San Francisco and Honolulu, Manila, and Tokio. The companies operating Pacific cables out of here had no trouble.

Come and See These 3½, 4 and 5 Room Apts.

You will get many ideas in what is being done today in decoration and furnishings when you see the Model Apartments.

One is along Modern lines, another reflects the quiet elegance of the 18th Century. Seeing them will inspire you, we are sure.

Both the building and the apartments abound in thoughtful features for your comfort and convenience. Rentals are definitely budget-wise, and begin at $70.

When you come in be sure to take away one of the descriptive brochures complete with floor plans—or write, or telephone and one will be mailed to you promptly.

MR. H.'S FATHER left an old house with $4,600 against it. We made the heirs a $3,800 long term mortgage which paid all debts, including taxes and a $530 repair bill necessary to modernize the 32 year old building. Mrs. H. said: "We just can't thank you enough for helping us."

We grant top loans on homes up to 30 years old, 2 to 4 apartments, large apartments, store and factory buildings; also place FHA loans to settle back taxes, liens to redeem property to close estates.

If even our top loans won't do, we will negotiate with the mortgagee or bondholders' committee to cut down overly large debts to present day levels; low rates.

HOUSEHOLD FINANCE CORPORATION.

MONEY To Pay Your Income Tax

Employed men and women: Married or single, you can obtain —without delay—a loan up to $300

ON YOUR SIGNATURE ONLY

Or maybe you would prefer a liberal Furniture or Automobile Loan. Whichever plan you choose, remember—you MAKE YOUR OWN TERMS AT LOCAL LOAN.

Group your bills and pay them off yourself in cash. Have only ONE PLACE to pay—only ONE PAYMENT to make.

You yourself determine the size of the monthly payment most convenient for you. You can take as long as 20 full months to pay.

LADIES—Local Loan offers you the same Salary Loan Service that it gives to men.

How You Save Time

You get your money immediately when you call at our office. Or PHONE FOR YOUR LOAN. It will be ready when you call in person.

AN ACE BEATS TWO DEUCES

Proof: Far, far away two deuces back to back have been trying for a long while to bluff a big pot which contains a little Isle.

The Ace

called the bluff. The deuces are scrambling to beat the band seeking a full house to cinch the hand. This little game threatens our famous land. It's raising prices. So let's beat 'em to the draw. Check your hand today, if you have no CAR card, or your old car is a DIS-CARD, come right over to our Auto Show and say—here's my social security number to verify my employment and the names of two people that know me."

"I'M WORKING,

ASK CONGRESS CURB ICKES' RULE OF COAST POWER

Lawmakers Urge Airing of High Handed Methods.

Portland, Ore., March 1 [Special].—Congressional airing of alleged high handed practices of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes in signing contracts for Bonneville power with favored concerns and denying it to others; in exerting pressure on industrial concerns to locate in localities of Ickes' choosing on the Pacific coast, and of negating if not violating the Bonneville act, is proposed in a memorial to congress to be introduced in the Oregon legislature Monday. The author is Senator Thomas R. Mahoney, Democrat of Multnomah county [Portland].

A similar memorial is being drafted by Representative Marion Sexton, Democrat of Clark county, Washington, for introduction in the Washington legislature.

Move to Check Ickes.

The movement, not a partisan one, but a serious effort to check practices of Secretary Ickes, the sponsors say, is to be pressed vigorously.

Yesterday Secretary Ickes disclosed that he had declined to sell the Aluminum Company of America additional power on the ground that under the law he must reserve 50 per cent of the output of Bonneville until 1942 for public ownership agencies.

However, it is charged by Ickes' critics that Bonneville's first four units, two of which are just coming into production, have a combined generating capacity of 200,000 kilowatts, whereas the Bonneville administration already has contracted to sell 250,000 kilowatts, including 40,000 kilowatts to Reynolds Metals company of Richmond, Va., 157,500 kilowatts to Alcoa, and only 20,000 to public ownership agencies.

Lawmakers backing Mahoney said that Secretary Ickes has, in fact, reserved no power whatever for publicly owned agencies, on the basis of the foregoing figures given out by the Bonneville administration itself.

Failure to make such public agency reservations also is to be considered soon at a meeting of the Pacific Northwest Public Ownership Cities, an organization of managers of such municipal plants as those in Tacoma, Seattle, Aberdeen, Centralia, and others in Washington, and Eugene and other similar plants in Oregon.

Fight Rule Over Rates.

These towns, normally favoring public ownership, organized among other reasons to resist efforts of the Bonneville administration to include, in wholesale power contracts, clauses giving Bonneville the right to fix the cities' respective retail rates. They regard this policy as dictatorial on the part of Secretary Ickes, and are further out of sympathy with him for reserving no power for their current needs.

Thus in addition to official demands for investigation, Secretary Ickes faces hostile forces within his own baliwick, to say nothing of the opposition of privately owned power companies.

Company representatives today said that concerns generating and distributing power in the two states have developed practically no additional generating facilities since the Bonneville and Coulee projects were started. Instead, they have relied upon the availability of government power. Now they say they will be practically at the mercy of Secretary Ickes, in the face of mounting power needs.

Hope for Early Action.

It is the hope of those interested in the memorials—and they include Democrats and Republicans, friends and foes of public ownership—that the inquiry into Ickes' alleged attempt to dominate the power situation and his questioned interpretation of the law, will be conducted before congress considers a pending Columbia Authority bill, to be urged for passage later at this session. This measure is being handled by Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon and Senator Homer T. Bone of Washington. It is said to have been drafted by Secretary Ickes.

If the memorials to congress fail to stir that body into action, Oregon critics of Secretary Ickes say they will pursue other methods until they are successful in bringing the Columbia river situation to national attention, hopeful that Ickes in some manner will be curbed.

NEW TRUCKS CUT GARBAGE COSTS, HEWITT REPORTS

The cost of removing garbage and ashes in Chicago last month was 18 cents lower per cubic yard than it was in February, 1940, Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, reported yesterday. He attributed the reduction to use of the new enclosed garbage trucks which were placed in service in January.

"If this reduction continues thru the year, the city will save more than $400,000," Hewitt said.

He reported that experiments with two eight hour shifts of workers in the garbage and ash collection department had been successful and that collections will be made on that basis in 25 wards beginning tomorrow.

Name Officials for 1941 Youth Week Observance

Maj. John L. Griffith was reëlected chairman yesterday of the Chicago Youth Week committee, which will direct the 20th annual observance of Youth week here April 21 to 28. Nathaniel Leverone and Newton C. Farr were named vice presidents. More than 100 civic, social, business, and industrial organizations thruout the city will join in the observance, Maj. Griffith said. Youth week programs, to make adult Chicago aware of its youth, are being planned by clubs, churches, and business associations, he said.

5 NEW 'FRIENDS OF POLAND' UNITS BEING ORGANIZED

Americans Strive to Save Old Culture.

The American Friends of Poland, formed three months ago to perpetuate the culture of Poland, now has five chapters in process of formation in addition to the mother chapter in Chicago.

The Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame university, is honorary chairman of the newest chapter, organized Thursday in South Bend, Ind. Judge J. Elmer Peak is president.

Stokowski Organizes Branch.

Leopold Stokowski, the conductor, has organized a branch in Los Angeles, Cal. Prince Alexander Hohenlohe, son-in-law of Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., former United States ambassador to Poland and now minister to exiled governments in London, is organizing a branch in Philadelphia, Pa. Peter Dewey, son of Congressman Charles S. Dewey, former financial adviser to the Polish government, is setting up a chapter at the University of Virginia, and a chapter soon will be organized in Milwaukee.

Altogether, the group soon hopes to be active enough "to keep Poland alive in spite of German occupation," in the words of Josef Staniewicz, assistant to Karol Ripa, Polish consul general in Chicago.

'Poland is occupied," Staniewicz said, "but only in territory. The soul of the country, despite Russian and Nazi domination, is still alive. We must preserve its spirit and culture, the culture of Mme. Curie, Copernicus, Chopin, Conrad, Mme. Modjeska, Artur Rodzinski, Stokowski, and Paderewski.

Object: Promote Friendship!

"We are organized not for profit, not for relief, not to raise funds, but purely to promote friendship and understanding between the people of Poland and the people of the United States."

Many prominent Chicagoans are on the organizing committee, of which Col. George T. Langhorne is president.

Countess Helen Chlapowska, wife of the former Polish ambassador to France, who witnessed the collapse of both Poland and France and later was a prisoner in France, will speak under the auspices of the organization in Fullerton hall of the Art institute on March 17 and March 20. She will speak at Notre Dame university on March 22.

RECEIVER'S RULE OVER BAR UNION ENDS TOMORROW

Circuit Judge Robert Jerome Dunne yesterday notified attorneys concerned with the receivership of local 278 of the Bartenders' union that the receivership will be dissolved tomorrow. Judge Dunne requested Attorney Charles E. McGuire, representing Roy D. Keehn, receiver, to have a final accounting of the union funds ready for the court.

Keehn was named receiver last Aug. 15 after charges were made that Frank [The Enforcer] Nitti and other members of the old Capone mob had seized control of the union. In a report submitted to Judge Dunne late in January Keehn stated that during four months of receivership the union's normal expenditures were reduced $17,708, as compared with the four months immediately preceding the receivership.

The union is under the jurisdiction of Judge Dunne, who recently supervised its election of officers.

DEMANDS PROOF THAT GYPSY ROSE LIVES IN CHICAGO

Judge Rudolph Desort withheld yesterday for the second time a ruling on the divorce petition of Mrs. Rose Louise Hovick Mizzy, better known as Gypsy Rose Lee, strip tease dancer. Her husband is Arnold R. Mizzy, New York City dental supply manufacturer. Judge Desort questioned the legality of Miss Lee's Chicago residence and ordered her attorney, Henry Kalcheim, to produce proof this is her home. Kalcheim said two acts of cruelty allegedly committed by Mizzy occurred in Chicago and that he was of the opinion that the state waives the statutory requirement of one year's residence prior to the filing of a divorce suit when acts of cruelty occur in the state.

USE OF 'BIG STICK' URGED IN ATTACK ON TAX MUDDLE

Collection by Nonpolitical Unit Proposed.

Creation of a nonpolitical bureau to wield a "big stick" in attacking Cook county's 400 million dollar tax delinquency muddle was proposed yesterday at an all day hearing before the legislative committee which is headed by Representative David I. Swanson [R., Chicago]. The committee was appointed to investigate the tax situation in Cook county. The hearing was held in the La Salle hotel.

From a wide variety of suggestions offered by a dozen witnesses, the "big stick" method emerged under sponsorship of George Mahin, chairman of the tax delinquency committee of the Illinois Education association.

This organization represents approximately 40,000 persons, mostly teachers, who, Mahin said, will support a cure but not a palliative for the problem.

Three Points in Plan.

The association plan would include these points:

1. Giving the proposed bureau the tax collection duties of the county treasurer and state's attorney.

2. Authorizing the bureau to levy upon and sell personal property as soon as the tax becomes delinquent.

3. Empowering the bureau to bid as agent for all taxing bodies in Cook county in buying tax delinquent real estate, to hold the properties for the two year redemption period, and to sell them under procedure similar to that used by the Home Owners' Loan corporation.

Politician View Cited.

"The time has come to recognize that elected public officials cannot be counted upon to wield the big stick," Mahin said.

"Present officials have gone a long way. But officials did not in the past use their powers and cannot be counted upon to do so in the future. Collection of taxes is not popular. A man who makes public office his career cannot be condemned severely for recognizing that vigorous enforcement of tax collection may mean political oblivion.

"We recommend legislation to establish in Cook county a bureau for tax collection. The statute should make it mandatory for the county board to appropriate not less than a specified sum to operate that bureau. The bureau must be divorced by statute from politics thru tenure of office so tax collection can be enforced."

Big Stick is Loss of Property.

The big stick is the actual loss of property, whether real or personal, upon failure to pay taxes, Mahin said. He said that by collecting past due taxes and preventing future delinquencies the plan also would reduce taxes by 20 per cent, solving a major portion of the blighted area problem and unfreezing the real estate market.

"The salient fact is that levies will not have to be made on personality, and foreclosures will not have to be filed on realty, once the taxpayers know the bureau means business and has the power to act," he said. "Owners are not going to risk losing their properties when they know the risk is there."

Representative Alan E. Ashcraft Jr. [R., Evanston] said that even if local governments could catch up on back taxes the likely result would be increased spending rather than a lower tax rate.

State Aid Describes Job.

Marshall Kearney, assistant state's attorney in charge of court action to collect unpaid personal property taxes, told the committee the enormity of his task.

"We have 225,000 items a year for collection," Kearney said. "We actually collected 8 million dollars more personal property taxes in Cook county than all the other 101 counties in Illinois together.

"We start suits at the rate of about 3,000 a month. That means only about 10 per cent of the total go to court. We'd need seven times as many courts and prosecutors as we use now to try to take all of them to court. It's simply impossible to collect all by direct action—and that never was contemplated by the law. And then the next year, another 225,000 uncollected items are dumped into our laps."

Cases Picked as They Come.

Asked how the 10 per cent of cases in which suit is started are chosen, Kearney said: "We pick them just as they come, not by amounts."

Committee members indicated they could not understand why the staff of 25 or 30 assigned to the work by the state's attorney has not been increased. They asked whether receipts would not be increased thru a larger staff.

"You can't judge results by the amount received," said Kearney. "We think that we've arrived at the resistence point in collections. There would be some increase with a larger staff, but not commensurate with the expense."

Preadjudication Law Favored.

Most generally favored by witnesses was a preadjudication law, similar to two which have been knocked out by the Illinois Supreme court. Some believed present laws are adequate but that administration should be improved. All appeared to agree that officials have tightened up on tax collections in recent years.

Witnesses included County Clerk Michael J. Flynn, Clayton F. Smith, president of the county board; Charles E. Fox of the Chicago Real Estate board; Arthur A. Sullivan, attorney for County Treasurer John Toman; J. L. Jacobs, efficiency engineer and tax authority, and Carl H. Chatters, executive director of the Municipal Finance Officers' Association of the United States and Canada.

Chicago Actress Weds

JUNE MARTEL.

Hollywood, Cal., March 1 (AP).—Actress June Martel and Frank Fenton, scenarist and magazine writer, were married Thursday. Miss Martel, the former Martha Irene Grief of Chicago, was an Atlantic City and Philadelphia night club singer and appeared in such stage productions as "The Perfumed Lady" and "Kill That Story" before entering the films in 1935. She formerly was married to Walter J. Klavun of New Haven, Conn.

'HERMIT' TAKES LOOK AT WOMEN AND GOES HOME

Alaska Sourdough Is Plum Disgusted.

Seattle, Wash., March 1 (AP).—George Herbert, disillusioned, could hardly wait today to get started back to the solitude of his Arctic island and the company of his dogs and lone white neighbor.

Frankly, the grizzled 66 year old bachelor, on his second trip outside Alaska in 40 years, is plum disgusted with women, movies, the radio and—but mostly women.

"Women," he snorted to interviewers, "are mostly walking totem poles—painted from head to foot—painted toe nails and painted finger nails.

What He Finds.

"I'm no preacher, but I come down here and what do I find? Women smoking all the time, women going in bars early in the morning and staying there till late at night."

"But not all women," interjected an attractively tinted girl reporter.

"Sixty-five per cent of them," the veteran sourdough retorted. "In the old days there were drinking women and we knew what they were. Now all kinds go round swearin' and cussin'. Women used to be a mystery, now they're an open book."

Herbert said he came down to stay four months "and have some fun," but after less than three months he could hardly wait for today's boat north.

He's Not Lonesome.

"Why should I be lonesome up there?" he responded to a query about life on Barter Island, west of Point Barrow. "I've got my dogs; there's another white man on the island and we're friends.

"What would I want with a radio? There's too much screeching. I get the newspapers once a year, anyhow. I could go to Point Barrow [320 miles] to see the movies, but I've been to two of them and I don't like them. Too much make-believe.

"That's Gold's country up there. A man can be a man and he don't have to be led around by the nose. I'm single and I'm going to stay that way."

Herbert's only other trip "outside" since the gold rush was in 1917-'18 to enlist for army service.

CHILEAN VOTING TODAY IS UNDER MILITARY RULE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 1.—For the first time in Chilean history there will be military supervision of the congressional elections tomorrow. By decree of President Pedro Aguirre, 342 army and naval officers will have charge of the voting. Their job is to assure "fair elections," with no pressure, physical or financial, on the elector. All civil gun permits were withdrawn.

The election, in which approximately 600,000 citizens vote to renew the entire chamber and half the senate, will decide whether a leftist government can wrest parliamentary control from the rightists. Hitherto, Aguirre, elected by a popular front in December, 1938, has governed without a majority in either branch of congress.

Own Party Censures Aguirre.

SANTIAGO, Chile, March 1 (AP).—President Aguirre drew censure from his own party today as he attempted on the eve of congressional elections to conciliate dissident Socialist elements in Chile's crumbling united front government. The central committee of the Radical party protested the dismissal by Aguirre of Radical state social insurance directors whose actions were said to have provoked three Socialist ministers to resign yesterday. The three, Ministers Oscar Schnake, Salvador Allende, and Rolando Merino, of development, health, and lands, respectively, resigned in protest against "disgraceful procedure" of communists and radicals in the government.

LAKE COUNTY'S LAST CIVIL WAR VET WED 68 YEARS

Lake county's last surviving civil war veteran, Silas Nichols, and his wife, Elizabeth, will celebrate their 68th wedding anniversary today in their home, 506 Poplar street, Waukegan. Nichols was 93 years old last week. His wife is 84. He enlisted in the Union army at Sandusky, O., in 1864 and served with Company I of the 145th Ohio infantry for 18 months. He fought in the battle of Bull Run. Nichols saw Lincoln on three occasions, once with a small group of soldiers at the White House. He has recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address at Waukegan's Memorial day exercises each year for the last 17 years.

Tribune Motorist Has a Chat with Soldier Hitch-Hikers

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—Shortly after midnight Thursday at a curve in the Lincoln highway just east of Van Wert, O., the headlights of The Tribune road car picked up two khaki clad youths, their right arms raised and their thumbs pointing eastward.

In the flash of the swinging headlight beam, they appeared to be soldiers, probably with no other means of transportation back to camp after a night in town. They probably were as broke as we were during most of our 1917 enlistment at El Paso, Tex. Probably cold and tired. A gusty wind was blowing traces of snow. Our snap judgment overcame prejudices against hitch hikers.

"Thanks much, mister," said the one climbing into the front seat while a rear door was opened for his companion.

In Rantoul School.

"What's your outfit?" we asked, shifting the gears and accelerating.

"Aviation ground school at Rantoul, Ill."

"What are you doing in Ohio?"

"We're on our way home. We're both from Findlay, O. Left Rantoul about 4 o'clock this afternoon and have been hitching ever since. This is our eighth ride. Pretty good to cover about 250 miles in eight hours, isn't it?"

"You're on leave?"

"Two days."

"Can you make the round trip in that time?"

"We got bus fare for the return trip, but hitching is about as fast. We caught our first ride as soon as we walked out of camp. A couple of farmers took us north as far as U. S. 45.

Calls Salesman Reckless Driver.

"Then a traveling salesman carried us east. He was a reckless driver, doing 80 part of the time, too fast for anyone to stay on the ground. In Indiana, a woman with a son about 5 years old gave us our next ride. She had two other soldiers hitch hikers in the back seat.

"Our most interesting ride was the one that got us to Van Wert. The man who was driving let us out a mile or so west of the town. It was at an intersection with a gas station that wasn't open. His wife remarked that it was awfully dark. They headed north on a side road and then turned around within half a mile and came back and picked us up again.

"'I just told my husband that this was no place to leave a couple of boys trying to get home to see their mothers,' said the woman. 'We have two sons of draft age and I wouldn't want anyone to treat my sons that way if they were trying to get home to see me.'

They Like the Army.

"They drove us into Van Wert."

"How do you like the army?" we asked.

"Fine. We've been in it for six months. We're both 30 year career men. We'll be able to retire with a pension after 30 years service before we're 55 years old.

"Things are sure booming at our camp. There are so many new men that some have to wear 1918 uniforms. Co-eds from the University of Illinois attend our dances. Most of the musicians in the army orchestra played in famous bands in civilian life. The work's interesting and the food is good. Our only kick is that we're charged too much for our laundry."

Uniforms No Novelty.

At Beaver Dam they got out to wait for a ride north on U. S. 25 to Findlay. We were continuing east on U. S. 30, headed for Pittsburgh.

Their account of the motoring public's generosity toward soldier hitch hikers reminded us of our two and a half years' service at El Paso, Tex. The civilians there were not so generous. It's an old army post. At this Mexican border city, uniforms were no novelty as they are at midwestern towns near new cantonments.

We're glad we gave a ride to those two young soldiers. They were clean cut lads and evidently from good families. However [and we hope no one will think this sounds unpatriotic] the motoring public might well be cautioned that an army uniform on a hitch hiker is not 100 per cent protection against the dangers of picking up hitch hikers in civilian clothes.

Doesn't Discount Responsibility.

In event of an accident, the uniform doesn't discount the car owner's financial responsibility for injuries to his invited guest. Furthermore, during the 1917 mobilization, robbers occasionally disguised themselves as soldiers. And soldiers themselves are only human, with a bad egg or two in every few thousand, just as in civilian populations.

And finally, we hope it's all right for an ex-soldier to mention that an enlisted man is not a pitiful object for charity. He is furnished with good food, clothing and bed and gets paid regularly. He has more money for easy spending than most civilian men with families to support.

We motorists want to be friendly with this new American army. But if we have any other obligation to society, we might well also be cautious with its hitch hikers.

VOICE OF TRAFFIC

ICY STREETS.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 28.—I should like to protest against the dangerous and neglected condition of our main boulevards and thru streets.

It is worth one's life to drive down them after the slightest snowfall.

Where is our expensive street department? Its budget appropriation runs into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the vehicle tax of nearly 10 dollars per car. They won't expend a dollar for gravel and salt at intersections. They let nature do the work. Are we citizens such saps that we are going to forever stand for such gross negligence to our public safety?

Where is the traffic safety department of the police with their blaring loud speaker, admonishing drivers to drive safely when our boulevards are a sheet of glass and a rival to any skating rink?

I think it is high time we get together and raise such a row that they will be forced to do something to show for the vast amount of money spent.

As it is our street cleaning department is a travesty, they don't even sweep up broken glass.

I could say more about the phoney street cleaning department, but I will save that for future use.

Any one-horse town has Chicago backed off the map for street cleaning and the use of safety means in the winter.

The only safe way to drive in winter in Chicago is to leave your car in the garage. Are the custodians of our streets on a strike, or are they waiting for pay days?

AN AROUSED CITIZEN.

LOOMIS STREET.

Chicago, Feb. 20.—Is there a chance of getting Loomis street made a thru street from 31st to Lake street? That is one street going north which is heavily traveled both with cars and trucks. Being a truck driver I see this street traveled every day. It is very dangerous.

CAPITAL OFFERS NOVEL SIGNS AS WALKERS' GUIDE

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—A red neon sign with letters about six inches high alternately reads "Don't Walk" and "Walk." The change is effected simply by switching on or off the illumination for the "Don't."

This sign, mounted on stop-and-go signal posts, is the capital's latest nifty in traffic control. Watching its operation on Pennsylvania avenue, it seemed to be functioning. Pedestrians obeyed the commands. Compliance appeared to be helped by the size, color, and simplicity of this walk signal.

Violations at Other Points.

Elsewhere in Washington, pedestrians are supposed to stop and go with the red and green lights designed mainly for the vehicular movements. But at intersections without the big, red neon posters, violations were frequent.

Safety engineers are intensely interested in regulations for walking. Pedestrians account for a bulk of the urban traffic fatalities, about 75 per cent in Chicago. Statistics have established that to walk with a signal eliminates most of the risk of crossing a street.

New York's Toll Low.

New York has a low pedestrian toll notwithstanding a prevalence of downtown jay walking. The congestion on pavements in the Wall street district, for example, is so acute that an automobile can rarely go fast enough to break a pedestrian's bones. On the modern express pavements, as the west side elevated highway and the east side drive in some places at three levels, pedestrians are physically barred from traffic lanes.

Chicago has a few pedestrian control signals, notably on Michigan avenue. They are inconspicuous and they are obeyed mainly when the flow of vehicles obviously prohibits a violation. In the loop, with heavy right turn movements limited to the green cycle, in many instances a pedestrian can best get across a street by walking with the red light.

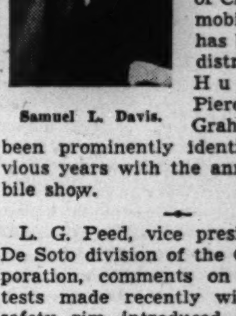
Efforts Not Effective.

At outlying intersections in Chicago there have been desultory efforts to educate pedestrians to safe walking practices. But they have not been effective. At Bryn Mawr avenue and Sheridan road, for example, a policeman occasionally helps pedestrians to violate a sign asking walkers to cross the boulevard on the north side of Bryn Mawr so as not to block turning automobiles.

A national trend, not so conspicuous in Chicago, is toward a regulation of pedestrians for their own safety and for the convenience of motor traffic. Washington's red neon signs are a novelty punctuating this trend.

NEWS AND VIEWS

Appointment of Davis Motors, at the corner of Michigan avenue and 26th street, as a dealer for the Oldsmobile division of the General Motors corporation was announced yesterday by L. J. Blunden, Chicago zone manager for Oldsmobile. Davis Motors is headed by Samuel L. Davis, a veteran of Chicago's automobile row. He has been Chicago distributor for Hupmobile, Pierce-Arrow, and Graham, and has been prominently identified in previous years with the annual automobile show.



Samuel L. Davis.

L. G. Peed, vice president of the De Soto division of the Chrysler corporation, comments on a series of tests made recently with the new safety rim introduced in the 1941 Chrysler line. Peed said that in the tests De Soto drivers at speeds of 70 to 80 miles an hour set off dynamite charges that blew holes as big as a man's fist in tire casings. The safety rims, however, enabled the cars to be brought to safe speeds, fully under control, without dangerous swerving and without throwing the blown tire. The safety rim keeps the tire on the rim.

Harlow H. Curtice, president of Buick, announces that 450,000 square feet of plant space are being added to the company's facilities in Flint. The new area will be used largely for storage of cars either waiting personal delivery to customers or loading into trucks.

The 5,000,000th automobile tire recently was completed by the Ford Motor company at the tire works in its Rouge plant, near Detroit. The first tire built at the plant emerged from its mold on July 30, 1937. The plant has a capacity of 10,000 tires and tubes daily.

New Model for Nash 1941 Line

Nash Motors announced recently that it has brought out this slipstreamed model as an addition to its 1941 automobiles. Call the "Slipstream Sedan" it is a six passenger two door automobile.

YOUNG FARMERS LEARN DEFENSE AID

CITY'S CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO GET BIGGER SCHOOL

Addition at Spalding to Cost $750,000.

Construction will begin next month on a $750,000 two story brick addition that will double the size of the Spalding school for crippled children at 1628 Washington boulevard, it was announced last week by James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education.

John C. Christensen, school board architect who drew the plans and will supervise construction, said the new unit will in all likelihood be ready for use by the start of the second semester of next school term in February.

The addition will make the Spalding school a complete educational unit, Mr. McCahey pointed out. For the first time the physically handicapped child will find it possible to acquire a complete public school education, from kindergarten thru high school, in an adequately equipped plant.

Crowded Other Schools.

Up to now the only high school facilities afforded for such handicapped youngsters were improvised in two high school branches, Morrill branch of Lindblom at 6011 South Rockwell street, and Sabin branch of Tuley at 2216 Hirsch street. This arrangement, Mr. McCahey said, deprived the two high schools of much needed space and worked a hardship on the crippled children, who need specially designed and equipped buildings.

High school facilities for 500 children will be provided. This is more than enough to care for the city's needs at present, but school board officials felt that the reserve capacity should be added to care for the normal increases in population.

The new structure will also enhance the present clinical and treatment facilities of the school, which are regarded as being of primary importance. Rooms will be set aside for hydrotherapy, electrotherapy, and physiotherapy, and for violet ray, spastic and cardiac cases, deaf-oral and sightsaving cases, and dental work.

Trains for Trades.

Vocational training is emphasized at the Spalding school, the effort being to train the handicapped youngsters in trades that will make them self-supporting in later life. The present building program will bring the school to a high point of efficiency in this respect, Mr. McCahey said.

Room will be available not only for the usual high school curriculum, but also for teaching of subjects such as cooking, sewing, industrial arts, woodworking, printing, and weaving.

There will be 40 school rooms in the addition, which will also enlarge the clinic and treatment room and the bus entrance, as well as provide more office space, according to the school architect.

The rooms will include 13 classrooms, five laboratories, numerous special rooms, a library, a gymnasium, several shops, and adequate office and restroom facilities for the large faculty the school requires.

One of the shops will be equipped to enable faculty workers to make braces and other mechanical aids for the needier cripples, and to repair such equipment where necessary.

Better Bus Facilities.

Free buses provided by the school board pick up crippled pupils at their homes, transport them to school and deliver them home in the afternoon. The new building will have special loading platforms, to make it easier for attendants to help the children in and out of their wheel chairs.

A new ramp of low gradient will permit the wheeling of chairs from one floor to another with a minimum of effort. There will be two elevators of ample size.

The treatment tanks and swimming pool are to be provided with special elevator type chairs to help the children in and out of the water. The building thruout has been designed especially for the convenience and comfort of the disabled, yet without sacrifice of educational advantages, Mr. Christensen said.

It was not until 1926 that the Chicago school board made its first large scale provisions for the teaching of crippled children. At that time the board took over the functions of an old clinic and hospital near the present school site where physically handicapped boys and girls were taught thru private enterprise. These public school facilities have been expanded many fold since.

S.W. Side Cadet at Marmion Is Awarded Tribune Medal

Cadet Capt. and Adjutant J. J. Martin, of 6743 South Artesian avenue, was awarded the second place CHICAGO TRIBUNE medal for outstanding leadership at Marmion Millitery academy, Aurora, last semester in a ceremony held at the academy recently. Martin is battalion commander of the academy's corps.

Garden Club Dinner.

The Chicago Garden club will celebrate its fifth birthday Tuesday evening with a dinner at 14 East Jackson boulevard. The club was organized by Mrs. C. Clarence Rehbein, 7201 Prairie avenue.

Same Name—Same Building—Sons Born on Same Day

It was a great day for the Gormans in the apartment building at 8102-8106 South Paulina street on Feb. 3. On that day Mrs. Howard Gorman (left), who lives at 8106, gave birth to a son, her second child, at St. Bernard's hospital, and Mrs. James F. Gorman, who lives at 8102, gave birth to a son, her third child, at the Little Company of Mary hospital. The two families are not related and were only casually acquainted. By another coincidence, both mothers appeared at the St. Therese of Infant Jesus (Little Flower) church last Sunday to have their babies christened. The Howard Gormans named their boy Laurence Herbert and the James F. Gormans named theirs James F. Jr.

PULLMAN SCHOOL YOUTHS TO SHOW CLASS PROJECTS

Will Observe Founder's 110th Birthday.

An open house program celebrating the 110th anniversary of the birth of the late George M. Pullman will take place tomorrow evening at the Pullman Free School of Manual Training, 109th street and Indiana avenue. Full length classes will be conducted by the faculty for the inspection of guests.

Junior and senior male students will be seen in the machine, auto mechanics, electric, mechanical drawing and architectural drawing classes. Junior and senior girls will demonstrate how they learn typing. In the lower classes boys will be seen in routine mathematical and language sessions and girls may be watched as they practice cooking and sewing. There also will be two groups of girls alternating in volley ball games in the gymnasium, since the school emphasizes athletics for girls.

Concert by Band.

The classes will be conducted after a band concert at 7:30 o'clock. The band, made up of blue and white clad students from all classes, will play popular and military music.

The school was endowed for $1,200,000 in the will of George M. Pullman, creator of the Pullman sleeping car and founder of the Pullman company. The school was to be founded "for the benefit of the children of persons who live in or work at Pullman, that the children of those associated with him in the town of Pullman and its enterprises might be trained in the ideals of clean living, good citizenship, and industrial efficiency which were his inspiration and thru which alone the workman may hope to attain his true development."

600 Are Enrolled.

Eligibility requires now that the student be a son or daughter of an employé or a past employé with a good record. When the school is not filled, other students are carefully chosen. About 600 boys and girls are enrolled. The school's campus covers nearly 40 acres. Urban G. Willis is principal and William Brubaker is dean. Classes were begun on Oct. 18, 1915.

Last summer the school was one of the first in the country to train workers under the national defense program. There were two sessions every day—from 7 o'clock in the morning to 1 o'clock in the afternoon and from 1 o'clock until 7 o'clock in the evening.

Irish Club to Celebrate Fifth Year with Dance

The Irish club, which has a membership of approximately 850 south side families, will celebrate its fifth anniversary Saturday evening with a dance in the Liberty ballroom, 92d street and Cotttage Grove avenue. Martin Shannon, 441 East 88th place, is chairman of the celebration. Two orchestras will play both Irish and American music and Miss Mary Lynch will lead the Irish folk dancing.

FIVE SORORITIES, ONE FRATERNITY TO HOLD BALL SATURDAY

Miss Mary Beauregard, 8725 Hermitage avenue, is chairman of a south side sorority and fraternity dance to be held in the Knickerbocker hotel Saturday evening, March 15. The dance will be sponsored by Iota Sigma, an organization coördinating the activities of five sororities and one fraternity.

Miss Mary Beauregard.

Serving as committee chairmen with Miss Beauregard are Mrs. Elmer Quivey, 6319 Bennett avenue, Miss Helen Paré, 8417 Sangamon street; Mrs. John Horsch Jr., 1635 West 57th street, and Harold Seinwerth, 7717 Laflin street.

Committee members include Miss Margaret Hughes, 8152 Ada street; Miss Rita Kilgariff, 7340 Sangamon street, and Miss Bernice Hamer, 944 West 95th street.

KIWANIS OPENS ESSAY CONTEST ON CITIZENSHIP

"Citizenship, the Price of Liberty" is the title of essays to be submitted by southwest side high school students in a contest sponsored by the Kiwanis club of Southwest Chicago. Competition will be open to any high school student living in the area bounded by Halsted street, 119th street, 81st street and the western city limits.

Purpose of the contest, for which prizes will be announced later, is to stimulate "interest and appreciation of the responsibility and duties of American citizenship. Winners of the local contest will be eligible to participate in a contest conducted by the Kiwanis International.

Members of the committee planning the contest are Kenneth Merrick, principal of the Vanderpoel school; Ralph Morgan, director of Ridge Park; Glen Adams, secretary of the Beverly Y. M. C. A., and Hugh G. Price, principal of the Morgan Park Military academy. Coöperating with them will be members of the club's public affairs committee, which includes Dr. Henry Sands, Fred Cauble, Tom Collins, and Dr. Claude Temple.

Legion and Civic Planners to Meet Tomorrow Night

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin will be guest speaker tomorrow night at a joint meeting of O'Donnell-Eddy post of the American Legion and the Highland Improvement association in Timothy hall, 83d street and Hermitage avenue.

CHILD ASLEEP 21 DAYS NOW A 100 PER CENTER

Just Laughs Over Her Deadly Peril.

Three years ago this month 4 year old Barbara Jean Herpich fell into a sleep from which it seemed she would never wake. Afflicted with encephalitis lethargica, she had a temperature of 106, and doctors had little hope of a recovery. After 21 days she awoke, looked at her mother and asked for a glass of water.

Today doctors say there is no doubt about Barbara's perfect recovery. Since her illness she has doubled her weight, has acquired cheeks like October apples, and gets 100 "nearly all the time" in second grade at the Paul Revere school.

In her home at 7215 Ellis avenue she laughs as she examines a scrapbook which shows newspaper photos and stories and letters which her rare sickness elicited from all over the country. Last spring she was pronounced thoroly healthy by board of health doctors in a school round-up survey.

Attack Follows Measles.

The illness, according to Mrs. Herpich, was contracted after an attack of the measles. Ordinarily it results only once in 1,600 cases of measles.

"Many persons don't realize that her eyes were open most of the time," explains Mrs. Herpich, in reviewing the affliction. "In fact, I often noticed that her eyes followed me as I moved around the room. There was a vacant stare in them, however, and she never moved, for she had no control over her body. She lay on her back for three weeks and her arms were rigidly bent above her head."

Mrs. Herpich remembers no specific reaction of her own, probably because she didn't know the exact nature of the case. She fed Barbara with an eye-dropper. It used to take her all morning to give her breakfast and all afternoon to give her lunch, she recalls. Periodically doctors gave the child injections of glucose and saline solutions.

Third Week Brings Change.

In the third week, on a Friday, says Mrs. Herpich, Barbara began moving her head from side to side, and on Saturday started waving her arms crazily above her head. At 6 o'clock Sunday morning she suddenly said, "Mother, I want a glass of water."

Afterward she remained a month in bed at home, and it took her many weeks to learn to use her arms and legs again. She was treated at the South Shore hospital by Dr. William H Elghammer, pediatrician, and Dr. Martin Merbitz, family physician.

In retrospect, Barbara merely smiles mysteriously and says, "I wasn't asleep at all."

Legion Dance.

Woodrow Wilson post, Polish Legion of American Veterans of South Chicago is sponsoring a dance to be held April 20 at Marquette Gardens, 83d street and Marquette road. Proceeds will be used to purchase uniforms for the sons and daughters of veterans.

S. WEST SIDERS TO APPEAR IN POLITICAL SATIRE

Four southwest side amateur players will take part tonight in the presentation of "First Lady," a satire on Washington political life, by the central group of the Community theaters, in coöperation with the Chicago Park district, at the Goodman theater.

The southwest side members of the cast are Richard Rosner, 1809 West 63d street, Charles W. Smith, 6731 Peoria street, Harry W. Godley, 7849 Normal avenue, and Genevieve Sauris, 4434 Lowe avenue.

The play, written by Katherine Dayton and George Kaufman, will be produced under the direction of Miss Vivian Purcell

FIVE TOWNSHIPS TO PICK 121 FOR ELECTIVE POSTS

Voters Will Go to Polls April 1.

Campaigns for 121 elective offices in five southwest townships were launched last week as 10 political organizations filed their slates of candidates in the quadrennial township elections. Four of the townships—Bremen, Calumet, Thornton, and Worth—will elect 15 officers each on April 1. Palos township, with a smaller population, will elect 11.

The five major offices to be filled in each of the county's 30 townships are supervisor, clerk, assessor, collector, and highway commissioner. In addition to these, the four larger southwest townships will elect five constables and five justices of the peace, while Palos township will elect three of each.

As filing closed in the offices of the township clerks last week, indications were that Thornton township will be the scene of the most heated campaign on the southwest side.

Propper Is Storm Center.

Storm center of the three-way battle in Thornton is William F. Propper, township supervisor for the last 30 years. Both the regular Democratic organization and a new nonpartisan coalition party have announced their opposition to Propper and his slate, which includes Walter Haines, running for reëlection as collector; Henry Templin, candidate for clerk; John Ravesloot, candidate for assessor, and Leo Sankey, candidate for highway commissioner.

William H. Winterhoff of Lansing, township clerk for the last eight years and candidate for supervisor, is leading the nonpartisan ticket. Running with him are two incumbents who were originally elected on the Republican ticket with Propper—William D. O'Hara, assessor, and Joseph Nitz, highway commissioner. Other candidates include William Jacobs, a justice of the peace running for clerk, and Roe Mailstrom, running for collector.

Democratic candidates in the Thornton race are Arthur Dillner, for supervisor; Lawrence Cairns, for clerk; Wen Croak, for assessor; Fred Stanley, for collector, and Matt Kobus, for highway commissioner.

Negligence Is Charged.

In Bremen township, "negligence in township administration and the cost to the taxpayers of last year's relief scandal" have been declared as the campaign issues by another new faction, the "Better Government party."

Heading the ticket as candidate for supervisor is Ernest G. Fairbank, president of the Forest Ridge school

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

MR. and Mrs. O. Marley Thompson, 7120 Vernon avenue, celebrated their golden wedding last week. A reception for more than 60 friends and relatives was held in their home from 5 until 7 o'clock. The couple has lived on the south side for 37 years. Mrs. Thompson, as Dr. Lillian Thompson, has been a practicing physician for 30 years. At the celebration the "bride" wore a corsage of yellow orchids. There were gifts of golden china and other appropriate presents. The family includes two daughters, Mrs. H. Russel Stapp of South Bend and Mrs. Henry M. Frey of Elkhart, two grand daughters, and one great-grand child.

O. M. Thompson.

Mrs. Thompson.

South side members of the Chicago Catholic University club will become better acquainted with the shamrock this afternoon. The club's monthly meeting in the Midland hotel will be in the form of an Irish program. Speakers will be Daniel J. McGrath, Irish consul; Dr. Arthur C. L. Brown, professor of English at Northwestern university, and Miss Susan Dwyer, instructor in speech at Loyola university.

AN exhibition of painting, drawing and craft work done by the pupils of six public and seven private elementary schools in the neighborhood will be given at the Hyde Park Art center, 1500 East 57th street, starting tomorrow and continuing until March 31. The exhibit was arranged under the direction of Harold Haydon of the art center and head of the art department at George Williams college.

Lieut. Elmer W. Schuessler has been called for active duty as dental officer at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. He was resident oral surgeon at Cook County hospital and instructor in exodentia and minor oral surgery at the Chicago Dental college, an affiliate of Loyola university. Lieut. Schuessler lives with his wife and three children at 1762 West. 95th place.

Miss Jacque Henkel, 6751 Oglesby avenue, has been cast in the rôle of Reba in the Masquer's production, "Family Portrait," given this weekend at Pomona college, Claremont, Cal.

Mrs. Roche Sinderson, 5304 University avenue, and Miss Lucille Boyer of East Chicago, led alumnae groups to the 31st anniversary celebration of the Phi Omega Pi national sorority last week at the Chicago Woman's club.

School Farm Courses Take Up Defense Needs

Learning what makes an automobile run is the role of these youths in the rural defense program at Bloom High school. While Instructor William Neitfeldt (left) looks on, Leslie Wilken (center) and Theodore Tattersall are studying the problem at close range. Some day they may be called as mechanics or electricians in the nation's defense.

NEW MECHANICS STUDY OFFERED AT BLOOM HIGH

Classed as Reservoir for Labor Needs.

Training young farmers to do their part in the defense program—either on the farm or in the factory—is a new objective of the 10 year old agricultural education program at Bloom Township High school in Chicago Heights. A rural defense course has been added as a part of the government's plan to create a reservoir of skilled labor to meet labor shortages which might arise during a time of national emergency.

The new course is part of an extensive vocational training program laid out by Elmer Rowley, agricultural instructor at the school. The class is composed of approximately 40 young farmers who are being given training in mechanics and electricity. Under the guidance of experts, the students dismantle tractors and trucks, wire houses, and barns, and study ignition systems.

Graduates Are Registered.

The eight week defense course, requiring 120 hours of study, is now being duplicated in other high schools thruout the state. At the end of the course the young farmers are registered with the state employment service as competent mechancis or electricians.

The interest shown by the students in this course, according to Rowley, is indicative of their attitude toward national defense. They feel that they have as much to contribute to the defense program as their urban neighbors and are eager to prove their contention. Because many of them have access to tractors, combines, threshing machines, and other farm machinery, instructors in the course have found them apt pupils.

The rural defense course, however, is still only a part of the agricultural education program at Bloom. As a part of the regular school curriculum, boys and girls from the rural districts of the township are given a vocational agricultural course for which they receive high school credit. Another class for young men who have already begun farming, meets on Monday evenings to discuss detailed phases of their work. A third class, for adult farmers, meets on Wednesday nights to discuss government policies, new farming methods, and farm management.

15 Hours a Week.

The rural defense class meets for nine hours on Saturday and three hours on Tuesday and Thursday nights. The federal government supplies the entire cost of the course.

Cost of the vocational classes is not assessed directly to farmers of the community. Bloom High school pays half the expense and federal grants cover the remainder.

The classes are held during winter months when farmers are free to leave the land in an attractive white one-story building which was erected by members of the building and trades classes of the school at a cost of $6,500. In the building are classrooms, a tool shop, meeting room, and a modern hatchery.

More than 170 adult farmers and farm boys and girls are enrolled in the four classes. During the evening class for older farmers, half an hour is set aside as "gadget time." Inventions displayed by the farmers during this period range from a special device to facilitate mowing to an ordinary rock which was guaranteed by its owner to keep farm bills down—"just set the rock on your bills and it will keep them down."

Take Field Trips.

At the conclusion of the evening meetings hot dogs and hamburgers are served by the wives of the farmers. Group trips are sometimes taken to the farms of members to study "how the other fellow does it." In the youth classes, young farmers are required to report on projects of their own undertaking. Some raise calves, others keep cost account records of their fathers' farm machinery.

Indicative of the recognition the Chicago Heights school has received is the fact that the University of Illinois sends groups of its senior agricultural education students to Bloom for periods of six weeks to gain experience in vocational work. Altho Bloom serves all residents within an area of 36 square miles, many farm boys and girls come from outlying communities and pay tuition in order to participate in the program.

Southwest Siders Given Degrees at St. Louis U.

Two southwest side residents were recently awarded degrees in midterm ceremonies at St. Louis university, St. Louis, Mo. Sister St. Joseph Peacher of St. Bernard's hospital was granted a master of science degree, while John Henry McCummiskey, 709 West Garfield boulevard, was given a master of arts degree. Both students are graduates of Loyola university.

Professor at Mundelein to Address Catholic Club

Miss Miriam Laughran Rooney, professor of psychology at Mundelein college, will be guest speaker before the meeting of the social service department of the South Side Catholic Woman's club Thursday afternoon in the Southmoor hotel. Mrs. Thomas J. Burke, 8034 Emerald avenue, is chairman.

FOR CITY OFFICIALS.

Housing conditions in the blighted areas of our city have placed much stress on the poor living conditions. The lack of enforcement of city ordinances caused these conditions to flourish. Urgent, continuous appeals to city authorities for enforcement by numerous civic organizations were ignored.

In the face of such agitation for increased enforcement, which is the sure remedy to prevent the spread of disease and death among the inhabitants of these illegal, overcrowded, damp and filthy living quarters, officials of the department of health reduced the force of housing inspectors from 13 to 8 men, instead of enlarging the force.

In less than a year a number of children were bitten by rats, resulting in at least one death, several substandard buildings collapsed, causing death to some occupants, and recent tragedies in which five persons lost their lives in fire traps can be traced directly to the laxity of enforcement of city housing ordinances. These occurrences could have been prevented and lives saved if the appeals for proper enforcement had been heeded.

MRS. CAROLYN D. MILES,
325 East 55th place.

INDIGNANT.

As a lifelong resident of the southwest side whose two children ate in the Englewood High school cafeteria every school day for four years, I would like to express my indignation at the board of education taking over the cafeteria from the Englewood Woman's club.

I am not a member of the club, but it seems logical to me that the interests of the school children would be nearer the hearts of Englewood mothers than those of the school board politicians. Who is going to get the profits that the woman's club formerly gave to worthy charities? Is Mayor Kelly going to see to it that the children get a balanced diet?

It seems to me that if, as you say, the woman's club started the high school cafeteria idea, it should be subsidized by the city and allowed to take over a few more south side high school lunchrooms.

L. M. McK.

WANTS BUS EXTENSION.

For the benefit of northwest siders who work in Clearing and other southwest side districts, the civic improvement clubs, chambers of commerce, and business men should try to get the Chicago surface line bus route on Cicero avenue from 63d street to Archer avenue extended north to 25th street. In this way the route would connect with the Cicero avenue street cars which run south to this point. This would also connect the northwest and west sides with the airport and with the 63d street car line which would carry them east.

GEORGE BECHANIST,
6245 Berenice street.

Old Timers' Rally.

Eaton-Priddy post of Chatham will hold an Old Timers' reunion Thursday night at the post clubrooms, 7936 Cottage Grove avenue. Dinner will be served at 7 o'clock. David H. Fass is in charge of reservations.

PASTOR TO BE GUEST AT RECEPTION NOTING TENTH ANNIVERSARY

The Rev. Howard A. Vernon, pastor of the Englewood Baptist church and president of the Chicago Church federation, will be given a reception in observance of his 10th anniversary as minister of the Englewood congregation at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the church community house, Englewood and Stewart avenues.

Before his recent election to the church federation presidency, the Rev. Mr. Vernon served as vice president of the organization. He is also a trustee of the Chicago Baptist association.

POST RESTORES OLD RESIDENCE IN AUBURN PARK

McCullough Legion Has Own New Quarters.

From community eyesore in 1937 to one of the most modern, attractive buildings in the Auburn Park neighborhood in 1941—that is the story of the remodeled home of Leroy A. McCullough post of the American Legion. The final phase of the remodeling—a $4,700 "face lifting" job—is nearing completion, and the members of the post are as proud of the story of their new home as they are of the building itself.

That story begins in July, 1937, when Columbus DesChatelets, a past commander of the post, first explored a vacant and abandoned bungalow residence at 8219 South Halsted street. Gaining entrance thru a rear door, DesChatelets explored the boarded-up structure with lighted matches.

Post Buys Building.

Seeing the possibility of obtaining a home for the McCullough post, which since its organization in 1922 had met at various places in the Auburn Park-Gresham neighborhood, DesChatelets reported his discovery to Florenz J. McGrath, post finance officer and a counselor on building values. After another inspection trip thru the building, which was slowly being destroyed by vandals, the two men convinced the post that the structure could be made into a home for the organization. The building and an adjacent lot to the south were eventually purchased for $1,500, with the purchasers assuming a tax lien against the property.

The post's building committee by this time included Dr. E. A. Schlageter, Mrs. Agnes Schlageter, William A. Vincent, Anthony Egan, John J. Pubins, Martin Meehan, Edward Cassidy, John Heiman, and Bernard McDonough. A subcommittee on construction was formed to include William Burdick, Amos Erickson, Joseph Nolan, Peter Peterson, Harry Thome, William Cusick, Frank Shannon, Ray Strasser, and Byron Henley.

Veterans Subscribe Cost.

After March, 1939, when a $2,000 bond issue was floated and bought in its entirety by post members, work progressed rapidly. Members did most of the carpentry work on Saturdays and Sundays and fixtures were bought with funds raised thru various campaigns. The post auxiliary, under Mrs. Agnes Schlageter, assumed the decorating job. Mrs. Schlageter, an army dietician in the last world war, is among the few woman members of the American Legion.

Last December, after the house had been renovated, the post decided to apply the proceeds of a carnival toward a new front for the building. When finished next month, this project will add 13 feet to the old building and give the clubhouse a 32 foot frontage on Halsted street. The addition will include a cloak room and anteroom for the hall on the main floor and a basement lounge.

The addition is constructed of gray brick. A plate glass panel above the stainless steel door will display an American flag, illuminated from behind, and a large bronze Legion plaque will be fixed over the entrance.

CHICAGO LAWN JUNIORS OFFER MUSICAL TODAY

The music department of the Chicago Lawn Junior Woman's club will present a musical at 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Chicago Lawn Presbyterian church, 62d street and St. Louis avenue. Featured on the program will be religious songs sung by a trio consisting of Dr. S. C. Kehl, Ray Flavin, and James Vicha. Miss Elizabeth Small and Miss Rita Jean Farrell will appear as soloists and Betty and William Hardtke will sing novelty duets. Kenneth Kehl will close the program with a trumpet solo.

Boy Scout Troop No. 636 Will Sponsor Hobby Show

Boy Scout Troop No. 636 of the Englewood Methodist church, 64th street and Stewart avenue, will sponsor a hobby and curio show Friday evening at the church. In addition to the Scouts' hobbies and a camp display, hobbies and collections of Englewood residents will be shown.

Bride Now at Home

Mrs. William J. Frietag was Miss Helen Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, 7156 Normal boulevard. After a wedding trip the couple returned to Chicago to live at 6617 Stewart avenue.

FIVE TOWNSHIPS TO PICK 121 FOR ELECTIVE POSTS

Voters Will Register Choice April 1.

board. Running with him are Will E. Erp, for clerk; Ellis G. Flaws, for assessor; William H. Fleischauer, for collector, and Howard L. Hulett, for highway commissioner. Fleischauer, an incumbent, is the only candidate on the ticket who has previously held township office.

The opposition in Bremen is headed by Walter Dohl, a justice of the peace running for supervisor, and three incumbents—Charles Neilson, assessor; Edward Reihmer, clerk, and William Kreis, highway commissioner.

Nonpartisan Slate.

Two groups which deny any affiliation with the Democratic and Republican organizations filed tickets in Calumet township. The "nonpartisan" slate is headed by Charles Schwartz, running for reëlection as township supervisor. Running with him are Edward Bochmann, for clerk; Wells E. Crockett, for collector; Joseph Michalek, for assessor, and Lyle Aulwurn, for highway commissioner.

This ticket will be opposed by a newly-formed Calumet Township Citizens' party, led by George Chianda, candidate for supervisor; Nicholas Guglielmucci, for clerk; William Garver, for collector; Paul Parchem, for assessor, and Stanley Bojarski, for highway commissioner.

In Palos township, as in Calumet, battle lines are drawn between the "ins" and the "outs." Peter Lucas, who succeeded his father as township supervisor nine years ago, is running for reëlection on a Citizens' ticket with George Mikelson, candidate for clerk; Dan Sullivan, for highway commisioner; George Heidel, for assessor, and Robert Kotrba, for collector.

The "outs" in Palos have formed a Harmony party under the tutelage of Lester Mahaffay, Republican township committeeman. Their candidates for the major offices are George E. Weeks, for supervisor; Mrs. Antoinette King, for clerk; Thomas J. Crawford, for highway commissioner; Robert G. Blowney, for assessor, and Irving H. Pronger, for collector.

Can Elect Themselves.

Republican candidates in Worth township, nominated at a caucus in Blue Island on Feb. 15, need only to vote for themselves to be elected on April 1. The unopposed candidates are Christ Rust, Blue Island, supervisor; Charles J. Hanley, Blue Island, clerk; Joseph W. Lentz, Blue Island, assessor; William Harnew, Oak Lawn, collector, and Dan Crandall, Worth, highway commissioner.

Township politicians say that this is the first election within memory that the Republican ticket has been unopposed and ascribe the fact to a 3 to 1 beating it administered the Democratic organization in the 1937 election.

Activity in Blue Island.

Of the southwest cities and villages electing new officials on April 15, Blue Island, which lies in four townships, is the scene of greatest political activity. Besides taking part in the Worth, Calumet, Thornton, and Bremen township elections, Blue Islanders are preparing to elect a mayor, treasurer, police magistrate, city clerk, and seven aldermen.

Although filing in the city election does not close until March 11, Mayor John M. Hart has declared himself a candidate for reëlection. Police Magistrate Richard Seyfarth and City Clerk Louis Schwartz will run for reëlection with him on the Progressive ticket.

The Progressives have picked August Schreiber to succeed City Treasurer Edward Cordewick, who cannot succeed himself under state law.

Rumored mayoralty candidates to oppose Hart are Thomas Costello, a railroad conductor, and Fred Rice, city treasurer from 1933 to 1935 and mayor from 1935 to 1937.

Betrothal Announced

Mr. and Mrs. John Durkin of 7626 South Union avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice, to Dr. John L. Manning. Dr. Manning is the son of Mrs. Kathryn Manning and the late Dr. J. Leonard Manning.

CHARLIE RECALLS CHICAGO LAWN AS SEA OF MUD

He's Tapped Shoes There for 30 Years.

Charlie D'Andrea has been a shoemaker on West 63d street, out in Chicago Lawn, for more than 30 years. He's watched the area grow out of muddy ruts—called streets—into city pavements. He's watched Chicago Lawn babies grown into young men and women, and he's busy watching their children grow up now. He sees them even when they've moved away, because they all come back to Charlie to get their shoes fixed. Those shoes aren't so muddy now as back in the days when Chicago Lawn date night meant carrying the girls across the muddy streets, a ceremony Charlie describes as "just like a picnic."

Charles D'Andrea.

Charlie, who was born in Palermo, Italy, in 1885, is one of thousands who found opportunity in America. He still regards this country as a land of opportunity for the man who is willing to work hard and to do his job well. He says his motto is "to work every day the honest way." He says that's poor poetry in English. He can do better in Italian, but he won't translate his verses. He says he can't; the lines wouldn't "mean what I feel when I write."

Writes of Early Days.

The shoemaker has become part of the history of the district. His letter, tucked in the files of the Historical society documents at Chicago Lawn branch library, is an outstanding record of the early days. He writes:

"To me it seems all a dream to see 'Chicago Lawn' as it is today. The barren land which has been endowed with modern homes is an index to American progress.

"In reminiscing my 30 years in the 'Lawn,' I will never forget those pioneers whose fine and warm display of friendship has never ceased. . . .

Easy to Get Rabbits.

"There were but few houses here, and I could well remember the big trees and cultivated land which were owned by my friends. It wasn't very rare to go hunting near 67th and Crawford for plentiful rabbits. As a matter of fact, there were times when I didn't have to walk very far to assure myself of a rabbit roast for dinner.

"In regards to the street car transportation, some of us may recall they [the cars] would pass every 15 to 20 minutes. As such was the case, many persons would become very disappointed. . . . The fearless and courageous young 'Glenn Cunninghams' would run after their car . . . but running was made very difficult on account of the muddy street.

"This incident would frequently result disastrously when the trackster's shoes would become trapped by the thick and sluggish mud, and consequently [the runner] had to retreat barefoot to the spot of deportation."

Arrived in 1902.

Charlie came to this country in 1902 when he was 17 years old. Altho young, he'd been a shoemaker for four years. He explains that his father and his grandfather were shoemakers. He began learning his trade when he was 5 years old. He used to go to school in the mornings, help with the shoes in the afternoon, and do his homework in the evenings. He learned to make boots, but he has had little of that to do in America.

Charlie is of the Roman Catholic faith, but when his wedding day arrived, more than 25 years ago, there wasn't a community church large enough. So he was married in the Chicago Lawn Masonic temple, and all the folks in the community came for the ceremony and the party afterward.

Has Two Sons.

Now, a long time resident of the district, Charlie has two sons. One is a medical student at the University of Chicago, and the other is a dental student at Loyola. Charlie owns the building at 3351 West 63d street, where he operates his shop on the first floor and has his home on the second.

And that shop is a modern place, with a black topped plywood counter, venetian blinds at the back windows, buff walls, and pink lining on the set-in counter displays.

Charlie likes his work and has pride in it. He says he has a nice family and he's done well. And when he speaks of his good fortune he stops for a quick, reverent aside. He whispers, "Thank you, God."

Ridge Chorus Maps Rules for Scholarship Contest

Rules for its sixth annual American Conservatory of Music scholarship contest were announced last week by the Ridge Civic chorus. The scholarship, valued at $150, will be awarded to the contestant between the ages of 16 and 25 who has "the most promising voice." Mrs. Violet Landt, 1804 West 95th street, is secretary of the contest.

SPRING IN SIGHT! WOMEN TURN TO GARDEN LESSONS

It's the Main Theme with Southwest Clubs.

Gardening, spring fashions, and music will occupy the attention of many southwest side club women this week as those subjects are discussed and illustrated at the meetings of a dozen clubs.

Mrs. W. T. Church. [Kellogg Studio.]

The Beverly Hills Woman's club will conduct two study classes at Ridge Park fieldhouse Wednesday morning. Mrs. William T. Church, a former president and one of the founders of the club, will discuss "Soil and Its Relation to the Human Body" with the garden department at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Church has been active with the club continuously since 1908.

While this discussion is going on, the music department will study "Program Music" under Dr. Rosseter Cole, Chicago composer. After lunch members will hear Ralph E. Church, former 10th district congressman, discuss "Current Legislation."

Chicago Lawn Woman's Club.

Tuesday will be "Art day" at the Chicago Lawn Woman's club meeting in Marquette Park fieldhouse. Members will display and describe their own paintings, sketches, and other art works, and a guest speaker, Charles J. Bergstrom, will discuss "Traveling with My Paintbox." Bergstrom, a landscape artist, will be introduced by Mrs. W. A. Hanson. Tea will be served by Mrs. J. R. Thetford and her committee.

Among the exhibiting artist members will be Mrs. Charles Brening, Mrs. O. H. Bruhn, Mrs. B. J. Glidewell, Mrs. E. S. Fairfield, Mrs. C. M. S. Seybold, Mrs. E. T. H. Schmidt, Mrs. A. J. Bourne, and Mrs. S. C. Kehl.

Morgan Park Woman's Club.

Gardening will be the subject of the Morgan Park Woman's club meeting Monday afternoon in the Morgan Park Methodist church. Mrs. Mabel Fuller Johnson of Riverside will give a lecture on flower arrangements and answer questions from the audience. Luncheon will be served by Mrs. William G. Heffron and her committee. The program was arranged by Mrs. Robert E. Black, garden chairman.

Hamilton Park Woman's Club

Three speakers will address the Hamilton Park Woman's club this week. Carveth Wells, explorer and lecturer, will discuss "Camera Hunting in the Malayan Jungle" at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening in Hamilton Park fieldhouse. Proceeds of this lecture, arranged by Mrs. Walter Long, will go to the club's philanthropic fund.

At 11 o'clock Tuesday morning Maurice G. Morrison will describe the Arab philosophy of life and members of the club will model costumes brought by him from the Near East. Dr. Shirley A. Hamrin, professor of education at Northwestern university, will discuss "Vocational Training for Youth" at 1:45 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. J. D. Worden and Mrs. Frank Hall arranged the Tuesday programs.

Homewood Woman's Club.

Music by Jan Sibelius, the Finnish composer, will be heard and discussed at a meeting of the Homewood Woman's club at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Village hall. Mrs. Vernon Pipher will read a paper on "Finland, Home of Sibelius," and music by the composer will be sung and played by Mrs. Bernard Eisele and Mrs. George Gallati. Mrs. E. D. Chapman and Mrs. F. E. Smith will be hostesses.

Englewood Woman's Club.

Gregor Ziemer, lecturer and foreign correspondent who wrote "2010 Days of Hitler," will speak before the Englewood Woman's club tomorrow afternoon on "Two Americans Who Came Home." The meeting will be held at the Englewood Masonic temple, 6730 Wentworth avenue. Mr. Ziemer's wife, Edna, a soprano, will present a song recital.

In the morning Mrs. Albert J. Fisher, chairman of the creative writing class, will present Mrs. Kendrick Harger, who will read her story, "My Mistake," which received first prize in the 1940 3d district woman's club competition. Mrs. Herman Ellsworth will have charge of musical entertainment and tea will be served by the committee under Mrs. Arthur Miller.

Gresham Woman's Club.

Luncheon will be served members of the Gresham Woman's club and their guests at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon following a meeting of the club's board at the Auburn Park Masonic temple, 7832 South Union avenue. Mrs. Ralph Mero, a flower show judge, will be guest speaker. The afternoon program, which includes a music recital, was arranged by Mrs. Joseph Varnes, garden chairman, and Mrs. Harlan Sorenson, music chairman.

Brainerd Woman's Club.

Rudolph J. Mohr will discuss "Plants and Exhibits" at a meeting of the Brainerd Woman's club garden department at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning in Ridge Park fieldhouse. Mrs. George C. Gault will discuss "Book Browsing" on a program arranged by the literature department. Following a luncheon in the library, served by Mrs. Earl J. Whitman and her committee, the drama department will present three one-act plays.

Neighborhood Woman's Club.

Leonard P. Aries, Chicago attorney, will discuss "The American Way" at a meeting of the Neighborhood Woman's club at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in Ogden Park fieldhouse. The program, arranged by Mrs. Bessie Vonder, will be devoted to law observance. Mrs. Harold J. Vonder will read poems.

Columbus Manor Woman's Club.

Miss Betty Browning, club editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Mrs. Edward Pfeifer, 3d district press and publicity chairman, will be speakers at the Columbus Manor Woman's club meeting at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at 9516 South Melvina avenue, Oak Lawn.

Palos Woman's Club.

Mrs. Lester Lanyon, garden chairman, will present an illustrated lecture by Mrs. Margaret Nice at a meeting of the Palos Woman's club Thursday afternoon in the Palos Park village hall.

Palos Heights Woman's Club.

The second annual spring fashion show of the Palos Heights Woman's club will be held at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening in the Palos Heights Community house. Mrs. Harry Clayton is chairman, assisted by Mrs. Andrew Troutman and Mrs. August Wilmsen.

St. Barnabas Woman's Club.

The St. Barnabas Woman's club will hold its annual bake sale tomorrow in the club hall, Longwood drive and 101st place. Entertainment, arranged by Mrs. Donald Grace, will be provided by children of St. Barnabas school.

Clearing Woman's Club.

A motion picture, "Garden in the City," will be shown at a meeting of the Clearing Woman's club Tuesday night in the Legion hall, 5649 West 63d street. In charge of the program are Mrs. C. W. Hays, motion picture chairman, and Mrs. Harold Leach, conservation and garden chairman.

Chicago Heights Women.

Mrs. S. Y. Patterson, chairman of the Chicago Heights Woman's club conservation committee, will present a study program at a meeting of the garden department at 2:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. C. E. Showalter, 1428 Edgewood avenue. Members will nominate officers of the department for the coming year.

Englefield Association.

The Englefield Improvement association will hold its March meeting at 8 o'clock tomorrow evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Page, 7738 South Wolcott avenue.

Famous Patient Now Enjoys Glowing Health

Now that she is as healthy as any one else, Barbara Jean Herpich, 7215 Ellis avenue, can enjoy the pictures taken of her three years ago when she awoke after sleeping for 21 days. Barbara, who is in second grade at the Paul Revere school, was afflicted with encephalitis lethargica (sleeping sickness) after an attack of the measles. Her plight attracted national attention. She is looking at the picture which appeared in The Tribune on April 12, 1938.

Will Be June Bride

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick M. Stapleton, 6505 South Oakley avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Mary Rita, to Robert Burns Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burns Sr., 5721 South Union avenue. The young couple plan to be married next June.

MANUAL TRAINING GLEE CLUB WILL OFFER OPERETTA

The Pullman Free School of Manual Training Alumni Glee club will present its third annual operetta at 8:15 o'clock Saturday evening in St. Willibrord's hall, 11408 Edbrooke avenue. The show, entitled "Tune In," is directed by Hilda Butler Farr.

Incidental music will be supplied by the Marainia trio, consisting of Norma Van Gameron, Lorraine Butler, and Georgia Vander Weit, accompanied by Art Muehl.

SOUTHWEST P.-T. COUNCIL TO NAME NEW OFFICERS

Business Session Will Be Tomorrow.

Southwest Parent-Teacher council will meet tomorrow at the Mount Vernon school, 105th and Morgan streets. Registration will start at 9:45 o'clock. Greetings will be extended by Mrs. D. J. Flanagan, president of the council; Mrs. I. J. Miller, president of Mount Vernon P.-T. A., and Mrs. Anton Swane, principal of the school. The annual election of officers will be held during the morning session.

The afternoon meeting will open with selections by the school band. Miss Mary E. Courtenay, Gompers school principal, will speak on "Facing Facts."

"Counseling Together for Training and Education" will be the theme for the all-day meeting of districts 1 and 25 of the Chicago High School council when they meet Thursday at Bowen High school, 2710 East 88th street. Registration will begin at 9:30 o'clock in the morning. The morning session will be called to order by the president of the council, Mrs. Milton L. Weiner, at 10 o'clock. Reports will be given by Mrs. Frank Williams, director of district 1; Mrs. James J. Sharpe, director of district 25; Mrs. J. L. Alexander, chairman of the nominating committee, and Mrs. Frank L. White and Mrs. W. J. Barnes.

The afternoon speakers will be the Rev. Ralph A. Gallagher of the department of sociology at Loyola university, and Mrs. Raymond Miller, state chairman of juvenile protection.

District 25—The third in a series of daytime lectures will be held Wednesday at 11 o'clock at the Englewood Y. M. C. A. "The Romance of Archæology" will be the subject discussed by a representative of the Oriental institute at the University of Chicago.

Bennett—A symposium will be conducted by Mrs. Richard M. McClure, president of Better Films Council of Chicagoland; Mrs. J. J. Fitzgerald, faculty member, and Harold Kent, director of the radio council for the board of education, at 1:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the school. Election of officers will be held.

Fenger—Miss Mary Courtenay will talk on the work of the special schools at the meeting at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at the school.

Lewis-Champlin—Sam Campbell will give a travel talk at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening at the school. Mr. Campbell's talk will be illustrated with colored motion pictures.

STYLES IN DRESS TO BE SHOWN AT CLUB MEETING

Beverly Hills Juniors Plan Display.

Keeping ahead of the season, members of the Beverly Hills Junior Woman's club will model beach attire and garden togs at a style show and smörgosbord dinner tomorrow night at the Ridge park fieldhouse. The dinner will be served at 6:30 o'clock and will be followed by a skit introducing the style show.

Mrs. Karl B. Nagler, playing the part of a country bumpkin, and Mrs. Charles Faulkner, cast as a dress salon owner, will be featured in the skit, which was written by Mrs. R. W. Heiskell. Suits, coats, formal wear, furs, and hats will also be modeled in the fashion show—all to the strains of Strauss waltzes.

Committee members planning the event include Mrs. Richard T. Metcalfe, Mrs. William J. Rannells, Mrs. Lloyd Faure, Miss Luanne Bergren, Mrs. Charles W. Ppton, Mrs. Joseph F. Stokes, Mrs. Edward Barry, Mrs. James Stokoe, and Mrs. Donald Wilcox.

Blue Island Juniors.

The drama department of the Blue Island Junior Woman's club will present a patriotic play Tuesday at the Elks clubrooms, 13016 South Western avenue. Members of the cast include Miss Virginia Cahill, chairman of the drama group; Mrs. Eleanor Vagtborg, Miss Helen Roach, Miss Marjorie Roach, Miss Patricia Peddicord, and Miss Geraldine Schwartz.

A guest of the club, Mrs. Lauretta McInerney O'Brien, of the Chicago Musical college, will present several comedy numbers. Hostesses for the evening will be Mrs. Erwin Hupe, Mrs. Irving Brummer, Mrs. Lilly Briggs, and Mrs. Wayne Stephens.

Morgan Park Junior Women.

The Morgan Park Junior Woman's club will present a one-act comedy by Howard Reed, "Who Won the Revolution?" tomorrow night at Ridge park fieldhouse for members of the club and their guests and Friday night in Hamilton park fieldhouse in competition with other junior clubs.

Mrs. Russell Morgan, fine arts chairman, is in charge of the play, which will be directed by Mrs. H. S. Campbell. The cast includes Miss Ruth Downey, Miss Jane Jacobson, Mrs. Vernon Peterson, Miss Jane McLellan, Mrs. Henry Bollman, Miss Ruth MacNeill, Mrs. Russell Morgan, and Miss Naomi Erickson.

Brainerd Junior Club.

Mrs. Walter Ahner, chairman of the literature and motion picture committee, will present a triple feature program at the Tuesday meeting of the Brainerd Junior Woman's club. First attraction will be a documentary film, "Land of the Free." Other features of the meeting will be a question game, "Who Am I?" and judging of the oldest books brought to the meeting by club members. Mrs. Jerome Winnie will be in charge of refreshments.

Y.W.C.A. Club to Entertain Girls of Foundlings' Home

Three southwest side members of the Y. W. C. A. Business and Professional club have been named members of committees planning entertainment for girls of the Chicago Foundlings home on Thursday evening. They are Marguerite Pelzman, 8445 Gilbert court, Muriel Brunke, 6516 Winchester avenue, and Josephine DeMay, 7938 May street. The party marks the culmination of a project undertaken this year by the social service committee of the club.

Southwest Side Girl Engaged

The engagement of Miss Ruth Mae Eckstrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Eckstrom, 1425 West 80th street, and Thomas F. Whalon Jr., 8212 South Bishop street, is announced by Miss Eckstrom's parents.

VOLUNTEER LIST OF DRAFTEES IS ON DOWN TREND

Boards Forced to Call Up Registrants.

Volunteers among the conscripts being inducted in Chicago were used up last week to the point where many of the local boards were forced to start calling up their registrants in regular order.

Of the 951 Chicagoland draftees who were inducted into the army in the week that ended last Tuesday, 534 were men who had asked to be drafted immediately rather than wait for their order numbers to be reached. However, the ratio of volunteers had been dropping sharply day by day, until last Tuesday they were in the minority, 148 to 152.

Draft officials said they expected this trend to continue for an indefinite period. They predicted that as soon as inductions settle down to a routine, there will be only a smattering of volunteers.

Cook county furnished 561 of the selectees inducted during the week, the other 390 being made up of quotas contributed by the other Chicagoland counties. The Chicago station also handled 388 draftees from downstate, or a total of 1,339 for the week. Most of the inducted men were sent to reception centers at Fort Sheridan and Camp Grant.

Here is the list of newly inducted men from this section, the letter V denoting those who volunteered:

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Something new in winter air conditioning for use with hot water or steam heating has been installed in the recently built home of Mr. and Mrs. David Park, 380 Green Bay street, Winnetka.

This is a ductless unit, designed to give warm air, humidified for health, and to distribute this air thruout the house.

Home owners and builders these days are on the lookout for constructive methods which will insure healthful, comfortable home air, and proper humidification should be considered in the light of an economy, not an expense.

Manufacturers and heating and ventilating engineers have been working hard on various ways to provide this necessary moisture to indoor air.

Hot Weather Use Also.

This unit in the Park home resembles a recessed convector except that it requires a floor grille. Installation is made by a heating and piping contractor in practically the same manner and with the same materials as the recessed radiator or convector.

Of interest, too, is the fact that this same unit can be used to create a circulation of air in hot weather.

Its method of performance is not complicated. Two blower type fans draw the cold air along the floor into the floor grille and here air is cleaned by an efficient filter located below the floor grille and then drawn thru the humidifying chamber which is below the filter. Then the air passes over a finned heating element in the wall, and we find it emerging from upper grille cleaned, filtered, and humidified.

Few Units Needed.

Only one or two of these units are considered necessary for complete winter air conditioning in the average house when they are used as an accessory to radiators or convectors.

In this home there are two: one in living room on the first floor, and one in an upstairs bedroom. According to Mr. Park, these have maintained 35 to 40 per cent humidity in his home this winter.

There are other methods of maintaining humidity in your home if it is heated by hot water or steam.

Units called humidifying radiators are available with rustproof cast iron evaporating pans as a part of the radiator assembly. The water which supplies the humidity is automatically controled and obtained thru a float regulated valve which keeps water at a selected level in the evaporating pan. One of these humidifying radiators under ordinary conditions is sufficient to humidify the average home of six to eight rooms.

Humidifier Attachments.

A very inexpensive small automatic humidifier may be attached to your steam radiators. This device sends humidity into the air in proportion to the steam pressure in the radiator. As the heat increases, the humidifier sends out an increased volume of moisture to temper the over-dry air. If a room is of ordinary size, one of these units has ample capacity to humidify it properly. The condensed steam which accumulates in the bottom of the humidifier automatically supplies the water used for the humidifying process.

And there are always hand fill pans which can be secured by brackets to the inside of radiators. As long as there is heat in the radiator and added moisture is necessary to a room, evaporation of water from the pan will take place.

Engagement

Mrs. Marie A. Francell of 5034 Archer avenue has announced the engagement of her daughter, Lorraine Marie, to Matthew B. Kass, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kass, 4216 Archer avenue. Both Miss Francell and Mr. Kass attended Kelly High school and Wilson Junior college.

FORT DEARBORN CAMERA CLUB TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Lyman Harrington, 9752 South Calumet avenue, will be official "greeter" for southwest side camera fans attending an open house program of the Fort Dearborn Camera club in Mather tower, 75 East Wacker drive, Friday evening. Pictures taken by members of the club will be on exhibit during the open house, which will begin at 5 o'clock. Harrington, a member of the club for the last 10 years, is active in planning the group annual spring photography course, which opens March 11.

The junior auxiliary of the Woodlawn hospital will give an art tea in Burton court, University of Chicago, on March 16 for the benefit of the children's room in the hospital.

13 SOUTHWEST SIDERS NAMED U. OF C. ADVISERS

Thirteen southwest side residents were appointed regional advisers last week by the Alumni council of the University of Chicago. The regional adviser staff, created four years ago, consults with high school students about the University of Chicago and acts as a liaison group to bring prospective students to the campus for tours, lectures, and student activities.

New southwest members of the staff are Sidney A. Burrell Jr., 6809 South Union avenue; Frederick Lehnhardt, 5329 South Spaulding avenue; Mrs. Herbert Burkhart, 9820 Winchester avenue; Harold Hughes, 6 East 112th place; Arthur F. Goeing, 10563 South Hale avenue; Charles C. Donovan, Chicago Heights; Paul R. Mernitz, Chicago Heights; Donald B. Anderson, Homewood; James L. Beck, Harvey; Laurence A. Carr, Homewood; Raymond Pracht, Riverdale; Edward J. Ryan, Tinley Park, and Robert Brinker, 9232 South Laflin street.

Chicago students will be invited to campus activities being staged this year in connection with the university's 50th anniversary celebration. The new group of advisers joins a staff of about 25 alumni already acting as advisers on the southwest side.

Halevi Society to Give Evening of Jewish Music

The Halevi Choral society will present "An Evening of Jewish Music" as the last event of the lecture-forum series sponsored by the Englewood Jewish Juniors at Oir Chodosh Community center, 702 West Englewood avenue, at 8:15 o'clock Wednesday evening.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, March 3.

The earlier the lawn is given an application of plant food the better and this is a fine time to apply it. Use a complete, commercial food. Various standard combinations of the essential elements are manufactured by fertilizer companies. Simply follow directions.

If applied now while the ground is wet the chemicals will dissolve. It is unnecessary to wet down the lawn. If applied after it is well along it is essential that it have moisture immediately. Chemical fertilizers are available in many sources; they are comparatively cheap and easily applied.

Shrubbery borders will stand an application of food. Perennials likewise respond to food and for them it is simply necessary to spread some of the material around the plant and hoe it under.

Tuesday, March 4.

Soils that have been under cultivation for any length of time may require an application of lime. If the soil is acid, lime may be applied, ground limestone being the best to use.

To escertain whether the soil needs lime test it with litmus paper. Take a piece of the paper, moisten it, and insert it in a slit in the ground. If the paper turns pink or red the soil is acid and needs a bit of lime. However, do not apply lime unless the soil must have it, altho some plants will do well in a slightly acid soil. Use at the rate of 8 to 12 pounds to the hundred square feet of area.

Vegetables can be sown in small boxes and transplanted, and when the weather is warmer the plants can be hardened off in the coldframe.

Wednesday, March 5.

Improve vegetable land by spreading a layer of well rotted manure over it and spading it under. Manure adds some plant food to the soil, but its chief value is aid in the liberation of elements thru chemical reactions. Clay soils are benefited by incorporating manure in them when they are spaded or plowed.

Fertile land is the result of applications of food, the plowing under of green crops, such as the legumes, and proper after care. The same holds true when flowers or lawns are maintained.

The first preparation of any garden is of such value toward future success that it should be done in a thoro manner. When once established a garden is easy to maintain.

Thursday, March 6.

Add a few fruit trees in the garden. The best varieties of pears for this region are Clapp favorite, Seckel, and Bartlett. Peaches are not as hardy, but the Elberta and Late Crawford are standard varieties. Best varieties of sour cherries are Early Richmond and Montmorency. Buy fruit trees from reputable nurseries to obtain the varieties wanted.

Dahlies can be grown from seed sown now. Soak canna seed for a week and then sow in pots, transplanting into other pots when large enough to handle.

Friday, March 7.

Start tuberous begonias by laying them in boxes or sand in a warm place. Pot when well started in growth. Give careful attention to seedlings or they may decline from crowding. Repot all that need it to prevent disease attacks. Prune all fall blooming shrubs.

Dahlia tubers can be started in boxes of soil and if the new shoots are taken from the parent tuber when from two to three inches long they will root in a light, sandy loam in pots.

Saturday, March 8.

Just as the frost leaves the ground is the best time to fertilize trees. Bore holes 12 to 18 inches deep in a ring around each tree and at the extreme end of the branches. The number of holes depends on the size of the trees, the rule being to bore 10 holes for each inch of diameter of the trunk and place half a pound of some good fertilizer in each hole. A 10-8-6 combination is a good mixture.

Watch the house plants; they will soon need repotting. Lay in a supply of soil; have plenty of drainage material at hand.

[Prepared in coöperation with Garfield park conservatory.]

Alumni to Meet.

South side alumni of Alpha Chi Omega will hold their next meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Herbert Furst, 8323 Vernon avenue. The meeting will begin with supper at 6:30 o'clock.

WHERE TO FIND LOCAL STATIONS AFTER MARCH 29

WGN Stays at 720 Kilos; Many Others Shift.

The impending reallocation of the frequencies [wave lengths] of broadcasting stations has already brought a number of inquiries for the new positions of the stations to be affected. The changes, if finally approved, will go into effect at 2 a. m. central time March 29.

All American broadcasting stations with frequencies higher than 720 at present would be assigned new frequencies somewhat higher than at present under terms of the North American regional broadcasting agreement, a pact between the United States, Canada, Mexico, and Cuba.

Under terms of the agreement the United States gives up several channels and the other countries make similar concessions with the expectation that interference between stations of two or more countries on the same bands may be eliminated.

The shifts will force listeners to get accustomed to finding many stations in new positions on the dial. Seven hundred and ninety-five of the 882 broadcasting stations will be assigned new positions. W-G-N, however, will occupy the same clear channel as now, 720 kilocycles.

	Old.	New.
W-G-N	720	720
WIND	560	560
WMAQ	670	670
WBBM	770	780
WLS-WENR	870	890
WAAF	920	950
WCFL	970	1000
WMBI, WCBD	1080	1110
WJJD	1130	1160
WJOB	1200	1230
WSBC, WCRW, WEDC	1210	1240
WMRO	1250	1280
WGES	1360	1390
WHIP	1480	1520

Stations with frequencies from 550 to 720, inclusive, will retain their positions; stations from 740 to 780 will move up 10 kilocycles [one channel]; stations from 790 to 870 will move up 20 kilocycles; stations from 880 to 1450 will move up 30 kilocycles; certain stations now in the 1460-1490 field will move to 1500-1530. Receivers with push buttons will need to have these controls adjusted.

PROVISO HIGH IS NEXT ON CITIZEN'S SHOW ON W-G-N

Proviso Township High school of Maywood will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow program at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday over W-G-N. The main audience studio of W-G-N will be filled by 600 boys and girls representing the 4,000 students of Proviso High.

E. R. Sifert, superintendent, will speak briefly, and the Proviso choir will sing three numbers. One of these, the school song, "Forward Proviso," written by Florence Galajikian, Maywood composer. Other numbers by the choir, under the direction of Robert Lee Osburn, will be Elgar's "As Torrents in Summer," and "O, Be Joyful All Ye Lands," by Gretchaninoff.

Philip Maxwell will be master of ceremonies. Mr. Maxwell will interview Ralph Meyer, student of Montefiore School for Boys, Chicago, who is studying to be an electrical engineer.

Bride-to-Be

Mary Paxton, conductor of the Wishing Well program on W-G-N, and Durward Kirby, NBC announcer, have announced their engagement. They met at WLW, Cincinnati. A fall wedding is planned.

Out on a Limb

Dorothy Deere, Chicago motion picture and drama critic, is one of four experts who get out on a limb weekly on the program "We Predict," on W-G-N from 6:30 to 7 p. m. Sundays. Others who forecast future events are Bob Elson, sports; Donald McGibney, national affairs; Irving Pflaum, foreign affairs.

BERT WHEELER WILL BE STARRED ON CHICAGO HOUR

Two New Groups to Be Featured.

Bert Wheeler of stage and movie fame will be featured on "In Chicago Tonight" at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday over W-G-N and the coast-to-coast Mutual network.

Bert Wheeler.

Working with Wheeler will be Hank Todd, comedian and stooge. Both are appearing at the Chicago theater in Earl Carrol's "Vanities."

Continuing with the new policy of introducing talent not generally known to the radio audience, W-G-N will present two new groups for their network debut. The Tanner Sisters, a vocal trio featured in the Al Jolson show, "Hold On to Your Hats," which recently closed in New York, will be heard. Another new group is the Six Rocquettes, colored boys from Detroit. The boys came to Chicago for recording work and auditioned at W-G-N at the same time. They were immediately signed.

In Chicago Tonight, a regular Thursday evening program of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, is produced by William A. Bacher. Music is under the direction of Harold Stokes and Robert Trendler.

CHURCH LADIES' AID TO OBSERVE 50TH BIRTHDAY

One hundred twenty members of the Ladies' Aid society of St. Stephen's Evangelical Lutheran church, 5652 South Sangamon street, will observe the fiftieth anniversary of the society's reorganization at a service beginning in the church at 11 o'clock this morning.

The church and ladies aid were both organized in 1871 and were reorganized in 1879. The aid society reorganized in 1891. Mrs. Lizzie Henning and Mrs. Otto Bohn, two of the 20 members who attended the reorganization meeting in 1891, are still active with the group. Mrs. Mary Werveke, who was recording secretary for 25 years, also is still active.

Present officers of the society are Mrs. Jacob Hunssinger, president; Mrs. Joseph Capetta, vice president; Mrs. O. H. Groth, recording secretary; Mrs. T. N. Hunt, financial secretary, and Mrs. Jessie Lang, treasurer.

Tacoma Choir on Air.

Musicians and choristers of the Tacoma, Wash., public schools will be featured in the Music and American Youth broadcast at 10:30 a. m. today over WMAQ.

'ODE TO CHICAGO' WILL HIGHLIGHT NEW W-G-N HOUR

Chicagoland Program to Start Saturday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The new Chicagoland hour which will be presented for the first time from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network will recreate the "Ode to Chicago," which was aired for the first time last October to inaugurate the fall and winter season.

"Ode to Chicago" is a unique production suited particularly to the medium of radio. It employs drama, poetry, sound effects, and a stirring musical score, specially written for it by David Broekman, the noted Hollywood composer and conductor, to portray historic highlights of Chicago and to describe its character and spirit. It was conceived by William A. Bacher, and the script was written by Francis Coughlin and John D. Hess.

The new Chicagoland hour represents an expansion of the Chicagoland Concert hour series. But it will occupy the radio period that has been vacated by the Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, which concluded their long run last evening with a special broadcast of "I Pagliacci" at the Civic Opera house before an audience of more than 3,600.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will continue the talks he has been giving on the Concert hour on the new Chicagoland hour. The Concert hour has been running for a half hour on Wednesday evenings.

Familiar music will be presented on the new program by Marion Claire, noted soprano, and the W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

The W-G-N Players will be featured in the "Ode to Chicago." Mr. Bacher will produce the show.

In addition to the dramatic presentation the W-G-N Concert orchestra will present Brahms' "Academic Festival," and Michael Wilkomirski will be featured in a violin solo of Glazounov's "Violin Concerto No. 1."

SOWERBY WORK TO BE PLAYED BY ORCHESTRA

The Chicago Symphony orchestra, under the baton of Dr. Frederick Stock, will broadcast for the first time Leo Sowerby's Symphony from 9:30 to 10:15 p. m. next Thursday over W-G-N and the Mutual network. Sowerby wrote it for the orchestra's Golden Jubilee season.

Born in Grand Rapids, Mich., of British and Canadian descent, Mr. Sowerby took up the study of music at an early age in Chicago. He was a bandmaster in the A. E. F. of 1917. He is now organist and choirmaster of St. James' church in Chicago.

The present Symphony was sketched out in 1939 and finished last July in Palisades Park, Mich. Dr. Stock and the orchestra will also present Enesco's "Rumanian Rhapsody No. 2."

SUPERMAN SHOW OPENS ON W-G-N TUESDAY EVENING

The adventures of Superman, mythical character famed for his unbelievable deeds of strength and bravery, will be brought to the air for middle west listeners by W-G-N. Starting Tuesday at 7:15 p. m. and continuing each Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday thereafter at the same time, Superman will bring thrills and excitement to W-G-N listeners.

Superman has become known to millions of Americans thru the daily comic strip pages of newspapers, radio programs, and magazine adventures. More than 150,000 persons, young and old, belong to the Superman of America club. Even technicolor movies will soon reflect Superman's personality.

Avrum Denoff Will Be Guest on Your Music I. Q.

Avrum Denoff, violinist of the Chicago Civic orchestra, and Sherman Edwards, member of the "New Pins and Needles" cast, will be the experts on classical and popular music on "Your Music I. Q." over W-G-N from 8:30 to 9 p. m. tomorrow. Charles S. Brearley Jr. of Riverside will join Denoff and Edwards as the layman music expert.

Veronese to Be Subject of Great Artists Show

The life of Paolo Veronese, great 16th century Italian artist, will be the subject of the "Great Artists" program which will be broadcast by W-G-N at 4 p. m. next Tuesday. The "Great Artists" series are presented in coöperation with the Chicago Art institute to stimulate public interest in art.

AMERICAS SPEAK PROGRAM OPENS OVER MBS TODAY

Vice President Wallace on Rotary Hour.

Vice President Henry A. Wallace, speaking from Washington, will address a message of greetings to the Latin American audience during the première broadcast of Rotary and Mutual's "The Americas Speak."

The Rotary program, saluting Mexico, will be heard over W-G-N and a coast-to-coast Mutual network hookup at 2 p. m. and will be carried to South America by the powerful short wave stations WGEO, Schenectady, N. Y., and WRUL, Boston, Mass.

Many stations of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation also will carry the program.

Miguel Aleman, Mexican minister of the interior, speaking from Mexico City, will respond to Vice President Wallace's greetings. Twenty minutes of the half hour program will originate from Mexico City.

Typical Mexican music will be featured, including the "Zacatecas March" by Genaro Codina and "La Paloma" by Yradier. The balance of the program is designed to convey a better understanding of Mexican life, customs, and geography to the American public.

"The Americas Speak" series calls for broadcasts to originate on successive Sundays from Havana, Cuba; Quito, Ecuador; Gautemala City, Guatemala; Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Santiago, Chile; Bogota, Columbia; Caracas, Venezuela; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Montevideo, Uruguay, and Lima, Peru.

Lack of short wave facilities makes it impossible to arrange programs from the other countries of South America.

Local South American stations will pick up the short wave broadcasts and rebroadcast them by long wave. These international good will radio programs are expected to help cement the bonds of friendship and understanding between the Pan-American nations.

LISTENERS GET CHANCE TO PUT OWN IDEAS ON AIR

Radio listeners who have ideas of their own for new radio programs will have their inning each week during the broadcast of What's Your Idea?, new radio show to be heard for the first time at 5:30 p. m. today over WMAQ and NBC. The cast will include Ted Fio Rito and his orchestra, Little Jackie Heller, teno, and Nelson Olmstead, with guest stars. Simone Simon will be the first guest. Listeners will be invited to submit, in outline form, their ideas for new kinds of radio programs. Each week the three best ideas submitted will be developed into a script and produced in abridged form during the broadcast. A cash award of $100 will be paid for each idea used, with a bonus of $100 for the best idea of the week.

ENLARGE CRIPPLED CHILDREN'S SCHOOL

W-G-N CITIZENS RALLY TO STAR PROVISO SCHOOL

Will Be Heard Over Air on Tuesday.

BY ONEY FRED SWEET.

Believing that responsibilities as well as privileges of democracy should be stressed, Proviso Township High school is making consistent effort to train its pupils to exercise their rights and to fulfill their obligations as citizens.

Supt. E. R. Sifert.

"In this day," said Superintendent E. R. Sifert, "when our social and educational institutions are coming to a fuller realization of the importance of teaching for democratic living, it is well that the secondary schools consider just what is involved in such teaching. The necessity of bringing to students an appreciation of the benefits of free speech, free press, religious liberties, right of assembly, and franchise cannot be overemphasized.

"It is imperative that more emphasis should be placed upon the duties involved in democratic self-government; the duty of clear, straight thinking about state problems; the assumption of the responsibilities of a democracy."

To Be Heard of W-G-N.

Tuesday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, the voice of Proviso will be heard on the W-G-N radio program, "Citizens of Tomorrow," with Philip Maxwell as master of ceremonies. Six hundred students will attend the program at which Superintendent Sifert will be the speaker. R. Lee Osburn, head of the music department, will direct the school's a cappella choir in "As Torrents in Summer," by Elgar; "O Be Joyful All Ye Lands," by Gretchaninoff, and "Praise to the Lord," by Christiansen.

Proviso with its pretentious buildings and its enrollment of more than 4,000, only 30 years ago did not have a roof of its own. It was not until 1910 that a petition was circulated for a high school in the township that had been named after an amendment offered in 1846 by David Wilmot on behalf of advocation of the restriction of slavery.

Six principals have guided Proviso during its remarkable growth. The late James Porter Adams was the first, his administration including the year 1910-'12. John E. Witmer's term of office was 1912-'17. J. L. Thalman was installed as principal in 1917, and continued in the office for ten years. Will C. Robb followed Mr. Thalman. H. H. Eelkema held the office from 1933 to 1936. Mr. Sifert has been at Proviso for five years.

Deficiencies Are Found.

On taking office an analysis was made by Superitendent Sifert of the offerings of the school which revealed the inadequacies of subjects in the industrial arts department. Considering that 80 per cent of Proviso's students do not go to college, it was evident to the administration that greater opportunities were needed for the training of students in this department.

Today 1,566 boys are trained daily in the industrial arts departments by a corps of fourteen teachers. Now that the new aircraft engine plant of the Buick division of General Motors corporation is soon to locate in the community, it is pointed out that training in the industrial arts department of the school already includes classes in general shop, advanced bench work, mechanical, architectural, and machine drawing, vocational auto mechanics, home mechanics, auto theory, electricity, printing and vocational building trades drafting.

The coming semester will see added classes in machine training such as foundry work, arc welding, drill presses, shapers, milling machines, power hack saws, gas forges, and heat-treating furnaces.

Stress on Placement.

In the belief that good citizenship is best encouraged when graduates are able to obtain jobs, Proviso has placed special stress on its vocational guidance and placement program. From Sept. 1 to Dec. 31, 1940, the counselors reported that 150 graduates and undergraduates registered with the bureau, and during that period 56, or 37 per cent, were placed in jobs.

Proviso is credited with having had the most rapid growth of any school in the suburban area. Statistics show that in 1910 the enrollment was 241; in 1920, 787; in 1930, 2,250, and in 1940, 4,152.

Much interest has been taken in following graduates for a survey of their out-of-school adjustments, and the effect of economic conditions on their ability to obtain and maintain employment.

Classes of 1930, 1935, and 1937 were studied by the committee. Results revealed that 64 per cent of those contacted were permanently employed, 14 per cent were attending school, 8½ per cent were unemployed, and 7 per cent temporarily employed.

Many Clubs Formed.

The spirit of Proviso has tended to develop not only the mind, but cul-

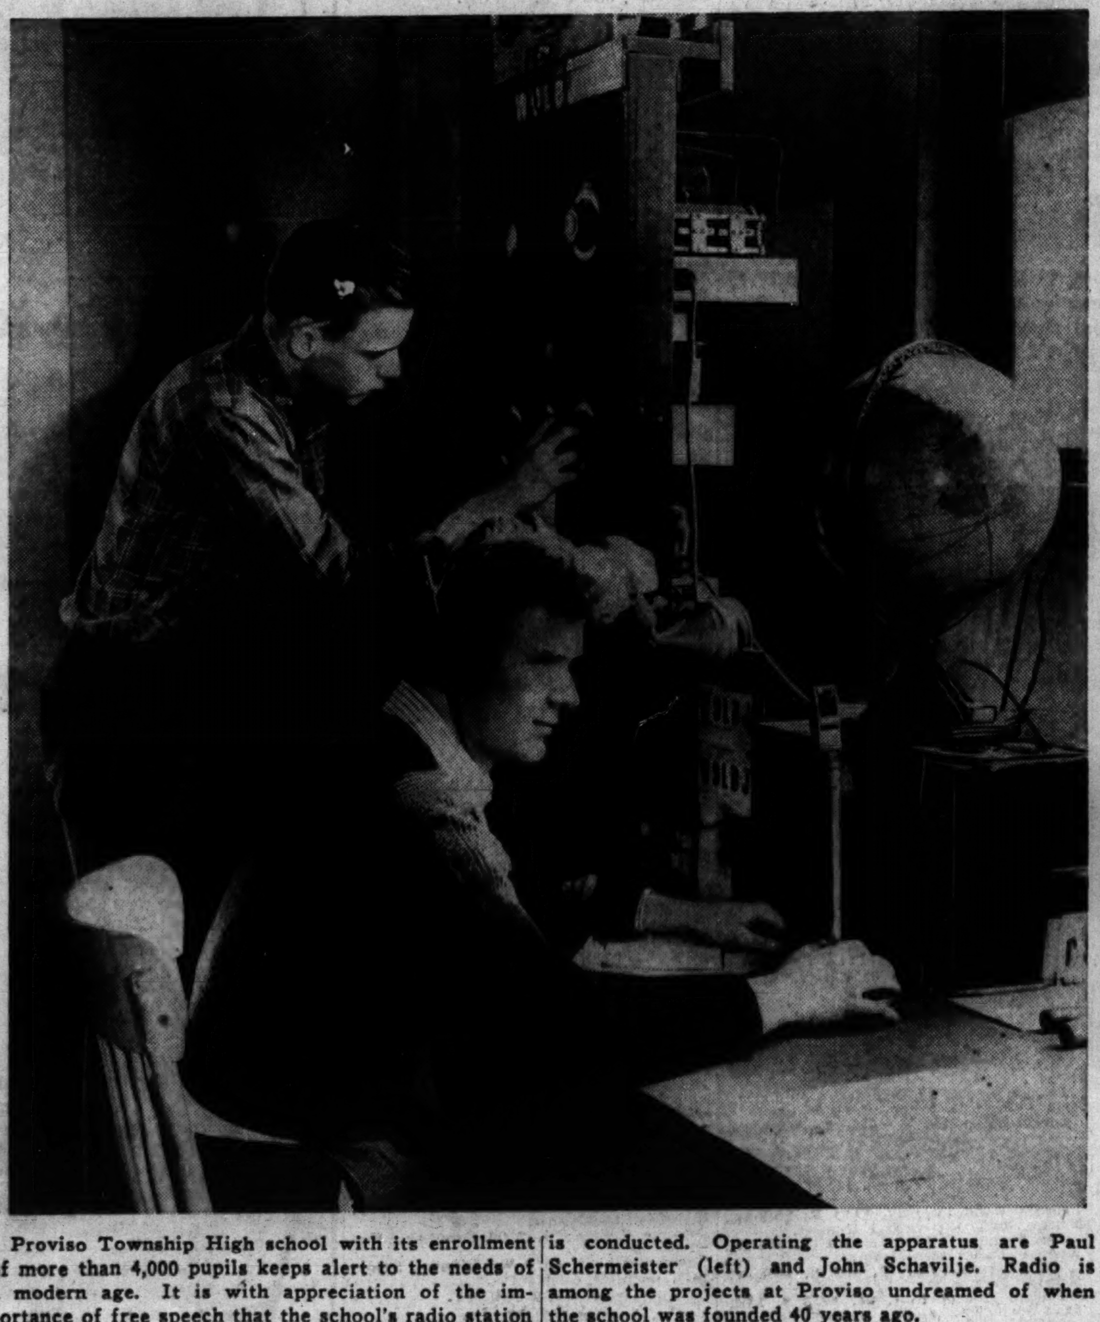
Proviso High School Keeps Abreast of a Changing Industrial Age



Proviso Township High school with its enrollment of more than 4,000 pupils keeps alert to the needs of a modern age. It is with appreciation of the importance of free speech that the school's radio station is conducted. Operating the apparatus are Paul Schermeister (left) and John Schavilje. Radio is among the projects at Proviso undreamed of when the school was founded 40 years ago.

Proviso as seen thru the eyes of Miss Betty Locke, a student from Maywood, begins at the desk of Gene Matrewitz of Westchester, busy with a lesson in mechanical drawing. Betty is president of the Girls' league and Gene is president of the senior Hi-Y club.

John Brown, one of the 1,566 boys taking daily training in industrial arts, shows Betty how to test the magneto of a car.

It is "with a grain of salt" that Betty takes Jack Barrett, left, and John Hegji as they boast of their success in home economics.

TRAINS RUMBLE THRU ATTIC ON $15,000 ROAD

Owner Will Give Away Work of 10 Years.

BY MILDRED WILDS.

William Haverly Sr., 646 24th avenue, Bellwood, has owned a railroad for 10 years. He not only owns it, he made it, and now he's about ready to give it away. One of the executives of the company got married.

Mr. Haverly says, "If some charitable organization wanted my railroad to exhibit to make money for itself I wouldn't expect anything out of it. I'd just like lots of people to see it."

The railroad is worth seeing. It has 1,525 feet of track and 260 pieces of equipment. It has 13 steam type locomotives, one streamliner, a diesel engine, and a gas-electric engine. Every bit of the railroad was manufactured by hand in the Haverly basement, even down to the grabirons and the brake cylinders. The Haverlys made the cars from sugar pine.

President at Night.

Mr. Haverly Sr. is commercial agent for the Southern Railway company. He's been in the job for 29 years. But every night for the last 10 years he has come home and taken over the presidency and the job of operations manager for "The Little Southern." Every night for 10 years trains have operated smoothly and efficiently in the Haverly attic.

Mrs. Haverly is not an officer of the company, but she contributes to its success. Without a murmer of complaint she has adroitly hung her clothes on wash day around the circular saws, the jig saws, and the drill press in the basement workshop.

She has entertained calmly while 16 engines roared around the attic over her head. She has gone out for a pleasant motor trip and ended up sitting in a freight yard while her husband and sons measured a caboose or a refrigerator car. She has been patient while the extensive Haverly library on locomotives, railroad operations, and car building grew from floor to ceiling.

Owners and Operators.

The Haverly home is "The Little Southern railway." The owners and operators are the Senior William, the Junior William, recently married and now residing at 5633 Washington boulevard, and Bob, 15 years old, a student at Proviso Township High school. Then there's sister, Betty Lou, age 9.

Bill Junior is really the founder of "The Little Southern." He objected 10 years ago that the railroad train under his Christmas tree wasn't like a real one. He said it was out of proportion. Bill Senior agreed and had an excuse to start railroading in earnest.

He bought the tools and materials and father and son gave their time, 10 years of it, to building the railroad round and round thru the Haverly attic. There is a complete automatic signal system, a roundhouse, a terminal, water towers, signal towers. There are four places where the operators sit to maneuver the trains.

Everything to Scale.

Every piece of equipment is exactly 1/45th the size of similar equipment on a railroad. Everything is scaled down so that 17/64ths of an inch equals one foot on a regular car or engine. Even the clock is adjusted so that one of its hours equals five minutes of reality.

Every year different neighbor boys have spent hours in the Haverly workshop and attic. Just now, on Mondays, operating night, and Fridays, shop night, the staff of maintenance men consists of Joe Miller, Bellwood; Charles Speechley, Berkeley; J. L. Zeman, Forest Park, and Henry Schwaegermann, Maywood.

Railroad presidents have been thrilled with the Little Southern's performance in the Haverly attic. Millionaire executives have leaned on the office boy's shoulder on visitors' night. It costs $20 a month to maintain the system. Recently a completely new paint and repair job was done.

Valued at $15,000.

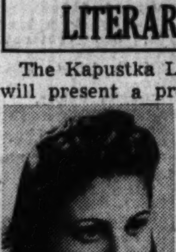
Because he is a pioneer in the field of railroad modeling, Mr. Haverly served as the first president of the Model Railroad association. Now since Bill Junior is married Mr. Haverly would like every one to see his hobby.

Valued at $15,000 in time and material and insured for $8,500, the Little Southern has already drawn admiration from crowds at the Palmer House, the La Salle hotel, a rug company, and department stores.

Mr. Haverly now would like some organization to take the railroad out of his attic and display it from coast to coast.

BOYS' BROTHERHOOD REPUBLIC TO HAVE LITERARY PROGRAM

The Kapustka Literary Foundation will present a program Friday evening for the 500 boy citizens of the Boys' Brotherhood republic at their city hall, 1530 South Hamlin avenue. Dr. Ben L. Reitman, author and sociologist, will speak on "Life."



Sally Perlin.
[Goldblatt Photo.]

There will be poetry recitations by Rita Korczak, Miriam Horowitz, Martha Pilarczyk, Zilla Volmer Tietgen, Fan C. Smith, and Leanord Bukowski. Messages of welcome will be delivered by Bruce and Stan Lee Kapustka, directors of the literary foundation.

The evening has been planned as ar. opportunity for the boys to discover their talents for poetry, drama, short story writing, and criticism. Entertainment will be provided by Sally Perlin, 1423 South St. Louis avenue, soprano soloist.

Theological Seminary Head to Talk at Lenten Service

Dr. Albert W. Palmer, president of the Chicago Theological seminary, will speak on "Humanity's Shortest, Wisest Creed" at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening in the Euclid Avenue Methodist church, Oak Park. The meeting is one of four Lenten mid-week services sponsored by the First Methodist, the Euclid Avenue Methodist, the Cuyler Avenue Methodist and the Washington Boulevard churches.

DEDICATE $40,000 PERSHING SCHOOL FRIDAY EVENING

Berwyn Civic Units to Join in Ceremonies.

Dedication of the recently completed General Pershing school building, 37th street and East avenue, Berwyn, will take place Friday night with all organizations of the community participating. Mrs. Henry Stolfa, president of the Pershing Parent-Teacher association, under whose auspices the program has been arranged, will be the presiding officer. Victor Mazylewski will be master of ceremonies.

J. Kay White.

Invocation will be by the Rev. Francis A. Ryan of St. Leonard's church. The Rev. H. C. Hoover, pastor of the First Congregational church in Berwyn, will give the benediction. Musical selections will be provided by the orchestra of District 100, the harmonica band of Pershing school, and the Mothersingers.

Will Present Wooden Key.

Members of the board of education of District 100 will be introduced by Max Hahn Jr. A large wooden key will be presented by Mr. Hahn to Norman Bridges, architect. The key in/turn will pass to John J. Hejna, president of the school board, E. W. Martin, superintendent of the district, and nally to J. Kay White, principal of the school. Mrs. Stolfa will respond to the group of speakers.

The school had its beginning in 1928 in the then newly developing district bounded by Ogden avenue, Oak Park avenue, Pershing road, and Lombard avenue. The first unit of the plant, including class rooms only, was constructed that year, with Vernon Baker as the first principal. Mr. White came to the school seven years ago.

Mrs. W. H. Scott, president of the first P.-T. A. at the school, chose the name, and Gen. Pershing responded to the request for an autographed portrait of himself which now hangs in the school hall.

Begun Last March.

Last March, construction was begun on the $40,000 project that includes a modern gymnasium, the large stage of which may be utilized for kindergarten purposes. The building offers an opportunity for community athletic and entertainment purposes.

Pershing is one of seven schools in District 100. Faculty members are Miss Rosemary Smith, Miss Frances Tibbals, Miss Mildred Boling, Miss Mildred Irwin, Miss Rosamond Abbott, Miss Blanche Vodvarka, Miss Hattie Hein, Miss Marian Waiss, Miss Vivian Johnson, Miss Velma Stevenson, Ray Meyers, and Miss Alta McIntire. Alfred G. Diamond is chief engineer, and Ben Promnitz is custodian of the building.

B'nai B'rith Juniors Hold Democracy Day Tomorrow

Lawndale B'nai B'rith Juniors will hold a democracy day meeting tomorrow evening in Temple Judea, 1227 South Independence boulevard. The guest speaker will be the Rev. Harold J. Kenny, director of the parochial activities of the Catholic Youth organization. Ruth Sherman will be the guest soloist.

Elks' Kangaroo Court.

Officials of Du Page county will entertain fellow members of the Elmhurst Elks lodge Thursday night at the club courtroom. George R. Murphy, deputy county treasurer, is chairman of the annual kangaroo court. Co-chairmen are Walter R. Youngberg, county treasurer, and Ted Hammerschmidt.

SCOUTING COURSE WILL BE HELD IN RIVERSIDE TODAY

A senior scouting specialization course will be conducted this afternoon in the Riverside town hall by the West Suburban council, Boy Scouts of America. Supper will be served at 6:15 and the session will continue until 9:30 o'clock. E. W. Pierce is the council's leadership training chairman.

The course will be conducted by George Chronic and A. F. Claude, Region Seven deputy Scout executives. Riverside district, under the chairmanship of Carl Hoffman, will be host.

Each district commissioner has been asked to serve as a patrol leader to recruit for attendance at the meeting.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

THE bass soloist of Our Lady of Sorrows church choir is Alexander Kulpak, 541 North Harvey avenue, Oak Park, who for three consecutive years, in '35, '36, and '37, won first place in the west side bass section of the Chicago Tribune Music Festival contest. On Sunday, March 30, Mr. Kulpak will present the solo numbers in the annual sacred concert to be held in Our Lady of Sorrows church. In 1938 Mr. Kulpak traveled thru Europe with the Zora Croation Male chorus and since then has sung in a number of operas presented in Chicago. He is president of Our Lady of Sorrows Choir association for the church located at 3121 West Jackson boulevard.

Alexander Kulpak.

EMILE A. LeGROS of River Forest recently received a membership in Phi Beta Kappa honorary scholastic fraternity, at Brown university, Providence, R. I., where he is a senior. He was graduated from Oak Park and River Forest High school with the class of '37 and was awarded the Brown club of Chicago scholarship for four years.

Mr. and Mrs. William Heath Worth will be at home in La Grange when they return from their wedding trip in the east and south. Mrs. Worth is the former Elsie Kohlstrom of Western Springs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Walfred Kohlstrom. Mr. Worth is the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy S. Worth of La Grange.

The Martha Webster circle is a newly formed group in Maywood. Its members all follow the radio story from which the organization takes its name. At a recent meeting at the home of Mrs. G. C. Young, 1820 South 18th avenue, a telegram of appreciation was received from the author of the script, Bess Flynn, in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George Clement, 1830 South 8th avenue, Maywood, announce the engagement of their daughter, May, to Vincent Surges of Chicago.

THE Americanism essay contest recently conducted in the seventh grade of the Naperville schools by the American Legion auxiliary was won by Frank Yee, a Chinese boy. Frank came to this country two years ago.

James Stacey recently returned to Berwyn from Morristown, N. J., with Mickey, a Seeing Eye dog that will be his new companion. Mickey has been well trained for his work in aiding the blind. A news stand that will provide accommodations for both Mickey and Jim has been made possible thru the interest of Jack Willis, who donated the lumber, and the Kiwanis club, that employed the carpenter. George Sluka made arrangements to have the stand built.

NAME W. SIDERS REGIONAL AIDS OF ALUMNI UNIT

Twenty-one west side residents were appointed regional advisers recently by the Alumni Council of the University of Chicago. The announcement was made by Charlton Beck, alumni secretary of the university. As members of the adviser staff the appointees will be available to high school students of the Chicago area who wish to learn more about the university.

The men and women are Alice L. Kaufmann, 5128 Concord place; Robert B. Anderson, Maywood; Arthur J. Koven, Maywood; Mrs. Clarence R. Conklin, Hinsdale; William B. Cassels, Clarendon Hills; John W. Webster, 219 South Lincoln street; Burton E. Ketchem, Lombard; John B. Martin, Glen Ellyn; Joseph Temple, Lombard; Gordon Moffett, Wheaton; Theodore J. Kuehnert, River Forest; Charles L. Walker Jr., River Forest.

Others are Vincent J. Cerveny, Berwyn; Leonard F. Swec, Western Springs; Arthur F. Heine, Elmhurst; Constance Fronk, Downers Grove; Mrs. C. Wayne Thomason, Downers Grove; Carl O. Bue Sr., Downers Grove; Mrs. John Allen, Batavia; John Allen, Batavia, and Zalmon S. Goldsmith, Aurora.

The advisers will act as liaison aids in bringing young people to the university for special tours, lectures, and student activities.

INAUGURATE NEW COLLEGE HEAD IN WHEATON MAY 9

Wheaton college will inaugurate Dr. V. Raymond Edman as its fourth president May 9. The inaugural program will include a morning convocation for the faculty, staff, and student body, noon luncheon for special guests, the afternoon inaugural, a formal banquet at the dinner hour, and an evening concert by the women's glee club.

Inaugural invitations are being sent to presidents of more than 400 colleges and universities, to educational leaders, civic dignitaries, and business and professional representatives thruout the country.

Dr. Edman came to Wheaton college as associate professor of political science in 1936, and was made head of the department in 1939. For one year he has served as active president of the college.

ADDITION WILL DOUBLE SPACE AT SPALDING

Special Equipment to Aid Pupils.

Construction will begin next month on a $750,000 two story brick addition that will double the size of the Spalding school for crippled children at 1628 Washington boulevard, it was announced last week by James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education.

John C. Christensen, school board architect who drew the plans and will supervise construction, said the new unit will in all likelihood be ready for use by the start of the second semester of next school term in February.

The addition will make the Spalding school a complete educational unit, Mr. McCahey pointed out. For the first time the physically handicapped child will find it possible to acquire a complete public school education, from kindergarten thru high school, in an adequately equipped plant.

Crowded Other Schools.

Up to now the only high school facilities afforded for such handicapped youngsters were improvised in two high school branches, Morrill branch of Lindblom at 6011 South Rockwell street, and Sabin branch of Tuley at 2216 Hirsch street. This arrangement, Mr. McCahey said, deprived the two high schools of much needed space and worked a hardship on the crippled children, who need specially designed and equipped buildings.

High school facilities for 500 children will be provided. This is more than enough to care for the city's needs at present, but school board officials felt that the reserve capacity should be added to care for the normal increases in population.

The new structure will also enhance the present clinical and treatment facilities of the school, which are regarded as being of primary importance. Rooms will be set aside for hydrotherapy, electrotherapy, and physiotherapy, and for violet ray, spastic and cardiac cases, deaf-oral and sightsaving cases, and dental work.

Trains for Trades.

Vocational training is emphasized at the Spalding school, the effort being to train the handicapped youngsters in trades that will make them self-supporting in later life. The present building program will bring the school to a high point of efficiency in this respect, Mr. McCahey said.

Room will be available not only for the usual high school curriculum, but also for teaching of subjects such as cooking, sewing, industrial arts, woodworking, printing, and weaving.

There will be 40 school rooms in the addition, which will also enlarge the clinic and treatment room and the bus entrance, as well as provide more office space, according to the school architect.

The rooms will include 13 class-rooms, five laboratories, numerous special rooms, a library, a gymnasium, several shops, and adequate office and restroom facilities for the large faculty the school requires.

One of the shops will be equipped to enable faculty workers to make braces and other mechanical aids for the needier cripples, and to repair such equipment where necessary.

Better Bus Facilities.

Free buses provided by the school board pick up crippled pupils at their homes, transport them to school and deliver them home in the afternoon. The new building will have special loading platforms, to make it easier for attendants to help the children in and out of their wheel chairs.

A new ramp of low gradient will permit the wheeling of chairs from one floor to another with a minimum of effort. There will be two elevators of ample size.

The treatment tanks and swimming pool are to be provided with special elevator type chairs to help the children in and out of the water. The building thruout has been designed especially for the convenience and comfort of the disabled, yet without sacrifice of educational advantages, Mr. Christensen said.

It was not until 1926 that the Chicago school board made its first large scale provisions for the teaching of crippled children. At that time the board took over the functions of an old clinic and hospital near the present school site where physically handicapped boys and girls were taught thru private enterprise. These public school facilities have been expanded many fold since.

Toman Library Forum Plans to Discuss 'American Way'

A round table discussion on "The American Way" will be presented at 8:30 o'clock Friday evening at the forum of the Toman library, 4005 West 27th street. The speakers will be Mrs. George Fox, Mrs. Wendell Green, and Mrs. R. M. Hillman.

Triple F Election.

The Triple F club, which meets at 458 North Parkside avenue, recently elected Arthur Sachsel, 1100 North Leamington, as its president. Other officers are Hassel Miner, vice president; Mrs. Joseph Valdez, secretary, and Mrs. Elmer Cutler, treasurer.

Voice of the West Side

Readers of the Metropolitan Section are invited to contribute to this column on matters of neighborhood interest. Readers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Full names and addresses must be given. No manuscripts will be returned. Address Voice of the West Side, The Tribune.

STONE PARK VOLUNTEERS.

On Sunday, Feb. 9, there appeared a letter under "Voice of the West Side" entitled "Bet Fire Will Win." The writer of that letter is dealing with a subject that means much to us and is speaking in condescending terms of our lack of necessary items, namely water, streets, and sewers.

Some of our citizens have been living out here in Stone Park under these conditions for three years. They have been hopeful of obtaining these essentials but our "Stone Parker" and friends have been conducting a series of law suits to block every attempt to secure water. Any normal citizen would want to have water, yet these people have tossed every obstacle imaginable in our path. Last year, four homes were burned to the ground because there was no means of saving them.

Since then there has been a volunteer fire department organized and we have been trying to raise money to purchase fire fighting apparatus and this, too, has been blocked. Some of these people who ridicule us would probably be wringing their hands in agony and pleading on bended knee if fire should destroy their home and all they own. Yet they can sneer and poke fun at our attempts to save our homes and loved ones.

The trustee who had the fire was fortunate in that only a little scorching was the result of it all. He has since collected his fire insurance money. But how about the four families who lost everything they owned last year?

Only last Saturday morning a home was saved from complete destruction by two volunteer firemen with the aid of a five gallon extinguisher. This one incident alone justifies the value of our existence as an organization.

CITIZENS FIRE VOLUNTEERS,
Ernest J. Palmer, secretary.

COURTESY AND THE RADIO.

Has Emily Post ever had anything to say about keeping the radio going even while company comes? My work takes me from house to house in a west suburb, and I find I have difficulty making myself heard above the noise of some favorite radio program that happens to be "on" at the time of my visit.

It is difficult to compete with a loud speaker, but the number of householders who turn it off as I enter the living room is negligible. I realize the hold that these set programs have on radio fans, but is it courteous to have more than one person speaking at the same time? I find that the radio is left on even tho I am able to distract attention of the listener. I believe I am raising a fine point in etiquet.

WEST SIDER.

WANTS BUS EXTENSION.

For the benefit of northwest siders who work in Clearing and other southwest side districts, the civic improvement clubs, chambers of commerce, and business men should try to get the Chicago surface line bus route on Cicero avenue from 63d street to Archer avenue extended north to 25th street. In this way the route would connect with the Cicero avenue street cars which run south to this point. This would also connect the northwest and west sides with the airport and with the 63d street car line which would carry them east.

GEORGE BECHANIST,

DINNER TO NOTE STONE LAYING OF AIRCRAFT PLANT

Proviso Will Welcome Buick Officials.

Coincident with the laying of the cornerstone for the aircraft engine plant of the Buick division of General Motors corporation in the community, Proviso township, under the leadership of Andy H. Frenzel, president of Melrose Park, will give a dinner early next month in the Chicago Towers club for war department and Buick company officials.

Andy Frenzel.

It is expected that guests will include Henry L. Stimson, secretary of war; Harlow E. Curtice, president of the Buick Motor division, and Dale E. Williams, also of Buick.

Aid in Planning.

Organizations and municipalities represented in making plans for the banquet were village officials, chamber of commerce leaders, real estate boards, service clubs, and educational and civic groups from Melrose Park, Maywood, Bellwood, Forest Park, North Lake village, and Stone Park.

Others on Committee.

Robert Wigglesworth, chief of police of Melrose Park; Sam Rubin, Lions club; Joseph De Grazia, real estate board; Sidney Tarkoff, board of education; J. Lorne Essery, Kiwanis club, and Frank A. Alden, secretary Melrose Park Chamber of Commerce, publicity.

Three local men given recognition for their efforts in obtaining the 31 million dollar plant for Melrose Park are Mr. Frenzel, Guy C. Guerine, village attorney, and Herman Weiss, village treasurer.

College Lecture.

Prof. Meyer Maxman will address the fifth lecture of the forum series at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in the Hebrew Theological college. His topic will be "The Present Jewish Situation in the Light of Yehuda Halevi's Philosophy."

VOLUNTEER LIST OF DRAFTEES IS ON DOWN TREND

Boards Forced to Call Up Registrants.

Volunteers among the conscripts being inducted in Chicago were used up last week to the point where many of the local boards were forced to start calling up their registrants in regular order.

Of the 951 Chicagoland draftees who were inducted into the army in the week that ended last Tuesday, 634 were men who had asked to be drafted immediately rather than wait for their order numbers to be reached. However, the ratio of volunteers had been dropping sharply day by day, until last Tuesday they were in the minority, 148 to 152.

Draft officials said they expected this trend to continue for an indefinite period. They predicted that as soon as inductions settle down to a routine, there will be only a smattering of volunteers.

Cook county furnished 561 of the selectees inducted during the week, the other 390 being made up of quotas contributed by the other Chicagoland counties. The Chicago station also handled 388 draftees from downstate, or a total of 1,339 for the week. Most of the inducted men were sent to reception centers at Fort Sheridan and Camp Grant.

Here is the list of newly inducted men from this section, the letter V denoting those who volunteered:

Railroad Man Builds One for Use at Home

President of the "Little Southern" railroad is W. W. Haverly, 646 South 24th avenue, Bellwood. The railroad's 260 pieces of equipment all scaled to 1-45th of railroad size were manufactured in Mr. Haverly's basement by himself, and his two sons, William and Robert. Neighbors to the Haverlys also interested in railroading serve as maintenance men. Mr. Haverly is commercial agent for the Soutrern Railway company. The railroad is installed in the attic of his home.

30 AMBULANCES FOR CHINA AIM OF SUBURB DRIVE

Groups Formed to Ask Needed Cash.

By holding dances, lectures, and making house to house canvasses, west suburban members of the Chicago Committee for Aid to China are helping to buy 30 ambulances to transport medical supplies inland and to carry the wounded in China. The appeal was sent out by William Hu, director of transportation for the Chinese Red Cross.

The ambulances, assembled in Rangoon and costing $1,250 in gold each, will be purchased thru the American Bureau for Medical Aid to China. Ten days after the receipt of funds from the Chicago Area committees, the ambulances bearing the name of the contributing organization in both Chinese and English will be in operation on the Burma road.

Seek Aid in Suburbs.

Aid for China is being solicited in La Grange, Hinsdale, Clarendon Hills, Western Springs, and Downers Grove. There is also a West Suburban Directing committee including members from Oak Park, Austin, River Forest, Maywood, Riverside, and Berwyn. Members of the organizing committee for this group consist of C. C. Shedd, Dr. C. A. Siler, and Norvil Beeman, men who have spent several years in China.

A committee was organized in Clarendon Hills on Feb. 20 by Mrs. William Wiebe and work for China in Western Springs and Downers Grove will be done thru the League of Women Voters.

Frank A. Russell is chairman of the La Grange directing committee. Mrs. Etta Tyler is treasurer and Mrs. F. S. Weber is vice chairman. This committee has placed receptacles for collecting money in business houses in the town.

The committee also plans to sponsor a series of book reviews in various organizations in the suburb, of Madame Chiang Kai-shek's book, "China Shall Rise Again." This month Ida Pruitt, in charge of Chinese Industrial coöperatives, will speak in the suburbs.

Is Hinsdale Director.

Samuel F. Beatty, former Hinsdale village president, is chairman of the Hinsdale directing committee. His vice chairman is James B. Van Vleck. Mrs. Martin Travers is secretary and Raleigh Kline is treasurer. On Saturday the Hinsdale young people will give a benefit dance for China in the Hinsdale Golf club.

CHURCH OUTLINES WEEK'S PROGRAM FOR ANNIVERSARY

La Grange Unit Rites Will Open Today.

The First Congregational church of La Grange this morning will begin a week's celebration of its 60th anniversary with an 11 o'clock service at which the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be administered Next Sunday morning the guest preacher will be Dr. Edward A. Steiner, professor of applied Christianity at Grinnell college. The combined choirs of the church will sing.

Wednesday night at 6:30 o'clock the anniversary dinner will be held in the dining rooms of the church. Former members now residing in other communities are being invited to join present active members at the dinner. Highlights of the 60 years of progress will be recounted and there will be songs by a quartet dressed in the costume of the 1880s. Dr. Hugh Elmers Brown, minister of the First Congregational church of Evanston, will be the speaker.

Aim to Cancel Debt.

A 60th anniversary project which will clear the church of all debt has been in the hands of a committee whose aim it is to announce successful results at the anniversary dinner.

The church had its beginning March 8, 1881, when La Grange was a village and 17 persons gathered in one of the pioneer homes to form an organization. The result was one of the most influential churches in the Chicago area and in the National Fellowship of Congregational churches.

The La Grange church has contributed a number of leaders for Congregational activities thruout the nation. Since its founding it has given more than half a million dollars to world missionary and philanthropic interests. In 1939 the church was 12th in benevolence, giving among the 6,000 Congregational churches in the United States.

Building in 1937.

In 1937 the church conducted a project during which a chancel was built, a rose window was installed over the altar, the organ doubled in size, and a chapel constructed.

The Rev. E. Paul Sylvester has been minister at the church since 1935. During the current year he is serving as moderator of the Congregational Christian Conference of Illinois.

Other members of the church staff include Miss Maude A. Devereaux, minister's assistant; Stanley H. Conover, director of religious education; George Howerton, minister of music; Mrs. H. Earl Sweitzer, parish visitor, and Miss Janet Warren, office secretary.

The committee in charge of the anniversary celebration consists of Wright H. Prickett, chairman; Mrs. H. H. Drewes, Mrs. Perry Hartronft, Mrs. R. C. Llewellyn, Miss Janet Stewart, Mrs. Julie M. Way, Carl B. Dunlap, and Martin F. Young.

JUNIOR INSTITUTE TO PONDER OVER WORLD AFFAIRS

400 Suburban Students Will Take Part.

On Friday and Saturday some 400 high school boys and girls will attempt to sift thru the muddle of world events that are a heartache and a headache to their mothers and fathers.

A banquet, two lectures and discussion periods will make up the ninth annual junior institute of the Oak Park council on international affairs to be held in the First Congregational church house, 848 Lake street, Oak Park.

The banquet will be held at 6 o'clock Friday evening and the speaker will be J. Martin Klotsche, whose topic will be "How Can the Americans Best Coöperate in the Present Crisis?" Dr. Klotsche is a world traveler and a historian. At present he is teaching history at the State Teachers college in Milwaukee. He lectured at the Adult institute on international affairs in Oak Park in October.

Forum on Saturday.

There will be a forum at 10 o'clock Saturday morning when the speakers will be Dr. Klotsche, on "Essential Steps to World Peace" and Edvard I. Hambro, who will talk on "I Saw it Happen in Norway."

Dr. Hambro is the son of the president of the Norwegian parliament and was born in Oslo in 1911.

William Scott, president of the senior class at the Oak Park-River Forest High school, is chairman of the junior institute. He conducted a preliminary meeting on Feb. 16 in the First Baptist church house when Virginia Melchert reviewed last year's program and Louise Percy previewed the 1941 program. Mrs. Paul C. Fox explained the history and purpose of the institute.

Assisting in Work.

Assisting Scott are Harper Brown, president of the student council; Carolyn Swett, president of the Girls' club; Ruth Caryl, president of the Girls' conference; Harper Brown and John Pine, president and vice president of the Boys' conference; Marion Compton, chairman of the Girls' Carry Over committee and Herbert Armstrong, chairman of the Boys' committee. Secretary of the institute is Barbara Mertz and Leonard Knopf is chairman of publicity.

An adult council serves as an advisory board for the students in planning the program and publicizing the institute. The chairmen are Miss Jeannette Magowan, instructor at the high school, and Mrs. Knox Bruno.

Founded 9 Years Ago.

The junior institute was founded nine years ago by Mrs. Henry Austin who had attended a similar meeting one summer when she visited Williams college. It was a peace institute held by the Quakers.

Howard Schomer, the first chairman of the institute, was president of the 1933 senior class. Mr. Schomer, a theological student at the University of Chicago, became known in the Chicago area in October when he refused to register in the draft on the grounds that he is a concientious objector to militarism.

Morton Junior Collegians to Offer Comedy Friday

Business Men Are to Hear Debate on Aid to Britain

Two speakers will take sides on the aid to Britain question at the luncheon meeting of the Garfield Park Business Men's association tomorrow afternoon in the Midwest Athletic club, 6 North Hamlin avenue. John Weaver, an insurance man, will speak on "Defending America First" and Marshall Solberg attorney, will speak on "The Need to Aid Great Britain."

Clean Heat for Home

The living room of the David Park residence in Winnetka, well equipped with modern winter air conditioning in the form of a ductless unit underneath the window. This circulates clean, warm, humidified air to all rooms on the first floor. The cold air is drawn into the floor grille and emerges humidified and clean from the grille in wall.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, March 3.

The earlier the lawn is given an application of plant food the better and this is a fine time to apply it. Use a complete, commercial food. Various standard combinations of the essential elements are manufactured by fertilizer companies. Simply follow directions.

If applied now while the ground is wet the chemicals will dissolve. It is unnecessary to wet down the lawn.

Tuesday, March 4.

Soils that have been under cultivation for any length of time may require an application of lime. If the soil is acid, lime may be applied, ground limestone being the best to use.

To escertain whether the soil needs lime test it with litmus paper. Take a piece of the paper, moisten it, and insert it in a slit in the ground. If the paper turns pink or red the soil is acid and needs a bit of lime.

Wednesday, March 5.

Improve vegetable land by spreading a layer of well rotted manure over it and spading it under. Manure adds some plant food to the soil, but its chief value is aid in the liberation of elements thru chemical reactions. Clay soils are benefited by incorporating manure in them when they are spaded or plowed.

Thursday, March 6.

Add a few fruit trees in the garden. The best varieties of pears for this region are Clapp favorite, Seckel, and Bartlett. Peaches are not as hardy, but the Elberta and Late Crawford are standard varieties. Best varieties of sour cherries are Early Richmond and Montmorency. Buy fruit trees from reputable nurseries to obtain the varieties wanted.

Friday, March 7.

Start tuberous begonias by laying them in boxes or sand in a warm place. Pot when well started in growth. Give careful attention to seedlings or they may decline from crowding. Repot all that need it to prevent disease attacks. Prune all fall blooming shrubs.

Saturday, March 8.

Just as the frost leaves the ground is the best time to fertilize trees. Bore holes 12 to 18 inches deep in a ring around each tree and at the extreme end of the branches. The number of holes depends on the size of the trees, the rule being to bore 10 holes for each inch of diameter of the trunk and place half a pound of some good fertilizer in each hole. A 10-8-6 combination is a good mixture.

NEW UNIT GIVES HUMIDIFIED AIR AS HEALTH AID

Improves Circulation as It Cleans.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Something new in winter air conditioning for use with hot water or steam heating has been installed in the recently built home of Mr. and Mrs. David Park, 380 Green Bay street, Winnetka.

This is a ductless unit, designed to give warm air, humidified for health, and to distribute this air thruout the house.

Hot Weather Use Also.

This unit in the Park home resembles a recessed convector except that it requires a floor grille. Installation is made by a heating and piping contractor in practically the same manner and with the same materials as the recessed radiator or convector.

Of interest, too, is the fact that this same unit can be used to create a circulation of air in hot weather.

Its method of performance is not complicated. Two blower type fans draw the cold air along the floor into the floor grille and here air is cleaned by an efficient filter located below the floor grille and then drawn thru the humidifying chamber which is below the filter. Then the air passes over a finned heating element in the wall.

Few Units Needed.

Only one or two of these units are considered necessary for complete winter air conditioning in the average house when they are used as an accessory to radiators or convectors.

In this home there are two: one in living room on the first floor, and one in an upstairs bedroom. According to Mr. Park, these have maintained 35 to 40 per cent humidity in his home this winter.

DON'T LET THIS HAPPEN TO YOU!

Who likes to tramp thru snow when a warm, dry ride in a car is available? Don't let this happen to you. Wet feet are not healthy.

If you are doing without the comfort and convenience of a dependable car in bad weather, consult the Used Automobiles for Sale columns in the Tribune want ad section.

Your present car may be the only down payment required on a comfortable, dependable car which can take you where you want to go. Review the Used Automobiles for Sale columns in today's want ad section now.

"LET 'ER SNOW!"

"My fuel bills are not nearly so high since I insulated my home."

How many of your dollars are escaping thru roofs which are not insulated?

An insulation job can pay for itself in fuel savings. In the Building Materials column of the Tribune want ad section you can find offerings of insulation, as well as lumber, glass, storm sash, plumbing and heating equipment and many other homeowners' needs. Watch this column.

LOOKING FOR A PARTNER?

Do you need outside capital or specialized ability to carry on your business? Take your problems of this sort to the Partnerships and Investments column of the Tribune want ad section. Capable men and women with many kinds of business background and experience seek partnership connections thru those offerings. Watch this column in the want ad section for your chance to get in touch with the partner you seek.

Because they get better results, want ad users place more want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

W-G-N to Stay at 720; Many Others Shift.

The impending reallocation of the frequencies [wave lengths] of broadcasting stations has already brought a number of inquiries for the new positions of the stations to be affected. The changes, if finally approved, will go into effect at 2 a. m. central time March 29.

All American broadcasting stations with frequencies higher than 720 at present would be assigned new frequencies somewhat higher than at present under terms of the North American regional broadcasting agreement, a pact between the United States, Canada, Mexico, and Cuba.

Under terms of the agreement the United States gives up several channels and the other countries make similar concessions with the expectation that interference between stations of two or more countries on the same bands may be eliminated.

The shifts will force listeners to get accustomed to finding many stations in new positions on the dial. Seven hundred and ninety-five of the 882 broadcasting stations will be assigned new positions. W-G-N, however, will occupy the same clear channel as now, 720 kilocycles.

	Old.	New.
W-G-N	720	720
WIND	560	560
WMAQ	670	670
WBBM	770	780

COST OF DEFENSE TO BE TOPIC OF REVIEW STAND

The job of paying for national defense and how the cost will affect every citizen, will be discussed on the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand at 10 a. m. today over W-G-N and the Mutual network. Harry G. Guthmann, professor of finance; Lyndon O. Brown, professor of marketing and advertising and director of market research of a prominent advertising agency, together with Stewart Y. McMullen, professor of accounting and specialist in federal income taxes, will analyze the different means open to the government in financing the national defense program.

Great Dane to Be Topic of Becker Hour Today

The sterling qualities of the Great Dane will be described on Bob Becker's Chats About Dogs program to be broadcast by W-G-N at 1:45 p. m. today. Becker will interview F. W. Evanger, noted Great Dane breeder.

Bride-to-Be

Mary Paxton, conductor of the Wishing Well program on W-G-N, and Durward Kirby, NBC announcer, have announced their engagement. They met at WLW, Cincinnati. A fall wedding is planned.

Out on a Limb

Dorothy Deere, Chicago motion picture and drama critic, is one of four experts who get out on a limb weekly on the program "We Predict," on W-G-N from 6:30 to 7 p. m. Sundays. Others who forecast future events are Bob Elson, sports; Donald McGibney, national affairs; Irving Pflaum, foreign affairs.

LISTENERS WANT THEATER OF AIR BACK NEXT FALL

Letters from 42 States and Canada.

Thousands of letters filled with praise for the Chicago Theater of the Air have been received by W-G-N in recent weeks. The letters have come from 42 states and Canada. Overwhelmingly the writers insisted the operettas must be continued next fall.

About three weeks ago an announcement requesting listeners' opinions on the operettas was first made. The mail response was immediate. A flood of letters began to pour into W-G-N. Representing the opinions of a cross section of the country's radio audience, the letters gave an unusually clear picture of the reasons why the Chicago Theater of the Air has been favorably received from coast to coast.

From the information given in the letters it was apparent that the operetta series have become "must" listening for many music students in the country. Numerous letters contained paragraphs which told how music teachers have insisted that their students listen to these programs. The students' appreciation of good music as presented by artists of great ability under the direction of an expert producer, would thus be greatly increased, the teachers said.

Excerpts from several letters follow:

Irene Dutchak, Scranton, Pa.: "My favorite program is your Chicago Theater of the Air. Please continue these beautiful productions in the future."

Mrs. J. E. Hymer, San Antonio, Tex., said: "I have enjoyed very much the excellent Saturday night programs given by the Chicago Theater of the Air and most emphatically hope the program will be continued this fall."

A letter from Barbara Haeger, enrolled at Carl Schurz High school, was signed by 300 of her fellow students and several teachers, all of whom said they enjoyed the operettas very much and wanted them continued next fall.

The last operetta of the present Chicago Theater of the Air series was heard over W-G-N and the Mutual network last night. A gala performance of "Pagliacci" was presented before an audience of 3,600 guests in the Chicago Civic Opera house. Marion Claire, Frederick Jagel, and Igor Gorin were the stars. William A. Bacher was in charge of the production.

Avrum Denoff Will Be Guest on Your Music I. Q.

Avrum Denoff, violinist of the Chicago Civic orchestra, and Sherman Edwards, member of the "New Pins and Needles" cast, will be the experts on classical and popular music on "Your Music I. Q." over W-G-N from 8:30 to 9 p. m. tomorrow. Charles S. Brearley Jr. of Riverside will join Denoff and Edwards as the layman music expert.

"Climbers" on Great Plays.

"The Climbers," which was first produced in 1905, will be the Great Plays presentation at 2 p. m. today over WENR and NBC.

'ODE TO CHICAGO' WILL HIGHLIGHT NEW W-G-N HOUR

Chicagoland Program to Start Saturday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The new Chicagoland hour which will be presented for the first time from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network will recreate the "Ode to Chicago," which was aired for the first time last September to inaugurate the fall and winter season.

"Ode to Chicago" is a unique production suited particularly to the medium of radio. It employs drama, poetry, sound effects, and a stirring musical score, specially written for it by David Broekman, the noted Hollywood composer and conductor, to portray historic highlights of Chicago and to describe its character and spirit. It was conceived by William A. Bacher, and the script was written by Francis Coughlin and John D. Hess.

The new Chicagoland hour represents an expansion of the Chicagoland Concert hour series. But it will occupy the radio period that has been vacated by the Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, which concluded their long run last evening with a special broadcast of "I Pagliacci" at the Civic Opera house before an audience of more than 3,600.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will continue the talks he has been giving on the Concert hour on the new Chicagoland hour. The Concert hour has been running for a half hour on Wednesday evenings.

Familiar music will be presented on the new program by Marion Claire, noted soprano, and the W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

The W-G-N Players will be featured in the "Ode to Chicago." Mr. Bacher will produce the show.

In addition to the dramatic presentation the W-G-N Concert orchestra will present Brahms' "Academic Festival," and Michael Wilkomirski will be featured in a violin solo of Glazounov's "Violin Concerto No. 1."

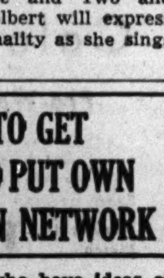
ROBERT BLAIR IS HEADLINER WITH STEELMAKERS

Proving the axiom of their theme song, "America the Beautiful," the Musical Steelmakers will fill the airlanes today with music of great tonal beauty. The Steelmakers, a group of gifted musicians, instrumentalists and vocalists, are heard each Sunday from 4 to 4:30 p. m. over W-G-N and the coast-to-coast Mutual network. Only employés, or members from a family of an employé of the Wheeling Steel company of West Virginia appear on the program.

Featured on the show today will be Robert Blair, 19 years old, whose brother works in the galvanizing department of the steel company's Steubenville, O., branch. Robert will be making his first appearance on the air. He will sing the romantic ballad, "Let's Dream This One Out."

Holding up their end of the program, the members of the orchestra under the direction of Tommy Whitley will play the patriotic "Hail, Columbia!" and a piece of musical mathematics, "One and Two and Three." Regina Colbert will express her carefree personality as she sings "Do I Worry?"

LISTENERS TO GET CHANCE TO PUT OWN IDEAS ON NETWORK



Jackie Heller.

Radio listeners who have ideas of their own for new radio programs will have their inning each week during the broadcast of What's Your Idea?, new radio show to be heard for the first time at 5:30 p. m. today over WMAQ and NBC. The cast will include Ted Fio Rito and his orchestra, Little Jackie Heller, teno, and Nelson Olmstead, with guest stars. Simone Simon will be the first guest. Listeners will be invited to submit, in outline form, their ideas for new kinds of radio programs. Each week the three best ideas submitted will be developed into a script and produced in abridged form during the broadcast. A cash award of $100 will be paid for each idea used, with a bonus of $100 for the best idea of the week.

ARTHUR GODFREY BOOSTS NAVAL RESERVE WEEK

Arthur Godfrey, whose program of songs and chatter is heard over W-G-N and Mutual from 9 to 9:15 a. m. each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, has been placed in charge of promotion for Naval Reserve Observance week this week, Washington officials have announced.

It was thru the navy and the coast guard that Godfrey became connected with radio. He served many years as a radio engineer with the fleet. While in the coast guard he obtained permission from his commanding officer to accept a position as a radio announcer with a small eastern station.

Julane Pelletier Turns Out New Tune, 'No Go'

Already hailed by several band leaders and musical authorities in Chicago as a "sure hit," the latest composition of Julane Pelletier, "No Go," has been sent for publication to B. M. I. in New York. Miss Pelletier is staff pianist at WJJD and has been heard on several leading network shows during the last three years.

AMERICAS SPEAK PROGRAM OPENS OVER MBS TODAY

Vice President Wallace on Rotary Hour.

Vice President Henry A. Wallace, speaking from Washington, will address a message of greetings to the Latin American audience during the première broadcast of Rotary and Mutual's "The Americas Speak."

The Rotary program, saluting Mexico, will be heard over W-G-N and a coast-to-coast Mutual network hookup at 2 p. m. today and will be carried to South America by the powerful short wave stations WGEO, Schenectady, N. Y., and WRUL, Boston, Mass.

Many stations of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation also will carry the program.

Miguel Aleman, Mexican minister of the interior, speaking from Mexico City, will respond to Vice President Wallace's greetings. Twenty minutes of the half hour program will originate from Mexico City.

Typical Mexican music will be featured, including the "Zacatecas March" by Genaro Codina and "La Paloma" by Yradier. The balance of the program is designed to convey a better understanding of Mexican life, customs, and geography to the American public.

"The Americas Speak" series calls for broadcasts to originate on successive Sundays from Havana, Cuba; Quito, Ecuador; Gautemala City, Guatemala; Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Santiago, Chile; Bogota, Columbia; Caracas, Venezuela; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Montevideo, Uruguay, and Lima, Peru.

Lack of short wave facilities makes it impossible to arrange programs from the other countries of South America.

Local South American stations will pick up the short wave broadcasts and rebroadcast them by long wave. These international good will radio programs are expected to help cement the bonds of friendship and understanding between the Pan-American nations.

ACREE'S SCHOOL ACES MOVE TO PALACE THEATER

"Acree's High School Aces," quiz show which has made its home in the studios of W-G-N for a month, will move to the stage of the Palace theater next Saturday at 10 a. m.

Besides the regular theater audience, 500 guests of the sponsor will be admitted free.

Doors of the theater will open at 8 a. m., the feature picture will start at 8:30, and the broadcast at 10.

Four students recommended by their history teachers will answer questions dealing with history. These are prepared by L. Hubbard Shattuck of the Chicago Historical society. Mr. Shattuck also acts as referee. The studio is given an opportunity to answer another set of questions, three of which are submitted by the listening audience and the fourth by Mr. Shattuck.

Both the studio audience and the four contestants are awarded cash prizes up to $10 for the correct answers.

TIBBETT TO BE SOLOIST TONIGHT ON CONCERT HOUR

Lawrence Tibbett will be guest soloist on the Sunday evening hour over WBBM-CBS at 8 o'clock tonight. The symphony orchestra and chorus is under the direction of Eugene Ormandy, musical director of the Philadelphia orchestra, for this coast to coast presentation of fine music.

Tibbett will be heard in "Di Provenza" from "La Traviata," by Verdi; "In Summer Fields," by Brahms, and "I'm a Roamer Bold," from "Son and Stranger" by Mendelssohn. The chorus will join Tibbett in Sir Arthur Sullivan's "The Lost Chord."

Their Golden Year

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Foisy, 705 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, celebrated their golden wedding recently when they were surprised by a group of relatives and friends at a party. Mr. and Mrs. Foisy were married in Newport, Ky., in 1891. They have a son, Earl E. Foisy, and a daughter, Merle Marie Foisy, both of Oak Park. The two grandchildren are Barbara and Lou Anne Foisy. He has been a piano technician and is still active in business in Oak Park. They met in Chicago 51 years ago.

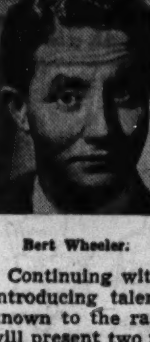
BERT WHEELER WILL BE STARRED ON CHICAGO HOUR

Two New Groups to Be Featured.



Bert Wheeler.

Bert Wheeler of stage and movie fame will be featured on "In Chicago Tonight" at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday over W-G-N and the coast-to-coast Mutual network. Working with Wheeler will be Hank Ladd, comedian and stooge. Both are appearing at the Chicago theater in Earl Carroll's "Vanities."

Continuing with the new policy of introducing talent not generally known to the radio audience, W-G-N will present two new groups for their network debut. The Tanner Sisters, a vocal trio featured in the Al Jolson show, "Hold On to Your Hats," which recently closed in New York, will be heard. Another new group is the Six Rocquettes, colored boys from Detroit. The boys came to Chicago for recording work and auditioned at W-G-N at the same time. They were immediately signed.

In Chicago Tonight, a regular Thursday evening program of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, is produced by William A. Bacher. Music is under the direction of Harold Stokes and Robert Trendler.

Veronese to Be Subject of Great Artists Show

The life of Paolo Veronese, great 16th century Italian artist, will be the subject of the "Great Artists" program which will be broadcast by W-G-N at 4 p. m. next Tuesday. The "Great Artists" series are presented in coöperation with the Chicago Art institute to stimulate public interest in art.

Broadway Stars to Head Cast of Mutual Serial

Two Broadway stars, Linda Watkins and Jesse Royce Landis, have leading rôles in "We Are Always Young," W-G-N-Mutual's new six week dramatic serial. With William Janney, young Hollywood player, occupying the male lead, the show is heard Monday thru Saturday from 12 noon to 12:15 p. m. [CST] over W-G-N and the Mutual network.

CITY'S CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO GET BIGGER SCHOOL

Addition at Spalding to Cost $750,000.

Construction will begin next month on a $750,000 two story brick addition that will double the size of the Spalding school for crippled children at 1628 Washington boulevard, it was announced last week by James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education.

John C. Christensen, school board architect who drew the plans and will supervise construction, said the new unit will in all likelihood be ready for use by the start of the second semester of next school term in February.

The addition will make the Spalding school a complete educational unit, Mr. McCahey pointed out. For the first time the physically handicapped child will find it possible to acquire a complete public school education, from kindergarten thru high school, in an adequately equipped plant.

Crowded Other Schools.

Up to now the only high school cilities afforded for such handicapped youngsters were improvised in two high school branches, Morrill branch of Lindblom at 6011 South Rockwell street, and Sabin branch of Tuley at 2216 Hirsch street. This arrangement, Mr. McCahey said, deprived the two high schools of much needed space and worked a hardship on the crippled children, who need specially designed and equipped buildings.

High school facilities for 500 children will be provided. This is more than enough to care for the city's needs at present, but school board officials felt that the reserve capacity should be added to care for the normal increases in population.

The new structure will also enhance the present clinical and treatment facilities of the school, which are regarded as being of primary importance. Rooms will be set aside for hydrotherapy, electrotherapy, and physiotherapy, and for violet ray, spastic and cardiac cases, deaf-oral and sightsaving cases, and dental work.

Trains for Trades.

Vocational training is emphasized at the Spalding school, the effort being to train the handicapped youngsters in trades that will make them self-supporting in later life. The present building program will bring the school to a high point of efficiency in this respect, Mr. McCahey said.

Room will be available not only for the usual high school curriculum, but also for teaching of subjects such as cooking, sewing, industrial arts, woodworking, printing, and weaving.

There will be 40 school rooms in the addition, which will also enlarge the clinic and treatment room and the bus entrance, as well as provide more office space, according to the school architect.

The rooms will include 13 classrooms, five laboratories, numerous special rooms, a library, a gymnasium, several shops, and adequate office and restroom facilities for the large faculty the school requires.

One of the shops will be equipped to enable faculty workers to make braces and other mechanical aids for the needier cripples, and to repair such equipment where necessary.

Better Bus Facilities.

Free buses provided by the school board pick up crippled pupils at their homes, transport them to school and deliver them home in the afternoon. The new building will have special loading platforms, to make it easier for attendants to help the children in and out of their wheel chairs.

A new ramp of low gradient will permit the wheeling of chairs from one floor to another with a minimum of effort. There will be two elevators of ample size.

The treatment tanks and swimming pool are to be provided with special elevator type chairs to help the children in and out of the water. The building thruout has been designed especially for the convenience and comfort of the disabled, yet without sacrifice of educational advantages, Mr. Christensen said.

The original Spalding school building was erected in 1907 and an addition was built in 1928.

It was not until 1926 that the Chicago school board made its first large scale provisions for the teaching of crippled children. At that time the board took over the functions of an old clinic and hospital near the present school site where physically handicapped boys and girls were taught thru private enterprise. These public school facilities have been expanded many fold since.

4 N. West Siders to Appear in Satire This Evening

Four northwest siders are among the city's leading amateur players who are going to present "First Lady," a satire on political life in the nation's capital, at the Goodman theater this evening. They are Edythe Blain, 6740 Rascher street; Harry Wagner, 4940 School street; Irene Leske, 1021 North Wood street, and Matthew Jurczak, 2507 North Avers avenue. The play is being directed by Miss Vivian Purcell, dramatic instructor of the park district.

Scouts at Cary Are Taught to Drill on Skis

BY JOHN McCUTCHEON JR.

It's not unusual to hear sounds of anger and dismay coming out of sand traps on a golf course in summer. But a passer-by attracted by similar sounds coming out of snow covered traps on the Cary Country club course these days would be surprised to find one of the original Ski Scouts of America.

Of course, the Ski Scouts hasten to point out, a mere sand trap is no obstacle to a good skier, and most of them are good skiers, but every now and then, you know, something will happen.

Officially the Ski Scouts are Troop 160 of the Boy Scouts, made up of 23 Cary youths, most of whom attend the Algonquin High school. Since Cary is probably the best known skiing center of the Chicago area and these boys have almost lived on skis for several years, it is fitting that the first Ski Scout organization should be in Cary.

Gets Credit for Idea.

Credit for conceiving the idea of a group trained in organized maneuvers on skis and in formation skiing, as a possible aid to national defense, is given to William Brayton, a member of the Cary Scout committee, who admits he has never done any skiing himself. But the idea was enthusiastically received by the Scouts.

Skiing equipment, including uniforms, was obtained last Christmas, and since then various formations have been worked out with the help of Edwin Ocenasek, scoutmaster. On week-ends and after school members of the group meet at the golf course whenever there is sufficient snow and practice the drills.

Members of the troop are divided into three patrols. In the Explorer patrol are Norman Hoeft, leader, and Arthur Schuldt, Robert Lindh, William Weindorf, James and Dan Higgins, Milton Shepard, Thomas Ventriss, Robert Sedivec, and Bill Sersen.

Lead Other Patrols.

Richard Trebing and Frank Padalik are leaders of the Beaver patrol, other members of which are Eugene Shepard, Merle Hoeft, Robert Pleva, Herman Kaitchuck, and Robert Crabtree. In the Hawk patrol are Louis Weindorf, leader; Richard Kvidera, Robert Hubka, Albert Ritt, Edward Sersen, and William Hauck.

Other members of the Cary Scout committee besides Brayton are Alfred Schuldt, Walter Higgins, Alvin Collins, and Edward Marshall. Ben Phelps and James Higgins are assistant scoutmasters, and Robert Sedivec is skimaster.

The troop was originally established nearly 10 years ago. Altho troops in the northern part of the country have included emergency ski patrols used for first aid, this is believed to be the first entire troop organized on a ski basis.

CHILDREN SING TODAY AS LENT SERVICES BEGIN

The Rev. A. A. Brauer of Chicago Heights will be the guest speaker and the St. Luke children's chorus, directed by Paul Wukasch, will sing when Our Saviour Lutheran church opens its Lenten series of Sunday vespers at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the church at Neva and Cornelia avenues. The Rev. D. C. Hennig is the pastor.

Visiting preachers will be combined with visiting choral groups in all five of the services. Next Sunday's speaker will be the Rev. Paul Kluender of Melrose Park. The Messiah Treble Clef choir will sing the anthems.

On March 16 the newly organized Chicagoland A Cappella choir will furnish the music, and the Rev. A. H. Semmann, Park Ridge, will deliver the sermon. On March 23 the Rev. Alvin Wagner, Forest Park, will speak, and the Concordia college octet will sing. Dr. Paul Bretscher, professor at Concordia college will be the speaker at the final meeting on March 30, and the Concordia senior choir will sing.

CIVIC-SOCIAL CLUB AGAIN TO BE HEADED BY NINO J. PERSELLO

Nino J. Persello, 4501 West Foster avenue, founder of the Northwest Civic and Social club, was reëlected its president recently. Mercedes Guyette, editor of the club paper, "Talk of the Town," was elected vice president, succeeding Len House, and other new officers are Mary Cinefro, secretary, and Louise Gerwell, treasurer.

Nino J. Persello.

One of the club's most important planks is safe highways, and in this connection additional stop lights have been urged for Foster avenue in the neighborhood of Gompers park, where the club meets.

Other aims are better government, greater civic education, and better public education. The new officers will be installed Friday at Gompers park fieldhouse.

Suffers Stroke But Continues Braille Work for Blind

Undaunted by the stroke that paralyzed her right side, Mrs. Margaret Palmer of 4917 North Mozart avenue learned to do braille and at the age of 66 years has just completed her one thousandth page of transcriptions for the blind. Here she shows her daughter, Helen, and two Alvernia High school girls, Josephine Heagney on the left, and Frances Buchta how she manages her stylus and slate. Mrs. Palmer works by hand, but Miss Helen Palmer usually transcribes her books with the small, typewriter-like machine at which Frances is sitting. Alvernia has been teaching its students and interested neighbors how to do braille for 10 years. (Story on page 2.)

Society Repairs Wicker Park Structure.

Feed a people and provide a warm meeting place for them, even tho you have to borrow the first $75 stake, and you have the ground work of an idea which is giving back a virtually abandoned church to the northwest side.

Such was the start of the Rev. Carl P. Nelson when he founded the Chicago Missionary society. Today the band of members is nearing the completion of its own religious quarters in what was once the Wicker Park Methodist church at Damen and Evergreen avenues.

The broken windows and stained walls of the 50 year old church are being repaired and renewed by the society members. Eventually in the pews where well to do residents of the area formerly worshiped there will be a new congregation, proud of its labors in restoring a crumbling structure to its original religious uses.

Services in Basement.

Workmen, handicapped by the chill air let in by broken window panes, have already papered the church auditorium and are starting to replace the motley stained glass fragments and make other needed repairs. The pipe organ, the dark wood railings, and pulpit are still intact.

In the meantime church services are being held in the basement, where big stoves are used for heat. Each Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday night at 8 o'clock the neighbors bring baskets to the church to receive the bread, vegetables, and other foodstuffs furnished by farmers, warehouses, bakeries, and similar concerns, out of surplus stocks. On Sunday nights the advanced young people's group takes charge of the worship service.

The Damen and Evergreen neighborhood once was a wealthy region. Gradually, however, the original congregation moved away and the church was practically abandoned. The Chicago Missionary society rented the building for three years while the Wicker Park group used it for Sunday morning meetings. A little over a year ago the society bought the property and has since been engaged in the process of renovation.

Starts in Store.

The Rev. Mr. Nelson, who started his career as an evangelist many years ago, was impressed by the suffering brought on by the depression. He, too, had lost his savings, but he borrowed $75 from a friend, rented a store at 2838 North avenue, and started holding meetings. From this beginning grew the organization which now is restoring the old church.

Mission work should begin where there is want and misery at home. This is the credo of the Rev. Mr. Nelson, and its practical application may be found in the two trucks of the society kept ready to answer calls for aid. Perhaps they may carry the belongings of an evicted family to a new home, perhaps they take coal or food to a family in need.

And for proof of the need which the soicety answers, its leader points to the fact that the Chicago Relief administration never has refused to accept a case recommended by this group.

Wolf's Really at the Door

Young Park Ridge playgoers may scream with excitement next Saturday afternoon when Red Riding Hood finds this wolf in her grandmother's house. But Virginia Bambas knows that the ferocious beast is really Robert Thompson, a fellow member of the Masque players, in a scene from the three act play, "Red Riding Hood," which will be presented in the Lincoln school in Park Ridge at 2:30 Saturday and again on March 22. Other members of the cast include Elle Schneider, Marcellite Henderson, Kay Thompson, and Robert Beisler. Frank Ruh directs the performance.

ESSAY CONTEST TO BE ARRANGED BY KIWANIS CLUB

An essay contest to be held in three northwest side high schools has been announced by the Kiwanis Club of Northwest Chicago thru W. L. Johnson, chairman of the citizenship committee. The schools are North Park academy and Von Steuben and Roosevelt High schools.

The subject of the papers is to be "Citizenship Responsibility—the Price of Liberty." The program is a new one, Johnson explained, adopted with the hope of bringing out in young men and women the qualities essential to the preservation of liberty .

All papers are due April 1. Winners of first, second, and third place in each school will receive gold, silver, and bronze medals respectively, while the winner of a final contest will receive a gold medal set with a diamond.

FOREMAN HIGH GIRL IS EDITOR OF YEARBOOK

Jeanne Petters has been named editor in chief of this year's Foremanual, yearbook of the Foreman High school, it has been announced by Miss Veda Stern, faculty sponsor of the publication, which won first national honors last year among books of its type. Others on the various staffs are Nels Pederson, James Peterson, Gretchen Quist, Virginia Schlikan, Eugenia Lunder, Shirley Eiha, Helen Shuh, Janet Vesey, Jeanne Mutusiak, Russell Albers, Paul Schmelzer, Charles Melvin, Ray Krypel, Robert Jacobs, Edwin Bryll, Edwin Pagoda, Robert Schroeder, June Saunders, Eleanor Steffen, and James Schumacher.

Corps to Dine.

A dinner of the World War Tank Corps association will be held Friday night in the gold room of the Brevoort hotel. Edward J. Price is in charge of reservations.

MANY ASSISTING IN PARK RIDGE PLAY PROGRAM

Activities for Youths Are Emphasized.

When the three act drama of "Little Red Riding Hood" is presented before the children of Park Ridge in the Lincoln school auditorium at 2:30 o'clock next Saturday and again on March 22, it will be but another demonstration of the widespread recreation program which has been set up in this community.

The Park Ridge Recreation commission and school board, and the community service division of the WPA sponsor the leisure time program which is financed by a city recreation tax supplementing federal funds. Headquarters are located in the old Ridge theater building at 201 Vine street, where a community center has been established on the second floor.

Coöperate in Work.

The center itself has been a focal point of neighborly coöperation since it was started about a year ago. Business men donated the rent and some furnishings, hardware and paint stores decorated the rooms, the garden club gave house plants, and other groups helped to equip it. An average of 250 persons a week play pingpong and other games, or gather for club meetings. Recreation for persons of high school age or above is particularly stressed. Mrs. Joy Crawford is director of the project.

Not all of their work is done in the center itself, however. Between 1,800 and 2,400 persons participate in the program each week thru the use of schools and existing facilities. Regular classes are maintained at the Lincoln school and the Park Ridge School for Girls, and clubrooms in the grade schools are also opened for after school activity on the part of all community residents.

Leaders in Work.

Among the citizens who have been most active in the formation and support of the Park Ridge recreation program are Mayor Arthur Jones; Walter Strassheim, chairman of the city recreation commission; William Hinkley, president of the park board; Richard Chapeck, member of the park board; Frank Rehder, president of the chamber of commerce, and members of the school board.

"Red Riding Hood" is the second in a series of three plays for children being presented by the Masque players under the sponsorship of the school board and the recreation commission.

RussianChurchWomenGive Card Party This Afternoon

At 4 o'clock this afternoon the Intercession of the Holy Virgin Russian Woman's society, Branch No. 3, Russian Independent Mutual Aid society, of St. George's church will give a card party and dance in the church auditorium, 917 North Wood street. Proceeds will go to the church. Mrs. Zinovia Lezchuk is president of the society and chairman of the affair, with Mrs. Mary Elutko assisting. Mrs. Elizabeth White and Mrs. Julia Yakimovich are other officers of the group.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

LIKE the bus man who spends his days off taking his wife and children on a bus ride, Morris Gurrie goes home in the afternoons and spends the evening designing and building specialized photographic equipment. He is an engineer.

Morris Gurrie.

His long interest in photography has again won him the position of director of the Fort Dearborn Camera club school of photography. The school is made up of 155 amateur photographers from all over the city, and three of the eight members of the faculty live on the northwest side.

Gurrie lives at 5412 North Bernard street, and others who have been selected to teach the 10 week course which begins next week are William Langdon, Park Ridge, and S. J. Silverstein, 2128 North Sawyer avenue. The school is at 75 East Wacker drive.

ROY CASPER, 5250 Barry avenue, a student at Steinmetz High school, is the winner of the James A. Holland trophy for writing the best essay on "The Life of Abraham Lincoln," in a contest conducted annually by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and their auxiliary. The contest is open to high school students thruout the state; the boy and girl winner from each school competing in the finals at Springfield. Eloise Taylor of Bloomington won the state-wide girls' contest.

LEONARD BENSON, 13, eighth grade first lieutenant of the Peterson Elementary school safety patrol, was awarded a bronze service pin last week by the Chicago Motor club for saving an eight year old girl from possible death at a corner near the school. Leonard is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arvid Benson of 5335 North St. Louis avenue. He pulled the girl, Diane Klotz, to safety as she dashed onto the street at Kimball and Catalpa avenues, in front of an oncoming car.

Leonard Benson.

Merlin Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. David M. Dean of 4702 North Bernard street, has been appointed chairman of decorations for the junior prom at Ripon college, Ripon, Wis., which is sceduled for May 9. He is a graduate of Lane Technical High school and was one of the R. O. T. C. cadets to receive the Tribune medal.

AN air stewardess, a government engineer, a Brooklyn muscleman, and a stage-struck ingénue, or reasonable facsimiles thereof, are wanted to report at 2:30 this afternoon in the Our Lady of Victory school hall, Laramie and Sunnyside avenue. Casting of local talent for parts and chorus in the musical comedy, "Give It Back to the Indians," will be held under the direction of George Mulvaney, director, and Loretta Grimes Stevens, in charge of the chorus.

Among volunteers for the draft last week was Robert Schulte, 3023 North Lowell avenue, who was lieutenant colonel of the Schurz High school R. O. T. C. unit in 1937, and captain of the school rifle team which won the city championship that year. He is now a senior at the University of Illinois, where he won the rifle championship.

Tomorrow evening the Edison Park chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star will see a motion picture entitled "The Camera Gold of the Rockies," made up of natural color pictures of scenic spots in the west. The meeting will open at 8:30 o'clock at 6713 Olmsted avenue.

ALOYSIUS MAZEWSKI ELECTED PRESIDENT OF POLISH JUNIORS

Other officers who were elected are Miss Bernice Zielinski, 1316 North Oakley boulevard and Charles Odell, Batavia, vice presidents; Miss Cecile Calusinski, 4405 Addison street, secretary; and Adele Kolasa, 2122 West Haddon street, treasurer. Thaddeus Dybal, 1740 Beach avenue, was chosen editor of the news letter and Zygmunt Sokolnicki, 1311 North Wood street, its business manager.

The junior league has been established about nine years in Chicago. It is composed of 17 local clubs, whose delegates meet once a month. Total membership of the league is about 2,000.

COMPLETE LIST OF OFFICIALS IS TO BE CHOSEN

Northwest Areas Go to Polls April 1.

Campaign wheels are beginning to turn in all the northwest side suburbs and townships—except Wooddale, whose 230 inhabitants are governed by a commission and will not vote again until 1943. There are big wheels and little wheels and wheels within wheels.

Each township will vote for a complete list of officials on April 1 to hold office until 1945. This means a new supervisor, clerk, collector, assessor, highway commissioner, and constables and justices of the peace.

Each village and town will vote for a new president, clerk, and either three or six trustees, depending on whether or not their terms are alternated. All are for four years. Cities elect a new slate of aldermen instead of trustees, and a mayor instead of a president. In many cases school boards will also be up for change.

Built on Personalities.

Party lines as they are known in national, state, and Chicago politics are not known in the suburbs. The same group of faces may turn up time after time with a different party name each time. As a rule they are built around personalities and not around platforms.

In Park Ridge where Mayor Arthur L. Jones has announced that he will not run for a third term, a good deal of action is expected in the struggle for the vacant chair. The incumbents, the United Party, have already listed their slate, headed by James Tierney, an alderman, as candidate for mayor.

Dan Int Hout, hitherto a member of the school board, is expected to be a candidate on an independent ticket urging the adoption of the city manager form of government. Robert Monahan, city attorney under the present administration, has pointed out that there is no provision in Illinois for this type of government in a city of more than 5,000 inhabitants. Park Ridge has more than 12,000.

A third candidate will be named by the Better Government party, known previously as the Taxpayers' Protective party, whose chairman is Walter H. Lake. The program of this group is expected to involve reduction of taxes.

Contest in Des Plaines.

Des Plaines is expected to have a closely contested election. As in Park Ridge, the incumbent mayor, Homer M. Ahbe, has announced that he will not run. His party has adopted the name United Coalition, and has presented Charles Garland as candidate for mayor.

Four years ago Ahbe's party was called the Civic Progress group, and Garland was a member of the opposing Constructive party, which held office from 1933 to 1937. Garland is a former mayor and is a radio executive in Chicago.

On the other hand most members of the old Constructive group have aligned themselves as the People's party and chosen Charles L. Bishop, a plumbing contractor, as their candidate for mayor on a platfrom promising reduction in taxes. Among the party leaders are former Mayor George W. Kinder and Alderman Walter L. Dopheide.

Bishop's party accuses the incumbents of overspending and increasing the debt $35,000.

Quiet in Barrington.

Barrington is expected to stand by its reputation of unexciting elections. It does not have party alignments, but the present officers, headed by Earl Hatje, a member of the Chicago Crime commission, as president, have thrown in their hats again. In opposition is Arnold Sass, a hardware dealer and a former trustee, who has filed as an independent candidate for president. No platform differences have been brought out as yet.

In Niles a new group has rallied around Judge Henry Fritz, an attorney and trustee of the village, who promises to reduce the cost of government if he is elected president. Michael Didier, who has served two terms as president, is retiring. Frank Stankowicz, who has been clerk, seeks the mayoralty on the Taxpayers' Economy ticket.

In Other Suburbs.

Elmwood Park and River Grove probably have the bitterest party rivalry in the northwest suburbs, created partly by antagonism to the powerful Cullerton machine, which operates under the name "Nonpartisan" and has obtained control of Leyden township as well.

John Cullerton, brother of Ald. P. J. Cullerton [38th], has been president of Elmwood Park since 1935, and is running again. No opposing candidate has been chosen as yet by the Public Economy party, but its leaders, LeRoy Tutskey, chairman of the Elmwood Park Economy league, and Urban V. Bedard, candidate for township supervisor, are expecting to produce one soon.

The picture is reversed in River Grove, where Martin Enger is running again for president, and no Nonpartisan opponent has been announced.

John Wealer, Nonpartisan supervisor of Leyden township, is running again, altho the party name may be changed to Coalition. Bedard is running against him.

Voice of the Northwest Side

Readers of the Metropolitan Section are invited to contribute to this column on matters of neighborhood interest. Readers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Full names and addresses must be given. No manuscripts will be returned. Address Voice of the Northwest Side, The Tribune.

WANTS BUS EXTENSION.

For the benefit of northwest siders who work in Clearing and other southwest side districts, the civic improvement clubs, chambers of commerce, and business men should try to get the Chicago surface line bus route on Cicero avenue from 63d street to Archer avenue extended north to 25th street. In this way the route would connect with the Cicero avenue street cars which run south to this point. This would also connect the northwest and west sides with the airport and with the 63d street car line which would carry them east.

GEORGE BECHANIST,
6245 Berenice street.

NEED TRAFFIC LIGHT.

One of the most confusing traffic corners in the city is that at Kedzie and Chicago avenues. It is a combination boulevard, street car, and ordinary street corner. In the rush hours of the morning and evening heavy pedestrian crowds use it, changing street cars or motor coaches, and must dodge the heavy traffic at their peril. This corner needs a stop light, especially during these rush hours. Our city's motto should be, "Let's make city life easy on the nerves."

DOROTHY LIKIHOUS,
1132 North Kedzie avenue.

PROTECTION FOR LAWNS.

Now that spring is almost here, a homeowner begins to think about his lawn and garden. But I dread to think of the way the children and bicycles and dogs usually manage to undo all the work a family can do with hoes and rakes and such. If teachers and parents would begin now to teach the youngsters to be careful of property, maybe the lawns and parkways on the northwest side will have a chance to grow fresh and green this year, and be a joy to all.

JOHN RANDALL WINS KIWANIS SCHOLARSHIP

John Randall, 5336 Lieb avenue, who was graduated recently from Schurz High school, has been announced as the winner of the Logan Square Kiwanis club's $300 scholarship, offered for the first time to a member of the Schurz R. O. T. C. unit who was outstanding in courtesy, leadership, service, and dependability.

John is 17 years old and was a lieutenant in the unit. He hopes to use that scholarship either at the Illinois Institute of Technology or at the University of Illinois, and will steer toward a career in mechanical engineering.

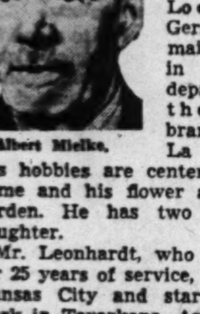
Four names of candidates were submitted by A. G. Bauersfeld, principal of Schurz, to the Kiwanis committee, headed by Dr. Roland Claflin. Other members of this committee were Edward Forke, Irwin Rinn, and Arthur Andersen.

HONOR N. WEST SIDE RESIDENTS FOR LONG SERVICE TO Y. M. C. A.

Two northwest siders recently were honored for their long years of service to the Young Men's Christian association, at that organization's annual meeting in the Stevens hotel. They are Albert Mielke, of 4020 Roscoe street, and P. A. Leonhardt, of 764 Prairie avenue, Des Plaines.

P. A. Leonhardt.
[Ray Rising Photos.]

Mr. Mielke's record of 35 years of service was the longest recognized at the banquet. This 66 year old veteran, who was born in Loewenburg, Germany, is a maintenance man in the physical department at the Central branch, 19 South La Salle street.



Albert Mielke.

His hobbies are centered about his home and his flower and vegetable garden. He has two sons and a daughter.

Mr. Leonhardt, who was honored for 25 years of service, is a native of Kansas City and started his "Y" work in Texarkana, Ark., in 1906 as recreation director. He became connected with the Central department in Chicago in 1915.

In 1924 Mr. Leonhardt started the idea of broadcasting calisthenic exercises.

VOLUNTEER LIST OF DRAFTEES IS ON DOWN TREND

Boards Forced to Call Up Registrants.

Volunteers among the conscripts being inducted in Chicago were used up last week to the point where many of the local boards were forced to start calling up their registrants in regular order.

Of the 951 Chicagoland draftees who were inducted into the army in the week that ended last Tuesday, 634 were men who had asked to be drafted immediately rather than wait for their order numbers to be reached. However, the ratio of volunteers had been dropping sharply day by day, until last Tuesday they were in the minority, 148 to 152.

Draft officials said they expected this trend to continue for an indefinite period. They predicted that as soon as inductions settle down to a routine, there will be only a smattering of volunteers.

Cook county furnished 561 of the selectees inducted during the week, the other 390 being made up of quotas contributed by the other Chicagoland counties. The Chicago station also handled 388 draftees from downstate, or a total of 1,339 for the week. Most of the inducted men were sent to reception centers at Fort Sheridan and Camp Grant.

Here is the list of newly inducted men from this section, the letter V denoting those who volunteered:

[Holgerson Photo.]

Mrs. Tegnander Eriksen, 2701 Belden avenue, is president of the club, and its other officers are Mrs. Roy Griffin, vice president; Mrs. Clarence A. Hill, treasurer; Mrs. Hans Baugh, secretary; Mrs. Bernard Lenske, assistant secretary, and Mrs. C. W. Sutherland, chairman of the work committee.

One of the founders of the club, Mrs. Knute Nelson, 2731 Prindiville street, is still an active member.

8 CADETS GIVEN CAPTAIN'S RANK AT LANE TECH

Eight cadets have been promoted to the rank of captain and 13 others have been named first lieutenants in the Lane Technical High school R. O. T. C. unit as a result of competitive examinations held to fill vacancies caused by January graduation.

Make More Than 52,000 Pages of Braille.

Sharing their eyes! That is what many Alvernia High school girls are doing when they spend hours of their own time making Braille books for the blind. During the 10 years that the work has been carried on at the school at 3901 North Ridgeway avenue students have transcribed more than 52,000 pages of Braille, which have been distributed thru the Red Cross and the Chicago public library to blind persons over the entire nation.

At present 30 Alvernia girls are devoting their leisure hours to this undertaking. They are taught how to do Braille at the school, and must pass tests and send a 40 page manuscript to the Library of Congress before they are certified Braillists, whose work can be put in the public library. Their transcriptions are all done outside of school time.

Transcribes Biology Notes.

The Xavier Institute for the Blind in New York and the School for the Blind in Janesville also receive Braille books from Alvernia. One girl is now transcribing biology notes for a blind student at De Paul university.

Seven year old Lawrence Johnson, who lives at 5653 Montrose avenue, has found the delights of fairy tales thru Christmas books the girls made for his reading fingers. Sometimes he will come down to the school wearing black goggles his mother has painted for his sightless but sensitive eyes, and read to the Alvernia Braillists.

Once his flying fingers stopped and he said with a laugh: "That word's misspelled!" His Alvernia friends are now making him a prayer book in preparation for his first communion this spring.

Altho she is not an Alvernia student, the girls are as proud of 66 year old Mrs. Margaret Palmer as if she were one of them, for she recently completed her 1,000th page of Braille transcription, and her work goes to the Red Cross thru the high school. Mrs. Palmer's right arm and leg were paralyzed by a stroke about 12 years ago, and she handles the stylus and slate with her left hand.

Daughter Also Aids.

Her daughter Helen also transcribes with the help of a typewriter-like machine which makes the pages go quickly. They both learned Braille thru a granddaughter of the older woman, Christine Palmer, who attended Alvernia.

According to Sister Primosa, in charge of Braille work at the school, the expert Braillist takes about 15 minutes to do a page, the average worker about 20 minutes, and the beginner about 45. The all-time record at Alvernia is held by a pupil of six years ago, Mary Jablonski, whose exceptional ability enabled her to finish a page in about five minutes. She transcribed 6,050 pages while she was in school. Dorothy Gruber and Harriet Lewandowski are among the stars of the present class, each having done about 400 pages.

The more than 125 books which the girls have already transcribed range from "Heidi" and "Pinocchio" to Crawford's "Saracinesca" and Gheon's "Secret of Cure D'Ars." At present the students are transcribing Adler's "How to Read a Book," Byrd's "Alone," and Burton's "Sorrow Built a Bridge."

Married 60 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Knoche.
[Downers Grove Studio.]

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Knoche, 2653 Nordica avenue, observed their 60th wedding anniversary at a gathering of friends at the home of their daughter, Mrs. George Anderson, 6221 Roscoe street. Mr. Knoche is 80 years old and his wife is two years older. Both came here from Germany before their marriage, Mrs. Knoche having been here at the time of the great fire. They have three children living elsewhere, five grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

NOR'WES'TON CONGRESS HAS NEW OFFICERS

Vincent C. Rozycki was reinstalled as president of the Nor-Wes'Ton congress last night at the Logan Square Athletic club, 2635 North Kedzie avenue. James E. Bulger, a vice president of the Chicago Motor club, was the installing officer.

Other officers who were installed are John H. Kerr and Chester Latto, vice presidents; Edward T. Klodzinski, recording secretary; Quentin K. Ford, financial secretary; Frank Radde, treasurer, and Charles L. Porter, sergeant at arms.

Chairmen of committees for the coming year, as announced last week: Robert P. Weil, W. W. Luedtke, George F. Adams, Gustave Reich, George Eckhoff, Joseph F. Kowaczek, Henry Lindschau, Amedee Caboor, Charles Ewing, Joseph Peiffer, Leonard Pacholski, William Wurzbacher, John Stieber, and the officers.

WOMEN OF 7TH DISTRICT FORM WAR RELIEF UNIT

Women Discuss Aid for British People.

Acting on the recommendation of its parent organization, the Illinois Federation of Womens clubs, the Seventh district has recently set up a British war relief committee to serve as an outlet for the activities of northwest side clubwomen in aid of the people in Britain.

The chairman of the committee is British born Mrs. Joseph R. Chesser, 3839 North Keystone avenue, who came to this country in 1920 as a world war bride. Mr. Chesser was one of the 800 American soldiers allowed to remain and study in English universities. He met his future bride there when she was doing war relief work following the armistice.

The Seventh district presidents have met and a rolling kitchen for the London fire department is one of the goals which they considered. If this seems too much for the district to provide, it is probable the women will raise money to equip several hospital beds.

The fund raising campaign will be climaxed at the spring district meeting in April when a fur jacket which the district has left over from a former bazar will be awarded. Club women are also being requested to volunteer their services at the British war relief headquarters.

SITTING PRETTY

How would you like to be counting up the profits as owner of your own beauty shop?

Beauty culture is just one of the many types of specialized training offered in the Tribune want ad section. To get the training which leads to security, independence and better pay in your chosen field, select one of the regular or short courses which you will find advertised in the Trade Schools, Musical and Dramatic, Instruction and Dressmaking and Millinery Schools columns in the Tribune want ad section.

Because they get better results, want ad users place more want advertising in the Tribune than they place in all other Chicago newspapers combined.

MID-WEST P.-T. A. DELEGATES WILL NAME OFFICERS

Three Councils to Unite for County Fair.

Two district meetings are planned for northwest side parent-teacher members this week. Of prime importance is the all-day spring conference of Mid-West council of district 23, tomorrow in the North Austin Methodist church, 1256 North Waller avenue. The Mid-West, West Side, and High School councils of district 23 are also sponsoring a miniature county fair in Austin town hall, Central avenue and Race street, next Friday.

Mrs. Frank Damm. [Koehne Photo.]

The spring conference will be called to order at 10 o'clock tomorrow with the presentation of the flag by the Young P.-T. A., and the singing of the national anthem led by Mrs. Ann Balderson. The Rev. P. R. McMahon, pastor of the North Austin church, will deliver the invocation.

Business in the morning includes reports of local presidents, the report of Mrs. A. H. Hallman, chairman of the nominating committee, and the election of officers. Mrs. William Tompkins, president of Mid-West council, and Mrs. F. E. Robert, director of district 23, will deliver messages.

The afternoon session will be opened by the Mid-West Choral club, led by Harvey Ringel. Mrs. Frank Damm, second vice president of the Illinois congress, will speak on the subject of community building. Mrs. F. Russell Lyons, state président, will install the council officers.

The district county fair exhibit will be opened at 1 o'clock Friday with Mrs. Victor Griseto, Mrs. William Spath, and Mrs. George Wood, recreation, homemaking, and poster chairmen, in charge. Handicraft, jewelry, pictures, flowers, and table favors will be among the exhibits. The best posters from local elementary schools, which are to be judged and sent to the state convention, will be displayed.

Avondale—Parents' night will be celebrated at 7:30 Wednesday evening at the school, with Kermit Eby, executive secretary of the Chicago Teachers union, as guest speaker. The school orchestra and children's accordion band will play, and Mrs. H. M. Utter, adjustment teacher, will give a demonstration of individualized reading.

Barry—Mrs. Harry Hoppe will review the book, "This Side of Glory," by Gwen Bristow, at 1:15 Tuesday in the school auditorium. Mrs. Russell Nordman and Mrs. Lee Keller are in charge.

Bateman—The homemaking class will have a demonstration on table decorations, given by Miss Betty Boehme, at 1:15 Thursday at the home of Mrs. C. J. Fristrom, 4259 North Mozart street.

Hanson Park—The association is holding a games party at 7:30 Thursday evening in Riis park fieldhouse, 6100 Fullerton avenue.

La Fayette—Meeting at 1 o'clock Tuesday in the school, the association will see an exhibit of the work of the homemaking class and hear a talk by Miss Ruth Stoufer on "The Cook Is in the Parlor." Election of officers will take place.

Mrs. Henry Schippel is the incumbent president of the organization; Mrs. Ben Goldberg is first vice president, and Mrs. Harry Farber, second vice president. Parent adviser is Garrett E. Rickard.

Other officers are Mrs. Matt Rottner, recording and corresponding secretary; Mrs. A. V. Michalski, treasurer, and Mrs. Saul E. Sterling, historian. Committee chairmen who have served during the year are Mrs. Eve Simon, Mrs. Jacob Hakman, Mrs. Bernard Brown, Mrs. Nathan Resnik, Mrs. Ben Cohen, Miss Bernadine Schmidt, Mrs. Joseph Eisenberg, Mrs. Saul Sterling, Mrs. Lydia Becket, Mrs. Phyllis Covelli, Mrs. Harry Farber, Mrs. Barnett Kossy, Mrs. Joseph Kerstein, Mrs. Mildred Redman, Mrs. Ben Goldberg, Mrs. Meyer Friedman, Mrs. Irving Falk, Mrs. Ralph Ippolito, and Mrs. Jack Needleman.

Lewis—An interior decorating demonstration, and a card and games party will be held at 1:30 Tuesday in the Bergman Paint store, 4049 West North avenue.

Maine Township—The Rev. John Hubbard, pastor of St. Mary's Episcopal church in Park Ridge, will discuss "What's Right with Youth?" at the Thursday evening meeting in the high school. Twenty-seven seniors and 16 juniors will be inducted into the Maine chapter of the National Honor society, and Frank Anderson, co-editor of the Maine Pioneer, will speak on "What America Means to Me."

Moos—A board meeting at 1:15 Tuesday will complete arrangements for the party to be held at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the Viking hall, 2741 West North avenue.

Reilly—Mrs. Joseph Chesser, state visual education chairman, will speak before the music and art department at 1:15 Thursday in the school.

Roosevelt—Officers will be elected at the 1:15 o'clock meeting Tuesday in the school. Miss Elizabeth Waters, adjustment teacher, will talk on fitting the curriculum to the needs of youth. The girls' chorus will sing.

Scammon—Open house at 1:15 Thursday will be combined with election of officers. Mrs. H. M. Mulberry, state chairman of legislation and citizenship, is guest speaker.

Smyser—A hobby exhibit has been arranged for the meeting at 1:30 Wednesday in the assembly hall under the direction of Mrs. W. R. Samson, recreation chairman. Dr. Henry Boris will show colored slides he took in Mexico.

Yates—Homemakers' day will be observed at 1:15 o'clock Tuesday in the school. Mrs. Sylvia Spath will be guest speaker, and an exhibit will be held. Officers will be elected.

Bride of Northwest Side

Mrs. Wesley Pollock is the former Miss Marjorie Hausworth, niece of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Albery, 6570 Oliphant avenue. She was married to the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Pollock, 1738 Foster avenue, in January. The newlyweds are living at 4875 Magnolia avenue. [Sallman Studio.]

CHOOSE SPEAKER FOR SERIES OF LENTEN TALKS

The Rev. Ronald Kunz will be the Lenten speaker at the Church of Saint Juliana, Osceola and Touhy avenues, according to an announcement by the Rev. Francis C. Young, pastor. Father Kunz returned to the United States early last year from Rome and Germany where he had been studying for three years. He is now teaching sacred Scripture to seminarians and studying various Semitic languages, necessary for his work, at the Oriental institute, University of Chicago. He will speak each Wednesday evening at the 8 o'clock service. Other special services are scheduled for Friday and Sunday evenings.

All Proud of Judith

Park District Stage Group Will Present 'First Lady'

Three northwest siders will have parts in the play "First Lady," which will be presented tonight at the Goodman theater under the auspices of the park district. The play is a satire on Washington politics, written by Katherine Dayton, and among the actors, selected to represent various parks after competitive tryouts, are Irene Lasky of Pulaski park, Virginia Lee Sherman of Norwood park, and Harry Wagner of Portage park.

Show Tribune Film.

Ivanhoe lodge of the Masons will start its 1941 season Tuesday evening with a meeting at 1210 North Waller avenue at which the Tribune's sound motion picture, "The All-American Way," will be shown.

PARKSIDE CLUB TO HEAR TALK ON WEDGWOOD CHINA

Members Also to Join in Baking Display.

Many visitors will swell the attendance at the guest day meeting of the Parkside Woman's club, to be held at 1 o'clock Wednesday in the Woman's Community building, Hamlin avenue and Byron street. American home and conservation will be the themes of the day, and the former will be heightened by the display of breads, pies, and cakes which members are to furnish.

Mrs. Harold W. Blair and Mrs. William M. Kemp, chairmen of the American home and conservation departments respectively, have arranged the afternoon's program. After Mrs. Richard J. Wuerst, president, has conducted the brief business meeting, Mrs. Blair will introduce Mrs. Marian Knapp, who will take on Wedgwood china. As her speaker, Mrs. Kemp will introduce Harold Ernst, floral designer, who will comment on corsages, table centers and care of cut flowers. Mrs. Blair and Mrs. Kemp will also furnish the musical program. Mrs. Henry Daubach is in charge of the hostesses.

Belmont Woman's Club.

A quiz program on citizenship will be conducted by Mrs. Richard Ebeling of the citizenship department at 1 o'clock Wednesday in Chopin park fieldhouse, Long and Newport avenues. Mrs. John J. Muszynski, citizenship chairman, has charge of the program. Music will be furnished by a trio consisting of Mrs. Joseph R. McHale, music department chairman, Mrs. John Pabich Jr., and Mrs. Emma Schutz.

Hermosa Woman's Club.

A. Lawren Brown, educational director of Investors Syndicate, will lecture before the club at 1:30 Friday in the clubrooms at Kilbourn and Belden avenues.

Irving Park Auxiliary.

At 8 o'clock Tuesday the evening auxiliary of the Irving Park Woman's club will entertain the junior club in the Woman's Community building, 3900 North Hamlin avenue. Mrs. Bertha W. Hall will lecture on the subject, "Your Handwriting Talks."

Catholic Young Women.

A talk on Catholic literature by the Rev. Philip Cahill, director of St. Sylvester's parish study club, will be a feature of the Irving Park Catholic Young Woman's club meeting at 8:30 tomorrow evening in the Woman's Community building, 3900 North Hamlin avenue. Mrs. William Chidester, chairman, will be assisted by Miss Elizabeth Sommers, Mrs. Herbert Gottschalk and Mrs. Nicholas Oehlberg Jr.

Irving Park Woman's Club.

A color and sound picture, "Transpacific" will be shown under the sponsorship of the radio and motion picture department at the club meeting at 11 o'clock tomorrow. At 1:30 o'clock, Baldwin McGaw and Emma Knox, appearing in costume, will present dramatic duets.

The art department will hear "Allied Art" discussed by its chairman, Mrs. J. S. Eastmen, when members meet at the home of Mrs. William H. Lerch, 3842 North Kildare avenue, at 1 o'clock Wednesday.

The conservation department will meet at 12:45 Thursday at the home of Mrs. Frank Lawrence, 4240 North Kildare avenue.

Kelvyn Park Civic Women.

The Kelvyn Park Woman's Civic club will meet at 1:30 Wednesday in the fieldhouse for a homemaking quiz and food demonstration given by Mrs. Paul Knorr and Mrs. Elmer Soderstrom. Hostesses will be Mrs. Soderstrom, Mrs. John Ploss, and Mrs. Henry Prange.

Sauganash Woman's Club.

Mrs. Lemuel E. Day, chairman of the philanthropy committee, is in charge of the Philanthropy day meeting starting at 10 o'clock Tuesday at the Sauganash fieldhouse. All day sewing for the Salvation Army, and a pot luck luncheon will be featured. Mrs. Laurene Hoppe will give a book review in the morning, and the Sauganash Woman's chorus, directed by Mrs. Nelda S. Richard, will sing in the afternoon.

Portage Park Woman's Club.

The week's activities will be opened with a board meeting at 12:30 tomorrow at the home of Mrs. A. J. Herdrich, 5313 Dakin street. At 1 o'clock Tuesday the civic department will meet at the home of Mrs. Olin Shafer, 5424 Berteau avenue for a dessert luncheon. Assistants will be Mrs. Adolph Halvorsen, Mrs. I. R. Abbe, Mrs. Emil Godenrath, Mrs. J. W. Cleckner, Mrs. Mathilda Cathroe, and Mrs. Carl A. Lossman, civic chairman.

On Friday Mrs. Joseph Johnston, literary chairman, will open her home to members and guests for a luncheon and card party.

Twentieth Century Club.

George Dangerfield, former literary editor of Vanity Fair will speak on the subject "Books that Count" at the 2 o'clock meeting Tuesday at the Mary Wilson house, Park Ridge.

Wedded Half Century

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sammons observed their golden wedding recently with a dinner party at their home at 3808 Wrightwood avenue. They were married in Chicago, and have lived on the northwest side for 35 years. Mr. Sammons is 76 years and his wife is 74. They have seven children and 13 grandchildren. [Gibson Photo.]

Wedding Vows

A Washington's birthday bride was Mrs. James G. Manning, the former Patricia Elizabeth Gibbons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gibbons, 4547 Albany avenue. She was married to the son of Mrs. Mary Manning, 4044 North Maplewood avenue, at Our Lady of Mercy church, with a wedding breakfast following at the Knickerbocker hotel. The young couple will be at home at 4555 Christiana avenue. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

BUFFALO PARK! WHAT NOW, THAT FOUNTAIN'S GONE?

The problem of what will become of Buffalo park, smallest area in the Chicago park district, has been occupying the interest of residents of the Ravenswood Manor district since park officials started tearing down the familiar old fountain which dominated the park space.

The park grounds, bounded by Sunnyside, California, and Manor avenues, measure just seven-hundredths of an acre. Since 1918 this triangular piece of ground has been distinguished mainly by the fountain, nearly 16 feet high which stood in the center, supporting three mammoth buffalo heads.

It is this cement and granite structure which has been pulled to the ground, to the accompaniment of protests of neighbors who visited the grounds in groups to protest to the workmen there.

Park district officials maintain that the fountain was in such a bad state of repair that it was dangerous to leave it standing.

One of the most interested parties in the discussions was Mrs. Henry Cordell, who, with her late husband, was one of the first builders in the Ravenswood Manor and Gardens subdivision.

Mrs. Charles Woods, president of the Albany Park Woman's club, joined in the general protest at the razing of the monument, and the Ravenswood Manor association, which is planning to write a history of the district, also discussed the problem.

SACRED RECITALS THRU LENT ARE CHURCH OFFERING

For the 10th season, Christ Evangelical Lutheran church, Richmond street and McLean avenue, is sponsoring a series of twilight Lenten devotions and sacred recitals with concerts by major choral groups. The Music guild of the church coöperates with the congregation and with the pastor, the Rev. Walter G. Dippold, in bringing these programs to the church auditorium.

The concert series will start at 4 o'clock this afternoon, the recital being given by the Lutheran Oratorio society, under the direction of Robert Reuter. The 80 voice choir will sing a divided program, the first part featuring choral numbers from Handel's "Messiah," the second part composed of choruses from the "St. Matthew Passion," by Schuetz. The first performance of this work in full in the United States will be given by the society in April. Dr. J. W. Behnken, president of the Missouri Lutheran synod, will be the guest speaker today.

The second in the series of devotions will feature the children's a cappella choir of St. Luke's Evangelical Lutheran church, Belmont and Greenview avenues. Paul Wukasch will conduct the choir, and the Rev. A. R. Kretzmann, pastor of St. Luke's, will deliver the devotional message.

NEW UNIT GIVES HUMIDIFIED AIR AS HEALTH AID

Improves Circulation While It Cleans.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Something new in winter air conditioning for use with hot water or steam heating has been installed in the recently built home of Mr. and Mrs. David Park, 380 Green Bay street, Winnetka.

This is a ductless unit, designed to give warm air, humidified for health, and to distribute this air thruout the house.

Home owners and builders these days are on the lookout for constructive methods which will insure healthful, comfortable home air, and proper humidification should be considered in the light of an economy, not an expense.

Manufacturers and heating and ventilating engineers have been working hard on various ways to provide this necessary moisture to indoor air.

Hot Weather Use Also.

This unit in the Park home resembles a recessed convector except that it requires a floor grille. Installation is made by a heating and piping contractor in practically the same manner and with the same materials as the recessed radiator or convector.

Of interest, too, is the fact that this same unit can be used to create a circulation of air in hot weather.

Its method of performance is not complicated. Two blower type fans draw the cold air along the floor into the floor grille and here air is cleaned by an efficient filter located below the floor grille and then drawn thru the humidifying chamber which is below the filter. Then the air passes over a finned heating element in the wall.

Few Units Needed.

Only one or two of these units are considered necessary for complete winter air conditioning in the average house when they are used as an accessory to radiators or convectors.

In this home there are two: one in living room on the first floor, and one in an upstairs bedroom. According to Mr. Park, these have maintained 35 to 40 per cent humidity in his home this winter.

There are other methods of maintaining humidity in your home if it is heated by hot water or steam.

Units called humidifying radiators are available with rustproof cast iron evaporating pans as a part of the radiator assembly. The water which supplies the humidity is automatically controled and obtained thru a float regulated valve which keeps water at a selected level in the evaporating pan. One of these humidifying radiators under ordinary conditions is sufficient to humidify the average home of six to eight rooms.

Humidifier Attachments.

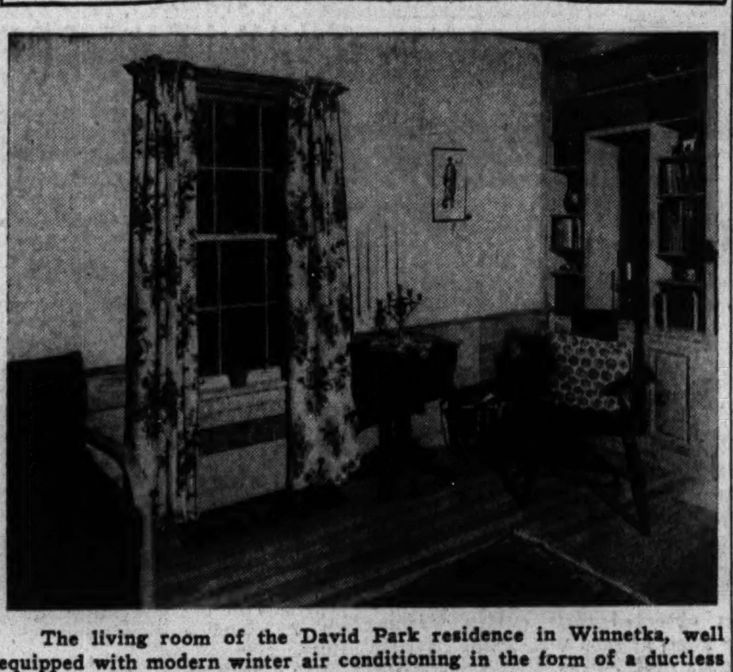
A very inexpensive small automatic humidifier may be attached to your steam radiators. This device sends humidity into the air in proportion to the steam pressure in the radiator. As the heat increases, the humidifier sends out an increased volume of moisture to temper the over-dry air. If a room is of ordinary size, one of these units has ample capacity to humidify it properly. The condensed steam which accumulates in the bottom of the humidifier automatically supplies the water used for the humidifying process.

And there are always hand fill pans which can be secured by brackets to the inside of radiators. As long as there is heat in the radiator and added moisture is necessary to a room, evaporation of water from the pan will take place.

Phi Delta Gamma Sorority Plans Benefit Card Party

Phi Delta Gamma sorority, a business and professional woman's group founded 27 years ago, will hold its annual charity card party next Saturday afternoon at the Fred Harvey restaurant in the Union station. Mrs. Arthur Brodd, 5830 North Bernard street, grand president, and Miss Jane Dunn, 1701 North Major avenue, grand social chairman, are in charge of the party.

Clean Heat for Home



The living room of the David Park residence in Winnetka, well equipped with modern winter air conditioning in the form of a ductless unit underneath the window. This circulates clean, warm, humidified air to all rooms on the first floor. The cold air is drawn into the floor grille and emerges humidified and clean from the grille in wall.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, March 3.

The earlier the lawn is given an application of plant food the better and this is a fine time to apply it. Use a complete, commercial food. Various standard combinations of the essential elements are manufactured by fertilizer companies. Simply follow directions.

If applied now while the ground is wet the chemicals will dissolve. It is unnecessary to wet down the lawn. If applied after it is well along it is essential that it have moisture immediately. Chemical fertilizers are available in many sources; they are comparatively cheap and easily applied.

Tuesday, March 4.

Soils that have been under cultivation for any length of time may require an application of lime. If the soil is acid, lime may be applied, ground limestone being the best to use.

To escertain whether the soil needs lime test it with litmus paper. Take a piece of the paper, moisten it, and insert it in a slit in the ground. If the paper turns pink or red the soil is acid and needs a bit of lime.

Wednesday, March 5.

Improve vegetable land by spreading a layer of well rotted manure over it and spading it under. Manure adds some plant food to the soil, but its chief value is aid in the liberation of elements thru chemical reactions. Clay soils are benefited by incorporating manure in them when they are spaded or plowed.

Fertile land is the result of applications of food, the plowing under of green crops, such as the legumes, and proper after care. The same holds true when flowers or lawns are maintained.

Thursday, March 6.

Add a few fruit trees in the garden. The best varieties of pears for this region are Clapp favorite, Seckel, and Bartlett. Peaches are not as hardy, but the Elberta and Late Crawford are standard varieties. Best varieties of sour cherries are Early Richmond and Montmorency. Buy fruit trees from reputable nurseries to obtain the varieties wanted.

Friday, March 7.

Start tuberous begonias by laying them in boxes or sand in a warm place. Pot when well started in growth. Give careful attention to seedlings or they may decline from crowding. Repot all that need it to prevent disease attacks. Prune all fall blooming shrubs.

Saturday, March 8.

Just as the frost leaves the ground is the best time to fertilize trees. Bore holes 12 to 18 inches deep in a ring around each tree and at the extreme end of the branches. The number of holes depends on the size of the trees, the rule being to bore 10 holes for each inch of diameter of the trunk and place half a pound of some good fertilizer in each hole. A 10-8-6 combination is a good mixture.

JEWISH YOUTHS TO ELECT PURIM QUEEN SATURDAY

Coronation to Feature Annual Carnival.

Jewish students of the city, observing the Purim carnival Saturday evening at the Hamilton hotel, 18 South Dearborn street, will elect a 1941 Queen Esther, present day prototype of the heroine of the Purim holiday.

Miss Melva Bernstein.

The observance of Purim, which comes on March 13, commemorates the rescue of the Jews of ancient Persia from the dictator of that country, Haman. The rescue was brought about thru the pleas of Esther, who had been chosen by King Ahasuerus as his queen.

Northwest siders who are candidates for queen are Melva Bernstein, 510 North Hamlin avenue, and Leah Berger, 1059 North Oakley boulevard.

Hyman Lusher, 717 Wellington street, is chairman of the committee representing the students' organization of the College of Jewish Studies, which is sponsoring the fête. The northwest side is represented on his committee by Isadore Stoller, 2715 West Crystal street.

Dr. Paul Popenoe of Los Angeles, Cal., will speak at the Albany Park forum at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow evening in Temple Beth Israel, Bernard and Ainslie streets. His subject will be "Marriage Is What You Make It." Dr. Popenoe is director of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations.

The Temple Sisterhood will hear Florence Bourke Ellis review James Hilton's novel, "Random Harvest," at 1:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Clarence L. Richter is in charge of the program.

The Logan Square B'nai B'rith women's auxiliary will hold its membership tea at 1 o'clock Wednesday at 320 West Madison street. Mrs. Hy Brody is president of the group and Mrs. Arona Goodman is membership chairman.

The Albany Park Ladies Aid auxiliary will hold a luncheon and card party Wednesday noon at the Albany Park Masonic temple, 4660 North Kedzie avenue. Mrs. Cecil Bernberg is president.

'ODE TO CHICAGO' WILL HIGHLIGHT NEW W-G-N HOUR

Chicagoland Program to Start Saturday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The new Chicagoland hour which will be presented for the first time from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network will recreate the "Ode to Chicago," which was aired for the first time last September to inaugurate the fall and winter season.

"Ode to Chicago" is a unique production suited particularly to the medium of radio. It employs drama, poetry, sound effects, and a stirring musical score, specially written for it by David Broekman, the noted Hollywood composer and conductor, to portray historic highlights of Chicago and to describe its character and spirit. It was conceived by William A. Bacher, and the script was written by Francis Coughlin and John D. Hess.

The new Chicagoland hour represents an expansion of the Chicagoland Concert hour series. But it will occupy the radio period that has been vacated by the Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, which concluded their long run last evening with a special broadcast of "I Pagliacci" at the Civic Opera house before an audience of more than 3,600.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will continue the talks he has been giving on the Concert hour on the new Chicagoland hour. The Concert hour has been running for a half hour on Wednesday evenings.

Familiar music will be presented on the new program by Marion Claire, noted soprano, and the W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

The W-G-N Players will be featured in the "Ode to Chicago." Mr. Bacher will produce the show.

In addition to the dramatic presentation the W-G-N Concert orchestra will present Brahms' "Academic Festival," and Michael Wilkomirski will be featured in a violin solo of Glazounov's "Violin Concerto No. 1."

LISTENERS TO GET CHANCE TO PUT OWN IDEAS ON NETWORK

Radio listeners who have ideas of their own for new radio programs will have their inning each week during the broadcast of What's Your Idea?, new radio show to be heard for the first time at 5:30 p. m. today over WMAQ and NBC. The cast will include Ted Fio Rito and his orchestra, Little Jackie Heller, teno, and Nelson Olmstead, with guest stars. Simone Simon will be the first guest. Listeners will be invited to submit, in outline form, their ideas for new kinds of radio programs. Each week the three best ideas submitted will be developed into a script and produced in abridged form during the broadcast. A cash award of $100 will be paid for each idea used, with a bonus of $100 for the best idea of the week.

Jackie Heller.

Married 50 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Stevens, 2740 North Spaulding avenue, recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary with an open house. Mr. Stevens was for a number of years president of the Milwaukee-Armitage, Western Business Men's association. There are three children, Frank and Charles Jr. of Chicago, and Mrs. Marie Nowacki of Hammond, and four grandsons.

DEAD SURE YOU CAN SPELL NAME OF YOUR STREET?

Even Best People Do Make Mistakes.

How do you misspell the name of the street you live on? Don't laugh, because there are some northwest side streets that even the best people get wrong.

"Now take McVickers avenue," declared the superintendent of a postal district thru which this street runs. "People get that wrong, even after living on it all their life. Why, alost half the letters we get don't have the 's' on the end."

"Say," said a clerk, "even I've made that mistake!"

"I'll show it to you in the postal directory," maintained the superintendent. "Let's see, now . . . McLean, McLeod . . . here it is, McVick. . . . Well, they haven't got the 's' on here, but there are plenty of easier streets that people get wrong. No, I can't give you my name, we're not supposed to talk for publication."

Yes, Even the Best.

Yes, even the best people spell some streets wrong.

More than half of the branch superintendents handling McVicker avenue didn't know how to spell it. People confuse it with the loop theater. Both, oddly enough, are named after the same person, James H. McVicker, a prominent actor and producer of the last century, but the theater has dropped the apostrophe.

Do you live on Montclare avenue, or Montclair, as it is often misspelled? No you don't, because neither is right. It is two words—Mont Clare. Kamerling avenue is another one often misspelled on letters by having two "m"s. It is named after A. H. Kamerling, a real estate investor and alderman.

Kilbourn avenue does not have an "e" on the end, as many people seem to think. According to the complete record of Howard Brodman, city superintendent of maps, it was named after a town in Wisconsin which was in turn named after a pioneer in that region. Similarly, Cortland street got its name from a New York town, and is not spelled Courtland.

Others Are Misspelled.

Others which postal authorities reported often wrongly spelled were Berteau, Narragansett, Elbridge, and Spaulding avenues and Paulina street. Lorel avenue is a poser, the more so since, according to Brodman's records, it was named after an uncommon spelling of the laurel, a shrub. Since the dictionary gives no legal alternative to "laurel," you are merely misspelling and misspelling by spelling Lorel "Laurel." "Lorel," incidentally, is defined as "a worthless person."

Chicago street names are, as a rule, easier to spell than in most cities of this size. There are 1,362 street names in the city, Brodman said, fewer than in any other city approaching it in size.

Bride-to-Be

Mary Paxton, conductor of the Wishing Well program on W-G-N, and Durward Kirby, NBC announcer, have announced their engagement. They met at WLW, Cincinnati. A fall wedding is planned.

Field Park Gymnasts Plan to Offer Demonstration

The gymnasium groups at Eugene Field park, 5100 North Ridgeway avenue, will present their annual demonstration Thursday and Friday evenings at 8 o'clock. P. H. Leiderman, park supervisor, will be in charge, assisted by William Postl, men's physical instructor; Frances Lange, women's physical instructor, and Emily Gernand, pianist.

ORGANIZE WELLS ALUMNI TO AID THOSE IN SCHOOL

Graduates Will Report on Activities.

Success of a novel experiment being conducted this semester by Wells High school will bring about a very much closer relationship between the school and the neighborhood which it serves. This experiment involves the organization of the school alumni to take an active part in civic affairs of the community, and report to the civics classes at the school.

The idea has been under discussion by members of the faculty and of the Near Northwest Side Community council for about a year. Its leading exponents were Dr. Paul R. Pierce, principal of Wells; Marion G. Kudlick, president of the council; Miss Lea D. Taylor of Chicago Commons, and Richard A. Maske of the Division street Y. M. C. A.

Outlines Future Scope.

Final realization of the plan has been accomplished thru the work of the Wells civics teachers: Miss Signa Wright, who is also a sponsor of the Wells Civic association, Miss Rosetta Tovrog, and Henry Swets.

Leading members of the recently graduated class took part in a panel discussion in January, presided over by the teachers, to which community leaders were invited.

"Think how much more our civics classes could accomplish," said Miss Wright, "if we had an actual connection with the problems under discussion instead of only a theoretical one."

"There are 400 blocks in the area served by this school, with from two to six recent Wells graduates on each block," added Kudlick. "These alumni could form the nucleus of a youth organization which would foster participation in civic and welfare programs, and would occupy the spare time of our young men and women with a very worth while cause."

Four Initiate Project.

Miss Taylor at the same time pointed out that such an organization would be effective in the Wells region, where from 40 to 45 per cent of the population are receiving some sort of public relief.

The plan was supported shortly afterwards at a meeting of the Near Northwect Community council.

So when the 96 seniors were graduated recently, four members of the class volunteered to start the project. Lena Digati and Charles Nitti took spare time positions at the Chicago Commons, 955 West Grand avenue, and Violet Ziemann and Ted Fotif did the same at the W. M. C. A., 1621 West Division street. For the time being they will limit themselves to keeping close tab on as many of their own class as possible, listing the community interests of each. Miss Wright said that about half the class has coöperated so far.

Later it is planned to organize those who are especially interested in one field, such as church or social work, or sports. Members of these groups would report to classes at the school on their progress.

WHERE TO FIND LOCAL STATIONS AFTER MARCH 29

W-G-N to Stay at 720; Many Others Shift.

The impending reallocation of the frequencies [wave lengths] of broadcasting stations has already brought a number of inquiries for the new positions of the stations to be affected. The changes, if finally approved, will go into effect at 2 a. m. central time March 29.

All American broadcasting stations with frequencies higher than 720 at present would be assigned new frequencies somewhat higher than at present under terms of the North American regional broadcasting agreement, a pact between the United States, Canada, Mexico, and Cuba.

Under terms of the agreement the United States gives up several channels and the other countries make similar concessions with the expectation that interference between stations of two or more countries on the same bands may be eliminated.

The shifts will force listeners to get accustomed to finding many stations in new positions on the dial. Seven hundred and ninety-five of the 882 broadcasting stations will be assigned new positions. W-G-N, however, will occupy the same clear channel as now, 720 kilocycles.

	Old.	New.
W-G-N	720	720
WIND	560	560
WMAQ	670	670
WBBM	770	780
WLS-WENR	870	890
WAAF	920	950
WCFL	970	1000
WMBI, WCBD	1080	1110
WJJD	1130	1160
WJOB	1200	1230
WSBC, WCRW, WEDC	1210	1240
WMRO	1250	1280
WGES	1360	1390
WHIP	1480	1520

Stations with frequencies from 550 to 720, inclusive, will retain their positions; stations from 740 to 780 will move up 10 kilocycles [one channel]; stations from 790 to 870 will move up 20 kilocycles; stations from 880 to 1450 will move up 30 kilocycles; certain stations now in the 1460-1490 field will move to 1500-1530. Receivers with push buttons will need to have these controls adjusted.

PROVISO HIGH IS NEXT ON CITIZEN'S SHOW ON W-G-N

Proviso Township High school of Maywood will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow program at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday over W-G-N. The main audience studio of W-G-N will be filled by 600 boys and girls representing the 4,000 students of Proviso High.

E. R. Sifert, superintendent, will speak briefly, and the Proviso choir will sing three numbers. One of these, the school song, "Forward Proviso," written by Florence Galajikian, Maywood composer. Other numbers by the choir, under the direction of Robert Lee Osburn, will be Elgar's "As Torrents in Summer," and "O, Be Joyful All Ye Lands," by Gretchaninoff.

Philip Maxwell will be master of ceremonies. Mr. Maxwell will interview Ralph Meyer, student of Montefiore School for Boys, Chicago, who is studying to be an electrical engineer.

Animated Valentine.

Ed Allen, W-G-N announcer, was presented with an animated valentine by his wife, Dolores, on Feb. 14. It's a girl, weighed 5 pounds 10 ounces, and has been named Kathleen Melodie Allen. This is the second child for the Allens. They have one boy 13 months old.

'AMERICAS SPEAK' PROGRAM OPENS OVER MBS TODAY

Vice President Wallace on Rotary Hour.

Vice President Henry A. Wallace, speaking from Washington, will address a message of greetings to the Latin American audience during the première broadcast of Rotary and Mutual's "The Americas Speak."

The Rotary program, saluting Mexico, will be heard over W-G-N and a coast-to-coast Mutual network hookup at 2 p. m. today and will be carried to South America by the powerful short wave stations WGEO, Schenectady, N. Y., and WRUL, Boston, Mass.

Many stations of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation also will carry the program.

Miguel Aleman, Mexican minister of the interior, speaking from Mexico City, will respond to Vice President Wallace's greetings. Twenty minutes of the half hour program will originate from Mexico City.

Typical Mexican music will be featured, including the "Zacatecas March" by Genaro Codina and "La Paloma" by Yradier. The balance of the program is designed to convey a better understanding of Mexican life, customs, and geography to the American public.

"The Americas Speak" series calls for broadcasts to originate on successive Sundays from Havana, Cuba; Quito, Ecuador; Gautemala City, Guatemala; Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Santiago, Chile; Bogota, Columbia; Caracas, Venezuela; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Montevideo, Uruguay, and Lima, Peru.

Lack of short wave facilities makes it impossible to arrange programs from the other countries of South America.

Local South American stations will pick up the short wave broadcasts and rebroadcast them by long wave. These international good will radio programs are expected to help cement the bonds of friendship and understanding between the Pan-American nations.

"Climbers" on Great Plays.

"The Climbers," which was first produced in 1905, will be the Great Plays presentation at 2 p. m. today over WENR and NBC.

Out on a Limb

Dorothy Deere, Chicago motion picture and drama critic, is one of four experts who get out on a limb weekly on the program "We Predict," on W-G-N from 6:30 to 7 p. m. Sundays. Others who forecast future events are Bob Elson, sports; Donald McGibney, national affairs; Irving Pflaum, foreign affairs.

Thibault, Lucy Monroe on Merry-Go-Round Program

Baritone Conrad Thibault and Soprano Lucy Monroe, radio and concert headliners, will be heard as soloists on the Manhattan Merry-Go-Round at 8 p. m., starting today, over WMAQ-NBC. The Men About Town Trio will continue to be heard.

BERT WHEELER TO BE STARRED ON CHICAGO HOUR

Two New Groups Will Be Featured.

Bert Wheeler of stage and movie fame will be featured on "In Chicago Tonight" at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday over W-G-N and the coast-to-coast Mutual network.

Bert Wheeler.

Working with Wheeler will be Hank Ladd, comedian and stooge. Both are appearing at the Chicago theater in Earl Carrol's "Vanities."

Continuing with the new policy of introducing talent not generally known to the radio audience, W-G-N will present two new groups for their network debut. The Tanner Sisters, a vocal trio featured in the Al Jolson show, "Hold On to Your Hats," which recently closed in New York, will be heard. Another new group is the Six Rocquettes, colored boys from Detroit. The boys came to Chicago for recording work and auditioned at W-G-N at the same time. They were immediately signed.

In Chicago Tonight, a regular Thursday evening program of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, is produced by William A. Bacher. Music is under the direction of Harold Stokes and Robert Trendler.

EXPAND DIAL TELEPHONE SERVICE

SOUTH CHICAGO READY TO OPEN ITS NEW LIBRARY

Offers Innovations in Services.

Construction work on the new South Chicago library branch at 91st street and Houston avenue was completed last week and the first of the new books were placed in the racks.

Dedication ceremonies are planned for the middle of March. Among those expected are Mayor Kelly, trustees of the Chicago public library, and representatives of the Friends of the Library, the Adult Education council, and south side educational institutions.

The library will be officially accepted by members of the South Chicago Chamber of Commerce, the South Chicago Youth council, the South Chicago Coördinating council, and representatives of local industries. The ceremony will be followed by four days of open house.

Close Bessemer Branch.

The new structure, modernistic in design ,cost $82,000. Sixty-three thousand dollars' worth of new books and $6,000 worth of furniture are being installed. A total of 20,000 adult books and 10,000 juvenile books line the walls. Nine thousand volumes will be transferred from the Bessemer park library, which is closing.

A number of innovations will be introduced into the new library, it has been announced by Lowell Martin, executive assistant in the main library who will be acting librarian of the new branch for several months. Main features of the program will be as follows:

1. A special collection of books entitled "The World Today," which will be revised constantly. The purpose is to keep about 1,500 important, up to date volumes separate for easy reference.

2. A young adults' collection. This will be a separate arrangement of books designed to help youths seeking vocational guidance.

3. A science and technology section offering approximately 3,000 books. This is the largest collection of its kind possessed by any branch, except the regional branches, in the city. Aimed to satisfy the community's industrial minded residents, it will emphasize steel.

Program of Movies.

4. Book-film programs. In an attempt to make movies and books complement one another, there will be periodical showings of educational films, followed by talks on books related to the subject.

5. Book discussions. It is planned to organize groups of 15 or 20 persons for the purpose of reading and discussing an important book together.

6. A greater emphasis on magazines and pamphlets than in other branches. There will be 1,800 pamphlets and a variety of reputable magazines.

7. A policy of loaning collections of books to women's clubs or any other groups interested in a certain topic.

The film exhibitions and other large group activities will take place in the basement auditorium which seats 275 persons. The outer foyer will be used for special exhibits and for story hour and club activities. Also in the basement are two workrooms, a large storeroom, and a staffroom containing kitchen and lockers.

Book Stacks Concealed.

The doorway of the first floor gives an unobstructed view of all the rooms on the first floor. The science room, the adult reading room, the juvenile room, and librarian's office open fanwise from the center section, which has the charging and discharging desks. This plan is so arranged as to eliminate the sight of stacked rows of books on every wall, according to Mr. Martin.

The building thruout has fluorescent lighting, giant windows, Venetian blinds, and wall linoleum.

Assisting Mr. Martin are 17 full time staff members, including Miss Mary Farrell, first assistant, and Miss Bertha Schuman, second assistant. The staff is prepared to loan about 25,000 books a month.

MANUAL TRAINING GLEE CLUB WILL OFFER OPERETTA

The Pullman Free School of Manual Training Alumni Glee club will present its third annual operetta at 8:15 o'clock Saturday evening in St. Willibrord's hall, 11408 Edbrooke avenue. The show, entitled "Tune In," is directed by Hilda Butler Farr.

Incidental music will be supplied by the Marainia trio, consisting of Norma Van Gameron, Lorraine Butler, and Georgia Vander Weit, accompanied by Art Muehl.

Child Asleep 21 Days Now a 100 Per Center

Three years ago this month 4 year old Barbara Jean Herpich fell into a sleep from which it seemed she would never wake. Afflicted with encephalitis lethargica, she had a temperature of 106, and doctors had little hope of a recovery. After 21 days she awoke, looked at her mother and asked for a glass of water.

Today doctors say there is no doubt about Barbara's perfect recovery. Since her illness she has doubled her weight, has acquired cheeks like October apples, and gets 100 "nearly all the time" in second grade at the Paul Revere school.

In her home at 7215 Ellis avenue she laughs as she examines a scrapbook which shows newspaper photos and stories and letters which her rare sickness elicited from all over the country. Last spring she was pronounced thoroly healthy by board of health doctors in a school round-up survey.

Attack Follows Measles.

The illness, according to Mrs. Herpich, was contracted after an attack of the measles. Ordinarily it results only once in 1,600 cases of measles.

"Many persons don't realize that her eyes were open most of the time," explains Mrs. Herpich, in reviewing the affliction. "In fact, I often noticed that her eyes followed me as I moved around the room. There was a vacant stare in them, however, and she never moved, for she had no control over her body. She lay on her back for three weeks and her arms were rigidly bent above her head."

Mrs. Herpich remembers no specific reaction of her own, probably because she didn't know the exact nature of the case. She fed Barbara with an eye-dropper. It used to take her all morning to give her breakfast and all afternoon to give her lunch, she recalls. Periodically doctors gave the child injections of glucose and saline solutions.

Third Week Brings Change.

In the third week, on a Friday, says Mrs. Herpich, Barbara began moving her head from side to side, and on Saturday started waving her arms crazily above her head. At 6 o'clock Sunday morning she suddenly said, "Mother, I want a glass of water."

Afterward she remained a month in bed at home, and it took her many weeks to learn to use her arms and legs again. She was treated at the South Shore hospital by Dr. William H Elghammer, pediatrician, and Dr. Martin Merbitz, family physician.

In retrospect, Barbara merely smiles mysteriously and says, "I wasn't asleep at all."

TILDEN CADETS REWARDED FOR 'EXTRA WORK'

Seven Tilden Technical High school R. O. T. C. cadets earned "T" civic letter awards and eight others earned "stars" and "bars" symbolical of service to the school as a result of their extra-curricular activities last semester. Highest honors went to Cadet Captain Emmanuel Riff and Cadet First Lieutenant Chester Nelson, both of whom won the maximum award of 10 bars and one star.

Other high ranking cadet winners were Capt. Meade Hanger, seven bars and one star; First Lieutenant Edward Osajda, four bars and one star; Private Jack Weber, seven bars, and Maj. William Deeley, Second Lieutenant George Katsaros, and Sergt. Nicholas Fuhs, five bars each. Plain letter awards went to Maj. Robert Syzman, First Lieutenant Joseph Merton, Second Lieutenants Gordon Bey and Herman Jackson, and Sergeants James Allman, John Hulkowich, and Anthony Novello.

All letters by the R. O. T. C. are for service in either the school's usher corps, military police, or fire guards. The letters are awarded for 100 hours or more of service. Each bar represents an additional hundred hours service and a star signifies that its wearer has presided over an organization of 50 or more students.

FIVE SORORITIES, ONE FRATERNITY TO HOLD BALL SATURDAY

Miss Mary Beauregard, 8725 Hermitage avenue, is chairman of a south side sorority and fraternity dance to be held in the Knickerbocker hotel Saturday evening, March 15. The dance will be sponsored by Iota Sigma, an organization coordinating the activities of five sororities and one fraternity.

Miss Mary Beauregard.

Serving as committee chairmen with Miss Beauregard are Mrs. Elmer Quivey, 6319 Bennett avenue, Miss Helen Paré, 8417 Sangamon street; Mrs. John Horsch Jr., 1635 West 57th street, and Harold Seinwerth, 7717 Laflin street.

Committee members include Miss Margaret Hughes, 8152 Ada street; Miss Rita Kilgariff, 7340 Sangamon street, and Miss Bernice Hamer, 944 West 95th street.

Famous Patient Now Enjoys Glowing Health

Now that she is as healthy as any one else, Barbara Jean Herpich, 7215 Ellis avenue, can enjoy the pictures taken of her three years ago when she awoke after sleeping for 21 days. Barbara, who is in second grade at the Paul Revere school, was afflicted with encephalitis lethargica (sleeping sickness) after an attack of the measles. Her plight attracted national attention. She is looking at the picture which appeared in The Tribune on April 12, 1938. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Arise and Arm! Indiana Out to Nab Our Towns

Memo to the Indiana state legislature: If it comes to a plebiscite, you won't get Calumet City, Burnham, Lansing, Hegewisch, and part of South Chicago.

A hasty survey of the attitude of civic leaders in these localities last week revealed a remarkable apathy to the prospect of becoming Indianians. The survey was prompted by a bill introduced in the Indiana legislature asking that three Illinois towns and two Chicago communities be handed over to Indiana, since they are in territory placed in Illinois thru a surveyor's error more than 100 years ago.

Will Take 50 Millions.

If Illinois insists on keeping its ill-gotten gains, the bill proposes, Indiana should generously accept $50,000,000 in payment.

One of the citizens most opposed to the transfer idea is Ald. William A. Rowan, whose 10th ward includes Hegewisch and most of South Chicago.

"If there's any change in the state line to be made, Chicago will take over Hammond, Gary, and part of Michigan City," he said. "Indiana stole them from us in the first place. I'm sure the people out here wouldn't be for it. Several times they've wanted to secede from Chicago but never if it meant getting into Indiana."

Mayor John Schuringa of Lansing said flatly that "we're sure we're in Illinois and we want to stay there."

Mayor Zick Dumfounded.

Mayor William F. Zick seemed dumfounded at the suggested boundary alteration. He said he didn't think the people of Calumet City would care for it at all.

Mayor John Patton of Burnham was in Miami, Fla., and could not be reached. One of Burnham's citizens, however, remarked that "there'd be a blitzkrieg if they tried to get us into Indiana."

The bill maintains that the true state line should fall about four miles west of the present boundary, since in the original state charter the boundary was defined as extending from the farthest west point of the Wabash river in a straight line due north to Lake Michigan.

FORT DEARBORN CAMERA CLUB TO HOLD OPEN HOUSE

Lyman Harrington, 9752 South Calumet avenue, will be official "greeter" for southwest side camera fans attending an open house program of the Fort Dearborn Camera club in Mather tower, 75 East Wacker drive, Friday evening. Pictures taken by members of the club will be on exhibit during the open house, which will begin at 5 o'clock. Harrington, a member of the club for the last 10 years, is active in planning the group annual spring photography course, which opens March 11.

Halevi Society to Give Evening of Jewish Music

The Halevi Choral society will present "An Evening of Jewish Music" as the last event of the lecture-forum series sponsored by the Englewood Jewish Juniors at Oir Chodosh Community center, 702 West Englewood avenue, at 8:15 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Garden Club Dinner.

The Chicago Garden club will celebrate its fifth birthday Tuesday evening with a dinner at 14 East Jackson boulevard. The club was organized by Mrs. C. Clarence Rehbein, 7201 Prairie avenue.

IT TAKES A 5-11 FIRE TO END JANE'S PERFECT PROMPTNESS RECORD

One of the major incidents of the big fire at 166 West Lake street last Wednesday was the fact that Miss Jane Testerman was seven minutes late to work. This was the first time Jane had been late for anything in the 18 years of her life.

Jane Testerman.

As reported in this space last spring, she was on time or early for class every day in kindergarten, grammar school, high school, and business school. Jane admits that she was heartbroken but that she will begin her record all over again.

"I had to leave the 'L' at Cermak road," says Jane, who lives at 1325 East 64th street, "and I found I couldn't get a taxi anywhere around. So I took a street car and arrived at the office seven minutes late. I was glad, however, that my boss said I was excused. Usually I'm about 20 minutes early."

KIWANIS OPENS ESSAY CONTEST ON CITIZENSHIP

"Citizenship, the Price of Liberty" is the title of essays to be submitted by southwest side high school students in a contest sponsored by the Kiwanis club of Southwest Chicago. Competition will be open to any high school student living in the area bounded by Halsted street, 119th street, 81st street and the western city limits.

Purpose of the contest, for which prizes will be announced later, is to stimulate "interest and appreciation of the responsibility and duties of American citizenship. Winners of the local contest will be eligible to participate in a contest conducted by the Kiwanis International.

Members of the committee planning the contest are Kenneth Merrick, principal of the Vanderpoel school; Ralph Morgan, director of Ridge Park; Glen Adams, secretary of the Beverly Y. M. C. A., and Hugh G. Price, principal of the Morgan Park Military academy. Coöperating with them will be members of the club's public affairs committee, which includes Dr. Henry Sands, Fred Cauble, Tom Collins, and Dr. Claude Temple.

Irish Club to Celebrate Fifth Year with Dance

The Irish club, which has a membership of approximately 850 south side families, will celebrate its fifth anniversary Saturday evening with a dance in the Liberty ballroom, 92d street and Cotttage Grove avenue. Martin Shannon, 441 East 88th place, is chairman of the celebration. Two orchestras will play both Irish and American music and Miss Mary Lynch will lead the Irish folk dancing.

Seminary Players to Give Religious Fantasy Mar. 12

"Second Chance," a religious fantasy by Frances Guild, will be presented by the Chicago Theological Seminary Players Wednesday evening, March 12, at the weekly vesper service in Graham Taylor hall, 5757 University avenue. The story is based on a suicide. Students participating will be Virginia Lee, Gail Frank, Pauline Evans, John Vaughan, Orma Trick, and Jesse Smith.

CITY'S CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO GET BIGGER SCHOOL

Addition at Spalding to Cost $750,000.

Construction will begin next month on a $750,000 two story brick addition that will double the size of the Spalding school for crippled children at 1628 Washington boulevard, it was announced last week by James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education.

John C. Christensen, school board architect who drew the plans and will supervise construction, said the new unit will in all likelihood be ready for use by the start of the second semester of next school term in February.

The addition will make the Spalding school a complete educational unit, Mr. McCahey pointed out. For the first time the physically handicapped child will find it possible to acquire a complete public school education, from kindergarten thru high school, in an adequately equipped plant.

Crowded Other Schools.

Up to now the only high school facilities afforded for such handicapped youngsters were improvised in two high school branches, Morrill branch of Lindblom at 6011 South Rockwell street, and Sabin branch of Tuley at 2216 Hirsch street. This arrangement, Mr. McCahey said, deprived the two high schools of much needed space and worked a hardship on the crippled children, who need specially designed and equipped buildings.

High school facilities for 500 children will be provided. This is more than enough to care for the city's needs at present, but school board officials felt that the reserve capacity should be added to care for the normal increases in population.

The new structure will also enhance the present clinical and treatment facilities of the school, which are regarded as being of primary importance. Rooms will be set aside for hydrotherapy, electrotherapy, and physiotherapy, and for violet ray, spastic and cardiac cases, deaf-oral and sightsaving cases, and dental work.

Trains for Trades.

Vocational training is emphasized at the Spalding school, the effort being to train the handicapped youngsters in trades that will make them self-supporting in later life. The present building program will bring the school to a high point of efficiency in this respect, Mr. McCahey said.

Room will be available not only for the usual high school curriculum, but also for teaching of subjects such as cooking, sewing, industrial arts, woodworking, printing, and weaving.

There will be 40 school rooms in the addition, which will also enlarge the clinic and treatment room and the bus entrance, as well as provide more office space, according to the school architect.

The rooms will include 13 classrooms, five laboratories, numerous special rooms, a library, a gymnasium, several shops, and adequate office and restroom facilities for the large faculty the school requires.

One of the shops will be equipped to enable faculty workers to make braces and other mechanical aids for

Girls Win Top Jobs on Fenger High Weekly

The adage that "powdered noses can't smell news" was open to some question at Fenger High school last week after girl students had won all four executive positions on the staff of the Fenger News. Announcement of the second semester staff appointments was made by Miss Mildred Taylor, faculty advisor to the six page weekly publication.

June Horne and Hazel Marten will handle the paper's finances, while Toby Gadlin, Marion Levin, and Edith Finnell will have charge of circulation.

Irish Party.

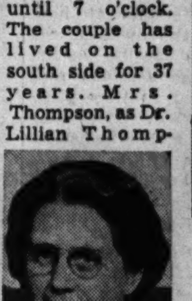
Mercy High school Dads' club will hold an Irish party tomorrow evening in the school building, 8100 Prairie avenue.

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

MR. and Mrs. O. Marley Thompson, 7120 Vernon avenue, celebrated their golden wedding last week. A reception for more than 60 friends and relatives was held in their home from 5 until 7 o'clock. The couple has lived on the south side for 37 years. Mrs. Thompson, as Dr. Lillian Thompson, has been a practicing physician for 30 years.

O. M. Thompson.



Mrs. Thompson.

At the celebration the "bride" wore a corsage of yellow orchids. There were gifts of golden china and other appropriate presents. The family includes two daughters, Mrs. H. Russel Stapp of South Bend and Mrs. Henry M. Frey of Elkhart, two grand daughters, and one great-grand child.

BABY pictures which have graced family albums for years are being taken to Hyde Park High school this month. They are entries in the baby beauty contest which will be conducted in the March 20 issue of the Hyde Park student newspaper. Students and faculty will vote for the cutest boy and cutest girl baby. Faculty baby photos also are eligible.

Officers of the Hyde Park a cappella, girls' and male choruses were elected recently. Melvin Bastin is president of the a cappella group, Dorothy Kane is president of the girls' chorus, and Homer Lentz is president of the boys' chorus.

A memorial service for Robert S. Abbott, founder of the Chicago Defender, will take place at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Metropolitan Community church, 4100 South Parkway under the auspices of the Wabash Avenue Y. M. C. A. religious committee.

South side members of the Chicago Catholic University club will become better acquainted with the shamrock this afternoon. The club's monthly meeting in the Midland hotel will be in the form of an Irish program. Speakers will be Daniel J. McGrath, Irish consul; Dr. Arthur C. L. Brown, professor of English at Northwestern university, and Miss Susan Dwyer, instructor in speech at Loyola university.

AN exhibition of painting, drawing and craft work done by the pupils of six public and seven private elementary schools in the neighborhood will be given at the Hyde Park Art center, 1500 East 57th street, starting tomorrow and continuing until March 31. The exhibit was arranged under the direction of Harold Haydon of the art center and head of the art department at George Williams college.

Mrs. Roche Sinderson, 5304 University avenue, and Miss Lucille Boyer of East Chicago, led alumnae groups to the 31st anniversary celebration of the Phi Omega Pi national sorority last week at the Chicago Woman's club.

CHANGE AFFECTS 31,000 HOMES ON SOUTH SIDE

Operation Will Start on April 12.

The second big step in bringing dial telephones to the residential areas of Chicago will be taken this month on the south side by the Illinois Bell Telephone company. A total of 31,000 dial phones recently installed for South Shore and South Chicago residents will receive a final inspection before being put into service.

The "cut-over" to the new dial phones—which will affect the South Shore, South Chicago, Saginaw, Regent, and Bayport exchanges—will be made at midnight, April 12. The change, company officials say, will take no longer than a minute. Meanwhile, beginning on March 17, 100 specially trained employés will visit all homes in these areas where old style phones exist to explain the use of the dial. Each owner also will be given an instruction card bearing the list of all exchanges in the city.

39 Per Cent Have Dials.

The installations of dial phones on the south side will give this section more residential dial phones than any other side of the city, it has been revealed. With the exception of one neighborhood on the north side, other areas having a preponderance of dial phones are primarily business areas. The south side will have more than 100,000 dial phones, since 73,000 were put into use in the Oakland and Lafayette areas last August. It also will mean that 39.1 per cent of the city's phones are dial instruments.

The mass installation of phones and machinery is costing the company $3,000,000. Two million dollars of this sum was used to purchase the latest type dial equipment for the South Chicago Central office, 89th street and Marquette avenue. The office includes a new two story addition on which work was begun in October, 1939. Workmen began installing dial phones in south side homes last September.

The dial phone, which was used first in Chicago in 1923, is "tailored to fit the face." Bell Telephone laboratories measured the faces of 4,000 persons to get the best average distance between the mouthpiece and receiver. There are 326 pieces in a dial phone, making use of 34 raw materials in various combinations and alloys. These metals and materials come from all parts of the world.

Still Need Operators.

Dial phone service does not mean that many telephone operators will be no longer needed, officials of the company added. In fact, they pointed out, no operator ever has been fired for that reason.

A great many operators still are needed in dial offices for the following reasons:

1. To straighten out incorrect dialers.

2. To assist in emergencies, such as fire and police calls, when users can't wait to dial numbers.

3. To intercept calls for numbers which either don't exist or have been changed.

4. To take near out-of-town calls.

5. To complete incoming calls from nondial areas. [The usual two operators are needed on a call from a nondial area to a dial area.]

6. To connect calls for persons who can't dial for physical reasons.

All operators who are not needed for reasons given above are absorbed by other offices or other departments of the company.

The area which will receive the new dial phone service is bounded by 71st and 138th streets, the lake, and Cottage Grove avenue.

P.-T. A. Kitchen Band Will Play on Tuesday

The Burnside P.-T. A. kitchen band practices for the South Central P.-T. A. kitchen band concert to be held Tuesday at Park Manor school, 71st street and Rhodes avenue. Five of the members and their instruments are Mrs. Nick Ignelzi, using a funnel for a hat and leading the band with a large wooden spoon; Mrs. Theodore Hrometz, at the piano; Mrs. Harvey Sampsell, playing a trombone made of curtain rods, cookie cutters, and a funnel, and on top of the piano Mrs. Delmar Lee Guffy, playing a bazooka, and Mrs. Charles Fish, blowing on a coffee pot. The group was organized four months ago. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

STATE TO REPAVE ARCHER BETWEEN 47TH AND CICERO

The South Area council of the Chicago Motor club was informed recently that the state highway department will repave the 24 block stretch of Archer avenue from 47th street to Cicero avenue. Construction will start as soon as the weather permits, it was explained at the council's monthly meeting in the Windermere East hotel.

Motor club engineers reported that the 600 foot viaduct thru which Vincennes avenue traffic travels in the vicinity of 83d street should be lighted all day and all night. The council had complained that bicycle riders and slow traveling vehicles were not visible in the tunnel. A further recommendation calls for whitewashing the walls of the viaduct to obtain the best possible light from the volume of illumination available.

The council's effort to open 87th street across the tracks of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad was advanced another step when it was reported that Ald. William A. Rowan [10th] had asked the city corporation counsel to petition the Illinois Commerce commission for an order.

Several new projects were added to the council's program. They included a suggestion from the Lake County Area Council of Indiana that work should be resumed to get 119th street opened across the state line to Avenue L; that a short strip of 83d street just east of Vincennes avenue should be repaved and widened; and that 74th street should be opened from Western to Damen avenues.

FOR CITY OFFICIALS.

Housing conditions in the blighted areas of our city have placed much stress on the poor living conditions. The lack of enforcement of city ordinances caused these conditions to flourish. Urgent, continuous appeals to city authorities for enforcement by numerous civic organizations were ignored.

In the face of such agitation for increased enforcement, which is the sure remedy to prevent the spread of disease and death among the inhabitants of these illegal, overcrowded, damp and filthy living quarters, officials of the department of health reduced the force of housing inspectors from 13 to 8 men, instead of enlarging the force.

In less than a year a number of children were bitten by rats, resulting in at least one death, several substandard buildings collapsed, causing death to some occupants, and recent tragedies in which five persons lost their lives in fire traps can be traced directly to the laxity of enforcement of city housing ordinances. These occurrences could have been prevented and lives saved if the appeals for proper enforcement had been heeded.

MRS. CAROLYN D. MILES,
325 East 55th place.

WANTS MORE LIGHTS.

Recently my husband and I moved into the south shore district and right now we are plenty burned up about two problems in particular: [1] there are no stop lights and no policeman directing the heavy flow of traffic where the drive turns east before the I. C. tracks at 71st street and Yates avenue. We never know when to turn, with cars coming in all directions, and expect to see an accident any night now; [2] there are no street lights between South Shore drive and the lake on 75th, 76th, 77th, and 78th streets. We have to grope our way home, we can't even see our hand before our face.

C. E. K.

LAUDS LIBRARY BUILDERS.

Whoever is responsible for building that beautiful new library at 91st street and Houston avenue deserves congratulations. We never had a real library in South Chicago before. Believe it or not, we like to read, just like people in "better-class" neighborhoods.

$8,000 IS GOAL OF DRIVE FOR BOY SCOUT FUND

Funds to administer scouting activities in 23 Will county and southern Cook county communities are being sought in a campaign opened last week by the Potawattomi Trails Boy Scout council. The council, which has an enrollment of 1,339 Scouts and Cubs and nearly 500 volunteer leaders, has set $8,000 as its goal.

Campaign organizations have been set up in the three districts of the council. Indian Trail district committee consists of David Johnson, Markham, chairman; Harry Mall, Mokena; George Weeman, Midlothian, and Wesley Stem, Tinley Park. On the Sauk Trail district committee are Harry Fedde, Peotone, chairman; Dr. Walter Miller, Crete, and Frank Allemong, Matteson.

Walter W. Head, president of the Boy Scouts of America, will be the speaker at the third annual appreciation dinner of the council to be held in the Homewood village auditorium Thursday night. George O. Nagle, Crete, is in charge of arrangements.

Will Wed in Spring

Miss Joan Bourque, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. N. O. Bourque, 6720 Paxton avenue, is engaged to John E. Joyce, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Joyce, 7350 Phillips avenue. They are alumni of Mundelein college and Loyola university, respectively. The wedding will take place early in the spring.

PULLMAN SCHOOL YOUTHS TO SHOW CLASS ACTIVITY

Program Marks Founder's 110th Birthday.

An open house program celebrating the 110th anniversary of the birth of the late George M. Pullman will take place tomorrow evening at the Pullman Free School of Manual Training, 109th street and Indiana avenue. Full length classes will be conducted by the faculty for the inspection of guests.

Junior and senior male students will be seen in the machine, auto mechanics, electric, mechanical drawing and architectural drawing classes. Junior and senior girls will demonstrate how they learn typing. In the lower classes boys will be seen in routine mathematical and language sessions and girls may be watched as they practice cooking and sewing. There also will be two groups of girls alternating in volley ball games in the gymnasium, since the school emphasizes athletics for girls.

Concert by Band.

The classes will be conducted after a band concert at 7:30 o'clock. The band, made up of blue and white clad students from all classes, will play popular and military music.

The school was endowed for $1,200,000 in the will of George M. Pullman, creator of the Pullman sleeping car and founder of the Pullman company. The school was to be founded "for the benefit of the children of persons who live in or work at Pullman, that the children of those associated with him in the town of Pullman and its enterprises might be trained in the ideals of clean living, good citizenship, and industrial efficiency which were his inspiration and thru which alone the workman may hope to attain his true development."

600 Are Enrolled.

Eligibility requires now that the student be a son or daughter of an employé or a past employé with a good record. When the school is not filled, other students are carefully chosen. About 600 boys and girls are enrolled. The school's campus covers nearly 40 acres. Urban G. Willis is principal and William Brubaker is dean. Classes were begun on Oct. 18, 1915.

Last summer the school was one of the first in the country to train workers under the national defense program. There were two sessions every day—from 7 o'clock in the morning to 1 o'clock in the afternoon and from 1 o'clock until 7 o'clock in the evening.

SUNDAY EVENING CLUB WILL HEAR DR. ABBA SILVER

Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, noted rabbi from Cleveland, O., will be the principal speaker tonight at the Chicago Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall. As university preacher at Harvard, Chicago, Cornell, Syracuse, Purdue, and New York universities, Dr. Silver has achieved an eminence as a preacher to students. During the world war Dr. Silver served in France and was decorated by the French government.

Dr. Abba Hillel Silver.

John S. Broeksmit, a trustee of the club, will preside in the absence of Clifford W. Barnes, club president. The Elmhurst College Women's Glee club will offer a musical program at the 7 o'clock service under the direction of Maude Boslough. Hudson H. Pittman, assistant to Mr. Barnes, will give the informal Bible talk.

Y.W.C.A. Club to Entertain Girls of Foundlings' Home

Three southwest side members of the Y. W. C. A. Business and Professional club have been named members of committees planning entertainment for girls of the Chicago Foundlings home on Thursday evening. They are Marguerite Pelzman, 8445 Gilbert court, Muriel Brunke, 6516 Winchester avenue, and Josephine DeMay, 7938 May street. The party marks the culmination of a project undertaken this year by the social service committee of the club.

Legion Dance.

Woodrow Wilson post, Polish Legion of American Veterans of South Chicago is sponsoring a dance to be held April 20 at Marquette Gardens, 83d street and Marquette road. Proceeds will be used to purchase uniforms for the sons and daughters of veterans.

Bride at Church Ceremony

Miss June O'Neill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Christopher S. O'Neill, 4740 Drexel boulevard, and William J. Costello, son of Mrs. Mary Costello, 1319 East 72d place, were married recently at St. Ambrose church. Miss O'Neill is an alumnus of St. Xavier academy and Mr. Costello is a graduate of the De Paul law school.

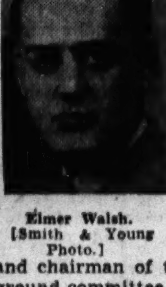
SO. BRYN MAWR ASKS SITE FOR RECREATION AREA

Vacant Ground Owned by Brick Concern.

The South Bryn Mawr Improvement association last week requested that the Chicago Fire Brick company permit the block-long unoccupied property at 76th street and Jeffery avenue to be used as a temporary recreation area. The step was decided at the last directors, meeting, according to Elmer Walsh, director and chairman of the parks and playground committee of the organization.



Elmer Walsh.
[Smith & Young Photo.]

The request coincides with a community campaign for signatures to petitions asking the city council to build a fieldhouse in the South Shore district. Mr. Walsh said the Jeffery avenue location would be ideal both for a fieldhouse and a playground. At present, however, it is hoped to obtain the area as a badly-needed playlot.

Lack Play Space.

The area lies between Euclid and Jeffery avenues and between 76th and 77th streets. Since the new South Shore High school was erected, play space for juveniles in the neighborhood is almost nonexistent, Mr. Walsh pointed out. The space also would serve as a football practice field for the South Shore High school team.

Miss Marie Brewster, principal of South Shore, and Nathan Wasserman, South Shore athletic director, have promised that the board of education will level the area, if obtained for recreation, and supervise the activities of students and boys and girls in the neighborhood.

Project Is Favored.

The drive for the fieldhouse is backed by the Windsor Park Woman's club and more than a score of other civic organizations in the South Shore community. Petitions were circulated last April, when the South Bryn Mawr Improvement association presented 6,000 signatures to Mayor Kelly.

At the board of directors' meeting, said Mr. Walsh, it also was decided to ask help from all the state representatives and senators in the 13th district and the coöperation of Ald. Roy E. Olin [8th] and Ald. Thomas Daley [7th].

Paul L. Anderson, 7722 East End avenue, is president of the association; Miss Edith Soderborg, 7753 East End avenue, is secretary, and H. C. Moore, 8000 Constance avenue, is treasurer.

At South Side Home

Miss Lucy Frances Peterson, daughter of Mrs. J. Willis Peterson of Galesburg, Ill., was married recently to Sam Galovich, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Galovich, 8717 Commercial avenue. They are living at 6401 University avenue.

Professor at Mundelein to Address Catholic Club

Miss Miriam Laughran Rooney, professor of psychology at Mundelein college, will be guest speaker before the meeting of the social service department of the South Side Catholic Woman's club Thursday afternoon in the Southmoor hotel. Mrs. Thomas J. Burke, 8034 Emerald avenue, is chairman.

Legion and Civic Planners to Meet Tomorrow Night

Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin will be guest speaker tomorrow night at a joint meeting of O'Donnell-Eddy post of the American Legion and the Highland Improvement association in Timothy hall, 83d street and Hermitage avenue.

Alumni to Meet.

South side alumni of Alpha Chi Omega will hold their next meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Herbert Furst, 8323 Vernon avenue. The meeting will begin with supper at 6:30 o'clock.

WOODLAWN TOPS LIBRARY UNITS IN BOOK LENDING

Half Residents of Area Possess Cards.

Statistics for 1940 show that the new Woodlawn regional library lent 501,568 books last year—the largest circulation of any branch in the city. More than 25,000 of the 50,000 residents in the community have registration cards.

Thirty per cent of the registrants were children who borrowed 119,665 books. The total showed a gain of 102,656 more books lent than in 1939. This is credited to the opening of the new building in September, 1939.

Auburn Park Highest.

Together with its 15 branches, the Woodlawn regional library showed a gain of 213,786 books lent to south siders in 1940. The Auburn Park branch had the largest circulation, 275,020, among the regional branches; South Shore was second with 267,622, and Blackstone was third with 239,641.

The Hall branch has the largest juvenile circulation among the branches and the South Shore library has the largest adult circulation. The 15 branches are Auburn, Avalon, Bessemer, Blackstone, Chatham, Fuller, Hall, Hamilton, Hardin Square, Oakland, Ogden, Pullman, Sherman, South Shore, and Walker. There are also two subbranches, Calumet and Tuley.

The new regional branch at 6247 Kimbark avenue is equipped with an assembly hall seating 200 persons for community groups and clubrooms upstairs for smaller groups. There also is a kitchen and lounge room for staff members upstairs.

Radio Listening Group.

The schedule includes an opera broadcasting listening group Saturday afternoons, concert recording groups for Tuesday evenings, and travel and educational movies, plays, and lectures for young persons Friday evenings. Children have their own clubs and book reviews.

Miss Julia Baker is regional librarian and Miss Bernadine McLaughlin is associate. Mrs. Gertrude L. Sachs is head of the circulation department and Miss Mildred Waters is head of the reference department. The staff numbers 38 workers.

Park Players to Present 'First Lady' This Evening

"First Lady," a satire on politics in Washington, will be given this evening by the Central group of the Community theaters at the Goodman theater. The park district is coöperating in the venture and players represent amateur stage groups from the parks.

Women Voters.

The Woodlawn League of Women Voters will meet tomorrow morning and afternoon in the First Presbyterian church.

Play's the Thing

Vincent W. Owles, 23, of 7116 Ridgeland avenue, believes that winning the Central A. A. U. wrestling championship was one of the biggest thrills of his life. He began his training simply by working out three nights a week at the Hamilton park gym under the instruction of William Culp. Married now, Vincent works for a stockyards packing company, and he hopes to do as well at his job as he has at wrestling.

Hugh T. Martin Jr., 3733 Lake Park avenue, is the new president of the Junior Rifle club of the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A. Hugh is a student at Hyde Park High school. The former rifle club president is David Sherridk who is moving to New York City. Other club officers are: Bob Franklin, vice president; Bob DeVore, secretary and treasurer, and Phil Lewis, team manager.

CHURCH LADIES' AID TO OBSERVE 50TH BIRTHDAY

One hundred twenty members of the Ladies' Aid society of St. Stephen's Evangelical Lutheran church, 5652 South Sangamon street, will observe the fiftieth anniversary of the society's reorganization at a service beginning in the church at 11 o'clock this morning.

The church and ladies aid were both organized in 1871 and were reorganized in 1879. The aid society reorganized in 1891. Mrs. Lizzie Henning and Mrs. Otto Bohn, two of the 20 members who attended the reorganization meeting in 1891, are still active with the group. Mrs. Mary Werveke, who was recording secretary for 25 years, also is still active.

Present officers of the society are Mrs. Jacob Hunssinger, president; Mrs. Joseph Capetta, vice president; Mrs. O. H. Groth, recording secretary; Mrs. T. N. Hunt, financial secretary, and Mrs. Jessie Lang, treasurer.

Fraternity Revel.

Tri Phi fraternity will present its first "Shebang" tonight at the Caravel club, 75th street and Yates avenue.

MASQUERS TO OFFER SOMERSET MAUGHAM DRAMA, 'THE CIRCLE'

W. Somerset Maugham's "The Circle" is the next play on the calendar of the Masquer Studio theater announced last week by Howard Rooney, director. The play will be given March 25 and 26 in the little theater at 357 West 63d street.

Winifred Branigan.

Winifred Branigan, 7251 Stewart avenue, will celebrate her 10th year as a player with the group when she appears in the leading rôle of Lady Kitty in this production. Supporting rôles will be played by Rooney, Rodney Faust, Lorraine Hanson, Courtney Curtis, John Olmstead, and Michael Kent.

Tryouts are being conducted for the group's next production, "A Gentleman Rests," a new play written by Mr. Rooney.

CITY'S CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO GET BIGGER SCHOOL

the needier cripples, and to repair such equipment where necessary.

Better Bus Facilities.

Free buses provided by the school board pick up crippled pupils at their homes, transport them to school and deliver them home in the afternoon. The new building will have special loading platforms, to make it easier for attendants to help the children in and out of their wheel chairs.

A new ramp of low gradient will permit the wheeling of chairs from one floor to another with a minimum of effort. There will be two elevators of ample size.

The treatment tanks and swimming pool are to be provided with special elevator type chairs to help the children in and out of the water. The building thruout has been designed especially for the convenience and comfort of the disabled, yet without sacrifice of educational advantages, Mr. Christensen said.

The original Spalding school building was erected in 1907 and an addition was built in 1928.

It was not until 1926 that the Chicago school board made its first large scale provisions for the teaching of crippled children. At that time the board took over the functions of an old clinic and hospital near the present school site where physically handicapped boys and girls were taught thru private enterprise. These public school facilities have been expanded many fold since.

Chesterfield Junior Women Will Have 'Movie Program'

"Take Your Girlie to the Movies" is the title of the Chesterfield Junior Woman's club meeting to be held tomorrow evening at the home of Miss Myrl Henderson, 537 East 88th place. The program has been arranged by Miss Elizabeth Johnson, 6849 Dorchester avenue, movie chairman.

GARDEN GROUP OF 2D DISTRICT WILL BE GUESTS

Women Are to Attend Luncheon Tuesday.

A dessert luncheon will be given for garden department delegates of the 2d district of the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs at 1 o'clock Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, 7126 Euclid avenue. Mrs. David F. Matchett is chairman and Miss Annabelle Ferrier, superintendent of Arden Shore camp, Lake Bluff, will be guest speaker.

At 10 o'clock tomorrow morning Mrs. J. P. Edwards, state chairman of gardens, will conduct the annual school of horticulture in the loop headquarters. There will be another session at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Wade W. Reece has been chosen to head the nominating committee for the spring elections. Other members of the committee are Mrs. Paul Bodeman, Mrs. Hugh Cordick, Mrs. Herbert A. Helstrom, Mrs. Willis K. Reynolds, Mrs. Charles Thurber, and Mrs. Carl V. Wisner. The 2d district's election of officers will take place April 10 in the Del Prado hotel.

Arche Club.

Mrs. Carl V. Wisner, club president, will entertain 12 members of the board of managers at a luncheon in the South Shore Country club tomorrow. It will be the last regular meeting of the board this club year.

Mrs. William Katzman has announced that the club's annual spring luncheon will be held in the Florentine room of the Congress hotel on Wednesday. Guests of honor will be Mrs. D. H. Wamsley, state music chairman, and Miss Edith Watts, poet. There will be a musical also.

Nominations to fill offices for the coming club year will be made in a business meeting at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon in the Hotel Shoreland. Also reports of delegates to the 2d district and other organization meetings and of class chairmen will be heard. At 11 o'clock the public welfare and conservation class will hold its final meeting of the club year.

Bryn Mawr Woman's Club.

Mrs. Frederick Burland Bacon, winner of a scholarship to the Midwest Institute of International Relations, will address the members at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Her subject will be "Thoughts Pertinent and Impertinent." She will be introduced by Mrs. Chester H. Greene, home and education chairman.

Chesterfield Woman's Club.

"The Merit System's Part in National Defense" will be the topic of Mrs. Laura Lunde's address before the club at 1 o'clock Tuesday in Tuley Park fieldhouse. The program is sponsored by the American citizenship department, of which Mrs. John Morris is chairman. Hostesses for the social hour are Mrs. John Rodriguez, Mrs. Elmer A. Johnson, Mrs. Henry O. Renz, and Mrs. William A. Ramsey.

Hyde Park Travel Club.

Herbert and Eleanor Ullmann will give an illustrated lecture entitled "Republic of Panama" at the meeting tomorrow in the Windermere East hotel. Mr. Ullmann is a member of the New York Explorers' club.

At the morning meeting Miss Cora Mowbray, chairman of the public welfare department, will introduce Robert Smart, who will speak on the Jackson park bird sanctuary.

University Church Women.

Dr. John Knox, professor in the Divinity school at the University of Chicago, will talk on "The Meaning of the Church" at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for club members. Mrs. Roy Ross has arranged the mission department's program and reports of the nominating and revisions committee will be given.

At noon there will be a board meeting followed by a past presidents' day luncheon at 1 o'clock. Mrs. James D. Taylor is luncheon hostess.

Windsor Park Woman's Club.

The program Tuesday afternoon will be under the direction of the Indian welfare department and Mrs. R. M. Beville is chairman. Mrs. P. D. Battenfield will offer a group of piano selections after being presented by Mrs. J. E. Baillie, music chairman. A meeting of the board of directors will take place at 10:30 o'clock.

Woodlawn Mothers Round Table.

The book club will present Mrs. F. P. Neff of the Woodshore Woman's club at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday in the First Presbyterian church. She will review "Random Harvest." After the regular 2 o'clock business meeting Prof. A. F. Gillman Jr. of the Central Y. M. C. A. college will give an instructive talk on "Diamonds."

Woodlawn Woman's Club.

The club will celebrate its 46th birthday at 2 o'clock Tuesday in the Southmoor hotel. Mrs. Charles C. Whittier, president, will introduce Mrs. Samuel F. Pegues, oldest member of the club, who joined 45 years ago. She will describe the early work of the organization.

Mrs. D. A. Edmunds, chairman of the home and education department, will present Thomas P. Singer, lecturer, newspaper man, and traveler, who will talk about "Education in Europe and America." Afterward Mrs. A. Gordon Smith, social chairman, and her committee, dressed in old-fashioned gowns, will serve individual birthday cakes.

Woodlawn Study Club.

The home and education department has planned the program for tomorrow in the Plaisance hotel. Speakers will be Mrs. Lulu Law of the Juvenile court and Mrs. L. T. De Poy and Mrs. David Weitzfeld, 2d district chairmen of radio and education. The Dejohns children of the Ethel Morgan School of Dancing will entertain.

The morning session will be given over to a continuation of a round table discussion of "Our South American Neighbors." The annual gift shower for the Martha Washington home and election of officers will be other features.

Woodshore Woman's Club.

The club will be entertained by musical selections by the Hyde Park High school mixed chorus, directed by Flora Churchill, at the meeting Tuesday evening. There also will be a play by the Woodshore Junior Woman's club players. Mrs. Watson Perry is chairman of the program committee.

1,311 ON ROLLS OF INDIANA U. CALUMET CENTER

Shows Gain of 85 Over February Last Year.

A total of 1,311 students will take advantage of classes in Calumet center, Indiana university extension division, this semester, school officials have announced. This is an increase of 85 students over last February.

Since the enrollment also increased by 20 per cent last fall, the gain is attributed by H. W. Norman, in charge of the center, to the record breaking industrial employment in the area.

Continue on Part Time.

Mr. Norman says that students who find employment readily often continue on a part-time basis in the center, in order to progress toward their college degrees, and that many who do not plan to go to college take advantage of prosperous times to study university courses which will aid them directly in their immediate jobs.

Altho the extension division does not offer technical training, many of the courses serve to augment the national defense training program, such as chemistry, physics, mathematics, accounting, and liberal arts.

Elementary School Class.

Following requests from public school authorities of the region, the center has begun the teaching of a new science course in elementary schools. Mrs. Leota Thomas, a lecturer on natural science in the Field museum, will conduct classes for pupils.

The teaching of science in the elementary schools now is one of the required courses on the new four year elementary teacher training course, according to Mr. Norman. The course offers two semester hours of credit and is listed as a junior course in the school of education.

TEMPLE PLAYERS ARE TO PRESENT MUSICAL REVUE

'Windy City' Will Be Given Two Nights.

South Shore Temple players will present "Windy City," a musical revue, on Saturday and Sunday evenings, March 15 and 16, in the temple, 7215 Jeffery avenue. The production will consist of satirical sketches and musical numbers related to local events and personalities.

Jacob Pincus.

Among the subjects to be "joshed" are the Lincoln park highway tangle, the crime situation, the stock show, and the parking problem.

The production was written and staged by Jacob T. Pincus, a Chicago attorney whose play, "Pay Day," in 1933 won the nationwide contest sponsored by the Chicago Civic Players. In 1930, as a member of the University of Chicago Blackfriars, he wrote the book and lyrics for "Smart Alec," staged by that organization.

Music for "Windy City" was written by Shirley Weiss and Jerome Solomon, Zerna Ruben is assistant director and Marvin Rosenberg is in charge of technical details. Mrs. Adolph Brunner is director.

"Pageant of Festivals" will highlight the luncheon for new members of the South Side Hebrew Congregation sisterhood at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow. The pageant will depict the story of the Jewish holidays in music and symbolism. Esther Zion Cohler will be the dramatic reader for the festival. Cantor Joseph Giblichman will chant the ceremonial and folk music, assisted by the congregation choir under the direction of Hyman Reznick.

Other participants in the pageant will be Mrs. Jack Cohen, Mrs. Morris Fox, Mrs. Joseph Giblichman, Mrs. Nate Sherman, Mrs. C. C. Sinton, Mrs. Morris Teller, and Mrs. Harry Weinstein. Mrs. David Schatz is membership chairman in charge of arrangements for the program. Mrs. David Lefkovitz is the sisterhood's new president.

The Cardozo club will celebrate its new affiliation with Congregation Rodfei Zedek with a Get Acquainted dance next Sunday evening in the congregation house at 1022 East 54th place.

Rabbi Benjamin A. Daskal will present a symposium by the Hillel foundation of the University of Chicago Friday evening on the topic, "Religious Instruction in the Public Schools."

SOUTH SIDE PIANIST WINS WAY TO FINALS IN CITY-WIDE CONTEST

One of the four finalists in the contest to select Chicago's outstanding pianists is Marvin Gross, 1655 East 55th street, who will appear at Orchestra Hall Monday evening, March 10. The auditions are conducted annually by the Society of American Musicians and the Adult Education council. The winner is given a debut in Orchestra Hall as a recitalist on next season's musical arts piano series, sponsored by the council. Mr. Gross was born in Buchanan, Mich., and played his first recital at the age of 7, his program including three original compositions. He has appeared as soloist with the Philadelphia Civic orchestra.

VOLUNTEER LIST OF DRAFTEES IS ON DOWN TREND

Boards Forced to Call Up Registrants.

Volunteers among the conscripts being inducted in Chicago were used up last week to the point where many of the local boards were forced to start calling up their registrants in regular order.

Of the 951 Chicagoland draftees who were inducted into the army in the week that ended last Tuesday, 634 were men who had asked to be drafted immediately rather than wait for their order numbers to be reached. However, the ratio of volunteers had been dropping sharply day by day, until last Tuesday they were in the minority, 148 to 152.

Draft officials said they expected this trend to continue for an indefinite period. They predicted that as soon as inductions settle down to a routine, there will be only a smattering of volunteers.

Cook county furnished 561 of the selectees inducted during the week, the other 390 being made up of quotas contributed by the other Chicagoland counties. The Chicago station also handled 388 draftees from downstate, or a total of 1,339 for the week. Most of the inducted men were sent to reception centers at Fort Sheridan and Camp Grant.

Here is the list of newly inducted men from this section, the letter V denoting those who volunteered:

1ST WARD.
Board No. 80.

Clean Heat for Home

The living room of the David Park residence in Winnetka, well equipped with modern winter air conditioning in the form of a ductless unit underneath the window. This circulates clean, warm, humidified air to all rooms on the first floor. The cold air is drawn into the floor grille and emerges humidified and clean from the grille in wall.

Vocal Finalist

Norma Fisher, 6545 Woodlawn avenue, is a finalist in the Greater South Side Four Arts league talent contest conducted recently. A 15 year old Hyde Park High school students, she will compete with other vocalists on Sunday, March 9.

CHOOSE OFFICERS FOR HYDE PARK BATTALION STAFF

Lieut. Col. Fred Scott is the new battalion commander of the R. O. T. C. unit at Hyde Park High school as a result of competitive examinations held recently by Technical Sergeant Will Brewer, Military instructor. Other cadet officers appointed to the battalion staff are Maj. Frank Vibrans, executive officer; Capt. William Gresham, adjutant; Capt. Irwin Hite, plans and training; First Lieutenant Max Reiss, supplies, and Second Lieutenant Byron Lipman, publicity.

NEW UNIT GIVES HUMIDIFIED AIR AS HEALTH AID

Improves Circulation While It Cleans.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Something new in winter air conditioning for use with hot water or steam heating has been installed in the recently built home of Mr. and Mrs. David Park, 380 Green Bay street, Winnetka.

This is a ductless unit, designed to give warm air, humidified for health, and to distribute this air thruout the house.

Home owners and builders these days are on the lookout for constructive methods which will insure healthful, comfortable home air, and proper humidification should be considered in the light of an economy, not an expense.

Manufacturers and heating and ventilating engineers have been working hard on various ways to provide this necessary moisture to indoor air.

Hot Weather Use Also.

This unit in the Park home resembles a recessed convector except that it requires a floor grille. Installation is made by a heating and piping contractor in practically the same manner and with the same materials as the recessed radiator or convector.

Of interest, too, is the fact that this same unit can be used to create a circulation of air in hot weather.

Its method of performance is not complicated. Two blower type fans draw the cold air along the floor into the floor grille and here air is cleaned by an efficient filter located below the floor grille and then drawn thru the humidifying chamber which is below the filter. Then the air passes over a finned heating element in the wall.

Few Units Needed.

Only one or two of these units are considered necessary for complete winter air conditioning in the average house when they are used as an accessory to radiators or convectors.

In this home there are two: one in living room on the first floor, and one in an upstairs bedroom. According to Mr. Park, these have maintained 35 to 40 per cent humidity in his home this winter.

There are other methods of maintaining humidity in your home if it is heated by hot water or steam.

Units called humidifying radiators are available with rustproof cast iron evaporating pans as a part of the radiator assembly. The water which supplies the humidity is automatically controled and obtained thru a float regulated valve which keeps water at a selected level in the evaporating pan. One of these humidifying radiators under ordinary conditions is sufficient to humidify the average home of six to eight rooms.

And there are always hand fill pans which can be secured by brackets to the inside of radiators. As long as there is heat in the radiator and added moisture is necessary to a room, evaporation of water from the pan will take place.

This WEEK in the GARDEN

Monday, March 3.

The earlier the lawn is given an application of plant food the better and this is a fine time to apply it. Use a complete, commercial food. Various standard combinations of the essential elements are manufactured by fertilizer companies. Simply follow directions.

If applied now while the ground is wet the chemicals will dissolve. It is unnecessary to wet down the lawn.

Tuesday, March 4.

Soils that have been under cultivation for any length of time may require an application of lime. If the soil is acid, lime may be applied, ground limestone being the best to use.

To escertain whether the soil needs lime test it with litmus paper. Take a piece of the paper, moisten it, and insert it in a slit in the ground. If the paper turns pink or red the soil is acid and needs a bit of lime.

Wednesday, March 5.

Improve vegetable land by spreading a layer of well rotted manure over it and spading it under. Manure adds some plant food to the soil, but its chief value is aid in the liberation of elements thru chemical reactions. Clay soils are benefited by incorporating manure in them when they are spaded or plowed.

Thursday, March 6.

Add a few fruit trees in the garden. The best varieties of pears for this region are Clapp favorite, Seckel, and Bartlett. Peaches are not as hardy, but the Elberta and Late Crawford are standard varieties. Best varieties of sour cherries are Early Richmond and Montmorency. Buy fruit trees from reputable nurseries to obtain the varieties wanted.

Friday, March 7.

Start tuberous begonias by laying them in boxes or sand in a warm place. Pot when well started in growth. Give careful attention to seedlings or they may decline from crowding. Repot all that need it to prevent disease attacks. Prune all fall blooming shrubs.

Saturday, March 8.

Just as the frost leaves the ground is the best time to fertilize trees. Bore holes 12 to 18 inches deep in a ring around each tree and at the extreme end of the branches. The number of holes depends on the size of the trees, the rule being to bore 10 holes for each inch of diameter of the trunk and place half a pound of some good fertilizer in each hole. A 10-8-6 combination is a good mixture.

WHERE TO FIND LOCAL STATIONS AFTER MARCH 29

W-G-N to Stay at 720; Many Others Shift.

The impending reallocation of the frequencies [wave lengths] of broadcasting stations has already brought a number of inquiries for the new positions of the stations to be affected. The changes, if finally approved, will go into effect at 2 a. m. central time March 29.

All American broadcasting stations with frequencies higher than 720 at present would be assigned new frequencies somewhat higher than at present under terms of the North American regional broadcasting agreement, a pact between the United States, Canada, Mexico, and Cuba.

Under terms of the agreement the United States gives up several channels and the other countries make similar concessions with the expectation that interference between stations of two or more countries on the same bands may be eliminated.

The shifts will force listeners to get accustomed to finding many stations in new positions on the dial. Seven hundred and ninety-five of the 882 broadcasting stations will be assigned new positions. W-G-N, however, will occupy the same clear channel as now, 720 kilocycles.

	Old.	New.
W-G-N	720	720
WIND	560	560
WMAQ	670	670
WBBM	770	780
WLS-WENR	870	890
WAAF	920	950
WCFL	970	1000
WMBI, WCBD	1080	1110
WJJD	1130	1160
WJOB	1200	1230
WSBC, WCRW, WEDC	1210	1240
WMRO	1250	1280
WGES	1360	1390
WHIP	1480	1520

Stations with frequencies from 550 to 720, inclusive, will retain their positions; stations from 740 to 780 will move up 10 kilocycles [one channel]; stations from 790 to 870 will move up 20 kilocycles; stations from 880 to 1450 will move up 30 kilocycles; certain stations now in the 1460-1490 field will move to 1500-1530. Receivers with push buttons will need to have these controls adjusted.

PROVISO HIGH IS NEXT ON CITIZEN'S SHOW ON W-G-N

Proviso Township High school of Maywood will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow program at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday over W-G-N. The main audience studio of W-G-N will be filled by 600 boys and girls representing the 4,000 students of Proviso High.

E. R. Sifert, superintendent, will speak briefly, and the Proviso choir will sing three numbers. One of these, the school song, "Forward Proviso," written by Florence Galajikian, Maywood composer. Other numbers by the choir, under the direction of Robert Lee Osburn, will be Elgar's "As Torrents in Summer," and "O, Be Joyful All Ye Lands," by Gretchaninoff.

Philip Maxwell will be master of ceremonies. Mr. Maxwell will interview Ralph Meyer, student of Montefiore School for Boys, Chicago, who is studying to be an electrical engineer.

Bride-to-Be

Mary Paxton, conductor of the Wishing Well program on W-G-N, and Durward Kirby, NBC announcer, have announced their engagement. They met at WLW, Cincinnati. A fall wedding is planned.

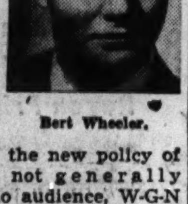
Out on a Limb

Dorothy Deere, Chicago motion picture and drama critic, is one of four experts who get out on a limb weekly on the program "We Predict," on W-G-N from 6:30 to 7 p. m. Sundays. Others who forecast future events are Bob Elson, sports; Donald McGibney, national affairs; Irving Pflaum, foreign affairs.

BERT WHEELER WILL BE STARRED ON CHICAGO HOUR

Two New Groups to Be Featured.

Bert Wheeler of stage and movie fame will be featured on "In Chicago Tonight" at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday over W-G-N and the coast-to-coast Mutual network.



Bert Wheeler.

Working with Wheeler will be Hank Todd, comedian and stooge. Both are appearing at the Chicago theater in Earl Carrol's "Vanities."

Continuing with the new policy of introducing talent not generally known to the radio audience, W-G-N will present two new groups for their network debut. The Tanner Sisters, a vocal trio featured in the Al Jolson show, "Hold On to Your Hats," which recently closed in New York, will be heard. Another new group is the Six Rocquettes, colored boys from Detroit. The boys came to Chicago for recording work and auditioned at W-G-N at the same time. They were immediately signed.

In Chicago Tonight, a regular Thursday evening program of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, is produced by William A. Bacher. Music is under the direction of Harold Stokes and Robert Trendler.

SHADOW SCRIPT WRITERS HAVE THEIR TROUBLES

Writing about a big man who isn't there poses all sorts of odd problems; as writers who try for the first time to turn out a "Shadow" script soon find out. The producers of "The Shadow," heard over W-G-N and Mutual from 4:30 to 5 p. m. on Sundays, consider scripts from free lance writers if they submit a plot outline in advance. Most prospective Shadow script writers forget that the Shadow is flesh and blood. They get tangled up because they mistakenly think that the Shadow's power of invisibility also makes him completely invulnerable.

If you're thinking about trying a Shadow script, you must keep these pertinent facts in mind: The Shadow makes a ripple when he swims, even tho you may not see him; electric-eye doors open for the Shadow, despite his invisibility, and watch dogs growl when he approaches.

In other words, The Shadow isn't Superman.

Herne's Office at Home.

Capt. E. D. C. Herne, W-G-N news commentator, moved into his recently rented home last week. Capt. Herne has converted part of the house into an office, fully equipped even to his own United Press teletype. Capt. Herne's newscasts are heard over W-G-N at 6:30 p. m. every day but Sunday.

'ODE TO CHICAGO' WILL HIGHLIGHT NEW W-G-N HOUR

Chicagoland Program to Start Saturday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The new Chicagoland hour which will be presented for the first time from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network will recreate the "Ode to Chicago," which was aired for the first time last October to inaugurate the fall and winter season.

"Ode to Chicago" is a unique production suited particularly to the medium of radio. It employs drama, poetry, sound effects, and a stirring musical score, specially written for it by David Broekman, the noted Hollywood composer and conductor, to portray historic highlights of Chicago and to describe its character and spirit. It was conceived by William A. Bacher, and the script was written by Francis Coughlin and John D. Hess.

The new Chicagoland hour represents an expansion of the Chicagoland Concert hour series. But it will occupy the radio period that has been vacated by the Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, which concluded their long run last evening with a special broadcast of "I Pagliacci" at the Civic Opera house before an audience of more than 3,600.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will continue the talks he has been giving on the Concert hour on the new Chicagoland hour. The Concert hour has been running for a half hour on Wednesday evenings.

Familiar music will be presented on the new program by Marion Claire, noted soprano, and the W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

The W-G-N Players will be featured in the "Ode to Chicago." Mr. Bacher will produce the show.

In addition to the dramatic presentation the W-G-N Concert orchestra will present Brahms' "Academic Festival," and Michael Wilkomirski will be featured in a violin solo of Glazounov's "Violin Concerto No. 1."

SUPERMAN SHOW OPENS ON W-G-N TUESDAY EVENING

The adventures of Superman, mythical character famed for his unbelievable deeds of strength and bravery, will be brought to the air for middle west listeners by W-G-N. Starting Tuesday at 7:15 p. m. and continuing each Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday thereafter at the same time, Superman will bring thrills and excitement to W-G-N listeners.

Superman has become known to millions of Americans thru the daily comic strip pages of newspapers, radio programs, and magazine adventures. More than 150,000 persons, young and old, belong to the Superman of America club. Even technicolor movies will soon reflect Superman's personality.

Great Dane to Be Topic of Becker Hour Today

The sterling qualities of the Great Dane will be described on Bob Becker's Chats About Dogs program to be broadcast by W-G-N at 1:45 p. m. today. Becker will interview F. W. Evanger, noted Great Dane breeder.

LISTENERS TO GET CHANCE TO PUT OWN IDEAS ON NETWORK

Radio listeners who have ideas of their own for new radio programs will have their inning each week during the broadcast of What's Your Idea?, new radio show to be heard for the first time at 5:30 p. m. today over WMAQ and NBC. The cast will include Ted Fio Rito and his orchestra, Little Jackie Heller, teno, and Nelson Olmstead, with guest stars. Simone Simon will be the first guest. Listeners will be invited to submit, in outline form, their ideas for new kinds of radio programs. Each week the three best ideas submitted will be developed into a script and produced in abridged form during the broadcast. A cash award of $100 will be paid for each idea used, with a bonus of $100 for the best idea of the week.

Jackie Heller.

AMERICAS SPEAK PROGRAM OPENS OVER MBS TODAY

Vice President Wallace on Rotary Hour.

Vice President Henry A. Wallace, speaking from Washington, will address a message of greetings to the Latin American audience during the première broadcast of Rotary and Mutual's "The Americas Speak."

The Rotary program, saluting Mexico, will be heard over W-G-N and a coast-to-coast Mutual network hookup at 2 p. m. and will be carried to South America by the powerful short wave stations WGEO, Schenectady, N. Y., and WRUL, Boston, Mass.

Many stations of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation also will carry the program.

Miguel Aleman, Mexican minister of the interior, speaking from Mexico City, will respond to Vice President Wallace's greetings. Twenty minutes of the half hour program will originate from Mexico City.

Typical Mexican music will be featured, including the "Zacatecas March" by Genaro Codina and "La Paloma" by Yradier. The balance of the program is designed to convey a better understanding of Mexican life, customs, and geography to the American public.

"The Americas Speak" series calls for broadcasts to originate on successive Sundays from Havana, Cuba; Quito, Ecuador; Gautemala City, Guatemala; Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Santiago, Chile; Bogota, Columbia; Caracas, Venezuela; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Montevideo, Uruguay, and Lima, Peru.

Lack of short wave facilities makes it impossible to arrange programs from the other countries of South America.

Local South American stations will pick up the short wave broadcasts and rebroadcast them by long wave. These international good will radio programs are expected to help cement the bonds of friendship and understanding between the Pan-American nations.

George Givot to Play on Show of the Week

George Givot, the comedian, will make a guest appearance on the Show of the Week over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 5:30 to 6 p. m. today. Setting up his mythical restaurant, "Acropolis No. 7," Givot will dispense informal discussion of the events of the day. Buddy Clark, Anne Barrett, and Music Master Vincent Lopez also will be heard.

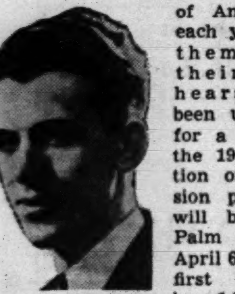
ZION LOOKS BACK TO GALILEE AND DAYS OF CHRIST

Townspeople Plan Passion Play.

BY JUANITA DALY.

Zionists set out several years ago to make their Illinois town the Oberammergau of America and each year brings them nearer their goal. Rehearsals have been under way for a month on the 1941 production of the Passion play which will begin on Palm Sunday, April 6. Altho the first production in 1935 was planned for three presentations, the popular demand resulted in 26 shows—or until the scenery fell apart.



Jabez Taylor.

Since then 73 performances have attracted thousands of people to Zion. The original cast of 75 has been augmented to more than 300, including 75 children, 190 adult characters, 25 stagehands, and a full orchestra, all members of the Christian Catholic Church of Jesus Christ, of which Wilbur Glenn Voliva is overseer.

Three Hour Spectacle.

These ordinary men and women, who are employed in the offices and factories of Zion and keep up the homes of the town, cast aside their conventional lives on the Sunday afternoons when they step into Bible days and enact the story of Christ's last months on earth.

The unifying mind behind the play is that of Jabez Taylor, young elder in the church, who is author of the script and artist for all the scenery which has been developed on theatrical proportions. White haired Michael J. Mintern, first assistant overseer, says that Elder Taylor "was God-given for his work." At any rate, his exceptional talent has made it possible for him to mold insignificant church drama, excluding the story itself, into a magnificent spectacle which holds the audience in its seats for three hours without interruption.

Born in England, Mr. Taylor came to Zion when he was 14 years old, attended school and college there, and entered the ministry in 1930. At that time he fully expected to give up his art work; instead he was called upon to use every ounce of his talent for the church. Always interested in sacred drama as well as art, for he says "I live in pictures," Mr. Taylor worked on dramas for the Zion radio station. In 1934 Overseer Voliva asked him to "work up something for Christmas and Easter." The latter resulted in the Passion play.

The Christus Is Salesman.

Second only to Mr. Taylor is the work of Leroy J. Peacy as Christus. Mr. Taylor chose the young man when he was only 20, a clerk in a Zion store, whom he had noticed as a youngster in Sunday school. Now an office supply salesman with a wife and two children, Mr. Peacy says that his portrayal has helped him develop into a better man.

Tho startled at the time Mr. Taylor selected him, Mr. Peacy admits he had thought of playing the part and wondered if he could do it.

"But I don't believe I should continue in the rôle indefinitely," he said. "I hope some one will come up thru the ranks and take over. We need new blood and I might grow stale. I love the part, but would not begrudge it to any one. It's strenuous work," he continued. "I don't understand how I handled two performances a day that first year. I couldn't do it now."

"Yes," he admitted, "the part helps me in my work. People have heard about me in this territory and it's a good opening topic of conversation. Of course some persons do not approve of any one playing the rôle of the Christus and they won't have anything to do with me, but more persons expect the part to carry over in my daily life and trust me with money and secrets."

None Look to Stage.

Mr. Taylor stresses the fact that none of the players have dramatic ambitions. He points out that they sincerely want to put the story across and that those in the mob scenes are as conscientious about their performances as those taking speaking rôles.

Henry W. Offner, a bookkeeper for the Zion industries, has appeared annually as one of the disciples. Last year and again this, his is Matthew, who was a tax gatherer. Mr. Offner feels he can understand Matthew better for that reason.

A quiet, reticent, middle aged man, Mr. Offner finds the play a diversion, even tho it is a serious undertaking. So serious, for instance, that tho many members of the cast during the season call each other by their play names, Mr. Offner does not enter into this innocent byplay. Three of his six children appear in the play.

M. P. Barton, a shipping clerk, acts and sings with the male chorus in his rôle of the disciple, Andrew. Coming to Zion in 1916, Mr. Barton soon took a place in the chorus and later sang over the Zion radio. The play is another part of his church work and he considers it a good way "to preach the gospel."

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

THE dream of every amateur actor in Chicago is to play the Goodman theater. Four Our Towners will realize that dream this evening when they appear with 30 leading amateur neighborhood park actors in "First Lady," a satirical comedy of political life in Washington, D. C. The cast tonight represents the cream of the amateur drama groups performing at 12 park district fieldhouses. The Our Towners are Blanche Barrett, 4447 North Damen avenue; Frank Eberhardt, 1412 George street; Robin M. League, 3911 Greenview avenue, and Charles Duckworth, 3715 Sheffield avenue. Miss Vivian Purcell, member of the park district drama staff, will direct the performance.

Julius Rosenberg, a refugee painter from Berlin, is exhibiting his still life studies, landscapes, and portraits in the galleries of Mandel Brothers department store. For many years he painted portraits of royalty, diplomats and members of European society.

HOMES for 148 cats and dogs were found last year by the Evanston Humane society, Mrs. B. B. Tarkington, president, declared in her recent report for 1940. The report showed that 73 stray dogs and 75 cats found new homes thru the efforts of the society. Committee chairmen for 1941 include Berry Stevens, finance; Mrs. Charles Fracker, membership; Russell Dick, house; J. Lincoln Gibson, publicity, and Miss Maud A. Merriam, supervisor of animals.

Miss Clara MacGowan, associate professor of art at Northwestern university, recently was one of the speakers at the convention of the National Education association and the Progressive Education association held in Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Needs a Home, So Makes It in a Power House

There's no such thing as a degree of Master of Resourcefulness and Ingenuity, but if there were, Loyola university probably would award it to Andy Dussell. Andy is a senior student in sociology who insists on practicing what he learns on himself.

He is the only one of the 4,500 students who lives on the university campus. The school has no living quarters for any of its students. But Andy, who works as a waiter in the faculty dining room, had to find a home near his job. He found exactly the place he was looking for in the campus power house.

Machines Sings Lullaby.

Here, among the humming transmitters he has burrowed out a snug home for himself. Out of an unused room he has fitted up a bedroom and parlor. He furnished the place with second hand chairs, an electric clock, a homemade bookshelf, a lamp, and a bed. He painted the floor and colored an old desk red and black.

He even has curtains, which the woman who runs the college linen room fixed over for him. He papered the room himself and, to give the place a dormitory motif, he hung Loyola pennants and an athletic blanket on the walls.

Ever since he was a junior at high school, Andy has worked for his education. His jobs, in addition to earning a living for him, all have been a help to his study of sociology, especially the time he worked as locker room attendant at two country clubs.

Andy Explains It.

Andy could live with his family on Long Island if he chose. But he says: "What kind of sociologist would I be if I had everything handed to me; if I never knew what it meant to get in and dig for myself? I can't do much to help the people I want to help when I get out of school if I don't know anything about their problems and hardships."

Andy's friends marvel at his ingenuity in making a home in the power house. But Andy isn't satisfied yet. He dreams of the time when he can cover the floor with linoleum.

Might Be Well to Attend If You're Going by Train

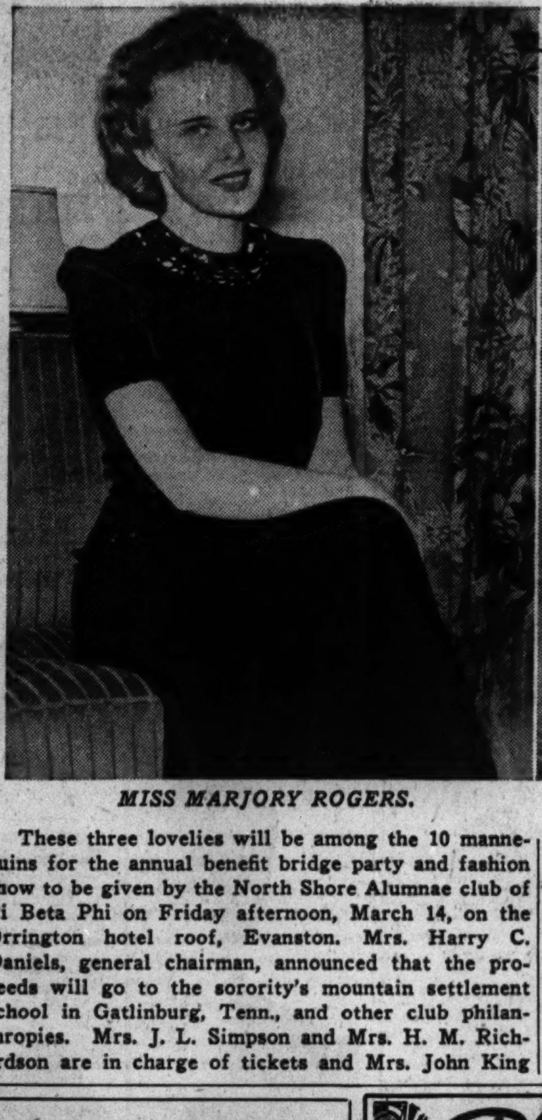
How to dress for a train ride will be discussed Thursday evening at the Winnetka Business and Professional Women's club in the suburb's community house by Miss Marion A. McKinney, director of the Woman's Travel department of the Union Pacific railroad.

Vets to Meet.

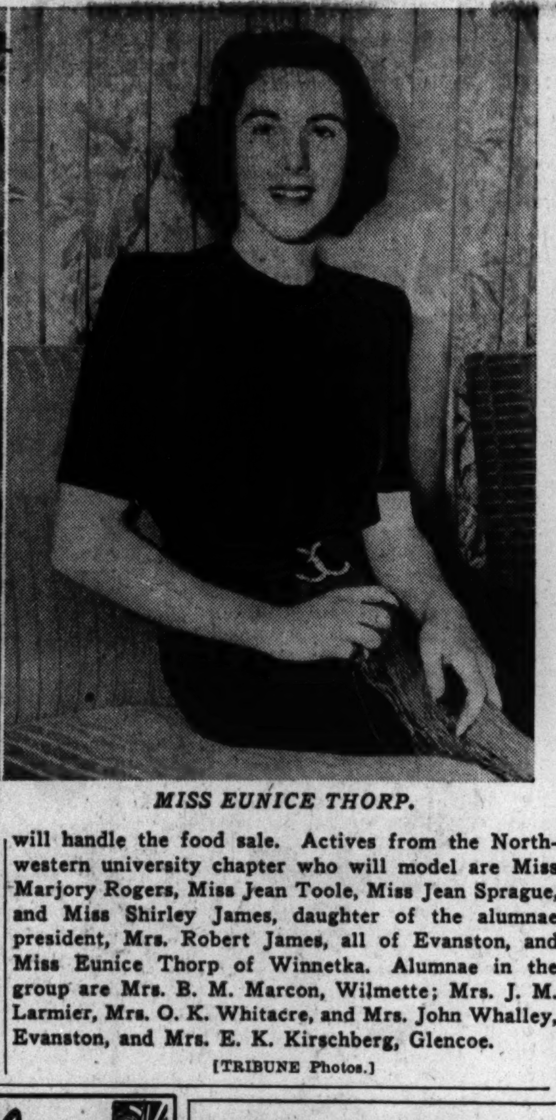
Harold A. Taylor post, commanded by Elmer Roetter, will hold an Old Timers' celebration in conjunction with the regular meeting Friday night at post headquarters, 1016 North Dearborn street. Claude L. Foubare is in charge of the entertainment and refreshments.

Style Show to Benefit Mountain School

MISS JEAN TOOLE.



MISS MARJORY ROGERS.



MISS EUNICE THORP.

These three lovelies will be among the 10 mannequins for the annual benefit bridge party and fashion show to be given by the North Shore Alumnae club of Pi Beta Phi on Friday afternoon, March 14, on the Orrington hotel roof, Evanston. Mrs. Harry C. Daniels, general chairman, announced that the proceeds will go to the sorority's mountain settlement school in Gatlinburg, Tenn., and other club philanthropies. Mrs. J. L. Simpson and Mrs. H. M. Richardson are in charge of tickets and Mrs. John King will handle the food sale. Actives from the Northwestern university chapter who will model are Miss Marjory Rogers, Miss Jean Toole, Miss Jean Sprague, and Miss Shirley James, daughter of the alumnae president, Mrs. Robert James, all of Evanston, and Miss Eunice Thorp of Winnetka. Alumnae in the group are Mrs. B. M. Marcon, Wilmette; Mrs. J. M. Larmier, Mrs. O. K. Whitacre, and Mrs. John Whalley, Evanston, and Mrs. E. K. Kirschberg, Glencoe.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS OF CHURCH FORM A SENIOR GROUP

The Lexse Camp Fire Girls of Bethany Evangelical and Reformed church, Paulina street and Cullom avenue, have formed a second camp of older girls to be known as Lexse, Senior. Members of the original group are 10 to 12 years old, and the Seniors are 13 or older. Mrs. Alice Swanson is guardian of both camps, assisted by Mrs. Edna Pfeiffer.

Officers of the new group are Dorothy Reinking, president; Marian Hilburn, vice president; Marjorie Groeger, secretary; Rita Hartwig, treasurer, and Patricia Heurich, scribe.

Y. W. C. A. Group to Hear Talk on League of Nations

William E. Diez, former head of the midwest office of the League of Nations association, will speak on "The Origin, Accomplishments and Failures of the League" before the Day Time Public Affairs group at 10:45 o'clock Tuesday in the Y. W. C A. center, 59 East Monroe street. Mrs. R. G. Erickson, 4249 Hazel street, is chairman.

Play's the Thing

While his friends practice the violin or piano, Donald Stake, 17 years old, practices giant swings on the gymnastic equipment at Green Briar park. Donald, who lives at 2320 Glenlake avenue, wants to become a physical instructor. Already he has won park, city and state tournament championships in apparatus competition.

Four new appointments to the social center staff of the Chicago board of education were announced by Miss Ernestine Bodt, director. Miss Charlotte Ray was named dancing instructor and Miss Maude Holton matron at Amundsen High school. Jacob Mitnick was appointed manager and Harold Pomazal chaperon at Senn High. The centers sponsor dancing and dancing instruction for high school young people.

Tank Corps Dinner.

A dinner of the World War Tank Corps association will be held Friday night in the gold room of the Brevoort hotel.

PARKER SCHOOL PARENTS ARE TO OFFER BENEFIT

The library committee of the Francis W. Parker School Parents association, 330 Webster avenue, will present Miss Juliet Barker in a play reading for its annual benefit at 2:30 o'clock Monday, March 10, at the Chicago Historical society, Clark street and North avenue.

Miss Barker will read "The Corn Is Green," by Emlyn Williams, which is running on Broadway with Ethel Barrymore as the star. Chauncey L. Griffith, director of music at the school, will give selections from Walt Disney's "Fantasia."

Mrs. George Van Buren, chairman, will be assisted by members of the committee. Presiding at the tea tables will be Miss Flora J. Cooke, Mrs. Herbert W. Smith, Mrs. Herbert E. Hyde, Mrs. M. Lee Alberts, Mrs. Edwin Embree, Miss Hazel Cornell, Miss Isabel Clayton, and Mrs. Arthur Albert.

Church Festival.

A three day St. Patrick's program will be held March 15, 16, and 17, at St. Andrew's church, Addison street and Hermitage avenue. The party will be given by the church Altar and Sodality group.

CITY'S CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO GET BIGGER SCHOOL

Addition at Spalding to Cost $750,000.

Construction will begin next month on a $750,000 two story brick addition that will double the size of the Spalding school for crippled children at 1628 Washington boulevard, it was announced last week by James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education.

John C. Christensen, school board architect who drew the plans and will supervise construction, said the new unit will in all likelihood be ready for use by the start of the second semester of next school term in February.

The addition will make the Spalding school a complete educational unit, Mr. McCahey pointed out. For the first time the physically handicapped child will find it possible to acquire a complete public school education, from kindergarten thru high school, in an adequately equipped plant.

Crowded Other Schools.

Up to now the only high school facilities afforded for such handicapped youngsters were improvised in two high school branches, Morrill branch of Lindblom at 6011 South Rockwell street, and Sabin branch of Tuley at 2216 Hirsch street. This arrangement, Mr. McCahey said, deprived the two high schools of much needed space and worked a hardship on the crippled children, who need specially designed and equipped buildings.

High school facilities for 500 children will be provided. This is more than enough to care for the city's needs at present, but school board officials felt that the reserve capacity should be added to care for the normal increases in population.

The new structure will also enhance the present clinical and treatment facilities of the school, which are regarded as being of primary importance. Rooms will be set aside for hydrotherapy, electrotherapy, and physiotherapy, and for violet ray, spastic and cardiac cases, deaf-oral and sightsaving cases, and dental work.

Trains for Trades.

Vocational training is emphasized at the Spalding school, the effort being to train the handicapped youngsters in trades that will make them self-supporting in later life. The present building program will bring the school to a high point of efficiency in this respect, Mr. McCahey said.

Room will be available not only for the usual high school curriculum, but also for teaching of subjects such as cooking, sewing, industrial arts, woodworking, printing, and weaving.

There will be 40 school rooms in the addition, which will also enlarge the clinic and treatment room and the bus entrance, as well as provide more office space, according to the school architect.

The rooms will include 13 classrooms, five laboratories, numerous special rooms, a library, a gymnasium, several shops, and adequate office and restroom facilities for the large faculty the school requires.

One of the shops will be equipped to enable faculty workers to make braces and other mechanical aids for the needier cripples, and to repair such equipment where necessary.

Better Bus Facilities.

Free buses provided by the school board pick up crippled pupils at their homes, transport them to school and deliver them home in the afternoon. The new building will have special loading platforms, to make it easier for attendants to help the children in and out of their wheel chairs.

A new ramp of low gradient will permit the wheeling of chairs from one floor to another with a minimum of effort. There will be two elevators of ample size.

The treatment tanks and swimming pool are to be provided with special elevator type chairs to help the children in and out of the water. The building thruout has been designed especially for the convenience and comfort of the disabled, yet without sacrifice of educational advantages, Mr. Christensen said.

The original Spalding school building was erected in 1907 and an addition was built in 1928.

It was not until 1926 that the Chicago school board made its first large scale provisions for the teaching of crippled children. At that time the board took over the functions of an old clinic and hospital near the present school site where physically handicapped boys and girls were taught thru private enterprise. These public school facilities have been expanded many fold since.

Creative Writing Class Is to Begin Spring Term

The North Shore Creative Writing class will begin its 10 week spring term Thursday at 10 o'clock in the Highland Park Y. W. C. A. with Rowena Bennett in charge. Mrs. George K. Bowden of Ravinia, a board member of the Friends of American Writers, will give a paper on "Realism in Modern Literature," based on translations of modern German novels. At a luncheon following in the Open House tearoom Mrs. Herbert U. Nelson of Winnetka, author and critic, will consider "Outlining the Novel."

Show, Open in 1868, Is Still Packing 'Em In

BY DAVID ANDERSON.

The Lincoln park zoo has had a longer run that any show that ever hit Chicago. So many fans attend daily that no actual count can be made. A survey taken by park officials lately, however, shows that 3,000,000 persons, more than half of them children, came last year to stare at the 700 species of animals, birds, and reptiles.

Billy, zoo leopard.

The zoo was opened in April, 1868. The première was a modest one. Two pairs of white swans, donated by Central park of New York City, were the first exhibit. Owners of domestic animals and birds which were too much trouble to keep at home gave them freely to the new zoo.

It wasn't until 1874, six years after the opening, that the park commissioners went shopping for more animals. They bought a kangeroo, a condor, two bears, and two peafowl. They paid $275, which everybody admitted was a bargain. In the same year a traveling circus left a lion to the park.

No Admission Fee.

In 1880 the zoo became one of the most popular places in the city. The pleased commissioners adopted a rule against charging admission fees. And the rule still stands.

In the 1880s the animals were as eager to see the city as Chicago was to see them. Every few weeks a few animals, bored from being in one place, would crack open their wooden cages and go on a sightseeing tour of the north side without a guide. Whenever one was reported missing the entire park force would drop whatever it was doing and go animal hunting in the jungles of Lincoln park. Usually the keepers brought the strays back without much trouble, coaxing them into their cages with a rare steak or a bag of peanuts.

Zoo records reveal one instance of an elephant that spent several hours clumping about the residential section of the north side. In trying to cut thru a gangway between two wooden houses it got stuck. The keepers finally pried it loose without damage to either houses or elephant and led it back to the park.

Sea Lion in Saloon.

Another time a sea lion slipped away and went slithering down North Clark street. It was a hot day. The sea lion stopped in front of a cool saloon and bobbed under the swinging doors. There is no record of it wanting a beer, but when the guards came it had one flipper draped on the brass rail.

Once a bear stumbled into on open grave near by [Lincoln park is a former cemetery], and couldn't climb out. The keepers pulled and hauled it to safety.

Today the animals live in iron cages and few of them ever get out for a stroll about the grounds. The oldest known zoo inhabitant is Maggie, a 41 year old grizzly bear who, tho frisky some of the time, is troubled with rheumatism. Floyd S. Young, director of the zoo, says she has all her teeth.

Fly in Tribune Plane.

Among the most popular animals are Bamby and Pongo, two baby orangutans who came 15,000 miles last fall from Sumatra. They flew the last lap of their journey from New Jersey to Chicago, in the Tribune plane.

The star of the zoo, say the keepers, is Bushman, the 12 year old, 465 pound gorilla who eats bananas by the bunch. Bushman, the authorities say, is the finest gorilla specimen in captivity. He comes from the French Cameroon in Africa, and was purchased in 1930.

The zoo covers 25 acres of ground and includes five large, modern, sanitary exhibition halls, five barns, a sea lion pool, numerous dens and pits, and fenced-in yards for fowl.

SENN SCHOOL CADETS GET NEW LIEUT. COLONEL

Dinty W. Whiting, 1331 Dearborn parkway, was named cadet lieutenant colonel in command of the Senn High school R. O. T. C. unit in the list of second semester promotions announced last week by Staff Sergt. Albert J. Cloutier, military instructor at the school. Promoted from the rank of regimental adjutant, Whiting had previously received the Tribune medal, the Daughters of the American Revolution medal and other citations.

Other cadets promoted to high ranking posts were Ralph Karth, Donald Sweeny, and Frank Rubenstein, who were named majors, and Herbert Wieth, Leo Smith, Randall Hays, William Church, Eric Cedergren, Joseph Novotny, and Homer Starks, who were named captains.

Other cadets chosen to lead the Senn regiment are First Lieutenants Louis Weil, Fred Frasch, Robert Beebe, George Roeschlin, Robert Hines, Leslie Siebert, and Raymond Dahlgren, and Second Lieutenants Robert Burklund, Harry Chillinguarian, Stanley Eichenbaum, George Erlich, Melvin Straus, William Hines, David Finley, Henry Tanner, Arthur Scateni, and George Lazarus.

The new officers will receive their commissions at the annual Senn R. O. T. C. dinner dance, to be held in the Bismarck hotel on March 5.

Penfield-Ingraham Contest Is Mild.

The well-bred city of Evanston, which usually tosses away its Emily Post guide book at election time and puts on as flashy a political show as Chicago itself, last week noiselessly opened what promises to be one of the quietest mayoral campaigns in many years.

Only two candidates, Mayor Henry Penfield and S. G. Ingraham, the city treasurer, filed for the $7,140 a year mayoralty job. Penfield, who has been mayor for four years, is basing his campaign on his record and Ingraham is opposing him with the declaration that "the people desire a change."

Election day is April 1, which, say Evanston politicians, gives the candidates a month in which to turn the campaign into a toe to toe political slugging match. But thus far, they agree, the candidates are merely sparring around.

Hot Contest in 1933.

But whether the campaign will reach the sensational level of the 1933 election is doubtful. That contest, in which Penfield was defeated for mayor by the late Charles H. Bartlett, was filled with charges of Evanston vice, gambling, and bootlegging.

The Penfield backers at that time charged that in a seven hour tour of Evanston they were admitted to fourteen "protected" resorts.

Both candidates are Evanstonians by birth. Penfield, who was graduated from Northwestern university in 1923, is 40 years old, married, and the father of three children. Ingraham, a bachelor, is 57 years old. He served as city collector in the Bartlett cabinet from 1925 to 1937.

Have Clashed Before.

The two candidates have met in the political ring before. In 1935 Penfield ran for the city treasurership against Ingraham and defeated him. When Penfield was elected mayor four years ago Ingraham also was elected city treasurer.

Penfield started in politics 12 years ago. Altogether he has been in four campaigns and is a three time winner. In 1931 he was elected city treasurer. Then he ran for mayor against Bartlett and lost. The next two campaigns, again for city treasurer and for mayor four years ago, were successful.

In filing his petition of candidacy, Ingraham said that his easy time in getting signatures proved to him "that the people of Evanston desire a change."

If the Evanston voters become bored with their mayoralty campaign, they can always turn their attention to the elections of aldermen, which may provide more sprightly controversy. In the eight wards there are 21 candidates.

No Contest in First.

There is a contest in every ward but the 1st, where Elmer S. Bersbach is unopposed for office. He has been selected by a ward caucus to fill the vacancy of Ald. Samuel Parsons, who is retiring.

Aldermanic candidates in other wards include:

SECOND WARD—Ald. Clinton Merrick and Wenzel A. Pelz.

THIRD—John R. Kimbark, incumbent. Five others who have filed to fill the office left vacant by Ald. Alan Ashcraft Jr., who has been elected to the state legislature as representative of the 6th district, are Harold W. Mogg, David R. Domke, Harold J. Sandercock, Mathias P. Weiland, and George A. Hartung.

FIFTH—Bennie J. Rubin, incumbent, and Naaman Wimberly.

SIXTH—Eddy S. Brandt, Thomas Airth, and Chris S. Christensen.

EIGHTH—W. Russell Arrington and Fred R. Thoma.

NEW SYMPHONY TO MAKE CONCERT DEBUT APRIL 27

The Rogers Park Symphony orchestra, which in a few weeks has grown from a handful of chamber music players to a 65 piece orchestra, last week scheduled its first concert for April 27.

The orchestra, the original of two recently formed community symphony groups, has incorporated as a nonprofit institution. Plans for its April concert debut include the appearance of Rogers Park soloists.

Auditions for solo players will be held weekly at the Tuesday evening rehearsal sessions at the Rogers Park hotel, 6810 Sheridan road. The tryouts will be directed by Sam Raphling, young composer and conductor of the orchestra.

'United American Front' Evanston Town Hall Theme

"The United American Front" will be the topic of a talk to be given Wednesday evening by Dr. James Shelby Thomas, former University of Alabama professor, at the Evanston Town hall. Dr. Thomas recently returned from an 11,000 mile tour of Latin America.

EVANSTON SCANS RACE FOR MAYOR

ZION LOOKS BACK TO GALILEE AND DAYS OF CHRIST

Townspeople Plan Passion Play.

BY JUANITA DALY.

Zionists set out several years ago to make their Illinois town the Oberammergau of America and each year brings them nearer their goal. Rehearsals have been under way for a month on the 1941 production of the Passion play which will begin on Palm Sunday, April 6. Altho the first production in 1935 was planned for three presentations, the popular demand resulted in 26 shows —or until the scenery fell apart.

Jabez Taylor.

Since then 73 performances have attracted thousands of people to Zion. The original cast of 75 has been augmented to more than 300, including 75 children, 190 adult characters, 25 stagehands, and a full orchestra, all members of the Christian Catholic Church of Jesus Christ, of which Wilbur Glenn Voliva is overseer.

Three Hour Spectacle.

These ordinary men and women, who are employed in the offices and factories of Zion and keep up the homes of the town, cast aside their conventional lives on the Sunday afternoons when they step into Bible days and enact the story of Christ's last months on earth.

The unifying mind behind the play is that of Jabez Taylor, young elder in the church, who is author of the script and artist for all the scenery which has been developed on theatrical proportions. White haired Michael J. Mintern, first assistant overseer, says that Elder Taylor "was Godgiven for his work." At any rate, his exceptional talent has made it possible for him to mold insignificant church drama, excluding the story itself, into a magnificent spectacle which holds the audience in its seats for three hours without interruption.

Born in England, Mr. Taylor came to Zion when he was 14 years old, attended school and college there, and entered the ministry in 1930. At that time he fully expected to give up his art work; instead he was called upon to use every ounce of his talent for the church. Always interested in sacred drama as well as art, for he says "I live in pictures," Mr. Taylor worked on dramas for the Zion radio station. In 1934 Overseer Voliva asked him to "work up something for Christmas and Easter." The latter resulted in the Passion play.

The Christus Is Salesman.

Second only to Mr. Taylor is the work of Leroy J. Peacy as Christus. Mr. Taylor chose the young man when he was only 20, a clerk in a Zion store, whom he had noticed as a youngster in Sunday school. Now an office supply salesman with a wife and two children, Mr. Peacy says that his portrayal has helped him develop into a better man.

Tho startled at the time Mr. Taylor selected him, Mr. Peacy admits he had thought of playing the part and wondered if he could do it.

"But I don't believe I should continue in the rôle indefinitely," he said. "I hope some one will come up thru the ranks and take over. We need new blood and I might grow stale. I love the part, but would not begrudge it to any one. It's strenuous work," he continued. "I don't understand how I handled two performances a day that first year. I couldn't do it now."

"Yes," he admitted, "the part helps me in my work. People have heard about me in this territory and it's a good opening topic of conversation. Of course some persons do not approve of any one playing the rôle of the Christus and they won't have anything to do with me, but more persons expect the part to carry over in my daily life and trust me with money and secrets."

None Look to Stage.

Mr. Taylor stresses the fact that none of the players have dramatic ambitions. He points out that they sincerely want to put the story across and that those in the mob scenes are as conscientious about their performances as those taking speaking rôles.

Henry W. Offner, a bookkeeper for the Zion industries, has appeared annually as one of the disciples. Last year and again this, his is Matthew, who was a tax gatherer. Mr. Offner feels he can understand Matthew better for that reason.

A quiet, reticent, middle aged man, Mr. Offner finds the play a diversion, even tho it is a serious undertaking. So serious, for instance, that tho many members of the cast during the season call each other by their play names, Mr. Offner does not enter into this innocent byplay. Three of his six children appear in the play.

M. P. Barton, a shipping clerk, acts and sings with the male chorus in his rôle of the disciple, Andrew. Coming to Zion in 1916, Mr. Barton soon took a place in the chorus and later sang over the Zion radio. The play is another part of his church work and he considers it a good way "to preach the gospel."

OUR TOWN

Paragraphs About Some Folks You Know.

THE dream of every amateur actor in Chicago is to play the Goodman theater. Four Our Towners will realize that dream this evening when they appear with 30 leading amateur neighborhood park actors in "First Lady," a satirical comedy of political life in Washington, D. C. The cast tonight represents the cream of the amateur drama groups performing at 12 park district fieldhouses. The Our Towners are Blanche Barrett, 4447 North Damen avenue; Frank Eberhardt, 1412 George street; Robin M. League, 3911 Greenview avenue, and Charles Duckworth, 3715 Sheffield avenue. Miss Vivian Purcell, member of the park district drama staff, will direct the performance.

Julius Rosenberg, a refugee painter from Berlin, is exhibiting his still life studies, landscapes, and portraits in the galleries of Mandel Brothers department store. For many years he painted portraits of royalty, diplomats and members of European society.

HOMES for 148 cats and dogs were found last year by the Evanston Humane society, Mrs. B. B. Tarkington, president, declared in her recent report for 1940. The report showed that 73 stray dogs and 75 cats found new homes thru the efforts of the society. Committee chairmen for 1941 include Berry Stevens, finance; Mrs. Charles Fracker, membership; Russell Dick, house; J. Lincoln Gibson, publicity, and Miss Maud A. Merriam, supervisor of animals.

Miss Clara MacGowan, associate professor of art at Northwestern university, recently was one of the speakers at the convention of the National Education association and the Progressive Education association held in Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

Needs a Home, So Makes It in a Power House

There's no such thing as a degree of Master of Resourcefulness and Ingenuity, but if there were, Loyola university probably would award it to Andy Dussell. Andy is a senior student in sociology who insists on practicing what he learns on himself.

He is the only one of the 4,500 students who lives on the university campus. The school has no living quarters for any of its students. But Andy, who works as a waiter in the faculty dining room, had to find a home near his job. He found exactly the place he was looking for in the campus power house.

Machines Sings Lullaby.

Here, among the humming transmitters he has burrowed out a snug home for himself. Out of an unused room he has fitted up a bedroom and parlor. He furnished the place with second hand chairs, an electric clock, a homemade bookshelf, a lamp, and a bed. He painted the floor and colored an old desk red and black.

He even has curtains, which the woman who runs the college linen room fixed over for him. He papered the room himself and, to give the place a dormitory motif, he hung Loyola pennants and an athletic blanket on the walls.

Ever since he was a junior at high school, Andy has worked for his education. His jobs, in addition to earning a living for him, all have been a help to his study of sociology, especially the time he worked as locker room attendant at two country clubs.

Andy Explains It.

Andy could live with his family on Long Island if he chose. But he says: "What kind of sociologist would I be if I had everything handed to me; if I never knew what it meant to get in and dig for myself? I can't do much to help the people I want to help when I get out of school if I don't know anything about their problems and hardships."

Andy's friends marvel at his ingenuity in making a home in the power house. But Andy isn't satisfied yet. He dreams of the time when he can cover the floor with linoleum.

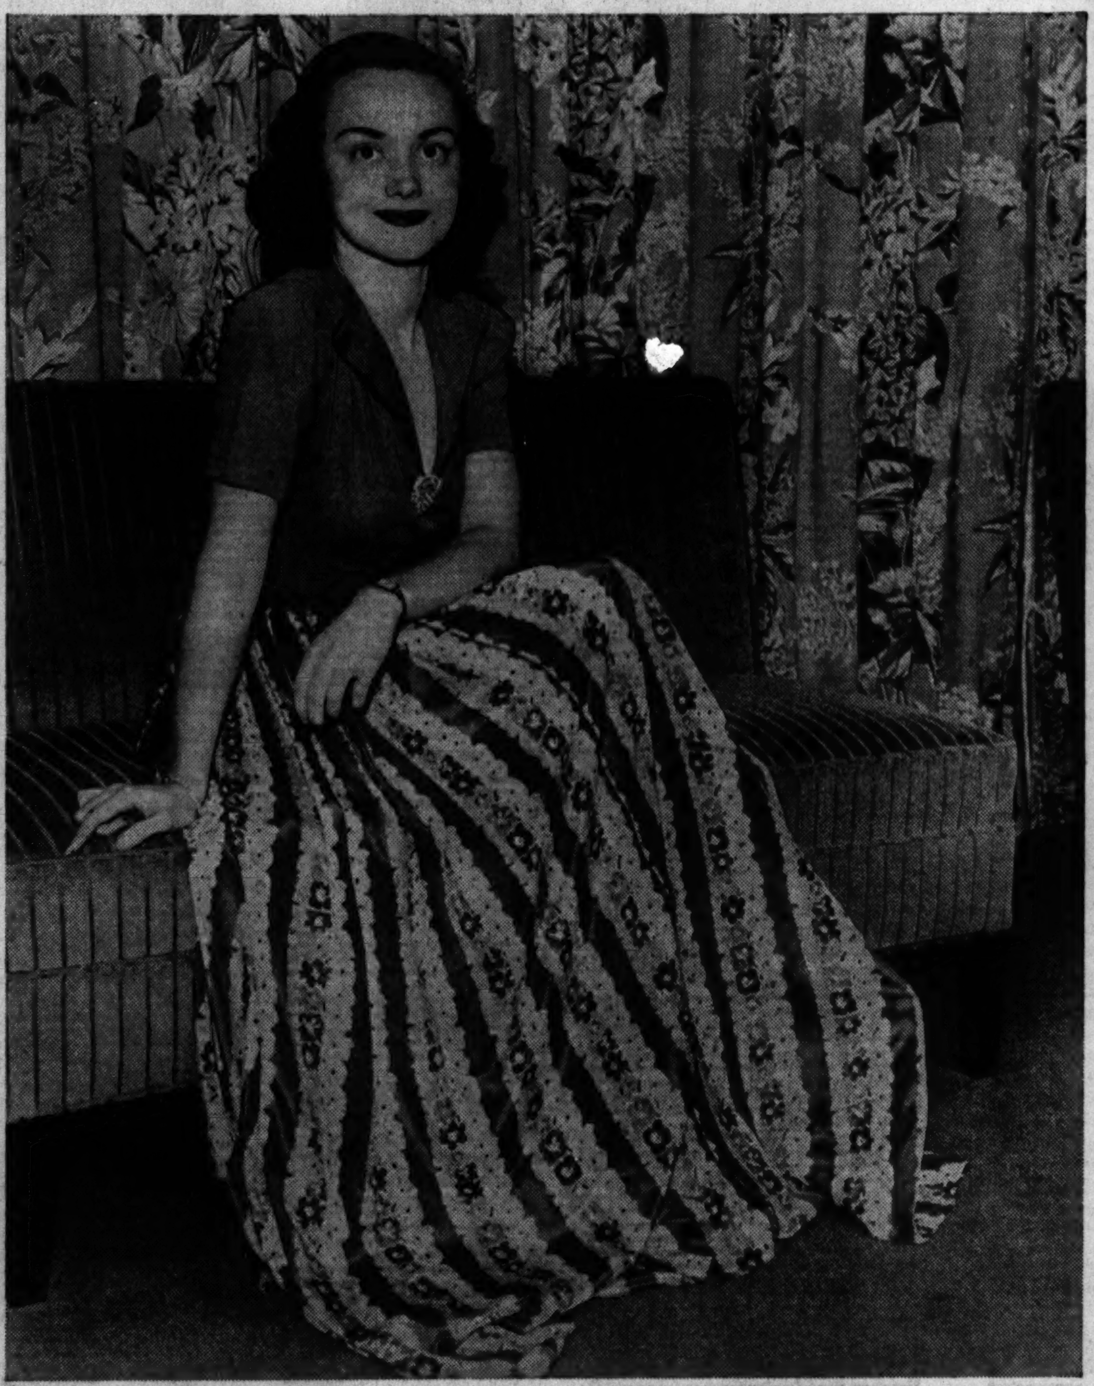
Might Be Well to Attend If You're Going by Train

How to dress for a train ride will be discussed Thursday evening at the Winnetka Business and Professional Women's club in the suburb's community house by Miss Marion A. McKinney, director of the Woman's Travel department of the Union Pacific railroad.

Vets to Meet.

Harold A. Taylor post, commanded by Elmer Roetter, will hold an Old Timers' celebration in conjunction with the regular meeting Friday night at post headquarters, 1016 North Dearborn street. Claude L. Foubare is in charge of the entertainment and refreshments.

Style Show to Benefit Mountain School



MISS JEAN TOOLE.

MISS MARJORY ROGERS.

MISS EUNICE THORP.

These three lovelies will be among the 10 mannequins for the annual benefit bridge party and fashion show to be given by the North Shore Alumnae club of Pi Beta Phi on Friday afternoon, March 14, on the Orrington hotel roof, Evanston. Mrs. Harry C. Daniels, general chairman, announced that the proceeds will go to the sorority's mountain settlement school in Gatlinburg, Tenn., and other club philanthropies. Mrs. J. L. Simpson and Mrs. H. M. Richardson are in charge of tickets and Mrs. John King will handle the food sale. Actives from the Northwestern university chapter who will model are Miss Marjory Rogers, Miss Jean Toole, Miss Jean Sprague, and Miss Shirley James, daughter of the alumnae president, Mrs. Robert James, all of Evanston, and Miss Eunice Thorp of Winnetka. Alumnae in the group are Mrs. B. M. Marcon, Wilmette; Mrs. J. M. Larmier, Mrs. O. K. Whitacre, and Mrs. John Whalley, Evanston, and Mrs. E. K. Kirschberg, Glencoe.

CAMP FIRE GIRLS OF CHURCH FORM A SENIOR GROUP

The Lexse Camp Fire Girls of Bethany Evangelical and Reformed church, Paulina street and Cullom avenue, have formed a second camp of older girls to be known as Lexse, Senior. Members of the original group are 10 to 12 years old, and the Seniors are 13 or older. Mrs. Alice Swanson is guardian of both camps, assisted by Mrs. Edna Pfeiffer.

Officers of the new group are Dorothy Reinking, president; Marian Hilburn, vice president; Marjorie Groeger, secretary; Rita Hartwig, treasurer, and Patricia Heurich, scribe.

Y. W. C. A. Group to Hear Talk on League of Nations

William E. Diez, former head of the midwest office of the League of Nations association, will speak on "The Origin, Accomplishments and Failures of the League" before the Day Time Public Affairs group at 10:45 o'clock Tuesday in the Y. W. C. A. center, 59 East Monroe street. Mrs. R. G. Erickson, 4249 Hazel street, is chairman.

Play's the Thing

While his friends practice the violin or piano, Donald Stake, 17 years old, practices giant swings on the gymnastic equipment at Green Briar park. Donald, who lives at 2320 Glenlake avenue, wants to become a physical instructor. Already he has won park, city and state tournament championships in apparatus competition.

Four new appointments to the social center staff of the Chicago board of education were announced by Miss Ernestine Bodt, director. Miss Charlotte Ray was named dancing instructor and Miss Maude Holton matron at Amundsen High school. Jacob Mitnick was appointed manager and Harold Pomazal chaperon at Senn High. The centers sponsor dancing and dancing instruction for high school young people.

Tank Corps Dinner.

A dinner of the World War Tank Corps association will be held Friday night in the gold room of the Brevoort hotel.

PARKER SCHOOL PARENTS ARE TO OFFER BENEFIT

The library committee of the Francis W. Parker School Parents association, 330 Webster avenue, will present Miss Juliet Barker in a play reading for its annual benefit at 2:30 o'clock Monday, March 10, at the Chicago Historical society, Clark street and North avenue.

Miss Barker will read "The Corn Is Green," by Emlyn Williams, which is running on Broadway with Ethel Barrymore as the star. Chauncey L. Griffith, director of music at the school, will give selections from Walt Disney's "Fantasia."

Mrs. George Van Buren, chairman, will be assisted by members of the committee. Presiding at the tea tables will be Miss Flora J. Cooke, Mrs. Herbert W. Smith, Mrs. Herbert E. Hyde, Mrs. M. Lee Alberts, Mrs. Edwin Embree, Miss Hazel Cornell, Miss Isabel Clayton, and Mrs. Arthur Albert.

Church Festival.

A three day St. Patrick's program will be held March 15, 16, and 17, at St. Andrew's church, Addison street and Hermitage avenue. The party will be given by the church Altar and Sodality group.

CITY'S CRIPPLED CHILDREN TO GET BIGGER SCHOOL

Addition at Spalding to Cost $750,000.

Construction will begin next month on a $750,000 two story brick addition that will double the size of the Spalding school for crippled children at 1628 Washington boulevard, it was announced last week by James B. McCahey, president of the Chicago board of education.

John C. Christensen, school board architect who drew the plans and will supervise construction, said the new unit will in all likelihood be ready for use by the start of the second semester of next school term in February.

The addition will make the Spalding school a complete educational unit, Mr. McCahey pointed out. For the first time the physically handicapped child will find it possible to acquire a complete public school education, from kindergarten thru high school, in an adequately equipped plant.

Crowded Other Schools.

Up to now the only high school facilities afforded for such handicapped youngsters were improvised in two high school branches, Morrill branch of Lindblom at 6011 South Rockwell street, and Sabin branch of Tuley at 2216 Hirsch street. This arrangement, Mr. McCahey said, deprived the two high schools of much needed space and worked a hardship on the crippled children, who need specially designed and equipped buildings.

High school facilities for 500 children will be provided. This is more than enough to care for the city's needs at present, but school board officials felt that the reserve capacity should be added to care for the normal increases in population.

The new structure will also enhance the present clinical and treatment facilities of the school, which are regarded as being of primary importance. Rooms will be set aside for hydrotherapy, electrotherapy, and physiotherapy, and for violet ray, spastic and cardiac cases, deaf-oral and sightsaving cases, and dental work.

Trains for Trades.

Vocational training is emphasized at the Spalding school, the effort being to train the handicapped youngsters in trades that will make them self-supporting in later life. The present building program will bring the school to a high point of efficiency in this respect, Mr. McCahey said.

Room will be available not only for the usual high school curriculum, but also for teaching of subjects such as cooking, sewing, industrial arts, woodworking, printing, and weaving.

There will be 40 school rooms in the addition, which will also enlarge the clinic and treatment room and the bus entrance, as well as provide more office space, according to the school architect.

The rooms will include 13 classrooms, five laboratories, numerous special rooms, a library, a gymnasium, several shops, and adequate office and restroom facilities for the large faculty the school requires.

One of the shops will be equipped to enable faculty workers to make braces and other mechanical aids for the needier cripples, and to repair such equipment where necessary.

Better Bus Facilities.

Free buses provided by the school board pick up crippled pupils at their homes, transport them to school and deliver them home in the afternoon. The new building will have special loading platforms, to make it easier for attendants to help the children in and out of their wheel chairs.

A new ramp of low gradient will permit the wheeling of chairs from one floor to another with a minimum of effort. There will be two elevators of ample size.

The treatment tanks and swimming pool are to be provided with special elevator type chairs to help the children in and out of the water. The building thruout has been designed especially for the convenience and comfort of the disabled, yet without sacrifice of educational advantages, Mr. Christensen said.

The original Spalding school building was erected in 1907 and an addition was built in 1928.

It was not until 1926 that the Chicago school board made its first large scale provisions for the teaching of crippled children. At that time the board took over the functions of an old clinic and hospital near the present school site where physically handicapped boys and girls were taught thru private enterprise. These public school facilities have been expanded many fold since.

Creative Writing Class Is to Begin Spring Term

The North Shore Creative Writing class will begin its 10 week spring term Thursday at 10 o'clock in the Highland Park Y. W. C. A. with Rowena Bennett in charge. Mrs. George K. Bowden of Ravinia, a board member of the Friends of American Writers, will give a paper on "Realism in Modern Literature," based on translations of modern German novels. At a luncheon following in the Open House tearoom Mrs. Herbert U. Nelson of Winnetka, author and critic, will consider "Outlining the Novel."

If the Evanston voters become bored with their mayoralty campaign, they can always turn their attention to the elections of aldermen, which may provide more sprightly controversy. In the eight wards there are 21 candidates.

No Contest in First.

There is a contest in every ward but the 1st, where Elmer S. Bersbach is unopposed for office. He has been selected by a ward caucus to fill the vacancy of Ald. Samuel Parsons, who is retiring.

Aldermanic candidates in other wards include:

SECOND WARD—Ald. Clinton Merrick and Wenzel A. Pelz.

THIRD—John R. Kimbark, incumbent. Five others who have filed to fill the office left vacant by Ald. Alan Ashcraft Jr., who has been elected to the state legislature as representative of the 6th district, are Harold W. Mogg, David R. Domke, Harold J. Sandercock, Mathias P. Weiland, and George A. Hartung.

FIFTH—Bennie J. Rubin, incumbent, and Naaman Wimberly.

SIXTH—Eddy S. Brandt, Thomas Airth, and Chris S. Christensen.

EIGHTH—W. Russell Arrington and Fred R. Thoma.

NEW SYMPHONY TO MAKE CONCERT DEBUT APRIL 27

The Rogers Park Symphony orchestra, which in a few weeks has grown from a handful of chamber music players to a 65 piece orchestra, last week scheduled its first concert for April 27.

The orchestra, the original of two recently formed community symphony groups, has incorporated as a nonprofit institution. Plans for its April concert debut include the appearance of Rogers Park soloists.

Auditions for solo players will be held weekly at the Tuesday evening rehearsal sessions at the Rogers Park hotel, 6810 Sheridan road. The tryouts will be directed by Sam Raphling, young composer and conductor of the orchestra.

'United American Front' Evanston Town Hall Theme

"The United American Front" will be the topic of a talk to be given Wednesday evening by Dr. James Shelby Thomas, former University of Alabama professor, at the Evanston Town hall. Dr. Thomas recently returned from an 11,000 mile tour of Latin America.

Voice of the North Side

PRAISES CLUB CAFETERIA.

I want to compliment the Rogers Park Woman's club on the fine way in which it has conducted the Senn lunchroom for so many years. I was sorry to read that the club must give up the project. With so many mothers interested in the cafeteria, I knew my children would be well fed if I had to leave home during the lunch hour. As a matter of fact, they like to eat at school with their friends and fortunately the prices are low enough not to strain the family budget.

Since the change must be, I'm glad to know that the same staff will continue and I hope that the school board will allow the managers to serve the same quality food at comparable prices. Perhaps the board can even lower the prices, since undoubtedly it can save money thru quantity buying for all school lunchrooms. But whatever happens, the board will have a hard time doing a better job than the woman's club did.

A MOTHER.

WASN'T THAT BEFORE NOV. 5?.

I am writing this in answer to Highland Parker who in last Sunday's Metropolitan section complained of the action of our Red Cross in making 20 million bandages for the United States army. Highland Parker seems to think that this action is a sign of war. That is a mistake, for did not our own President Roosevelt say some months back that he hates war? Those bandages are merely a part of our defense, to be used in the event we will be attacked. Any other view is fifth column propaganda.

GREY LADY.

WHERE BANDAGES WILL GO.

I agree with Highland Parker in last Sunday's Voice of the north side when he says that the 20 million bandages being made by the Red Cross for the United States army is "one heck of a lot of bandages for an army at peace." There is no use worrying about not using them. The Roosevelt administration which prides itself on its efficiency won't plow them under without first wrapping them around our fellow citizens.

AMERICAN FIRST.

Evanston Guild Theater to Stage Final Offering

The Evanston Guild theater will stage its final dramatic production of the season beginning Friday evening. The play, "Outward Bound," will be enacted Friday and Saturday evenings for three weeks, closing on March 22. The theater is at 616 Church street in the suburb.

DINNER TO HONOR STAR STUDENTS AT LAKE FOREST

Alumni to Attend Fete for College Groups.

Honor students at Lake Forest college will be given special recognition at the seventh annual midwinter dinner for alumni, parents, faculty, students and friends of the college Wednesday in the Crystal ballroom of the Edgewater Beach hotel. Members of the two national honor fraternities, Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Eta Sigma, will be introduced by Dr. Herbert M. Moore, college president.

Clarence Diver of Waukegan, chairman of the board of trustees, will be master of ceremonies. As a novel feature the program will open with an original song and each speaker will be introduced by an original song. Miss Dorothy Westbay, senior, and Miss Jeannette Best, junior, wrote the words, and Prof. Louis O. Palmer, head of the music department, composed the music.

Octet to Sing.

Dr. Moore will welcome the guests and Edward Fisher, sophomore, will speak for the student body. The mixed octet which will sing the introductions is composed of Miss June Gardner, Miss Marjorie Rump, Miss Best, Miss Westbay, Dennis Turner, Richard Banyon, Newton Hollister, and Alan Gripe.

Lake Forest was the first small college to organize a chapter of Phi Eta Sigma, honor fraternity for men. It started in 1929 and, unlike other chapters where only freshmen and sophomores retain membership, Lake Forest permits upper classmen to remain active. Freshmen who maintain 12 hours of A and three hours of B their first semester are eligible.

Members of Group.

The sister fraternity was organized in 1934 and has the same membership requirements. Alpha Lambda Delta members are Shirley Lucas, Lake Forest; Barbara Helmkamp, Waukegan; Dorothy Westbay, Indianapolis, seniors; Dorothy Burnham, Highland Park, junior; Janis Michelsen, Chicago Heights, sophomore; Avereil Patterson, 2469 East 74th place; Barbara Beeler, 643 Roscoe street; Anne Chaderjian, Waukegan, and Helen Louise Clark, Ottumwa, Ia..

In Play of High School Life

Mary Lou Puchner, 6010 Glenwood avenue, will take a leading role in "Young Adventure," a play about high school students, which will be presented by the Children's Laboratory theater on Saturday afternoon in the Forester playhouse, 1016 North Dearborn street. Other north siders in the cast are Dorothy Puchner, Dorothy and Fred Schuster, Charles Ferguson, Joe Flannery, Gene Cheney, Lorraine Fortunato, and Frank Pacelli.

Off the Trail with HAROLD SMITH

An open house will follow the Parkway Riding academy's third annual spring horse show at 2155 North Clark street next Sunday evening, it was announced by Melvin Cone of the arrangements committee. There will be no admission charge. Theodore Levin is general chairman.

Injuries incurred in a Chicago automobile crash last week will keep William J. Moeng of Morton Grove from the bridle paths for several weeks.

200 NO. SIDE WOMEN OF EASTERN STAR IN WORK FOR RED CROSS

Two hundred members of the Order of the Eastern Star have joined the north side Red Cross unit since the chapter was formed on Nov. 26. Mrs. Mildred Barber is chairman of the unit which meets from 10 to 4 o'clock every Tuesday in the Ravenswood Masonic temple, 4605 North Paulina street.

Mrs. Mildred Barber.

Mrs. Bertha Eagle, a past worthy grand matron, is state chairman for the organization's Red Cross production program. Within the last few months, the Eastern Star has contributed $500 in cash, $700 for materials, $40 for buttons, seven new sewing machines, and paid the rental for its unit headquarters.

Members who have received service pins for completing 144 hours of work are Mrs. Eagle, Mrs. Barber, Mrs. Anna Bremner, Mrs. Phyllis Thomas, Mrs. Hedvig Mendenhal, Mrs. Hedvig Birkholz, Mrs. Elsie Zeh, Mrs. Elsie Brabrandt, Mrs. Hazel Woolman, and Mrs. Margaret Lindgren.

Members of the executive staff under Mrs. Barber as Mrs. Bremner, secretary; Mrs. Thomas, assistant secretary, and Mrs. Alvina Braun, supervisor.

SEVEN 'CAREER' ALUMNAE WILL TALK AT RALLY

To Address Mundelein Assembly Tuesday.

Seven alumnae of Mundelein college, 6363 Sheridan road, who have succeeded in various careers, will speak at a general student assembly Tuesday when the college observes National Vocation week. Mrs. Charles J. O'Neil Jr. [Katherine Brennan '34], president of the Alumnae association, will preside.

The assembly also will bring the alumnae into the students' celebration of Mundelein's 10th anniversary. All college events this year are being built around this theme. Speakers, who have been selected to represent different departments of specialization in the college, will tell how their college training aided their careers, what further education they took and what they are doing at present.

Members of Group.

The group includes Miss Ann Lally, '35, art supervisor for District 31, Chicago Public schools, mural designer and book illustrator; Mrs. William Schroeder [Mary Agnes Tynan, '35], staff member of the Chicago Radio council; Miss Ruth Mae Amann, '39, private secretary in a bank; Miss Sue Adams, '38, nutritionist for the Chicago Relief administration.

Miss Florence Hayward, '37, director of the Catholic Girl Scouts of the Chicago archdiocese; Miss Mary Louise Sayre, '38, piano and organ music teacher, and Miss Catherine Wilkins, '39, case worker for the Chicago Relief administration and aviatrix. Miss Lucille Trudeau, '39, chemistry instructor, will represent the alumnae on the college faculty.

Other Career Alumnae.

Tho the college is young, the faculty had a varied list of "career" alumnae to call on for this occasion. Among others who have made outstanding records are Mrs. Joseph Bell Jr. [Sallie Agnes Smith], W-G-N actress and fashion authority; Miss Virginia Woods, formerly assistant dean of women at De Paul university and now on the Harvard university staff, completing work on her doctor's degree; Mrs. William Fifield [Mercedes McCambridge], NBC star now in Hollywood appearing in daytime serials and coast-to-coast programs, and Mrs. Vernon J. Anderson [Margaret Cleary], author, whose play "Jeanne D'Arc" is listed in a new book, "Theater for Tomorrow," as among the 100 plays recommended for Catholic production.

Most of these alumnae also made notable records at Mundelein and are shown in their college activities in a mural on the walls of the college press room. The pictures tell the story of ten years of Mundelein and "The Skyscraper," student news publication.

College Romance

Mr. and Mrs. George S. May, 2620 North Shore avenue, announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean Ruth, to Arthur Paul Rech, son of Mrs. Katherine Rech of Scranton, Pa. Both Miss May and her fiance are juniors at Wheaton college, where Mr. Rech is studying for the ministry. They do not plan to be married until they have finished school.

WOMAN ENGINEER DUE TO ADDRESS UNIVERSITY GUILD

Place of Beauty in Our Life Is Theme.

Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, internationally known as a management and industrial engineer, will address the University guild on "The Place of Beauty in Our Life Today" at 2:15 o'clock tomorrow in Scott hall, Evanston. Dr. Gilbreth has been professor of management at Purdue university since 1930 and worked with her husband, Maj. Frank Gilbreth, also a noted engineer in this field, until his death. In addition to this work, Dr. Gilbreth reared 11 children and has been active in many national projects such as the Girl Scouts.

After the program, there will be a reception and tea in the lounge. Mrs. Marvin J. Holland, Mrs. C. L. Saunders, Mrs. A. K. Nowak, and Mrs. R. D. T. Hollowell will receive the guests and Mrs. Harry Stark, Mrs. F. E. Broomell, and Mrs. W. H. Miles will be tea hostesses.

Neighbors of Kenilworth.

Lane K. Newberry, artist who has exhibited frequently in Chicago and also at the New York World's fair, will speak and show his work at the club meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Evanston Woman's Club.

The fine arts department Tuesday will present a series of book reviews in the morning and an illustrated lecture on "Williamsburg and Old Virginia," by Martin Bovey at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Paul W. Cook will review "The Land of Good Shadows" and "Anauta, an Eskimo Women"; Mrs. G. W. Carman will talk of Ogden Nash's "The Face Is Familiar," and Mrs. F. M. Schieble of "Out of the Night." Mrs. Horace Dawson and Mrs. William Hamilton are in charge of the program, which will be followed by tea.

A group of Evanston High school musicians will present a program Friday afternoon, with Mrs. E. F. McLaughlin of the music committee in charge. The Girls choir of 45 voices and the high school singers, a madrigal group of boys and girls, will be directed by Roy Schuessler. Geraldine Hamburg, soprano, and Louis Greenwood, tenor, will be soloists. David Betts, pianist, will be the assisting artist.

Evanston Juniors.

After a luncheon meeting tomorrow, Bertha W. Hall will discuss "What Your Handwriting Means." The board will meet at 10:30 o'clock.

Wilmette Woman's Club.

A symposium on the changing objectives in women's clubs will be presented by members, under the direction of Mrs. John Boddie on Wednesday morning. Mrs. J. A. Burrill, Mrs. K. B. McAfee, Mrs. W. J. Weldon, and Miss Bettie Buckett will participate. In the afternoon Martin Bovey will show his color movies of Williamsburg and Old Virginia.

Evanston Athletic Club.

For the club meeting Thursday in the Woman's club, Mrs. Gertrude Lieber will talk on current events and Miss Dorothy Wideman will relate "My Trip Thru the South Seas with Zane Grey." Mrs. James W. Hummer and Mrs. J. R. Benoit will preside at the tea tables.

Evanston Catholic Club.

Members will spend Wednesday at the Cenacle, 513 Fullerton parkway, with the Rev. F. J. O'Hearn as retreat master. Mrs. Henry Forster is chairman and Mrs. Jerome Dixon is in charge of transportation. Father O'Hearn is dean of men at St. Louis university.

Highland Park Woman's Club.

Earl G. Wright, curator of exhibits at the Chicago Academy of Sciences, will speak on "Birds of the Arid Southwest" and show motion pictures. Mrs. O. L. Olesen is chairman of the garden class which planned the program.

At 10 o'clock the collectors study group, Mrs. Wilford C. Shipnes, chairman, will present Kenneth Harris, who will speak on the "Origin and Making of Paperweights." Mrs. Marshall Johnson is luncheon chairman and at 12:45 o'clock, Hope Summers of the Evanston Guild theater will review a current play. Hostesses will be Mrs. M. R. Ehle, Mrs. Charles Haynes, Mrs. G. L. Martin, Mrs. H. F. Pfister, Mrs. C. G. Mason, Mrs. Claburn Jones, Mrs. John T. O'Connell, and Mrs. Frederick O. Toof.

Waukegan Woman's Club.

Mrs. Robert D. Jones, American citizenship chairman, will present Rabbi Charles E. Shulman of the North Shore Congregation Israel in Glencoe in a talk on "What Can America Learn from Europe?" for tomorrow's meeting. Music will be furnished by Loraien Dunn, vocalist, and James Butler, cornetist.

Delta Gamma.

Mary Sharp, stylist, will forecast spring fashions for North Shore alumnae at a luncheon meeting at 1 o'clock tomorrow in the home of Mrs. Carleton Banker, 810 Lake avenue, Wilmette.

Gamma Alpha Chi.

Clara Gebhard Snyder, director of foods and nutrition of the Wheat Flour institute, will address Kappa chapter members tomorrow evening in Normandy house, 800 Tower court.

Alpha Chi Omega.

Mrs. Ernest A. Eklund, 991 Bluff road, Glencoe, will be hostess to the North Shore alumnae for a luncheon bridge Tuesday.

4 FINALISTS CHOSEN FOR PIANO AUDITIONS IN ORCHESTRA HALL

Clara Siegel, 317 Webster avenue, has been chosen as one of four finalists in auditions to be held Monday evening, March 10, in Orchestra hall, to select Chicago's outstanding young pianist.

Clara Siegel.

The auditions are annual events conducted by the Society of American Musicians and the Adult Education council. The winner will make a debut as a recitalist on next season's Musical Arts piano series under sponsorship of the education council.

Miss Siegel, who in private life is Mrs. Arthur E. Ehrlich, mother of a 2 year old son, made her first concert appearance when she was 9 years old. She received her music degree at the age of 16. Miss Siegel has appeared as soloist with the Illinois Symphony orchestra.

Crisp White

The badge of spring—and there's downright magic in the effect of white against your face. It makes you sparkle, it makes you luminous—there's nothing quite so flattering. It's definitely Spring, definitely chic, and it does marvelous things for your skin. We've illustrated but three costumes from many that show the magic of crisp white at top, embroidered collar edged with a deep ruffle on this navy sheer with intricate tucked detail to emphasize the long torso line, $35. with it, a tiny pancake hat of white straw with navy, $10.

at center, spanking white crisp eyelet embroidered pique for the deep turned down cuffs of the jacket and for the entire blouse of this black jacket dress—the blouse buttons on so it's always fresh, $39.95. With it, a big hat of felt with pert white pique bows, $12.95.

at bottom, a deep fluff of mousseline de soie ruffles outlines the square cut neck of this navy sheer dress with a beautifully molded hip line, $29.95. with it, a bit of a navy felt hat highlighted by white roses, $7.95

VOLUNTEER LIST OF DRAFTEES IS ON DOWN TREND

Boards Forced to Call Up Registrants.

Volunteers among the conscripts being inducted in Chicago were used up last week to the point where many of the local boards were forced to start calling up their registrants in regular order.

Of the 951 Chicagoland draftees who were inducted into the army in the week that ended last Tuesday, 634 were men who had asked to be drafted immediately rather than wait for their order numbers to be reached. However, the ratio of volunteers had been dropping sharply day by day, until last Tuesday they were in the minority, 148 to 152.

Draft officials said they expected this trend to continue for an indefinite period. They predicted that as soon as inductions settle down to a routine, there will be only a smattering of volunteers.

Cook county furnished 561 of the selectees inducted during the week, the other 390 being made up of quotas contributed by the other Chicagoland counties. The Chicago station also handled 388 draftees from downstate, or a total of 1,339 for the week. Most of the inducted men were sent to reception centers at Fort Sheridan and Camp Grant.

Here is the list of newly inducted men from this section, the letter V denoting those who volunteered:

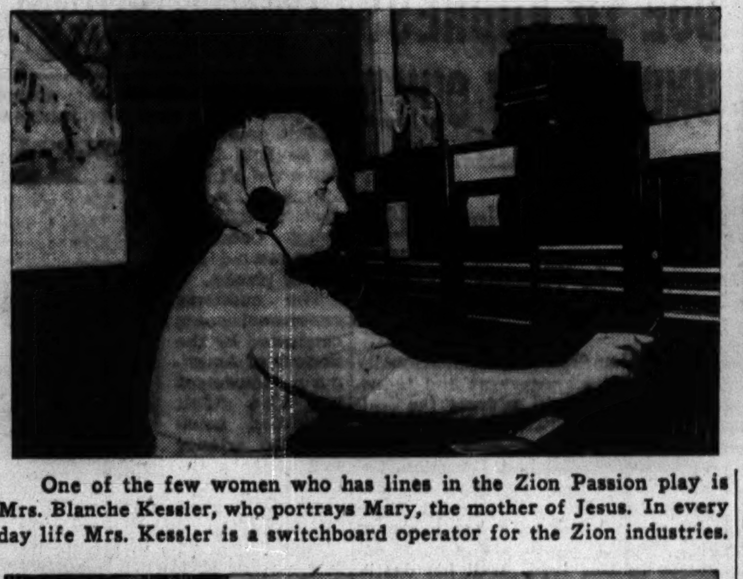
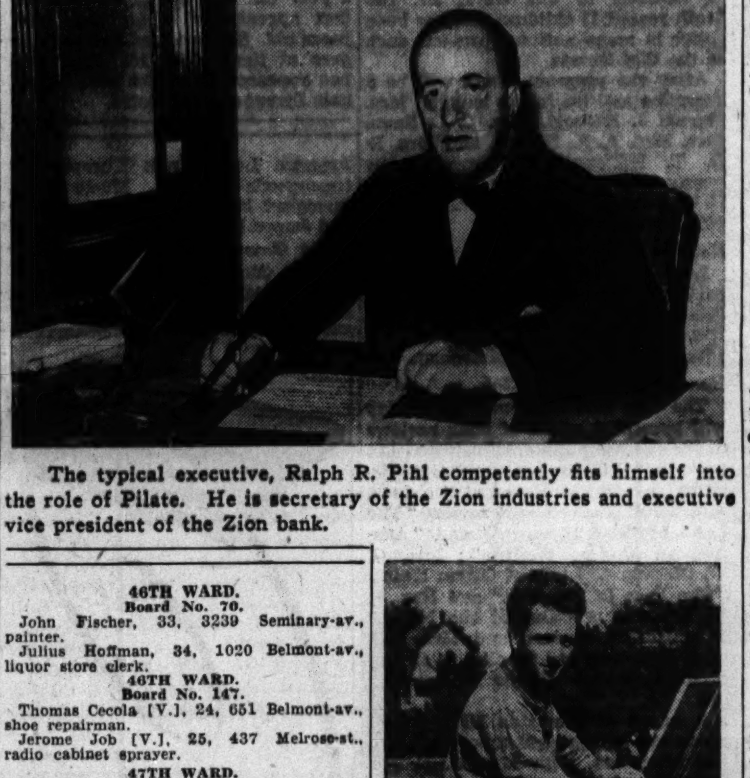
Passion Play Characters Work in Zion Industries

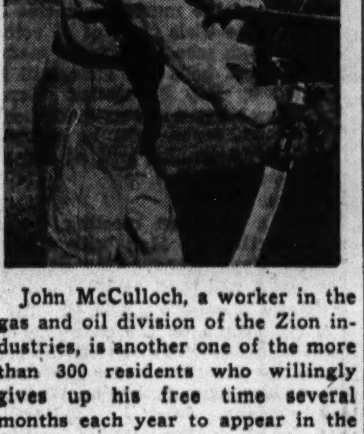


One of the few women who has lines in the Zion Passion play is Mrs. Blanche Kessler, who portrays Mary, the mother of Jesus. In every day life Mrs. Kessler is a switchboard operator for the Zion industries.

Zion residents recognize Leroy J. Peacy as two persons: An office supply salesman with a wife and two children, and as Christus in the Passion play presented annually by the Christian Catholic church. The play will open for its sixth season on Palm Sunday, April 6.



The typical executive, Ralph R. Pihl competently fits himself into the role of Pilate. He is secretary of the Zion industries and executive vice president of the Zion bank.



John McCulloch, a worker in the gas and oil division of the Zion industries, is another one of the more than 300 residents who willingly gives up his free time several months each year to appear in the Passion play. He plays the part of the disciple, John the Beloved.

robes for the play. He, too, appreciates the opportunity the play gives him to make the Bible story more realistic for the public. And a full house inspires him and the rest of the cast to do their best.

Judas Rôle Trying.

The youngest disciple, John the beloved, is portrayed by John McCulloch, who was born and reared in Zion. He works in the gas and oil division of the industries.

Perhaps the most difficult rôle, because the character is so disliked, is that of Judas Iscariot. The first two years it was handled by Elder Carl Q. Lee, a classmate of Mr. Taylor. Now James H. Snelling is undertaking it for the third season. In the words of a co-worker, Mr. Snelling is "a very pleasant young man when out of character."

Mr. Snelling does not say he enjoys the part, but he concurs with Mr. Lee in admitting that "it's a job to be done and I'll do the best I can." Mr. Snelling is one of 17 players who work in the bakery industry.

Mr. Lee was transferred to another villain rôle, that of Caiaphas, the high priest, whom the portrays strictly in accordance with the Bible characterization. As a boy of 13 Mr. Lee was sent to his uncle and aunt in Zion. He went thru school contemplating one career after another, but when he reached the time for a decision he chose the ministry. In addition to preaching once a month he serves as general ecclesiastical secretary and edits the church newspaper.

He's Realistic Annas.

Wilfred Brownlow, 42 year old manager of the gas and oil division and the garage, is completely transformed for his rôle as Annas, the palsied, unscrupulous father-in-law of Caiaphas.

"It's tiresome to shake with the palsy for two hours," admits Mr. Brownlow readily, "but we've a story to tell and we want to do it realistically. I guess I do, for after the play I've heard the visitors comment 'I'd like to wring Annas' neck'."

Mr. Brownlow's parents were among the first settlers in Zion and his father started the lace and curtain industry. A machinist by trade, he found himself out of a job in the early '20s and started to work as a janitor for the church. Thru diligence he advanced to his present responsible position.

As soon as Ralph R. Pihl puts on his Roman toga he becomes Pilate. A typical executive, with experience as vice president of the Zion bank and secretary of the industries, Mr. Pihl easily assumes a commanding air.

Portrays Virgin Mother.

Another Zionist who enjoys his work in the play is David K. Anderson, a plumber, who portrays King Herod. His parents were charter members of the church.

Only a few women figure prominently in the play, altho many are used in every scene. Mrs. Blanche Kessler, a telephone operator, graciously portrays Mary, the mother of Christ, and pretty, blonde Miriam Emanuelson, 20 years old, will be Mary Magdalene for her second season.

Dark haired, attractive Edith Taylor, wife of the author, has played Martha, sister of Lazarus, since the first performance. She, too, is a switchboard operator.

The women also contribute to the play by making the costumes. A unique job, that of making the wigs and beards, is handled by Mrs. Annasie Mifflin. She copies the beards from Leonardo da Vinci's painting, "The Last Supper."

BYRD EXPEDITION MEMBER WILL ADDRESS P.-T. A.

Snow Cruiser Designer Plans Two Talks.

Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, designer of the antarctic snow cruiser, will relate his adventures with the second Byrd expedition to Antarctica Thursday and Friday evenings at Trumbull school, 1600 Foster avenue. The talk will be sponsored by the Trumbull Parent-Teacher association.

Proceeds of a movie party to be held tomorrow and Tuesday by the Le Moyne P.-T. A. will go to buy raincoats for safety patrol boys at the school.

Dr. Bertha Shafer, executive director of the Illinois Social Hygiene league, will deliver two health talks this week at the McPherson and Coonley P.-T. A.'s. Dr. Shafer will speak Tuesday afternoon at the Coonley school on "Health, a Community Responsibility" and on Thursday afternoon on "Social Hygiene at McPherson.

Dr. A. C. Siler, who practiced medicine in China for 17 years, will discuss his impressions of the Chinese people Friday evening at Boone P.-T. A. The meeting will be held at Indian Boundary fieldhouse, 2500 Lunt avenue.

A musical program will be held Wednesday evening by Armstrong P.-T. A. at Indian Boundary fieldhouse. Mrs. R. A. Wickett, music chairman, will be in charge of arrangements.

STUDENTS TO ENROLL FOR CAMERA SCHOOL ON FRIDAY EVENING

Registration of students for the spring photography school of the Fort Dearborn Camera club will be held Friday evening at the club's headquarters, 75 East Wacker drive.

Mrs. Gail Elliot.

The school session will get under way Tuesday, March 11. It will be the club's 11th annual term and the course will continue for 10 weeks. Morris Gurrie is director of the school.

At the registration session there will be a get-acquainted program and a tour of the club's photo laboratories by new students. Mrs. Gail Elliot, 1047 North Shore avenue, the only woman member of the club's newly elected house committee, is chairman of the north side reception committee.

LOYOLA CHORAL CLUB WILL GIVE THREE CONCERTS

Loyola University Choral club will present the first of three concerts next Sunday afternoon in the Madonna Della Strada chapel on the lake shore campus, 6525 Sheridan road. The second concert will be held Sunday, April 20, at Kimball hall, 306 South Wabash avenue, and the third, a program of religious selections, will be presented May 25 at the Loyola campus. All the programs will be conducted by Graciano Salvador, Loyola music director.

NEW UNIT GIVES HUMIDIFIED AIR AS HEALTH AID

Improves Circulation While It Cleans.

BY LOUISE BARGELT.

Something new in winter air conditioning for use with hot water or steam heating has been installed in the recently built home of Mr. and Mrs. David Park, 380 Green Bay street, Winnetka.

This is a ductless unit, designed to give warm air, humidified for health, and to distribute this air thruout the house.

This unit in the Park home resembles a recessed convector except that it requires a floor grille. Installation is made by a heating and piping contractor in practically the same manner and with the same materials as the recessed radiator or convector.

Hot Weather Use Also.

Of interest, too, is the fact that this same unit can be used to create a circulation of air in hot weather.

Its method of performance is not complicated. Two blower type fans draw the cold air along the floor into the floor grille and here air is cleaned by an efficient filter located below the floor grille and then drawn thru the humidifying chamber which is below the filter. Then the air passes over a finned heating element in the wall.

Few Units Needed.

Only one or two of these units are considered necessary for complete winter air conditioning in the average house when they are used as an accessory to radiators or convectors.

In this home there are two: one in living room on the first floor, and one in an upstairs bedroom. According to Mr. Park, these have maintained 35 to 40 per cent humidity in his home this winter.

WAUKEGAN HIGH R. O. T. C. MAKES STAFF CHANGES

New assignments to the headquarters staff recently were made in the R. O. T. C. unit of Waukegan Township High school. Commanding the regiment will be Lieut. Col. Leslie Millholin. Staff members are Maj. Roland McMinn, executive officer; Capt. Lucine Mutaw, adjutant; Capt. Berge Hoogasian, intelligence officer; Capt. John Karczewski, plans and training; Capt. Walter Taylor, supply officer.

Other officers are Capt. Donald Allbright, publicity; Second Lieutenant Eugene Pillifant, assistant adjutant; Second Lieutenant Kenneth Tompkins, assistant supply, and Second Lieutenant Sarkis Emersian, ordnance.

Commanding the first battalion of the unit is Maj. Ben Donaldson with First Lieutenant Wilfred Korpi as his adjutant. Company commanders of the first battalion are: Capt. Joseph Yuhase, company A; Capt. Jerry Katz, company B; Capt. Charles Fago, company C. Heading the second battalion is Capt. Steve Seveska with Second Lieutenant Eugene Bleck as adjutant. Company commanders are Capt. Ralph Richardson, company D; Capt. Matt Cankan, company E, and Second Lieutenant Bill Whitton, company F.

Name Staff Officers at Lane Tech

Managing the affairs of the city's largest high school R. O. T. C. unit is the job of these cadet staff officers chosen recently at Lane Technical High school. Left to right, the new staff officers are First Lieutenant Eugene Moriarty, publicity officer; Maj. Leonard Ellman, plans and training officer; Maj. Gregory Louis, 2d battalion commander; Lieut. Col. George Anderson, commanding officer; Maj. Roland Golz, 1st battalion commander; Maj. Oral Kozeny, executive officer, and Maj. Carvyn Ellman, 3d battalion commander.

JEWISH YOUTHS JOIN FOR PURIM FETE SATURDAY

North Side Girls Enter Queen Contest.

Purim, holiday commemorating the deliverance of the Jews of Persia from the hands of an ancient dictator, will be celebrated Saturday evening in the Grand ballroom of the Hamilton hotel, 18 South Dearborn street.

Brondel Kaganoff.

Students of the College of Jewish Studies, 220 South State street, will hold a carnival with the co-sponsorship of several other affiliated groups. The official Purim date this year falls on Thursday, March 13.

As part of the traditional program, those attending the festival will vote for a 1941 Queen Esther. Among the north side candidates are Shirley Clubman, 5061 Kenmore avenue, and Brundel Kaganoff, 757 Brompton place. North side members of the general festival committee are Hyman Lusher, 717 Wellington avenue, and Harold Novak, 5317 North Clark street.

The Junior league of Agudas Achim congregation, 5029 Kenmore avenue, will hold a business meeting this evening. William Glassberg is president.

"Jewish Community Organization" will be the topic of a talk Tuesday evening by Dr. Felix A. Levy, rabbi of Temple Emanuel, at the regular meeting of the temple's town hall program.

Temple Sholom's young married group will sponsor a barn dance this afternoon and evening at the River Road stables, River and Irving Park roads. At the same time the senior league will hold an indoor picnic in the temple community rooms, 3480 Lake Shore drive.

Will It Hurt Less?

Dr. Maurice I. Blair displays his new finger tip control drill invention which does away with the foot pedal. Note the dials with which the dentists can control drilling speed.

The streamlined automobile that can be operated without a foot clutch has nothing on Dr. Maurice Blair's new dental drill.

Dr. Blair, 2742 North Clark street, a dentist with an inventive mind, recently exhibited his new hand-shift, no-foot clutch, drill at the American Dental association convention at the Stevens hotel. He calls it Dr. Blair's Finger Tip Dental Engine Control.

He has cut down the operating control to button size and moved it from the floor to the handle of the little mirror that dentists use for the exploration of their patients' molars.

This Week in the Garden

Monday, March 3.

The earlier the lawn is given an application of plant food the better and this is a fine time to apply it. Use a complete, commercial food. Various standard combinations of the essential elements are manufactured by fertilizer companies. Simply follow directions.

If applied now while the ground is wet the chemicals will dissolve. It is unnecessary to wet down the lawn. If applied after it is well along it is essential that it have moisture immediately. Chemical fertilizers are available in many sources; they are comparatively cheap and easily applied.

Tuesday, March 4.

Soils that have been under cultivation for any length of time may require an application of lime. If the soil is acid, lime may be applied, ground limestone being the best to use.

To escertain whether the soil needs lime test it with litmus paper. Take a piece of the paper, moisten it, and insert it in a slit in the ground. If the paper turns pink or red the soil is acid and needs a bit of lime.

Wednesday, March 5.

Improve vegetable land by spreading a layer of well rotted manure over it and spading it under. Manure adds some plant food to the soil, but its chief value is aid in the liberation of elements thru chemical reactions. Clay soils are benefited by incorporating manure in them when they are spaded or plowed.

Fertile land is the result of applications of food, the plowing under of green crops, such as the legumes, and proper after care. The same holds true when flowers or lawns are maintained.

Thursday, March 6.

Add a few fruit trees in the garden. The best varieties of pears for this region are Clapp favorite, Seckel, and Bartlett. Peaches are not as hardy, but the Elberta and Late Crawford are standard varieties. Best varieties of sour cherries are Early Richmond and Montmorency. Buy fruit trees from reputable nurseries to obtain the varieties wanted.

Friday, March 7.

Start tuberous begonias by laying them in boxes or sand in a warm place. Pot when well started in growth. Give careful attention to seedlings or they may decline from crowding. Repot all that need it to prevent disease attacks. Prune all fall blooming shrubs.

Saturday, March 8.

Just as the frost leaves the ground is the best time to fertilize trees. Bore holes 12 to 18 inches deep in a ring around each tree and at the extreme end of the branches. The number of holes depends on the size of the trees, the rule being to bore 10 holes for each inch of diameter of the trunk and place half a pound of some good fertilizer in each hole. A 10-8-6 combination is a good mixture.

WHERE TO FIND LOCAL STATIONS AFTER MARCH 29

W-G-N to Stay at 720; Many Others Shift.

The impending reallocation of the frequencies [wave lengths] of broadcasting stations has already brought a number of inquiries for the new positions of the stations to be affected. The changes, if finally approved, will go into effect at 2 a. m. central time March 29.

All American broadcasting stations with frequencies higher than 720 at present would be assigned new frequencies somewhat higher than at present under terms of the North American regional broadcasting agreement, a pact between the United States, Canada, Mexico, and Cuba.

Under terms of the agreement the United States gives up several channels and the other countries make similar concessions with the expectation that interference between stations of two or more countries on the same bands may be eliminated.

The shifts will force listeners to get accustomed to finding many stations in new positions on the dial. Seven hundred and ninety-five of the 882 broadcasting stations will be assigned new positions. W-G-N, however, will occupy the same clear channel as now, 720 kilocycles.

A list of stations in the metropolitan area together with their present assignment and their frequencies under the reallocation follows:

	Old.	New.
W-G-N	720	720
WIND	560	560
WMAQ	670	670
WBBM	770	780
WLS-WENR	870	890
WAAF	920	950
WCFL	970	1000
WMBI, WCBD	1080	1110
WJJD	1130	1160
WJOB	1200	1230
WSBC, WCRW, WEDC	1210	1240
WMRO	1250	1280
WGES	1360	1390
WHIP	1480	1520

Stations with frequencies from 550 to 720, inclusive, will retain their positions; stations from 740 to 780 will move up 10 kilocycles [one channel]; stations from 790 to 870 will move up 20 kilocycles; stations from 880 to 1450 will move up 30 kilocycles; certain stations now in the 1460-1490 field will move to 1500-1530. Receivers with push buttons will need to have these controls adjusted.

COST OF DEFENSE TO BE TOPIC OF REVIEW STAND

The job of paying for national defense and how the cost will affect every citizen, will be discussed on the Northwestern University Reviewing Stand at 10 a. m. today over W-G-N and the Mutual network. Harry G. Guthmann, professor of finance; Lyndon O. Brown, professor of marketing and advertising and director of market research of a prominent advertising agency, together with Stewart Y. McMullen, professor of accounting and specialist in federal income taxes, will analyze the different means open to the government in financing the national defense program.

Great Dane to Be Topic of Becker Hour Today

The sterling qualities of the Great Dane will be described on Bob Becker's Chats About Dogs program to be broadcast by W-G-N at 1:45 p. m. today. Becker will interview F. W. Evanger, noted Great Dane breeder.

Bride-to-Be

Mary Paxton, conductor of the Wishing Well program on W-G-N, and Durward Kirby, NBC announcer, have announced their engagement. They met at WLW, Cincinnati. A fall wedding is planned.

Out on a Limb

Dorothy Deere, Chicago motion picture and drama critic, is one of four experts who get out on a limb weekly on the program "We Predict," on W-G-N from 6:30 to 7 p. m. Sundays. Others who forecast future events are Bob Elson, sports; Donald McGibney, national affairs; Irving Pflaum, foreign affairs.

BERT WHEELER WILL BE STARRED ON CHICAGO HOUR

Two New Groups to Be Featured.

Bert Wheeler of stage and movie fame will be featured on "In Chicago Tonight" at 7:30 p. m. next Thursday over W-G-N and the coast-to-coast Mutual network.

Bert Wheeler.

Working with Wheeler will be Hank Ladd, comedian and stooge. Both are appearing at the Chicago theater in Earl Carrol's "Vanities."

Continuing with the new policy of introducing talent not generally known to the radio audience, W-G-N will present two new groups for their network debut. The Tanner Sisters, a vocal trio featured in the Al Jolson show, "Hold On to Your Hats," which recently closed in New York, will be heard. Another new group is the Six Rocquettes, colored boys from Detroit. The boys came to Chicago for recording work and auditioned at W-G-N at the same time. They were immediately signed.

In Chicago Tonight, a regular Thursday evening program of W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system, is produced by William A. Bacher. Music is under the direction of Harold Stokes and Robert Trendler.

PROVISO HIGH IS NEXT ON CITIZEN'S SHOW ON W-G-N

Proviso Township High school of Maywood will be saluted on the Citizens of Tomorrow program at 4:30 p. m. Tuesday over W-G-N. The main audience studio of W-G-N will be filled by 600 boys and girls representing the 4,000 students of Proviso High.

E. R. Sifert, superintendent, will speak briefly, and the Proviso choir will sing three numbers. One of these, the school song, "Forward Proviso," written by Florence Galajikian, Maywood composer. Other numbers by the choir, under the direction of Robert Lee Osburn, will be Elgar's "As Torrents in Summer," and "O, Be Joyful All Ye Lands," by Gretchaninoff.

Philip Maxwell will be master of ceremonies. Mr. Maxwell will interview Ralph Meyer, student of Montefiore School for Boys, Chicago, who is studying to be an electrical engineer.

George Givot to Play on Show of the Week

George Givot, the comedian, will make a guest appearance on the Show of the Week over W-G-N and the Mutual network from 5:30 to 6 p. m. today. Setting up his mythical restaurant, "Acropolis No. 7," Givot will dispense informal discussion of the events of the day. Buddy Clark, Anne Barrett, and Music Master Vincent Lopez also will be heard.

'ODE TO CHICAGO' WILL HIGHLIGHT NEW W-G-N HOUR

Chicagoland Program to Start Saturday.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The new Chicagoland hour which will be presented for the first time from 9 to 10 p. m. next Saturday over W-G-N and the coast to coast Mutual network will recreate the "Ode to Chicago," which was aired for the first time last September to inaugurate the fall and winter season.

"Ode to Chicago" is a unique production suited particularly to the medium of radio. It employs drama, poetry, sound effects, and a stirring musical score, specially written for it by David Broekman, the noted Hollywood composer and conductor, to portray historic highlights of Chicago and to describe its character and spirit. It was conceived by William A. Bacher, and the script was written by Francis Coughlin and John D. Hess.

The new Chicagoland hour represents an expansion of the Chicagoland Concert hour series. But it will occupy the radio period that has been vacated by the Chicago Theater of the Air operettas, which concluded their long run last evening with a special broadcast of "I Pagliacci" at the Civic Opera house before an audience of more than 3,600.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, will continue the talks he has been giving on the Concert hour on the new Chicagoland hour. The Concert hour has been running for a half hour on Wednesday evenings.

Familiar music will be presented on the new program by Marion Claire, noted soprano, and the W-G-N Concert orchestra and chorus under the direction of Henry Weber.

The W-G-N Players will be featured in the "Ode to Chicago." Mr. Bacher will produce the show.

In addition to the dramatic presentation the W-G-N Concert orchestra will present Brahms' "Academic Festival," and Michael Wilkomirski will be featured in a violin solo of Glazounov's "Violin Concerto No. 1."

ROBERT BLAIR IS HEADLINER WITH STEELMAKERS

Proving the axiom of their theme song, "America the Beautiful," the Musical Steelmakers will fill the airlanes today with music of great tonal beauty. The Steelmakers, a group of gifted musicians, instrumentalists and vocalists, are heard each Sunday from 4 to 4:30 p. m. over W-G-N and the coast-to-coast Mutual network. Only employés, or members from a family of an employé of the Wheeling Steel company of West Virginia appear on the program.

Featured on the show today will be Robert Blair, 19 years old, whose brother works in the galvanizing department of the steel company's Steubenville, O., branch. Robert will be making his first appearance on the air. He will sing the romantic ballad, "Let's Dream This One Out."

Holding up their end of the program, the members of the orchestra under the direction of Tommy Whitley will play the patriotic "Hail, Columbia!" and a piece of musical mathematics, "One and Two and Three." Regina Colbert will express her carefree personality as she sings "Do I Worry?"

LISTENERS TO GET CHANCE TO PUT OWN IDEAS ON NETWORK

Radio listeners who have ideas of their own for new radio programs will have their inning each week during the broadcast of What's Your Idea?, new radio show to be heard for the first time at 5:30 p. m. today over WMAQ and NBC. The cast will include Ted Fio Rito and his orchestra, Little Jackie Heller, teno, and Nelson Olmstead, with guest stars. Simone Simon will be the first guest. Listeners will be invited to submit, in outline form, their ideas for new kinds of radio programs. Each week the three best ideas submitted will be developed into a script and produced in abridged form during the broadcast. A cash award of $100 will be paid for each idea used, with a bonus of $100 for the best idea of the week.

Jackie Heller.

AMERICAS SPEAK PROGRAM OPENS OVER MBS TODAY

Vice President Wallace on Rotary Hour.

Vice President Henry A. Wallace, speaking from Washington, will address a message of greetings to the Latin American audience during the première broadcast of Rotary and Mutual's "The Americas Speak."

The Rotary program, saluting Mexico, will be heard over W-G-N and a coast-to-coast Mutual network hookup at 2 p. m. today and will be carried to South America by the powerful short wave stations WGEO, Schenectady, N. Y., and WRUL, Boston, Mass.

Many stations of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation also will carry the program.

Miguel Aleman, Mexican minister of the interior, speaking from Mexico City, will respond to Vice President Wallace's greetings. Twenty minutes of the half hour program will originate from Mexico City.

Typical Mexican music will be featured, including the "Zacatecas March" by Genaro Codina and "La Paloma" by Yradier. The balance of the program is designed to convey a better understanding of Mexican life, customs, and geography to the American public.

"The Americas Speak" series calls for broadcasts to originate on successive Sundays from Havana, Cuba; Quito, Ecuador; Gautemala City, Guatemala; Rio de Janeiro, Brazil; Santiago, Chile; Bogota, Columbia; Caracas, Venezuela; Buenos Aires, Argentina; Montevideo, Uruguay, and Lima, Peru.

Lack of short wave facilities makes it impossible to arrange programs from the other countries of South America.

Local South American stations will pick up the short wave broadcasts and rebroadcast them by long wave. These international good will radio programs are expected to help cement the bonds of friendship and understanding between the Pan-American nations.

SHADOW SCRIPT WRITERS HAVE THEIR TROUBLES

Writing about a big man who isn't there poses all sorts of odd problems; as writers who try for the first time to turn out a "Shadow" script soon find out. The producers of "The Shadow," heard over W-G-N and Mutual from 4:30 to 5 p. m. on Sundays, consider scripts from free lance writers if they submit a plot outline in advance. Most prospective Shadow script writers forget that the Shadow is flesh and blood. They get tangled up because they mistakenly think that the Shadow's power of invisibility also makes him completely invulnerable.

If you're thinking about trying a Shadow script, you must keep these pertinent facts in mind: The Shadow makes a ripple when he swims, even tho you may not see him; electric-eye doors open for the Shadow, despite his invisibility, and watch dogs growl when he approaches.

In other words, The Shadow isn't Superman.

Critic's Mail Reveals Interest in Producing Theater

Readers Offer Creative Ideas on Proposition

By Cecil Smith.

Any Doubting Thomas who imagines that nobody in Chicago cares a hoot about the idea of establishing a permanent, professional producing theater here is invited to take a gander at my mail basket. Last month, in a single Sunday column, I put out a feeler to discover whether there was any public interest in such a project. There certainly was, and is. Constructive letters, destructive letters, optimistic prophecies, pessimistic cries at the wailing wall, offers of help, and rebukes for past omissions streamed in within a few days, and have not altogether stopped coming yet.

I am more than a little baffled when it comes to passing on the contents of these communications. Some correspondents seemed to assume that I had a theater of my own all ready to launch, and that my naive article was the first announcement of a fait accompli! Nothing, of course, could be farther from the truth. But it did seem interesting to see what creative ideas might be forthcoming, and to see whether civic thinking along theatrical lines might not be somewhat encouraged.

• • •

Today, then, for better or for worse, I am passing on to you a few of the observations and suggestions which have come in during the last four weeks. Space obviously does not permit extensive quotation, but there may be ideas here which will stimulate your imagination further. Since I have not asked permission to quote from any of these letters, I am omitting all signatures.

Let's begin with a bit of self-castigation:

"During the Christmas holiday season while here in Chicago, Eva Le Gallienne looked over the stage of the Civic theater, liked the plant very much, but after talking to several people was discouraged from trying to form a Chicago répertoire company. Now what is wrong? Doesn't Chicago have enough faith in its own ability to be a dramatic center when as you say we have one of the finest plants for grand opera and one of the finest symphony orchestras in our midst?"

• • •

Another correspondent sees the possibilities less darkly:

"The idea is not so impossible as some people seem to imagine. . . . Chicago, believe it or not, is in no special category of its own. It is merely somewhat bigger, somewhat noisier, somewhat more uncertain of its own artistic resources than are some other places in the country—shall we say New Orleans, Dallas, Cleveland, etc.? . . .

"What is needed is a small committee of influential citizens determined to give Chicago important, indigenous theater. This committee should then engage a competent executive director at a moderate fee to perform the following tasks:

"[1.] Cull out and recommend to the committee plays both new and old which would make a balanced season for Chicago playgoers:

"[2.] Survey the nonprofessional and semi-professional producing groups to see which are competent and desirous of coöperating in the testing plan.

"[3.] Organize a subscription season for the three or four plays finally selected."

[The "testing plan," to which the correspondent refers, would involve the use of nonprofessional and semi-professional groups to obtain audience reactions to new plays before the expense of professional production was incurred.]

• • •

Another letter proposes a somewhat similar procedure, but maintains that the controling group of a civic theater should be more inclusive and more democratically chosen:

"First of all an attempt should be made to see that all leading civic organizations are represented in the making of plans; that such a theater does not represent merely a small faction or clique, but is in reality Chicago's own theater. . . . Much could be learned from a study of the Cleveland playhouse, the most successful organization of its kind in the country."

With the exception of the author who suggests the "testing plan," nobody seems to have any clear ideas about the repertory which would be desirable in a community theater. One correspondent feels that "social plays" are the "first need." Another plumps his vote for what he himself characterizes as "rehashes of old favorites." Other more eclectic but more indefinite comments favor the production of "worthwhile plays."

A couple of highly realistic critics of the notion of local production point to high production costs as a deterrent to such an enterprise, and one contributor sends a clipping proving that Sam H. Harris' production of "George Washington Slept Here," a one-set play of rather more than average technical intricacy, cost $23,365.28 to get onto the stage, while the entire revolutionary war cost George Washington's army only $65,244. [He does not compare the value of the 1789 dollar with that of the 1941 dollar, which no doubt shows a serious lack of scholarship on his part.] There is a significant point here, to be sure, but the Chicago Symphony orchestra has to face constantly increasing production and personnel costs, too.

• • •

Perhaps this scissors-and-paste column leads nowhere, or perhaps it will encourage past and future correspondents to clarify their opinons further. Be that as it may, let's put an end to these quotations with a genuine and heartfelt letter written in the generous mood which will have to suffuse a large public if Chicago is to support its own theater:

"I, as an individual theater-goer, can offer very little in the way of financial support of such a project, if such were necessary. However, if there is any way possible for me to help in promulgating a civic theater, as to personal services, etc., do not hesitate to let me know. It would be a pleasure for me to donate my services to such a worthy enterprise. I am at present employed in the accounting department of a Chicago utility company."

May his tribe increase!

STUDENT PRINCE

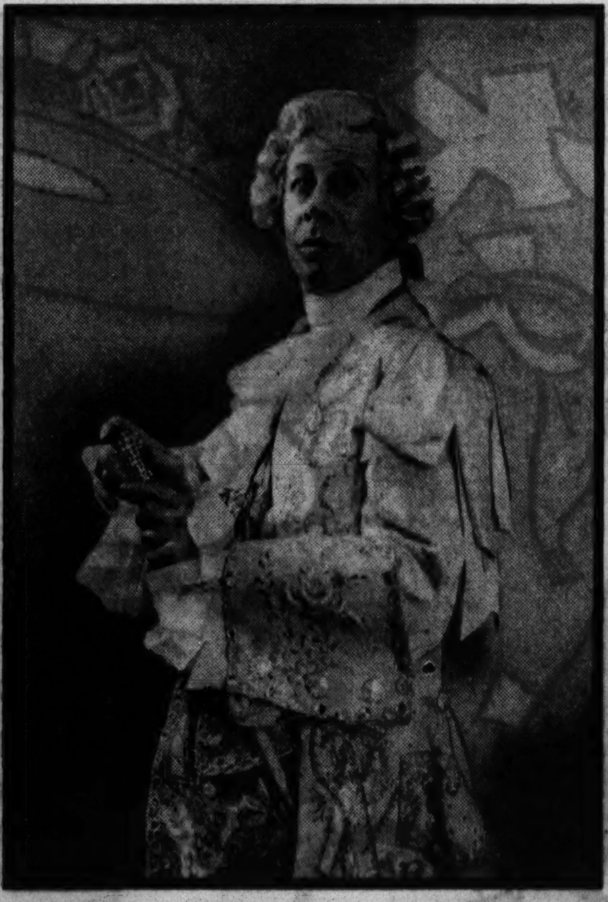
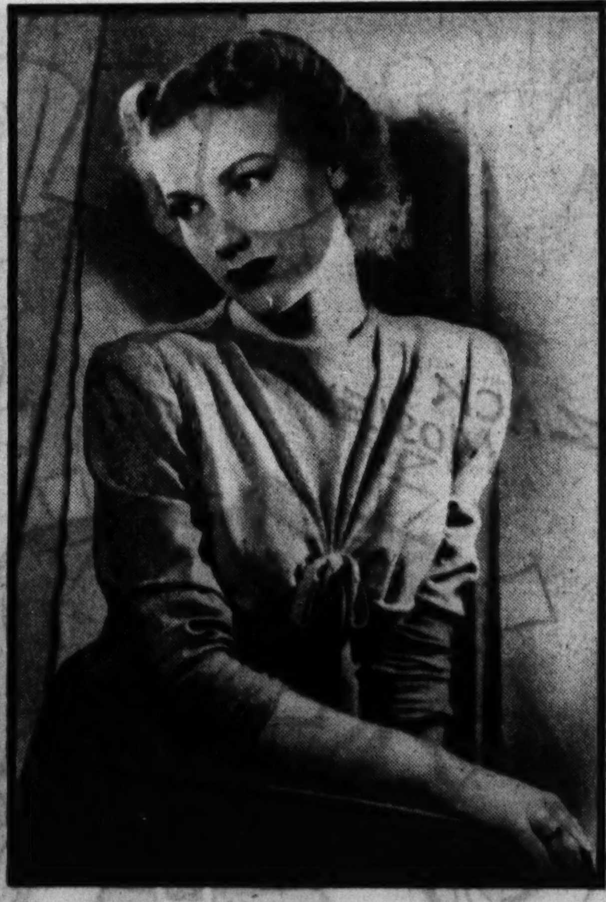
DU BARRY



Only one more week is left to see the comic antics of Bert Lahr in "Du Barry Was a Lady," which holds forth at the Erlanger theater. [Lucas and Monroe Photo.]

SISTER EILEEN



In "My Sister Eileen," the latest comedy success to reach Chicago, Marcy Wescott plays the title role. The show is housed by the Harris. [Talbot Photo.]

Memorial Albums of Hal Kemp Records

Both a nice gesture and a smart move is Columbia's and Victor's simultaneous decision to put on sale a Hal Kemp Memorial album. Eight of Hal's best recordings have been included in each.

Columbia features the famous "Gotta Date With an Angel," with John Scott Trotter at the piano and Skinnay Ennis singing. This particular choice number will be backed by "Dinner for One, Please, James," with another Ennis vocal. The other titles are "You're the Top," "Lullaby of Broadway," "I've Got You Under My Skin," "The Gentleman Obviously Doesn't Believe," "Where or When," and "There's a Small Hotel." Bob Allen and Maxine Grey do most of the vocals.

Victor beat Columbia to the music stands by a split second, and tops it in another way—by including a good biography of Hal. The selections, with the exception of "I Gotta Date" are all more recent Kemp recordings than Columbia's, but not all, therefore, necessarily better. They include "Love for Sale," "Remember Me," "Speak Your Heart," "Whispers in the Dark," "In Dutch with the Duchess," "Lamplight," and "Eighteenth Century Drawing Room."

Vaudeville

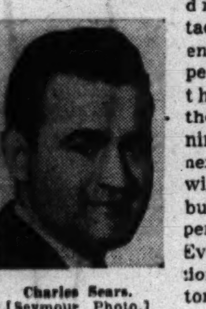
Drama Notes



Charles Sears. [Seymour Photo.]

Mark Love's production of Mendelssohn's "Elijah," staged as a dramatic spectacle, opened an engagement of 10 performances in the Auditorium theater last evening. Today and next Sunday there will be matinées, but no evening performances. Evening presentations will be given tomorrow thru Saturday, with an additional matinée Saturday. Mr. Love and Raymund Koch alternate in the title rôle. Other members of the cast are Naomi Cook, soprano; May Barron, contralto, and Charles Sears, tenor. A stage chorus of 100 is augmented at climactic points by a supplementary chorus in the orchestra pit. Edgar Nelson and Harry T. Carlson are alternating conductors, and Frank Bennett is the chorus master. The director is John Ross Reed.

Willie Shore, popular night club comic and master of ceremonies, will invade the legitimate theater as a leading player in "See My Lawyer," a farce by Richard Maibaum and Harry Clork. With some of the original New York cast intact, the farce will open an engagement at the Selwyn theater on Wednesday, March 19. Among those in the cast will be Robin Raymond Jack Sheehan, Mary Rolfe, and Nat Cantor.

Dante, the magician, and his show called "Sim-Sala-Bim" come to the Erlanger theater on Monday, March 17. The feminine star of the performance is Moi-Yo Miller, billed as "Australia's most beautiful woman." Dante, whose real name is Harry A. Jansen, was born in Denmark, but spent some of his early years right here in Chicago. He is correctly advertised as the successor to the late Howard Thurston in the realm of "illusion," for a photostated letter written by Thurston in 1930 contains the phrase "you now own the show completely"—an indication that Thurston had passed on his celebrated tricks and mysteries to Dante. There are 35 players in the company. The title, "Sim-Sala-Bim," comes out of a Danish folksong sung in the course of a children's game resembling what we call patty cake.

Two weeks from today, on Sunday, March 16, Maurice Evans will fly out from Washington, D. C., where he will have completed a week with Helen Hayes in "Twelfth Night," for the purpose of lecturing and reading at the Studebaker theater for the benefit of the British War Relief society. His title will be "Shakespeare in the News." After his lecture Mr. Evans will fly east to Baltimore, to continue in "Twelfth Night." The lecture-recital will not interrupt the regular schedule of "New Pins and Needles" at the Studebaker. "Twelfth Night," by the way, will reach Chicago on May 5.

Burton Holmes, the entertaining world traveler, presents his third illustrated lecture in Orchestra hall this week—on Wednesday and Friday evenings and Saturday afternoon. The subject is "The Republics of South America."

Celebrities of N. Y. Theater Stage Benefit

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special.]—In New York it was nearing 1 o'clock in the morning of Washington's birthday. In London it was nearing 7. In Radio City music hall there were 6,200 people seated and probably 200 standing. On the stage, Erno Rapee's 100 piece orchestra had just finished playing "The Star Spangled Banner" and "God Save the King." The huge audience had settled back in its seats when the grayhaired maestro, W. G. Schmus, who directs the music hall, announced that Gertrude Lawrence would take charge of the proceedings.

Gertrude Lawrence. [Lucas & Monroe Photo.]

Miss Lawrence had been sitting at the edge of a platform on the stage, which had been set as a sort of monster night club, with a semicircle of lighted tables at which the theatrical celebrities who were to take part in the program were seated. Miss Lawrence, simply but attractively gowned in white, I suspect the fashion editors would note, came forward and took her place at a table placed at the side of the proscenium circle on the audience's left.

There was a stand microphone on the table. With this aid Miss Lawrence's gentle, and always appealing, voice could be heard in the farther reaches of the cosmic corn crib that is the music hall, and also, it shortly became apparent, in London, England.

• • •

I don't know why this particular setup always seems a little incredible to me. I still find it hard to believe. And the simpler and more casual the setting, the more incredible it is. Within the next two or three minutes, just after Miss Lawrence had given the cue, "Come in, London!" there she sat, talking as animatedly and as comfortably with Charles B. Cochrane, Laurence Olivier, Vivien Leigh, and Sir George Wilkinson, lord mayor of London, as tho they were sitting in the drawing room of her suite in New York.

And there sat we, as comfortably, listening in. There may have been a bit of static occasionally. "The atmospherics are really rather poor," Miss Lawrence explained. But still we could hear perfectly. It was, happily, an entirely unrehearsed program. "Yes, darling"; "no, dearest"; "how are you, Larry, and how is everybody getting on?" "Yes, Cockie. I'm awfully glad to hear your voice." "And did you find everything quite terrible when you got back, Larry?" "Yes, Vivie. We'll wait!" This last to give Miss Leigh time to speak a personal word or two to her mother and young son, who are in the United States "for the duration."

For 15 minutes, perhaps longer, this two-way conversation went on, quite normally, quite calmly, save for the inner emotional stirrings of the participants and the listeners. One small group of people talking from an underground broadcasting station, listening, it may be, for the explosion of bombs above their heads. Another group, a huge crowd, in fact, listening, misty eyed, many of them, and hearing and marveling at the wonder of it thousands of miles away.

• • •

In this benefit ridden town it takes something pretty grand and unusual to excite attention. People will contribute of their funds and casually charge the outlay up to charity and the emergency, but the show that they are promised for their money is frequently tossed aside. Either they are too busy or the program does not attract them. But this particular benefit took hold of the imagination. It was sponsored by the American Theater Wing of the British War Relief society. The American Theater Wing takes in about all the actors and theater folk there are whose sympathies are with Britain.

• • •

Of course, the program was tops from every angle. The pick of the stars contributed what they were asked to, Miss Lawrence, Maurice Evans, Helen Hayes, Ethel Merman, Ethel Waters, Victor Moore, William Gaxton, Fred Allen [representing radio], Olsen and Johnson, the Demarcos, Joe Cook; all the town's best choral groups. Gracie Fields, a favorite English music hall singer, the like of whom we have not seen in years and years, and who has been doing benefit work for the British war relief committee in many parts of America, flew in from California to take part.

Horowitz Is Soloist with Chicago Symphony This Week

Sowerby's New Work Will Be Given Premiere

By Cecil Smith.

Things keep right on happening at Orchestra hall, as the 50th anniversary season of the Chicago Symphony orchestra continues into its 22d week. In the pair of concerts on Thursday evening and Friday afternoon Vladimir Horowitz, one of the most gifted pianists of our time, will play Brahms' B-flat Concerto for the first time in his Chicago career. On the same program Leo Sowerby's new Symphony in F-sharp Minor, dedicated to the orchestra in its jubilee year, will be played for the first time anywhere.

This winter Mr. Horowitz and his wife, Wanda Toscanini, have been residents of Chicago in between the pianist's public engagements. But even in the days when Mr. Horowitz's visits to Chicago were fleeting and infrequent he had already become one of the most popular artists of the present generation. His debut in 1928, when he played Rachmaninoff's Third Concerto, was one of the spectacular and electrifying musical events of that decade.

Vladimir Horowitz.

The current week's engagement is the great Russian pianist's fourteenth with the Chicago Symphony orchestra. Except during a five year period of ill health, his concert itinerary has included appearances with our orchestra every season since his debut. In this 13 year period he has constantly grown in musical stature and artistic outlook. To say that he has also grown in technical proficiency would probably be a falsehood, since his playing possessed almost unbelievable brilliance, accuracy, and dynamic rhythmic power from the very start of his American career.

• • •

No other Chicago composer except John Alden Carpenter has achieved and sustained such widespread fame as Leo Sowerby now enjoys. Born in Grand Rapids, Mich., 46 years ago, he came to Chicago to study music, and was graduated from the American Conservatory of Music. In 1917 his activity was interrupted by a period of service in the army, where he made himself useful as a bandmaster. After the war, in 1921, he became the first American composer to receive the newly established annual fellowship at the American academy in Rome. This fellowship enabled him to study in Italy for three years. Upon his return to Chicago in 1924 he was appointed organist and choirmaster of St. James' Episcopal church, a position he still holds with great distinction.

Mr. Sowerby's musical interests are wide. While he has never composed for the stage, he has made additions to the literature of almost every other category of vocal and instrumental music. As a church composer, his output has been both fertile and felicitous; from an early period of choral romanticism he has grown into a fine feeling for liturgical music.

His catalog of orchestral works is sizable. Twelve of these—from the early overture, "Comes Autumn Time" [1916] to the Concerto for Organ and Orchestra [1938] have been played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra. The new Symphony in F Sharp Minor is his third work in symphonic form.

• • •

Mr. Sowerby does not have much to say about his newest composition, and the same air of mystery surrounds it which has clouded our advance knowledge of all of the new works at Orchestra hall this year. Mr. Sowerby says he is "weary of reading the long dissertations and explanations provided by composers, which often turn out to be mere apologies."

The complete program for Thursday evening and Friday afternoon in Orchestra hall is as follows:

Chicago Symphony orchestra, Frederick Stock, conductor; Vladimir Horowitz, pianist.
"Brandenberg" Concerto No. 6, B-flat major .... Bach
Concerto No. 2, B-flat Major, for piano .... Brahms
Vladimir Horowitz.
Symphony, F-sharp Minor .... Sowerby
[First performance.]
Rumanian Rhapsody No. 2 .... Enesco

The Saturday evening popular concert in Orchestra hall presents the following program:

Chicago Symphony orchestra, Frederick Stock, conductor.
Overture "Polonia" .... Wagner
Symphony No. 4, F minor ...... Tschaikowsky
Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2 .... Liszt
Prelude to "The Afternoon of a Faun" .... Debussy
Waltz, "Tales from the Vienna Woods" .... Strauss

Izler Solomon returns to conduct the Illinois Symphony orchestra in Monday evening's Great Northern theater concert. Three works will be presented for the first time in Chicago—Béla Bartók's Rhapsody for piano and orchestra, with Rose Goldberg as soloist; a suite of orchestral excerpts from the opera "Garrick," by Albert Stoessel, and Kurt Atterberg's "Midsummer Dances." Miss Goldberg will also be heard in Mendelssohn's Rondo Brilliant, a composition seldom heard nowadays.

The detailed program follows:

Illinois Symphony orchestra, Izler Solomon, conductor; Rose Goldberg, pianist.
Old Dances and Airs for the Lute [First Suite] .... Respighi
Suite from the Opera "Garrick" ...... Stoessel
[First time in Chicago.]
Rondo Brilliant, E-flat major .... Mendelssohn
Rose Goldberg.
Rhapsody for piano and orchestra .... Bartók
[First time in Chicago.]
Rose Goldberg.
Midsummer Dances .... Atterberg
[First time in Chicago.]

IN BENEFIT RECITAL

Under the auspices of the Music guild Gladys Swarthout, American mezzo-soprano, will give a recital in Orchestra hall on Monday night for the benefit of the British Relief fund.

Current Music News

For the fifth event of its Musical Arts Piano series the Adult Education council is presenting Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin, duo-pianists, in Orchestra hall on Tuesday night. Like many other two piano teams they are husband and wife, having met as fellow students under Artur Schnabel in Berlin. They have appeared with all the major orchestras of this country and in recital in all the large cities till by reason of their popular and critical success they are now considered the outstanding pair in their field. Tuesday's program follows:

Vitya Vronsky.

Sonata, C Major, for two claviers and pedal .... Bach
Duettino Concertante .... Mozart
Variations on a Theme by Haydn.... Brahms
Three Songs .... Rachmaninoff
[Transcribed by Victor Babin.]
"Der Rosenkavalier" Waltz .... Strauss
[Transcribed by Victor Babin.]
Sonata .... Poulenc
Arabesque .... Lopatnikoff
Polka and Fugue, from "Schwandā" .... Weinberger
[Transcribed by Victor Babin.]

The Philharmonic string quartet will give a program of South and North American chamber music in the Arts club this evening. The ensemble, composed of members of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, includes John Weicher, Robert Quick, Walter Hancock, and Dudley Powers. As chairman of the club's music committee, Dr. Frederick Stock will be in charge of the program. This includes three items:

String Quartet No. 3 .... Villa-Lobos
[First performance in Chicago.]
Two pieces for string quartet..Aaron Copland
[First performance in Chicago.]
String Quartet No. 3 .... Quincy Porter

Two Chicago musicians, Helen Margolyne, soprano, and Herman Clebanoff, violinist, will give a joint recital in the Goodman theater on Friday evening. Miss Margolyne [Mrs. Clebanoff] has appeared regularly with the Chicago Opera company in the past few seasons, in Grant park concerts, with the Illinois Symphony orchestra, and with the Saidenberg Symphonietta in "La Serva Padrona." Mr. Clebanoff is known as the concertmaster of the Illinois Symphony, a post to which he succeeded after having had a similar position with the Civic orchestra. With the Illinois Symphony he has appeared some 12 times as soloist in major violin concertos. Marion Hall will serve as accompanist for both artists on Friday, and will collaborate with Mr. Clebanoff in Brahms' Sonata in A major, opus 100.

On Saturday night in the Goodman theater the Lawrence college choir will pay its annual visit to Chicago. Under the direction of Carl J. Waterman it will offer the following numbers:

Gloria in Excelsis .... Weelkes
Adoramus Te .... Rosselli
Christus Factus Est .... Anerio
Come, Jesu, Come .... Bach
Autumn .... Gretchaninoff
God Is with Us .... Kastalsky
O Lily Lady of Loveliness .... Besly
The Paper Reeds by the Brooks, from "The Peaceable Kingdom" .. Thompson
[First performance in Chicago.]
Pioneers, O Pioneers .... Harl McDonald
[First performance in Chicago.]
Chorus, from "The Bartered Bride" .... Smetana
John Henry .... Niles-Groff
Finnish Lullaby .... Palmgren
Walk Together Children .... Noble Cain
Ballad for Americans .... Earl Robinson

The choir will sing in the Rockefeller Memorial chapel next Sunday afternoon at 4:30.

Helen Bickerton, soprano, and Leopold Foederl, violinist, will give a faculty recital for the Sherwood Music school in Curtiss hall today. Mr. Foederl will play Mozart's Fourth concerto in D major and will be joined by Lasse Pohjola for a performance of Bach's Concerto for two violins. Miss Bickerton's numbers include Schubert's "Der Hirt auf dem Felsen" for soprano and clarinet.

Three prominent Chicago musicians have joined the advisory committee which is planning the three Sunday evening concerts to be played in the Goodman theater by the local National Youth administration Symphony orchestra. They are Rudolph Ganz, president of the Chicago Musical college; Hans Lange, associate conductor of the Chicago Symphony orchestra, and Albert Goldberg, state supervisor of the Illinois Music project. The N. Y. A. orchestra includes some 50 players, conducted by Irwin Fischer. The opening program will be given next Sunday night, when Lois Bichl, cellist, will be the soloist.

Jan Kiepura, one of the most popular of contemporary tenors, will give a recital in the Civic Opera house this afternoon, presented by the Polish Women's Alliance of America for the benefit of the Paderewski Food Fund. The Polish opera and motion picture star has already appeared in numerous events for the sake of his beleaguered homeland and this benefit will take the place of his annual Chicago spring recital. His program will include a generous selection of favorite tenor arias from "Aïda," "The Pearl Fishers," "Manon," "Martha," "Tosca," and "La Bohème." In addition there will be four songs by Polish composers, the first performance of a vocal transcription of Chopin's D-flat major prelude and some light Italian numbers. Otto Herz will be the accompanist.

A second benefit will be held on Monday night in Orchestra hall, a concert by the American mezzo-soprano, Gladys Swarthout. Under the auspices of the Chicago Music guild she will sing to aid war stricken noncombatants in England. Like Mr. Kiepura, Miss Swarthout has become familiar in three entertainment media—opera, concert, and motion pictures—and needs no introduction to the public. Her accompanist, Lester Hodges, will contribute two numbers to tomorrow's program, of which the singer's portion follows:

"Spring," from "Otho" .... Handel
"Come Again, Sweet Love" .... Dowland
Dido's Lament, from "Dido and Aeneas" .... Purcell
"Hist, hist," from "Maid of the Mill" .... Dr. Arnold
"Che faro senza Euridice," from "Orfeo ed Euridice" .... Gluck
Three Songs of the Auvergne..J. Canteloube
"El Majo Discreto" .... Granados
"Romance de Solita" .... Pittalugo
"Command" .... Charles Kingsford
"Prayer" .... John Alden Carpenter
"The Ragpicker" .... John Sacco
"Into the Night" .... Clara Edwards
"The Pasture" .... Charles Naginski

Ralph Pierce, young American pianist, will make his Chicago debut this afternoon with a recital in Kimball hall. A protégé of Ethel Leginska, he has appeared with her symphony orchestra and has given several recitals on the west coast. Mr. Pierce's program lists two sonatas by Scarlatti, Beethoven's Sonata, Op. 7, Schumann's Fantasie, the Wagner-Liszt "Liebestod," and the second Liszt Polonaise in E major.

Ralph Pierce.

Richard Pick, who follows in the footsteps of Andres Segovia and Vicente Gomez as a concert guitarist, will be heard in recital tonight at 8:15 o'clock in the Reynolds club lounge, 57th street and University avenue, the University of Chicago. His program is devoted to music by Bach, Mozart, modern Spanish composers, and himself. There will be no admission charge.

In the Fine Arts building, room 825, on Wednesday evening at 8:15, Hadley Abernathy will give a piano recital, for which are scheduled numbers by Brahms, Schubert, Beethoven, Chopin, Bartok, Rubinstein, Poulenc, and Balakireff.

Organ Music

Seven organ compositions by distinguished Americans have just been published by the H. W. Gray Company, Inc., in its contemporary organ series, edited by William Strickland. They include: Toccata, by Leo Sowerby; Chorale No. 1, by Roger Sessions; Chromatic Study on the Name of Bach, by Walter Piston; Dirge [a passacaglia], by Douglas Moore; Eclog, by Bernard Wagenaar; Prelude, by Frederick Jacobi, and Episode, by Aaron Copland.

Is 'Fantasia' New Art Form? —Yes and No

By Edward Barry.

Any one who wants to write or talk about Walt Disney's and Leopold Stokowski's "Fantasia" is discredited before he starts unless he makes it plain that no part of his assessment is to be based on hidebound esthetic ideas. This is especially true if it is suspected that he is going to mix a little censure with his praise.

Let it be stated here, then, that the writer of this article has not the faintest objection to the idea of a new art being created by the fusion of two [or for that matter half a dozen] of the old ones, and that worries about the sacredness of the classics would never disturb him for a minute. As to the first point, new arts have been created by the fusion of old ones [opera, ballet, etc.] and there is no reason why the same thing cannot happen again. As to the second point, the classics exist for man and not man for the classics, and any treatment of them is justified which will strengthen their significance, increase their power to delight and refresh, and extend their influence to additional millions of people.

• • •

In regard to the claim that "Fantasia" represents a new art form, one is entitled to ask first whether it is new, second whether it has any significance and any power to delight and to refresh. In the case of some of the picture's best episodes the answer would be "no" to the first question and "yes" to the second.

In "The Sorcerer's Apprentice," for instance, Disney has taken the story underlying the music and made it into a delightful spectacle. Dancers and pantomimists, of course, have done the same thing countless times before, but Disney has done it exceedingly well and on a scale much larger than has ever been possible on the stage. He has done it so well that the spectacle strengthens the expressive power of the music and the music that of the spectacle. The elements fuse and make a single and very strong impression.

The Sorcerer's Apprentice

With only slight modifications to take care of the slight differences in the problems presented, the above statements should hold true in regard to some of the episodes in the "Nutcracker" suite as well. And possibly they could be extended to "A Night on Bald Mountain," too, altho other considerations [to be discussed later] enter here.

• • •

To get right to the heart of the matter, it is the setting of Beethoven's Sixth Symphony which seems least successful. Here again one may deny that the art represented is new [think of Massine's symphonic ballets, "Choreartium" and "Seventh Symphony"], altho this whole question is of little practical importance. The important thing is that Disney's screen pictures, plus Beethoven's music, do not make an intelligible whole. The two arts do not fuse. Far from strengthening each other, they actually mitigate each other's effects. One finds oneself ready to swoon with ecstasy at the splendor of the music, but the caperings of baby unicorns and flying horses on the screen act as a powerful restorant. Conversely, it is impossible to enjoy whatever humor the flitting figures on the screen may possess when one's whole psyche is being torn apart by the fearful eloquence of the music.

Bacchus.

Here, it would seem, Disney simply made a mistake. He did not grasp the content of the Sixth Symphony, and in an effort to express this content, or, at any rate, to strengthen it or to create something congruent with it, he provided a screen drama altogether irrelevant and, therefore, distracting. The whole effect of this episode of "Fantasia" suggests that a cue has been missed, as if in the old silent picture days a preoccupied organist had chosen "Too Much Mustard" for a great Pickfordian scene of renunciation.

It would seem that Disney made another mistake in the case of Bach's Toccata and Fugue in D Minor, a piece of out and out "absolute" music, with no story, no title, no conceptual content whatever. He elected to express its "absoluteness," not realizing that this is a negative quality and, therefore, inexpressible.

• • •

Certainly "Fantasia" is full of imagination, and imagination is the artist's first requisite. Yet if what he is to create is to be coherent and significant and possessed of a genuine power to refresh and delight, imagination must not be allowed to run riot. And this is what Disney's imagination did—not only in the case of the symphony and the toccata and fugue, but in that of "A Night on Bald Mountain" and the "Dance of the Hours," as well. The former becomes a small boy's dream of the perfect Halloween instead of an aid to Moussorgsky. The latter is mostly slapstick comedy without any discernible relation to the music. Disney's imagination seems to have been at its best in the case of "The Sorcerer's Apprentice" and the "Nutcracker" suite. Here there are countless pat details and a general air of richness and authenticity.

Strangely, imagination seems to have dropped dead in the face of Schubert's "Ave Maria." The result is a facile and superficial religious spectacle full of what passes for mysticism among most show people. Notice that there is not a word in this article about "The Rite of Spring." If Strawinsky himself is satisfied to have prehistoric monsters gnawing away at one another as an interpretation of, or at least an accompaniment to, his music, then it is not meet that a mere commentator should raise any objection.

• • •

Some general observations on "Fantasia."

Musically the film is superb. The great Philadelphia orchestra plays with its familiar richness of tone, and the sound engineers have succeeded miraculously well in recording and reproducing this richness. For the most part Conductor Stokowski preserves the same standards that he would in the concert hall. In fact, the only important exception to this is the "Ave Maria," which has been Hollywooded out of all resemblance to the original and is apparently the expression of some important person's belief that the simple presentation of a good idea is more terrible than death.

There seems to be some danger that "Fantasia," because of the number of respected musical names connected with it, may give support to the idea that musical experience has something to do with visual images and that one may pierce thru to the meaning of a piece if only one is lucky enough to be provided with the proper pictures. True, these beliefs are not explicit in "Fantasia," but it may be that the film will preach them by implication and suggestion. Therefore, one is justified in crying out again the truth that music is a nonrepresentational art and that it deals with intuitions and emotions and psychic states. Probably one might call up all the estheticians from Plato to Theodore Meyer Greene to support this point, but it will be better to put the question squarely up to the reader. Let him recall a few of his more recent musical experiences, whether with "Annie Laurie" or some elaborate symphony or choral work, and decide for himself whether the exaltation or delight or mere pleasure he derived from the performance had anything to do with visual images or the lack of them.

Recordings

The following are among the more important of the recordings which have been released during the last few months and which have not yet been noted in this column:

Fantastic Variations, "Don Quixote," by Richard Strauss. The Philadelphia orchestra, Eugene Ormandy, conductor. Solo cellist, Emanuel Feuermann. Solo violists, Alexander Hilsberg and Samuel Lifshey. Victor.

"The Rite of Spring," by Igor Stravinsky. The New York Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra, Igor Stravinsky conducting. Columbia.

A second Lily Pons album. Lily Pons, soprano, assisted by Giuseppe De Luca, baritone. The Victor Symphony orchestra, Wilfred Pelletier conducting. Arias from Mozart's "The Elopement from the Seraglio," Thomas' "Mignon," and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Le Coq d'Or." Duets from Verdi's "Rigoletto" and Rossini's "The Barber of Seville." Also Bishop's "Pretty Mocking Bird." Victor.

Concerto in D Minor for Violin and Orchestra by J. S. Bach. Joseph Szigeti, violinist. Orchestra of the New Friends of Music, Fritz Stiedry conducting. Columbia.

Overture to "Tannhäuser" and Venusberg Music, by Richard Wagner. Orchestra conducted by Albert Coates. Victor Black Seal.

Prelude, Choral, and Fugue, by Cesar Franck. Egon Petri, pianist. Columbia.

Bolero, by Maurice Ravel. All-American Youth orchestra, Leopold Stokowski conductor. Columbia.

"The Heart of the Symphony." Excerpts from Beethoven's Fifth symphony, Schubert's "Unfinished," Tschaikowsky's Fourth and Fifth, Dvorak's "From the New World," Brahms' First, the Franck symphony, and Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Scheherazade." The Victor Symphony orchestra, Charles O'Connell conducting. Victor Black Seal.

Fantasy on British Sea Songs, arranged and orchestrated by Sir Henry Wood. The London Symphony orchestra, Sir Henry Wood conducting. Columbia Green Label.

Music Dictionary

A supplementary volume for that classic of musical reference works, Grove's Dictionary of Music and Musicians, has recently been issued by the MacMillan company. It chronicles events which have taken place in the 13 years since the third edition of Grove was published, it amplifies the articles in that edition in cases where new information has come to light, and it contains many new entries on subjects such as radio which have become musically important during the last few years. Also, of course, there are new entries to care for the composers and performers who have come of age musically since the Dictionary's last edition. The new volume is uniform in size and apperance with the set proper.

By Mae Tinee.

Good Morning!

Spring's a-comin'! And it's never long on the way, once we get the corner turned on February.

The little old shorty among months had a number of right good movies to its credit.

• • •

"This Thing Called Love" was thought by deponent to be "quite the most amusing farce comedy to hit the town in a month of Sundays. . . ." Featured players—Rosalind Russell and Melvyn Douglas.

"Back Street," starring Margaret Sullavan and Charles Boyer in the rôles formerly played by Irene Dunne and John Boles, found "keen and pitiful screen interpretation . . . haunting sort of thing . . . a great sales talk for wedding rings. . . ."

"High Sierra"—"Tho definitely typed, this is an engrossing picture . . . new racketeer melodrama . . . highly eventful, sharply dialoged and directed, alive with excellent acting. . . ." Featured players, Humphrey Bogart and Ida Lupino.

"Virginia"—"Colorful technically and as to personalities . . . directed skilfully. . . . Characters spicily portrayed. . . . Madeleine Carroll and Fred MacMurray make a fine team. . . . Little Carolyn Lee scores every time she opens her mouth or bats an eye. . . ."

• • •

"Fantasia"—Walt Disney-Leopold Stokowski brainstorm union. . . . Great music buried in orgy of color and sound. . . .

"Land of Liberty"—Documentary film composed of cuttings from 112 historical movies . . . cavalcade of United States history. . . . Astonishing the amount of ground covered by our screen productions. . . . The constant introduction of loved and familiar faces in scenes from pictures enjoyed—and perhaps almost forgotten—provides "Land of Liberty" with very special tang. . . . Don't miss picture when it comes your way. . . . Edited by Cecil B. de Mille.

And now to march along with March.

See you tomorrow.

Famed Pageant Will Be Held in Sarasota This Week

Colorful Fete Dates Back to Birth of City

By Marian Hobson.

There will be no sane and sensible going about one's private affairs this week at Sarasota.

SARASOTA, FLA.

We're set for pageanteering and a pageanteering we'll go. Even if it is that famed period of the year known as the "height of the season." riod of the year known as the "height of the season."

The reason for the coming week's frolic is an event we call the "Pageant of Sara De Sota," and the various things that go to make it up cause otherwise quiet persons to fiesta for as long as six days, in Spanish costumes and out of them, depending on the mood, age, and modes followed in separate social groups. Technically speaking there's not too much Spanish keynoting the affair, but a little thing like a lessening of the central theme hasn't hurt any of the fun in other years and something tells me it won't this year.

• • •

The celebration dates back to 1903, the year Sarasota was incorporated, and the same year that George Chapline came to the city to spend his second honeymoon. He liked the bay hereabouts, even as we do these days, and wrote a story about it that he lifted from a tale told by a St. Augustine governess to her little charges, who happened to be the Whitakers, Sarasota's first family. Result, the legend of Sara De Sota [Hernando's legendary daughter]. The story remained a pretty story, beautifully explaining how Sarasota got its name, until 1916, and then some one put on the first pageant.

In anticipation of the coming week we've been entertaining a crowd that has been jamming Main street as it's never been jammed before. And among the crowds have come many who form the current coterie of notables. At dinner in the Spanish fountain room of the John Ringling hotel we noticed a number of them, among them being Peter Arno of New York, Frank Buck of "Bring 'em Back Alive" renown, John L. Lewis [who stayed overnight to get a haircut in the morning and then headed south], John Drake of New York, Mrs. Kenneth Hoyt of Havana, owner of Toto, famed female gorilla, and Mrs. John P. Pelley, former Chicagoan who now lives in Washington.

• • •

Osa Johnson, in Florida in a dual rôle—honeymooning with her new husband, Clark Getts, and to receive an honorary doctor of science degree from Rollins—stopped over in Sarasota several days this week to visit old friends, the Bruce Clarks. They used to live in Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Getts are on their way to Hobe Point, where they will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Beeman G. Dawes of Chicago.

Mrs. Mueller Brownback of Whitfield estates, formerly of Decatur, Ill., has announced the marriage on Feb. 21 of her daughter, Mary Jane, to Dr. Harold Driscoll Cain of Herring, N. Y. Mrs. Cain was given in marriage by her brother, Joseph Brownback of Decatur. After a wedding trip to Havana and Panama the Cains will live in White Plains, N. Y. A native of Decatur, Mrs. Cain graduated from Gulfport college at Gulfport, Miss., and later attended Cornell university, receiving her bachelor of science degree at Washington university at St. Louis. She traveled with her mother in Europe and Honolulu for two years before the outbreak of the war. Dr. Cain is a graduate of Cornell.

Tell Marriage of Miss Rosaline Bernstein

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Bernstein announce the marriage of their daughter, Rosaline, to Isaac F. Morrison. The wedding took place on Feb. 16 in the home of the bride's parents in Evanston. The couple is motoring thru the southwest on a wedding trip, with Los Angeles as their destination.

Patterns by Clotilde

We frequently mention that we don't agree with stylists who relegate the house dress to the "no glamor" wardrobe division. Our sympathies go to the housewives who must wear house frocks almost constantly in their busy lives, and who want to look attractive while supervising their tasks. For them we've made special efforts to contrive pretty home dresses. Today we offer three new patterns to make them.

No. 3002, a heart shaped neckline, rickrack braid and buttons all conspiring to achieve an effect of smartness. Printed cottons make up especially well.

No. 3480 gives a trim plaited model, in light on dark print, a contrasting lingerie collar with points. Long sleeves make the dress suitable for wear on the street.

No, 3001 trims the contrasting collar and the pocket flaps and pretty sleeves with ready made ruffling or lace. The center panel is slenderizing and the lines are simple. Printed and plain materials make up equally well.

Style No. 3002 is designed for size 16 and for 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, and 50 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material, with 2 yards of rickrack.

Style No. 3480 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of contrasting.

Style No. 3001 is designed for sizes 14 and 16, and 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44 inch bust measurements. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material, with ⅝ yard of contrasting.

Each pattern costs ten cents.

For 15 cents buy the spring Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions, on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to New York address in coupon.

March 2, 1941.

Universal day—A very nervous day. Stick to routine and keep your mind on the smaller issues, but don't worry.

March—For those in a two year, the month of March is a five month. This would be an excellent time to take a little trip, a vacation, or to put forth some new ideas. You can have a good dose of spring fever with good effect for that five gives you the liberty to express yourself in original ways. You can forget the routine of last month and have some fun, too. Entertainment ought to bring you inspiration and you might even find a little romance! Of all the group you have the liveliest month so make the most of it. Don't lose sight of the fact, however, that you are in a two year and that the sky is not the limit this year for you and that patience and coöperation are your keywords. It is a good year for marriage, however.

Fashions as I See Them

By Judith Cass.

The roses that bloom in the spring, tra la! are blooming early and with vigor and imagination on spring hats. Perhaps the feminine guests at a France Forever meeting at the Drake last Monday had in mind the rich pinks and reds of the Camellia house when they donned their chapeaux for the party. In any case there were dozens of bonnets there that might have been chosen for just that background, effecting a harmonious appearance that those who are going there tomorrow for a second France Forever party might try to reproduce.

Mrs. John Carey Murphy's rose trimmed hat was one of the loveliest. Big, full-blown blossoms partially concealed her forehead, held on by a tiny crown. Directly behind Mrs. Murphy sat Mrs. George W. Traver in a completely different type of hat, but especially suitable to the décor. It was a sailor type of white with a black grill-work pattern over all. Two large roses were pinned at the front just over the narrow brim, and the whole confection was swathed in an airy veil of black.

Mrs. George W. Traver. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

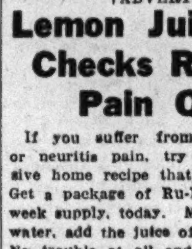
The roses that added chic to Mrs. Norton V. Smith Jr.'s tiny hat were in an American Beauty shade, but the tiny, stylized one tucked in the fore part of Miss Mary Laughlin's mink trimmed hat was of yellow to harmonize with the fur and her costume of brown and yellow. Miss Laughlin, who presided at the tea, tied a brown veil over her face and hat.

Part of the pleasure of hearing Miss Marcy Westcott sing a group of French songs at the same party was in seeing her. Miss Westcott, flanked with the tricolor of France and American flags, was wearing a long sleeved, long skirted gown in a typically French combination of sophistication and simplicity. It was of fine black lace over pale pink chiffon, rather low in the neckline and perfectly plain, cut on princess lines. A single bracelet of diamonds flashed as Miss Westcott trilled a chanson of Debussy's, wistfully caroled about "If My Verses Had Wings," and completely won her audience with "Si Petite."

The wearing of roses is evident in sunny southern playgrounds, too. Our roving correspondent in Florida has sent back word of a hat Mrs. Warren Wright was wearing at the races at Hialeah park. It was a tiny white hat, with five cabbage roses blooming across her forehead. Mrs. Wright was wearing a smart white suit, so it would seem that these fetching flowers go just as well with the dark clothes that are being worn here in town as they do with more summery things.

Another stunning racetrack outfit described by our correspondent was worn by diminutive Lily Pons. It consisted of a dress of beige and a large brown hat and brown jacket, not much darker in color than her skin, for the singer has acquired a becoming and very deep tan since she went south. There were military insignia on the sleeve of the jacket as there were on the costumes of many other smartly garbed women at the track that day.

Quick changes were routine for Mrs. Harlan Hackbert on the night of the Country Club of Evanston's annual floor show, for she had an important part in the gay production. With almost professional speed she changed from a hula dancer's costume to the brief skirts of a cigaret vendor, but her most attractive ensemble was the evening gown in which she joined her party after the show. Two-inch-wide horizontal bands of wintergreen and white taffeta alternated in the bodice and fanned out into vertical panels in the skirt. To each side of her head, where "little girl" bows usually are tied, she pinned a fresh white gardenia frilled with green satin ribbon.



Mrs. Harlan Hackbert. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Edward M. Tourtelot Jr., who sang a "good-night duet" in the same show, chose a gown which was appropriate both for that act and for the dance which followed it. Her dinner dress, so simple and yet so effective, was cut skilfully of black crêpe with a deep yoke of white extending into cap sleeves. The bodice was feather-stitched and sprayed in gold threads.

In place of a "lapel gadget" Mrs. H. Hoyt Thompson often pins a smooth gold hand with a ruby-ringed finger to her fur coat, right over her heart. A brown fur wrap and the little gold hand were effective accessories at a recent dance for her turquoise uncut velvet gown.

Blonde Mrs. William L. Taylor Jr., who tans easily, looks equally well in white in winter or summer. One of her favorite evening gowns has a draped torso of tiers of chalky crêpe, each heavily edged in white fringe.

Lady of the House

"The Stormy March Is Come at Last."

March is here! Named after the fierce war god; he wages war with winter on the side of spring. I like him—that wild, stormy, moody month with the courage to express himself in rushing, whirling blasts, or balmy breezes; in changing skies, frowning darkly or smiling frankly. Gray days, or blue, as go the fortunes of the fray.

March sweeps things clean and makes all outdoors ready for sweet April. In his milder moods I like to open wide the doors and windows and let him help me sweep out the dry dust of winter.

His tree is the pungent, stubborn juniper. His stone, the bloodstone, red badge of courage. And his motto, according to an old saying: "Courage and strength in times of danger."

"Ah, passing few are they who speak,
Wild, stormy month, in praise of thee;
Yet tho thy winds are loud and bleak,
Thou art a welcome month to me."

For I know "thou art kindhearted, spite of ugly looks and threats; and, out of sight, art nursing April's violets."

Lent.

Tho the word was applied to springtime and other seasons in some countries of continental Europe, in general it refers to the annual season of fasting in preparation for Easter. Beginning with Ash Wednesday, it formerly lasted for only 36 days and for other variable periods, but back in the 4th or 5th century it was fixed at 40 days, to make the period equal the 40 days' fast of the Savior. This was later adopted generally. Sundays—and sometimes Saturdays—were not counted as being of Lent, because Sundays were all feast days.

In the Eastern Church Lent, often called Great Lent to distinguish it from other periods of fasting to which the name is applied, begins on the Monday after Quinquagesima [the Sunday next before Lent, or Shrove Sunday]. The word also was applied to other particular seasons of fasting, especially during the middle ages, the Lent of St. Martin, before Christmas; the Lent of St. John, before St. John's day [June 24], and several lesser fasts.

"Are you the lady of this house?" asked the young lad with the basket on his arm. "Here's some nice popcorn. We grow it ourselves. It's good. Won't you buy some? It sure pops." I did. It didn't.

"Any old buttons?" asked the next bell ringer, a stoutish woman with one of those big paper shopping bags. "I'm looking for old china and glass, too. Got some?"

"Not for sale," I said as I thought of my few precious bits. The big Royal Doulton plates with the Battle of the Nile and the Battle of Trafalgar pictured on them. A little Sevres piece from Edna Ferber's mother's store. The blue Ivanhoes. The Zwiebel.

"How much you want for the 'treen'," pointing to a precious brown on ivory Cyprus tureen. "Give you $1.50 for that dish," pointing again to a large round milk glass piece with lace edge, but by that time I began to edge her away from the cupboard and out the door, really surprised to find myself still in possession.

A gray day! Low-hung gray clouds pushed across a gray sky by a wet gray wind. I step over dark gray puddles and wade blackish pools as I go on my errand. Gray shadows scurry thru the fog that hangs about the rain-swept, gray old trees of the park. Even my thoughts are gray and getting grayer with each jab in my arthritic arm. Then I learn of the one-armed woman of our town who came home from the hospital with a new baby just before her four other children came down with scarlet fever. I am ashamed of my own gray thoughts, and they take on a definite rosy hue.

Trying to estimate the kill by "gunless hunters" — automobiles, cats, and dogs—conservationists now accuse cats of averaging as many as 50 birds a year each. With the further charge that our state alone harbors more than a million cats, they roll up quite an impressive total against the felines. Figure it out. You will need a pencil. M. M.

Blouse for Spring Suits

By Jean Macdonald.

Choosing a soft, hand knitted blouse for the long torso spring suits is a problem for every fashion conscious woman, unless she can knit a good looking number such as the one illustrated. Touching the hip bone, this sweater has a band of moss stitch around the bottom and up the front, the body of the blouse done in a stockinette stitch. It may be worn with a belt at the waistline, of ribbon or yarn, and the knitted bows furnish just the necessary touch of chic.

For instructions in knitting the sweater, No. X-216, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Mass. Hairdressers Are Known as Cosmetologists

Hairdressers no longer are hairdressers, they are cosmetologists, according to a resolution adopted at a meeting of the Massachusetts State Hairdressers' association. The new name comes from the Greek, meaning "well ordered."

Spare a Child the Sorrow of Jealousy Hurt

By Gladys Huntington Bevans.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co. Inc.]

We can't hold ourselves responsible for all that our children are, or for all that they become, but there are some aspects of character that we help to create, or not; some emotional habits that, by example and training, or lack of both, we are responsible for our children experiencing. Outstanding among the emotions which we can spare them, or arouse in them, is the destructive one of jealousy.

Jealousy. Hasn't the word an ugly sound? And isn't the emotion itself as ugly? If you've ever experienced it yourself, you know how unworthy you've felt even while in its throes. You know how it can hurt if it happens to be jealously that involves some one you love. And you certainly must have looked on at the devastation it has created in the lives of others. Can you think of one good thing to say in its favor?

• • •

Anger, for instance, may be righteous anger and achieve justice. Scorn, contempt, sorrow, fear, grief, all may have some profit or virtue hidden in their depths, something that even may be constructive in the end.

Jealousy is not a natural emotion in a child.

But for jealousy, nothing can be said. It probably is one of the most vicious, destructive emotions of which man is capable. It brings no good to the person toward whom it is directed, nor to the person who feels it. Indeed, the one who experienced jealousy can eventually be destroyed by it. It is a begrudging emotion. Never does it bring happiness to any one.

Yet, we see people actually creating it in their children. I have, and I'm sure you have. Of course, they don't realize what they are doing, or they would never do it. What misery ignorance, "If I'd only known," has caused in the world!

• • •

I have a theory that's been growing with my observations of children and it's this: That jealousy is not one of the natural emotions of childhood, that it is, rather, a worked up feeling, created by grownups or by other misguided children.

Then, of course, we have innumerable cases of the hidden jealousies that are borne of one sister or brother being really favored for some reason, for brilliance or talent or beauty, or some other quality that appeals to the father or mother.

Insensitiveness, selfishness, or mere thoughtlessness on the parents' part may cause this kind of suffering in the other children, but altho those may be the reasons, they are not in the least an excuse for the deep hurt of jealousy in a young heart.

The pangs of jealousy are not enviable ones. We don't want to wish them on our children. Let us be careful that we don't start them, because the green eyed monster of metaphor can become a monster in fact.

Announce Betrothal of Miss Evelyn Lindeman

Mr. and Mrs. James K. Lindeman of the Troy Lane hotel announce the engagement of their daughter, Evelyn Dorothy, to Louis Leo Bird, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bird of South Morgan street. Miss Lindeman attended Northwestern university, and her fiancé is studying at John Marshall Law school. The wedding is planned for March 30.

Now's the Time to Plan Your Color Schemes

By Claire Winslow.

This is a good month to make your plans for spring redecorating. If you're bothered about color schemes and don't know just where to start in working out one for the living room or bedroom, or for any room for that matter, you'll find several Tribune booklets helpful.

One, "Color Magic for Your Rooms," tells you just how to go about the business of blending tones, and it's not a bit hard once you learn the rules. This booklet will be mailed to you by the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street, or Trobune Tower lobby, for five cents.

Another, "Color Schemes for the Living Room," offers six different detailed schemes, including harmonizing hues for rugs, draperies, walls, and upholsteries. It may be ordered in the same way and at the same price. A third booklet, "Beautiful Bedrooms," suggests ways of decorating the maple, the colonial, and the modern bedroom. It is three cents and is sent, also, by the Tribune Public Service offices.

• • •

As we said recently, wallpaper can work miracles in rejuvenating a room. In light, clear colors it makes even the darkest interior seem 100 per cent brighter, and in cool, deeper hues it tones down the too bright room or the room with a too high ceiling.

Also, remember that wallpaper is ideal for older houses where the plaster is beginning to crack. It covers many a minor defect.

If you're moving this spring and find the decorating budget too small to re-paper all the rooms, you can do over one or two simply by covering the present paper with cold water paint. We saw an old New England farm house that had been delightfully freshened in this way. Ugly old wallpaper had been successfully hidden by light green cold water paint. And the fine old white woodwork and cornices stood out as they had not when flamboyant Victorian roses covered the walls and held the attention.

• • •

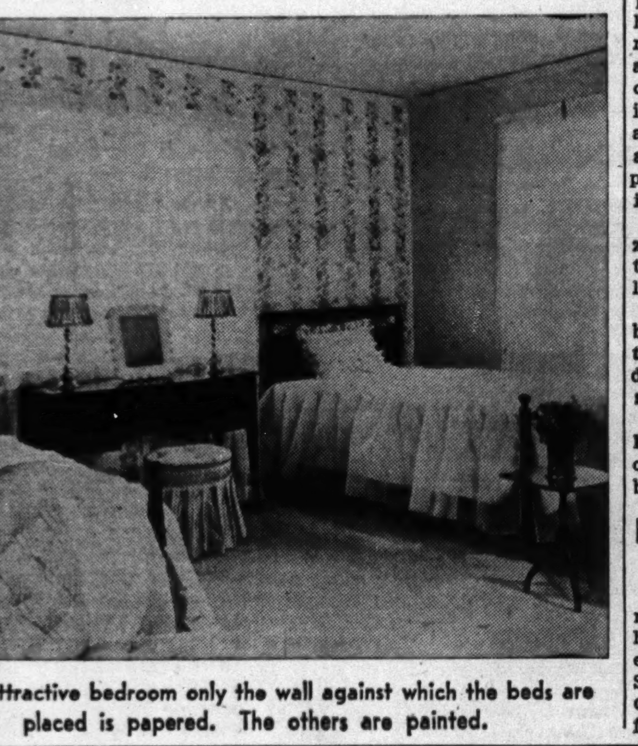
Suppose you are planning to paint the walls in your bedroom or dining room, yet want something a little new and different as a finishing touch. You will find there are charming wallpaper borders made especially for such plain walls and that you may also use them as a frame for windows or doors. If a large mirror hangs over the fireplace or the sideboard you can achieve an interesting effect by applying the border to the wall in a frame. Of course, the mirror should be hung flat against the wall in this case.

And in painting a room, as in papering it, it's not necessary to have all four walls alike. Variety results if you paint the two end walls a contrasting color, or a lighter shade of the tone used on the others. Or, if the room has a slight recess or alcove, that can either be painted in a contrasting color or it can be papered, even tho the rest of the room is not papered.

Because so many women are puzzled about colors we offer once more the following list of tones for both light and dark rooms:

For bright, sunnny rooms: Gray, blue, beige, green, turquoise, and all the grayed tones of hues listed for dark rooms or ones of north exposure, such as grayed rose, grayed peach, etc.

For dark rooms or ones of north light: Yellow, chartreuse, pink, rose, coral, peach, pinky-beige, off-white, bisque.



In this attractive bedroom only the wall against which the beds are placed is papered. The others are painted.

Soft, deep waves arranged close to the head mark the trend of the new coiffures that will be shown at the annual midwest beauty trade show which opens tomorrow. Here is a formal interpretation of the mode, created by a member of the style committee of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association. There's an elegant sweep to the waved "wings" that rise high from the temples and cling close to the head, matched by the deep wave in the pompadour. In the back, the sleek crown follows the contour of the head, ending in a soft cluster of curls at the nape of the neck.

Auxiliary of Zion Nursery to Have Testimonial Event

Harry G. Shaffer, executive chairman of the Daughters of Zion Infant Home and Day nursery, will be the special guest at a testimonial dinner to be given for him by the Sonia-Jane auxiliary this evening in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel. Dr. Preston Bradley, Rabbi Charles E. Shulman, and Oscar W. Rosenthal, chairman of the Illinois state housing board, will be the speakers, William Saltiel, will be toastmaster, and there will be a varied program of entertainment by stage and radio stars.

P. E. O., chapter A, Illinois, will elect officers and delegates to the forthcoming state convention at a business meeting tomorrow morning at the Palmer House. Mrs. W. A. Callen, a member of P. E. O. for 51 years, has headed the chapter for the last two years.

The Chicago Club for Crippled Children, which recently elected Mrs. Herbert Kant president, will hold a tea and Ma Jhong party tomorrow at the Palmer House. This club maintains a brace shop in the Alfred C. Meyer Memorial wing of the Michael Reese hospital, and provides technical and surgical services as well as as orthopedic appliances.

These Services Offer a Variety of Good Ideas

Visitors in Chicago usually plan to return with gifts for those that stayed behind. Small children are especially important to remember, and those tiny tots who still chortle over toys are easy to please with anything from the huge collections of exciting new items in the toy departments. Small girls, the future shoppers, are more exacting, but the costume accessory collections will offer plenty of finds for the critical young miss aged 10 to 14. In this superb assortment will be found bags, gloves, jewelry, hats, blouses, jackets, sweater twins, lingerie, and rainy day apparel, all pieces faithfully copied in style, color, and contrast from the grownup models beloved by big sister and mother.

Such a department or service has been, and is, sensationally successful. All the newest ideas, the whims, or passing fancies of the very youngest set of future fashionists are included in one section, and that section easy to find, for it's on the ground floor. Making a last minute schedule and a train is easy. You select your loot and have it wrapped in exciting gift wrappings with speed and neatness in no time at all.

• • •

Many times the fashion success of a costume depends upon gloves. Often you have a difficult shade that is especially flattering, and gloves of the just-right blend or contrast cannot be found. The answer to that problem is to have them made. There are several sources of such a service. Gloves are dyed to match exactly; then made to fit the hand. Experts with many years of experience will take a swatch of material and, in a short time, have the gloves to match. Short or long, with cuffs, with or without decorative detail, virtually anything you may desire may be supplied if you will wait for the designers to meet your individual requirements.

Small children important to remember for gifts.

The same sort of problem also is prevalent as to slippers and sandals for evening or afternoon wear, and, while many of the smart shoe shops gladly and painstakingly dye shoes any color of gown, there is an especially good service for this stunt, not attached to a shoe shop. All kinds of dye jobs are, and have been, achieved in this small establishment.

• • •

These experts not only clean and repair all manner of footgear, but their dying service is perfection. Sandals, the most intricate models, return smoothly matched to swatches of material. Decorative clasps or buckles are changed, replaced, or firmly attached. Bows may be ordered and attached, cut steel buckles made to gleam with the original luster, linings are "rejuvenated" or replaced, heels are straightened or recovered, and the finished results defy an expert to tell whether they are a grand repair job or brand new slippers. But it's the dye service that has made the shop famous. Bring in the most unusual colors and you'll be amazed at the clever copy work and the smooth, even texture of the finished dye work.

Have you a difficult figure, a silhouette, or streamline that doesn't slide into the usual 14, 16, 18, and so on? There's brand new service for this sort of difficulty. It's called a typo-analysis collection of new spring clothes. Priced moderately, every model included is crisp spring and 1941. The secret is in the seams. Sleeve, waistline, and skirt seams are a good two inches extra.

In this collection of typo-analysis dresses you find seams in the sleeves that will take care of large forearms, the kind of arms which pianists and orchestra conductors develop, for instance. If you've acquired extra inches around the midriff or along the hips, these large seams are easily let out to allow for that gain. All the newest models are featured in small prints, in combinations of print and plain, and in lovely spring pastels. It's a perfect collection!

For information about these services, write to Miss Seeger in care of The Tribune, or call her at Superior 0200.

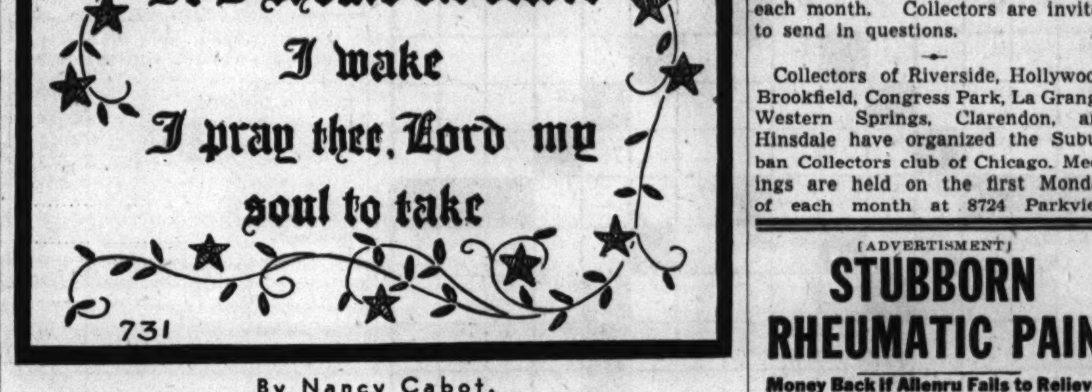
"Evening Prayer" Transfer



By Nancy Cabot.

One of the most beautiful of all the embroidery samplers is the "Evening Prayer," especially when it is embroidered and framed to serve as a companion piece to the "Morning Prayer." The finished sampler measures 9 by 12 inches, and the hot iron transfer pattern includes detailed instructions for execution of stitches.

For the hot iron transfer of the "Evening Prayer," No. 731, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

The Stamp Collector

By Richard McP. Cabeen

Mr. Cabeen will answer questions about stamps, except concerning value. Do not ask where stamps may be sold, as the Stamps and Coins advertising section adjoining contains offers to buy and sell. Inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope for reply.

These samples of new Danish overprints are shown thru the kindness of James W. Nyboe of Chicago. Danish internal rates have been increased from 4 ore to 6 ore for printed matter, from 15 ore to 20 ore for letters, and the rates to the United States from 7 ore to 8 ore for printed matter, from 30 to 40 ore for letters, and from 20 ore to 25 ore for postal cards.

The spectacular nature of the airpost and the abundant publicity which accompanies each new venture in that field have directed the attention of many collectors to airmail stamps. Such a collection dates back only about 20 years and of course includes only a limited number of stamps. This appeals to the man who must limit his collection for there is a possibility of obtaining all but a few rare items.

Postal authorities have not been slow to recognize this trend in collecting and have set about to supply the collectors' wants. In a few cases airmail stamps have been provided where there is no airmail service.

Many collectors believe the United States issues all of the necessary types of airmail stamps. These are the regular airpost stamps and those for airmail special delivery. This latter variety seems to go hand in hand with the speed expected of the airmail post. These collectors see no necessity for airmail registration stamps, nor for semipostal airmail stamps, tax stamps and officials, etc. Airmail official stamps are especially irksome for while they are supplied gratis to departments and officials to frank official mail, they soon find their way into dealers' hands in unused condition and collectors must pay a fancy premium for them.

On the whole airmail stamps are better looking than the general run of stamps used for ordinary mail. The subjects of designs, if not airplanes, are usually such as would be associated with flight and altogether they have been commendable. They are generally larger than ordinary stamps to call attention to the service desired and thus are more suitable for the pictorial designs.

The amount of interest which airmail stamps command is perhaps best gauged by the fact that there are two American catalogs devoted exclusively to these issues. These are the handbooks published by Scott and Sanabria. Neither in the general field nor in the specialized United States field has it been necessary in recent years to publish competing catalogs. Neither handbook is concerned with covers except in isolated instances, for that is a field so extensive it would require a corps of specialists to list and price the various items.

While most airmail collectors of single stamps prefer unused copies, there are many who demand used stamps and it is safe to say it is more difficult to complete a collection of the latter kind. Various albums are available for this specialty, both in loose leaf and bound form, and supplementary pages are furnished annually to bring the loose leaf editions up to date.

In a recent address on the radio program "Calling All Stamp Collectors," James M. Mead, United States senator from New York, stressed the benefits of stamp collecting, especially in times such as those thru which we are now passing.

In part, Senator Mead said: "This hobby will lift you out of yourself, give zest and interest to living; and when you have reached the traditional three score and ten, philately will make each day a busy one. You will then find that your stamps have become a part of you, an heirloom which you may bequeath to those who are to carry on after you have gone. Your children and your children's children will enjoy your stamps, for they never go out of style, they never lose their value, they never fail to interest young and old alike. Some may like the pictures on their stamps; some may be interested only in the country of origin; some may care only for the depiction of special events; others may peer closely for discrepancies, hoping always to come across a find. But to all, regardless of age, education, occupation, stamp collecting offers an unfailing diversion, one that will attract you more as you go into it."

So little time elapsed between the granting of approval to the Pan American Airways system for a southern trans-Atlantic route and the actual inauguration of service that it was impossible to establish the customary philatelic services for individual collectors. However, the importance of this event was recognized by the company and 50,000 covers were carried on the first east bound flight to be serviced at various points on the west bound flight. Point to point servicing includes covers from New York to Bolama, in Portuguese Guinea; from Horta to Bolama; from Lisbon to Bolama, to Trinidad, to San Juan, Puerto Rico, and to New York; and from Bolama to Trinidad, to San Juan and to New York, a total of nine, each with distinctive cachets.

As soon as the covers are returned to New York, Pan American Airways will notify all previous recipients of trans-Atlantic covers. Others should ask to be placed on the mailing list. Covers will be sold at actual postage plus a small service charge. Address Pan American Airways, Philatelic dept., Chrysler building, New York.

STUBBORN RHEUMATIC PAIN

Money Back if Allenru Fails to Relieve

Thousands take ALLENRU for the pains of rheumatism, neuritis, lumbago or rheumatic backache when irritated by excess uric acid or other circulating poisons. Such acid and poisons should soon start to leave your body and the terrible agony is often relieved—no opiates.

Ask any live druggist in America for an 8 ounce bottle of ALLENRU—a liquid—costs but 85 cents—must help you or money back—save this notice.

Bridge Expert Dodges Tough Question

By Ely Culbertson

About 18,567 times a year [or perhaps it only seems that many] I am asked the question: "Which, generally speaking, are better bridge players, men or women?"

To date, I have been magnificently successful in failing to commit myself. Of course, when the question is put by a man, without ladies present, I may [unknowingly] convey the impression that the male intellect is supreme; or, under reversed conditions, lay a certain amount of stress on the invincibility of feminine intuition. This, however, is only innocent maneuvering on my part; no one has yet been able to get a categorical answer out of me.

Not all bridge writers are so noncommittal. Travis White, for example, brazenly fifth-columns his own sex with the following frank obeisance to feminine skill:

"The innate cleverness of women in deceiving men appeared in the following deal, in a psychological play beautiful in its classic simplicity:

NORTH.
♠ Q 9 8 6
♥ 3
♦ Q 7 6 4 3
♣ 9 5 2

WEST.
♠ 7 5 3
♥ K J 7 6
♦ J 9 8
♣ Q J 10

EAST.
♠ 4

♣ A K 8 3

SOUTH.

♣ 7 6 4

"South was playing the hand at four spades. The queen of clubs was opened and three tricks taken in that suit, leaving East in the lead. He led the deuce of hearts, which South of course took with the ace. South's problem was to avoid losing a diamond trick, an obvious impossibility unless the adversaries could be hoodwinked into making an error. Dummy could be put in the lead and a low diamond led toward the lone king, but nothing would be gained, because no matter which adversary held the ace, he would play it at once, since it would be the setting trick. South, however, had a plan for deceiving East, in case he should be the adversary who held the ace. She trumped a heart in dummy and led the queen of diamonds!

"East thought, superficially, there might be a bare possibility that his partner had the lone king, so he played low. He figured that if South held the king the ace could just as well be made later, because dummy afforded no discards. The psychology of the play was simple: East had never seen, heard of, or dreamed of anybody leading a guarded queen up to a lone king and thus spending two honors on the same trick, so the possibility did not enter his head.

"It was a woman who played the next hand too—in fact, a very young woman of the type commonly supposed never to know what suit is the trump or what aces have been played.

The four hands were:

NORTH.
♠ A K Q 6
♥ A K 6 4

♣ K 8 6 5 4

SOUTH.

"South dealt and of course passed. West bid a no trump [and a darned weak one it was!]. North doubled, East passed, South bid two hearts, and North, rightly, I think, felt strong enough to say three even with South's original pass and minimum response. South, however, tho appreciating the compliment, was unable to take the bidding any higher.

"East and West took in four tricks in the minor suits and South, to make her bid, was now obliged to avoid the loss of a trump trick. West was marked with the queen and jack of hearts, which would have made it easy, except for the fact that South had only one entry, the jack of spades, and if West should put up an honor on the first round of hearts South could not regain the lead to come thru again. South observed that her five of trumps would beat anything East and West had except the two honors, so she led the five, hoping West would not cover it. West, never suspecting that anybody would finesse a five spot, played the trey, and South calmly reached over into the dummy and put on the four. East could not beat it, and the onlookers were treated to the remarkable spectacle of a five spot winning the first round.

"And yet some men fatuously think they have a chance!

"Sometimes a little psychology can be successfully used on the opening lead, as it was in the following hand:

NORTH.
♠ 4 2
♥ A 7 5 4
♦ A Q 5 3 2
♣ J 6

WEST.
♠ A 9 7 5 3
♥ 9 8 3 2
♦ K 9
♣ 5 3

EAST.
♠ Q J 10 6
♥ J 10
♦ J 8 7 6
♣ 8 7 4

SOUTH.
♠ K 8
♥ K Q 6
♦ 10 4
♣ A K Q 10 9 2

"North dealt and bid a diamond, East passed, and South bid three clubs. West passed and North bid three diamonds. South rebid the clubs and North raised him to five.

"South's insistence on the club suit was of course good bidding. North cannot make three no trump because East will open the queen of spades. As it happened, if South had bid three no trump instead of three clubs he would have made six against a spade opening, and four or five against any opening whatever, but I would not myself have bid that way.

"South, then, was playing the deal at five clubs and West had the opening lead. With the diamonds bid on his left, West saw exactly one trick in his hand and no more. To save the game East would have to take two tricks, and East had passed the opening bid of one diamond. The situation was desperate, and West decided to try to make two tricks himself by leading the nine of diamonds.

"South could not afford to take the finesse. The king appeared to be marked with East, and if the spades were led thru, two tricks in that suit would be lost if the ace was wrong. Of course if East held the ace of spades the game would still be safe, but there was no hurry about taking that chance. Dummy's fourth heart might afford a discard for a diamond before East could get in, and then the ace of spades could do no damage wherever it was. If the hearts did not break, a spade could then be led from dummy in the hope that East had the ace.

"South therefore refused the diamond finessee, took out the trumps, and tried for the hearts. When that suit refused to break, dummy led a spade, but that wouldn't work either, and the bid was set one trick.

"The nine of diamonds was the sole and only card in West's entire hand which he could open successfully. With any other opening whatever, South would have been forced to try the diamond finesse when the hearts refused to split. When West showed up with the king of diamonds, South gasped; after the hand was over he said accusingly, 'I have been informed that there's a convention that the lead of a nine spot is always the top of nothing.'

"'Sure,' said West, 'if you're leading right. I just led wrong.'"

Bridge Problem.

There are no trumps and South leads. North and South are to win six tricks against any defense.

Solution—South leads the ace, jack, and eight of spades, East refusing to win any of them. North discards the seven of clubs and deuce of diamonds; West the four of diamonds.

South then leads the six of clubs. If West discards another diamond, South leads the heart six, which West ducks and North lets the six hold. South then leads the diamond. West wins but loses a heart trick.

If West discards one diamond and one heart, South leads the six of diamonds instead of the heart.

Ernest Heminguay's NEW NOVEL "For Whom the Bell Tolls"

A BOOK-OF-THE-MONTH CLUB SELECTION... A BOOK NO THOUGHTFUL READER WILL CARE TO MISS

—OR YOU CAN BEGIN WITH ANY ONE OF THESE OTHER SELECTIONS

William Saroyan's new book, "MY NAME IS ARAM," is a delightful puckish picture of a small boy which, we have a hunch, may go the way of Clarence Day's "Life with Father."

Willa Cather's new novel, "SAPPHIRA AND THE SLAVE GIRL," is her first book in five years. The scene is pre-Civil War Virginia; "indubitably as good a decade hence as today."

Franz Werfel's new novel, "EMBEZZLED HEAVEN," was the Club's December book, a magnificent character study of a lowly woman that leaves one comforted and inspired.

Jan Struther, with "MRS. MINIVER," is a new author to Americans — instantly and widely introduced, as so many authors have been in the past, when her book was chosen. See text below.

Van Wyck Brooks' "NEW ENGLAND: INDIAN SUMMER" is, in the opinion of many, even more absorbing than "The Flowering of New England." It was our judges' choice last year.

FEW people realize that writers who now have become as famous as Pearl Buck, Clarence Day, Stephen Vincent Benét, Sigrid Undset, Hervey Allen, John Steinbeck, J. B. Priestley—and a score of others little less known—were first introduced to a nation-wide book-reading public by having one of their books selected, and then distributed to every tiny corner of the country, by the Book-of-the-Month Club.

Fully a million perspicacious book-readers—in the families which use the Book-of-the-Month Club service—now rely upon it to keep themselves from missing the new books they are really interested in. The few mentioned above are an indication of the quality of the books they receive.

Time and again you buy the "book-of-the-month"—not knowing it has previously been chosen by our judges—merely because some discerning friend has said warmly: "There's a book you must not miss." How sensible to get these books from the Club, since you pay no more for the books you buy, and save enormously in other ways.

Here is the simple procedure: You are not obliged, as a subscriber, to take the book-of-the-month its judges choose. Nor are you obliged to buy one book every month.

You receive a carefully written report about the book-of-the-month chosen by our judges, in advance of its publication. If it is a book you really want, you let it come to you. If not, you merely sign and mail a slip, saying, "Don't want it."

Scores of other careful recommendations are made to help you choose among all new books with discrimination. If you want to buy one of these from the Club, you merely ask for it.

In addition, there is a great money-saving. More often than not—as the writers and books mentioned above demonstrate—our judges' choices are books you find yourself buying anyway. For every two books-of-the-month you buy you receive, free, one of our book-dividends.

This can be done because so many of the Club's subscribers ordinarily want the book-of-the-month that an enormous edition can be printed. The saving on this quantity-production enables the Club to buy the right to print other fine library volumes. These are then manufactured and distributed free among the Club's subscribers—one for every two books-of-the-month you buy.

During 1940 close to $5,000,000 worth of free books (figured at retail value) were given to the Club's members—given, not sold! You pay no yearly sum to belong to the Book-of-the-Month Club. You pay nothing, except for the books you buy—and you pay for these no more than the regular retail price (frequently less) plus 10c for postage and other mailing charges. Your only obligation is to buy four books-of-the-month a year from the Club.

Please enroll me as a member. It is understood that I am to receive a free copy of THE READERS DIGEST READER, that I am also to receive, without expense, your monthly magazine which reports about current books, and that for every two books-of-the-month I purchase from the Club, I am to receive the current book-dividend then being distributed. For my part, I agree to purchase at least four books-of-the-month a year from the Club.

THE TIGHT ROPE

By ELIZABETH JORDAN

(Copyright: 1941: By Elizabeth Jordan.)

IT was the "Old Man" himself who persuaded Anne Costello to remain with the Mackay Publishing company when she married John Cary, head of its manufacturing department. The "Old Man" was Joseph Mackay, president of the company, and Anne Costello had been his private secretary for the last seven years.

She was 25 now, as she had begun very young; and during those seven years Joseph Mackay, a genius in his own field and an inspired judge of men and women, had moulded her into what he called his first assistant.

He had excellent material to work with. Anne was unusually clever and extremely ambitious. She had soon realized that her high school education alone did not fit her to climb the dizzy heights she had in view, so she supplemented her education by a lot of reading and a home college course, taken under the direction of the woman principal of her high school, who continued to feel an interest in her.

Anne gave everything in her to the Mackay Publishing company during her working hours, and read and studied during her evenings and holidays. In a few years she had become, in the words of the Old Man, "not only amazingly efficient, but indispensable." He added with a smug satisfaction: "I've made her over into my own image and likeness. She can run the business now when I'm away for a few weeks."

This was quite true. Anne had not only a full knowledge of the achievements and problems of the company, but she made "on the inside," as it were, and almost unconsciously, a thoro study of the psychology of the Old Man. She understood his mental processes. As she grew older and wiser and steadier, she knew many of them in advance, almost, indeed, before he did.

"You'll have my job before you get thru, if I don't look out," he told her one day after she had been with him six years. He was not a man of expansive moments, but he had one now. "And I'll tell you the secret of your success," he went on, settling back in his big swivel chair and shaking a swollen knuckled forefinger at her. "It's because this business is your life. You don't think of anything else. I can understand that because it's my life, too. It always has been and will be. That's natural. It's my business and my business is my world. It's a world I've built myself and I can't imagine living in any other.

"I've never married because I was too busy to fall in love and be bothered by a family. Well, what has it all got me? A lot of money I don't enjoy spending, and a case of spinal arthritis that's beginning to be a nuisance. Perhaps you think I enjoy trotting off to Hot Springs twice a year and soaking in hot water internally and externally, while you run my business. I needn't have let this arthritis develop if I'd had sense enough to listen to old Doc Chandler's first warnings and take a rest and have some fun. Now I don't know how to take any rest or have any fun. I'm in a vise, and it's closing around me like the Iron Virgin and crushing my bones out of shape."

Fancies Himself as a Master of Words

He was so pleased by this flight of fancy that he stopped to grin at her while he let it sink in. The Old Man had his vanities and fancied himself as a master of words. He had already lost three good advertising men by overediting their copy. Satisfied now that Anne was impressed, he relaxed and went on.

"What I'm getting at is that this sort of thing is all right for me. I can give my days to business and my nights to arthritis if I want to. It's different with you. You're too young to settle down as a robot. You ought to go to some dances, take some joy rides, and have a few love affairs. If you don't"—the swollen forefinger wagged at her again—"you're going to live to be sorry for it, as I am."

Anne smiled demurely.

"I may not be as much of a robot as you think I am," she told him. The smile gave the Old Man something to think about, but it didn't really put him on the right track. So he was both angry and resentful six months later when Anne gave him two shocks at the same moment—her resignation, and the announcement of her immediate marriage to the head of his manufacturing department.

"But what are you resigning for?" the Old Man yelped when he was able to speak. "Marry the fellow, of course, if you want to—tho why you should want to——" He checked himself, conscious of a certain lack of tact in this comment. Then rather sulkily, for he now felt abused, he went on.

"I'm not criticizing Cary, you understand. He's one of the best—faithful, hard-working, methodical, loyal, dependable. I appreciate him—always have. But—well, I've got to be frank about this—compared with you he's a tallow dip to a thousand watt bulb. I've never heard him speak except to make a report in the fewest words he can find. I don't believe he has any more imagination than a duck. If you marry him you'll have to be the grey mare of the team and drag him with you, or he'll stay in the same furrows all his life. I've never heard him talk to any one. Does he talk to you?"

"Of course he does," Anne said coldly. The Old Man was interested.

"What about? Anything but business?" he demanded. He added thoughtfully, "I have an imagination myself, so I can force it up to the heights of hearing Cary tell you we're going to put out a huge new edition of The Spender—which of course you knew about before he did."

As this was precisely what Cary had told her the previous evening, just as they were parting, Anne flushed.

"I don't think you're taking this very kindly," she said, still more coldly. "It means a lot to me."

The Old Man was immediately remorseful.

"You knocked me out in the first round," he reminded her, "by that fool resignation. We'll settle that matter right now. By all means marry Cary if you think well of the new idea. But why you should have to upset my life and knock the bottom out of the business by leaving us in the lurch I don't see. Let's hear no more about that. I'll give you enough extra salary to pay a good cook. I had a raise in mind for you, anyway."

"I have old-fashioned ideas," Anne said primly, ignoring the financial issue. "And judging by what I've seen of men, I've decided it takes all a woman's time to look after one of them."

The Old Man shook his head.

"Not a woman like you," he predicted. "You can take it in your stride. Cary will be in this building from precisely nine every morning till almost six at night. He's usually about the last of the force to leave. I suppose that you've noticed that he's rather slow," he inserted casually. "Feed him well before he leaves and when he gets home, and let him put in the evenings describing the incidents of his department that day, and he'll be a perfectly happy man. He knows that you know more about this business than any one in the place except me—but he'll tell you those incidents just the same."

Anne was resentful but interested. The Old Man was usually right, but not this time.

"What makes you think he will?" she asked curiously.

"He's the type that does. Like you and me, he makes this business his only interest. But he takes a small view of it. He thinks his department is the business. I've no fault to find with that," the Old Man added kindly. "It's a fine quality in a minor executive."

Anne's lips set. The Old Man knew Cary only as a machine. But perhaps he was right about her resignation.

"I'll stay if you really want me to," she said rather stiffly. "That is, for the present."

The Old Man nodded, rather gloomily.

"I know—till the twins come," he commented delicately. "But don't be in a hurry about them. There will be enough necessary readjustments in your life to keep you busy for a year or two without the twins. And, of course, you wouldn't do anything on a smaller scale than twins."

"You're just full of good feeling and wishes for my happiness, aren't you?" Anne burst out.

"Don't make any mistake about this, Anne," he said very gently, using her first name for the first time in all their years together. "I know John Cary is a fine fellow. I know he will make you a good husband. As a human being he's worth a dozen of the showy fellows around here who are making 10 times as much noise as he does. A lot of their private lives won't bear looking into. John's will—always. He'll love you and be faithful to you till his last day. But he'll give you some long and dragging hours in the interval," the Old Man ended, with a wicked grin.

The grin faded as he took Anne's hands and pressed them.

"Have you set the wedding day?" he asked hastily. "I'll make you a wedding present of a honeymoon in Europe. Two weeks at sea, two weeks in Paris. How does that sound?"

"Wonderful," Anne admitted. "Like the music of morning stars. I must always remember that any woman who has listened to you talk for almost eight years will always find any other man dull."

Anne Cary made four discoveries about her husband during their honeymoon travels. Only two of the discoveries surprised her. He would never shine among his associates or be the life of a party. She had known that for a long time. He wore his modesty like an enveloping garment. Neither would she ever blush for him. She had known that, too, from their earliest acquaintance. His rare remarks were worth hearing and his quiet smile held inspiration for the talkers. Anne herself watched for it and felt triumphant when any words of hers called it forth. His six feet of manhood was impressive and so was his fine head and his air of physical fitness. She was proud of him while swinging around the decks in their three-mile walks every day.

What Anne had not expected was Cary's knowledge of other departments and problems of the big Mackay business. The Old Man was wrong, for once, in assuming that Cary was exclusively centered in his own job. Her greatest surprise, however, came in connection with her discovery of John's understanding of her own situation and problems.

"I suppose Mackay did his best to talk you out of our marriage," he suggested tentatively, on the first afternoon of their voyage. They had sailed early, had unpacked, and "settled in" before luncheon, and were now out on deck, comfortably established in their steamer chairs, with their first real opportunity for a quiet chat stretching before them. But Anne wished John had not brought up just that tacit question just now. She was not yet sure her decision to remain with the firm had been a wise one.

"He didn't! Why should he?" she hedged uneasily.

"For a dozen reasons I needn't point out. You know them better than I do. The big one is that he would regard your entering domestic life as a big loss to the Mackay company."

"Don't you agree?"

Anne asked the question with a little laugh. The situation seemed to her to call for a lighter touch. But John answered very soberly.

"I don't know," he said. "I'm trying to think it out. The one thing I'm sure of in a pretty groggy old world is our love. Being sure of that I'm not reproaching myself for horning into your life."

"I should hope not!" Anne broke in hotly. He ignored the words.

"Just the same I realize that I've complicated it," he continued. "You've got both the business and me on your hands, and either alone is a good-size job. Mackay isn't going to let up on your work." [John never referred to his employer as the Old Man, as his associates did.] "On the contrary," he went on, "he's dumping more work on you all the time and he'll keep on increasing it. Strong and Heminway are not up to their jobs, and he's got you checking and jacking up the work of their departments. Fortunately you're young and well-poised and in perfect health. But the strain of the extra work will tell on you in time."

"I'll drop it all tomorrow if you say so, John."

His gray eyes met and held her brown ones.

"The last thing I shall ever do is to say so, Anne," he told her quietly. "Get that, and remember it. When we married I made a vow to myself that I'd never interfere in any way with your professional life. I know how fast you have come up. I know what the business means to you. I wouldn't interfere with it if I could, and I'm never going to. Now that I've made that clear let's drop the subject."

Anne was impressed, but there was one question she had to ask.

"How did you know that Strong and Heminway aren't handling their departments properly?"

"Simply by observation. I don't talk much and I don't play office politics, but I see what's going on. Strong has lost his grip since his wife died, but that's only temporary. He'll pull himself together and dig into his work harder than ever to keep his mind occupied. Heminway's case is different. He's breaking, physically or mentally or both."

"I know. The thing for him is the experiment of a year's rest, and he's to have it. It's the last thing we arranged before I left. Blair is to take his department while he's gone."

John nodded.

"Don't think I mean to butt in or comment on Mackay business. I've said my say, and it's the last time. I don't want to discuss the business any more, now or ever. But I want you to know that I understand what I'm up against. There are men truckling to me already because I'm your husband. They make me sick. Also, in one way, I'm working under you, more or less. Because I'm human, that makes me a little sick, too, but I'll get over it." He broke off. "Isn't that a whale spouting over there?"

It was, and they got up and hurried to the shiprail to follow the whale's activities more closely. Later Anne made a tentative effort to resume the discussion but her husband made it clear that it was closed.

Anne Makes a Rather Disconcerting Discovery

They had a wonderful honeymoon. John was an ideal companion and this was his first voyage to Europe as it was hers. He was alert, enthusiastic, eager. In his quiet way he, too, fell in love with Paris, and they discovered that they had amazing similarities in taste. Neither was interested in guide books but both were interested in maps. They liked long walks, and jaunts to out of the way places, and browsing among the book stalls along the Left bank.

Incidentally Anne made another and a rather disconcerting discovery. John Cary had the inner pride and dignity of a Spanish grandee. Anything that hurt his dignity hurt his pride. The discovery was followed by a second one. His dignity was hurt, and badly hurt, by the relative importance in the Mackay firm of his wife and himself. He had admitted as much to her, in their one frank interview on the outward voyage. Now the subject was closed and could not be reopened.

The old man greeted Anne's return to her job characteristically.

"High time you were back," he grumbled. "I've nearly fired every stenographer in the place. Tried 'em out one by one. No good. They can't think, can't remember, can't work. What's the matter with girls nowadays?"

"Nothing in the world. You've got a fine staff," Anne said quietly. "The trouble is that I've spoiled you—running errands for you and giving you your medicines and reminding you of all your appointments and all that."

The Old Man chuckled.

"Marriage is a success, I see," he commented.

Anne nodded.

"I never dreamed I could be so happy," she admitted.

"That's all to the good. Make you a better worker. That new school book line isn't developing as fast as I expected. Look into it, will you?"

The familiar atmosphere of Anne's real world closed around them.

It was unfortunate that soon after their return the Old Man had to go away for a six weeks "cure" in the south. During his absence Anne Cary was practically in charge of the business, and every one knew it. She had all its details at her fingers' ends, and the Old Man had anticipated and provided for one or two important transactions. As it happened, another important matter came up unexpectedly in John's department, and he presented himself in his wife's office to talk it over. He looked very formal and rather tight-lipped. Anne's resolution was made after one glance at his face.

"But what are you resigning for?"

NEXT SUNDAY—"TOMBOY," BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

THE ROAD BUILDER

By RUPERT HUGHES

INSTALMENT VII.

What Has Gone Before

Craig Fleming, young engineer, whose fiancee, Sue Tipton, has gone on a yachting trip, goes exploring in the uncharted regions of southern California and stumbles upon an uncharted valley in which Craig sees great possibilities for a highway. He encounters the squatter Kimbos and Theby Kimbo's suitor, Bop Shaddick. They run him off their land, but he returns to make sketches of the region and is bitten by a rattler. Theby sucks the poison out and she and her family take Craig to their hut, where they care for him until he is able to leave. They all warn him, tho, not to return, and Theby tears up his sketches and notes about the highway. Craig recognizes Theby as a beautiful barbarian and has a wild desire to tame her and see what culture can do for her. He returns to town and with Sully, an airplane photographer, flies back over the valley and gets pictures, which he shows to his boss, who becomes enthusiastic as Craig in a bit of strategy makes his boss believe the highway idea was his own, not Craig's. Sue returns from her yachting trip, and Craig rushes to Los Angeles to tell her about his work, but she gets jealous of Theby. When Craig returns to work he is sent out with the survey crew to start building the highway Craig has been dreaming of.

THE beauty of the valley did not fail to impress the engineers for all their hairy ears. It was their business to remodel landscapes into more useful forms; but they were not devoid of appreciation for the advantages of scenery as collateral.

They were used to loneliness, too; but the evening in the auto camp had whetted their interest in humanity, particularly in the fiercer element which some ancient humorist had called the gentler sex.

The biggest and toughest of the party, the head chainman, Joe Plaskett, conceded:

"It's not so worse in here for looks; but it's a long, long way to Tipperary. That's the name I gave the big Irish girl I was with at the dance pavilion last night. I promised to see her tonight, but it's a tough climb up and down and back. There's few females worth a four way scramble like that."

"We might put in a pair of escalators for you," said Ole.

"Why not? It's the state's money."

They continued to grouse good naturedly as they set up their instruments and made ready for their various tasks. But they all agreed with Joe Plaskett when he observed:

"I still say this place wouldn't be so worse if it wasn't so far from"—he meant "human beings," but what he actually said was—"yuman beans."

Just as he said it, a bullet struck a rock near by and made a ricochet that sank and whirred like a smitten cymbal.

Some of the engineers had been in the National Guard and had been drilled in the art of taking cover. They were nearly as quick about it as those who relied on untrained human instinct.

Almost instantly the little group of stalwart men was so many logs flat on the ground. But Bill Baylor had just taken his rifle out of its case. Prone as he was he promptly flung it into position and fired at a little puff of smoke curling around a tree high on the ledge.

They could all see the bark of the tree fly off in dust, and they all heard a more or less human cry. Bill fired again. More bark flew. In a few moments a white cloth was hung out on a ramrod. Bill Baylor studied it, and said:

"I suppose that dirty shirttail is meant for a flag of truce." Still keeping cover behind his log he yelled: "Come on out with your hands high."

After a deal of peeking and retreating, a lank figure that Fleming recognized as Bop Shaddick came sliding to the ledge in mortal terror. His high voice piped down the wind:

"What yew-all shewtin' at me fur?"

Like an augmented echo Baylor's voice went back:

"What yew-all shewtin' at us fur?"

Finally came Bop's reply:

"Wan't shewtin' at y'all at tall. Didn't even see y'all. I was aimin' at a skunk I thought I seen daown there."

Theby Takes Her Place Beside Bop

Baylor howled back:

"The same to you and many of 'em. Mighty long range for such a shot."

"Skunk's got a long range, tew," Bop answered. "Can't git too fur from 'em to suit me."

Mike Sheeley took command.

"Well, come on down here where I can tell you a few things. And bring your shooting irons with you."

Fleming had noted back of Bop a few other figures flitting thru the foliage and he said to Sheeley:

"Tell him to bring the rest of his gang with him."

Sheeley transmitted the message and suddenly Theby Kimbo took her place at Bop's side. It startled Fleming to see her again. She was tiny with distance but she revealed a certain defiance that somehow made Fleming mysteriously proud of her—as if he had some right in her or responsibility for her. After all, he had discovered her when he discovered the Valley.

Slowly and shyly Paw Kimbo joined the other two. Bop went back for his rifle; then the three descended the cliff with a practiced agility. Fleming was glad that Maw Kimbo had not been there to be forced to take the breakneck route down. Fortunately the flock of children was elsewhere, too.

Finally Paw and Bop and Theby stood before Sheeley with a truculent timidity. Sheeley snatched Bop's rifle from him while Paw was whining:

"Where'd y'all come from? What y'all doin' on aour prop'ty anyways?"

But Fleming's eyes — even Sheeley's eyes—the eyes of all the men were studying Theby. A glance at Paw and Bop discovered all that was worth seeing in them, but here was a girl, a brown primitive, not exactly pretty, yet something better than that.

To these men, as to all men, such a young woman was always a double mystery; for a man, finding all women mysteries, wonders by just what mysterious processes a girl becomes a woman and what kind of woman she will become. Theby fascinated the men in the group. She was a savage and some of them wanted to prove their power to tame her; she was the more fascinating for savagery, and dangerous, too.

To the rest, she was completely strange, but to Fleming she was even stranger; for he had known her long enough to acquire a large collection of puzzles about her. He remembered her ferocity, her ruthlessness; and yet she had not hesitated to risk a hideous death to save him from the poison of the snake; she had nursed him with a tenderness she tried to disguise.

Suddenly he had a flash of understanding. The only life she had ever known had made her wild and suspicious as a hunted animal, yet within her there was goodness and sweetness struggling to keep alive. She was afraid of that better self and ashamed of it; she fought it and feared it. She reminded Fleming by contraries, of those pious souls who are all virtue and conformity on the outside by pretense or insincerity, and who yet are forever at war with inner selves of evil and cruelty.

They, too, fear and fight their other selves, as Theby did hers. When they fell into sin, they were remorseful and ashamed and pretended they were better than they were. Theby pretended she was worse than she was. Perhaps somebody would some day, as by a miracle, suddenly and simply change the control of her two selves, give the better self command over the worse.

That happened all the time when animals were caught young and tamed to be household pets. In a way that was what a man had always to do when he tried to turn a wild romantic girl into a one man household pet. It would be a wonderful thing to tame Theby so.

But Fleming was the wrong man in the wrong place for that taming, since he could not approach her or gentle her by way of kindness. He was here as a merciless foreigner, stealing the property, the liberty, and the contentment of her people. Her beloved father would gladly have killed Fleming if he had not been afraid of the law. She would gladly kill Fleming, and she knew too little of the law to be afraid of it.

Musing on all these things while Theby was climbing down the cliff and walking bravely toward the 16 big men, Fleming wondered what she would think when she recognized him.

He was not surprised that her angry eyes discovering him fairly blazed at him. She nudged her father and pointed at the traitor. Paw said:

"O, hit's you, Mistoo Flem'n'. We'd ought to 've left you to them rattle snakes. You're wuss 'n what they air."

Fleming spoke up in self defense.

"I never promised not to come back, Mr. Kimbo. You might have known I would, when you burned my notes and took my equipment away. Furthermore, I'll bet this isn't your property. You're only squatters, and you know it. But I'm grateful to you for what you did for me, and I'll prove it to you. We're going to put a beautiful road thru here and if you'll only behave yourselves, you'll all get rich."

Paw stared at him with the sad eyes of a bewildered ox.

"Seems lak some folks never can fancy there could be folks didn't want to get rich, didn't want to live close to no road."

Fleming was reduced to proverbs:

"But the greatest good to the greatest number——"

Mike Sheeley resumed command:

"Look here, old timer, what you want or don't want is outside the question. We're here by the orders of the state to survey this valley. Maybe they'll put a road here some day; maybe they won't. But if you people make any trouble, we'll put you in jail. Understand?"

Paw studied him a long while before he made a slovenly salute with one finger of a limp hand, and drawled:

"Yus, gineral, I unnerstan'."

Sheeley rounded on Bop.

"And how about you?"

Bop saluted briskly.

"Yassir. And now kin I have my rifle back? I need it for rabbits and rattlers and what all."

Sheeley hesitated. But he did not like to look afraid of anybody. He tossed the rifle back to Bop, who hugged it to his shallow chest as Sheeley said:

"You be careful what you point that pop gun at or I'll wrap it round your neck." He turned to Theby. "And you, miss—I suppose you can shoot, too."

"You bet I kin," said Theby.

"Well, how about a little promise from you to behave yourself?"

There was something queenly in grotesque miniature about the way she drew herself up to her very brief height and gathered herself together as if she wore trailing ermine robes instead of a knee-deep gingham slip.

"I kin behave myself," she said icily. "And I allers do. But I don't git my ideas from folks like you-all."

Sheeley grinned.

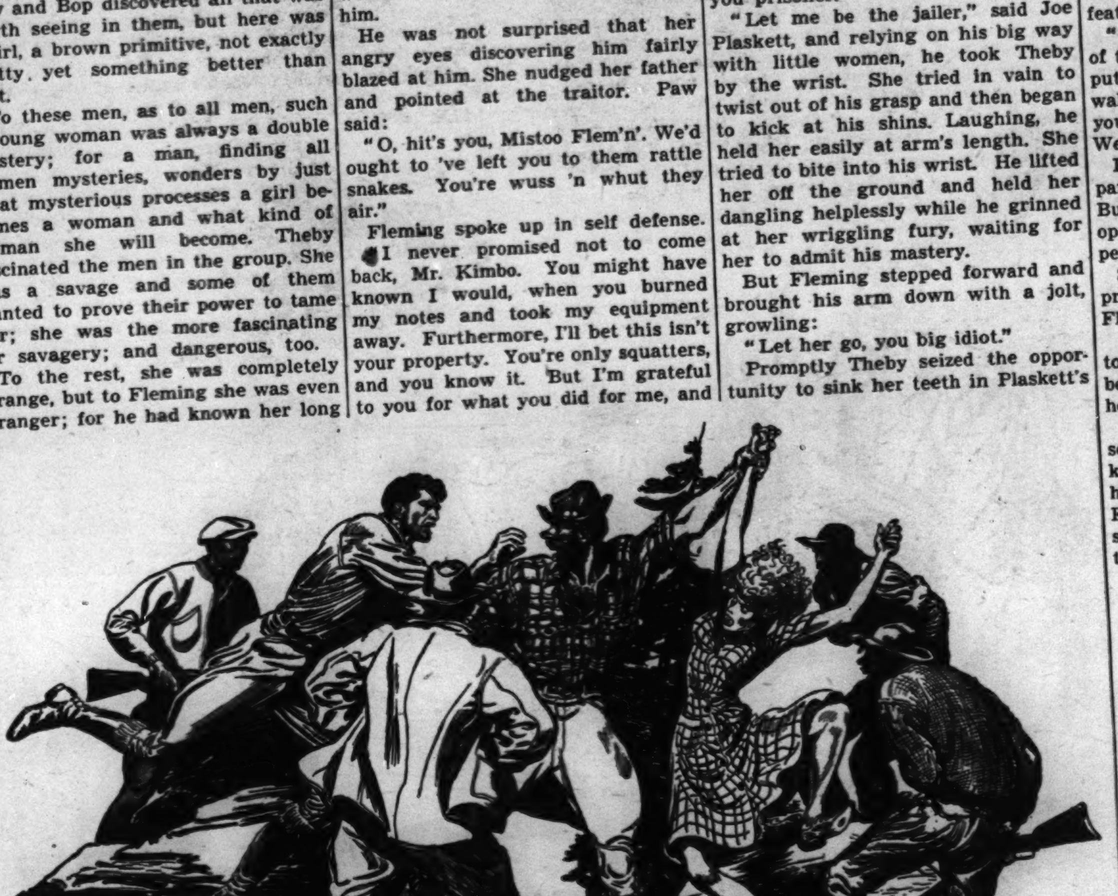
"Then I suppose I'll have to take you prisoner."

"Let me be the jailer," said Joe Plaskett, and relying on his big way with little women, he took Theby by the wrist. She tried in vain to twist out of his grasp and then began to kick at his shins. Laughing, he held her easily at arm's length. She tried to bite into his wrist. He lifted her off the ground and held her dangling helplessly while he grinned at her wriggling fury, waiting for her to admit his mastery.

But Fleming stepped forward and brought his arm down with a jolt, growling:

"Let her go, you big idiot."

Promptly Theby seized the opportunity to sink her teeth in Plaskett's arm, and he released her with a howl.



"Let me be the jailer," said Joe Plaskett, and, relying on his big way with little women, he took Theby by the wrist.

When he made to seize her again Fleming held him till Theby could escape. But she ran only a few yards before she stopped, stooped, caught up a sharp edged rock and hurled it with all her might at Plaskett. He ducked and the stone whizzed past him to catch Fleming on the brow.

Gratitude was not included in Theby's animal instincts and she shouted with savage irony:

"I wasn't aimin' at you, Mistoo Flemin'." He could not help feeling a little elated at that—till she added: "I'm savin' a boulder fur you."

While Fleming wavered under the double jolt to his flesh and his spirit, Theby ran laughing wildly to the base of the cliff and scaled it with a red squirrel's nimbleness. Nobody cared to follow her. But Plaskett turned on Fleming in black rage, holding up his bleeding wrist.

"I owe this to you, you—you——"

Fleming answered while blood streamed over his eye:

"I hope she poisoned you, you—"

As Theby's two victims squared off, Mike Sheeley stepped between them.

"One more crack out of you lads and I'll knock your two heads together. You don't seem to be using 'em anyway. We've been here five minutes and already fighting over a woman—and only a half portion at that."

He turned to Paw and Bop:

"Get along you two and mind your own business while we mind ours. And you better look up that girl of yours before she gets what she's asking for. And remember this: The first misstep you make will be the last."

Paw saluted again, turned to go, then turned back with a sudden inspiration:

"You wouldn't be wantin' to buy anything offen my farm, I reck'n."

"Well, it's a long haul for our supplies," said Sheeley. "What have you got?"

"We got melk from a couple caows. We got goat's melk. We got aigs—hin's aigs, duck's aigs, geese aigs. We got garden truck, greens, and smoked hams. Maw's put up some jam and puzzerves, and apple butter. And we got apple cider. Maw could cook you up sal' risin' biskits—and corn pone—and hoe cake—and corn-cakes with surp—an'—"

"Stop it, old timer, you're breaking my heart. Snowball can talk to you about that stuff if you can agree on the prices. And maybe you can tell me if the water in this stream is potable."

"Potabil? Oh, no, I wouldn't say that. But it's right good drinkin' worter, if you like worter. But I got somethin' that a sight better if you're thusty. I make it m'self."

"White mule, eh?"

"White mule nothin'! Never was no mule had the kick o' whut I make. See them eagles up yonda? Well, one o' my brood hins got holt of some o' my liquor one day, and durned if she didn't fly right up thar and drive them eagles behin' the claouds. She come back with right smart o' feathers in her beak."

"You might bring us a thimbleful of that," said Sheeley. "Maybe it will put enough energy into these sleepwalkers to get 'em going. And now you'd better get going yourselves. We've got work to do."

Paw and Bop departed and the party scattered to its manifold tasks. But first Fleming and Joe Plaskett opened up the hospital supplies and performed mutual first aid.

Since the chief had denied him the privilege of a pleasant battle with Fleming, Joe Plaskett laughed:

"We're a couple of pretty big boobs to let a little cat like that put the bee on us like this. Wait till I catch her. I'll give her what for."

Fleming said nothing, but he resolved to protect Theby from Plaskett. He smiled inwardly at this as he felt the throb of his bleeding brow. First he would have to protect himself from her. That evening he wrote to Sue Tipton:

"COMMUNIQUE NO. 2.

"We have met the enemy and we are thours. One of her eyes is green and the other is greener.

"One of my eyes is brown, and the other is black and blue."

Surveyors Use Sun to Find Direction

The first step in the survey was to find just where the party stood on this whirling globe, and which way the valley ran. The existing maps gave them longitude and latitude, but unless true north were exactly fixed, no map they made of that uncharted little vale would connect with any other map. The lines would be all askew. The valley would be a misfit piece in a jigsaw puzzle.

To find themselves, the surveyors still relied on the old North Star, Polaris, just as the ancients had when the world was flat and immovable and the sun and stars were pulled or pushed across the sky by angels or horses.

But to wait for the pole-star to appear would mean wasting the day in idleness, with no assurance that clouds or night mists would not hide the star when it crossed the heavens. So Sheeley, with Baylor as the gunner, aimed the transit at the sun, held a white paper back of the eyepiece, and sharpened the focus till the shadows of the cross wires were clear and the sun's image tangent to them. Quick observations, reference to tables in the field book, and a deal of complicated figuring with formulas finally turned out a north line that was near enough for the purposes of the survey.

Next, since the government had not been here and left its official bench marks of triangulation and height above sea level, a substitute had to be established. Sheeley selected the top of a red rock by a sycamore tree, and assigned it a sea level of 5,000 feet. He knew that the Valley was hardly more than 500 feet above the ocean, but he exaggerated his basic bench mark so that when the final maps were made there would be no chance of confusion with his preliminary charts. Another b. m. would be established every thousand feet.

And now, having fed heartily, the surveying party settled down to work in earnest, and began to lay out its preliminary center line and set out stakes to mark it.

The slightest inaccuracy in alignment of one stake would throw all the others out of place and the error would grow with compound interest. A little angle is a more dangerous thing than a little learning, or a little widow.

High up on the cliff the Kimbos sat like gallery gods and watched the antics of these strange strangers with their peculiar machines. The Kimbos understood hardly more than the squirrels that clung to trees and stared, or the birds that cocked an eye from some shrub and protested loudly when it was chopped away by the advancing brushmen. Nothing

"O, yes, I know about that," she said with crisp matter-of-factness. "Or rather, Mr. Mackay did. He saw it coming. You know he had a sort of uncanny instinct in matters like that. He meant to talk the whole situation over with you, but he was having a lot of pain and ended by giving me some notes for you which I have around here somewhere. I'll tell you the gist of them and note down your reactions and wire them to him today. Then he'll telephone or wire his instructions tomorrow morning."

She watched the strained expression leave her husband's face, as he settled back comfortably in his chair. She could read his mental processes as clearly as if they were written on the wall. He was not to take her orders, then. She was simply a secretary.

She played the rôle to perfection—making notes of his suggestions, adding a few points the Old Man had supposedly made. There was no doubt of her good faith in John's mind as he departed, but that, she knew, was because he had such faith in her. She felt a bit guilty but quite triumphant as she wired John's recommendations and her own additions to her suffering chief.

A few months later, when a similar emergency in John's department came up, the Old Man, who was having a bad day, spoke to her almost irritably.

"Why don't you attend to this yourself?" he snapped. "You don't hesitate to butt into the other departments without bothering me with everything that happens."

"You know very well why I don't," his first assistant said quietly. "John and I are perfectly happy. I intend that we shall remain so."

The Old Man scrawled his directions and initials on a slip from John and handed it to her with one of his wickedest grins.

"Got to mind your step, haven't you?" he asked. "Got to walk on a tight rope. Well, that will be good discipline for you. You might easily be losing your head with all this leeway I'm giving you."

The following year, however, in a discussion that came up between them, he was less tolerant. He was also more arthritic and more on the edge of his nerves.

"Look here," he blurted out suddenly one day, "that Chandler is ordering me off again. As it is I'm more off than on these days and the situation is getting annoying. We've got to have a general manager here. "In other words," he added hastily as he saw her flush, "we've got to give a real name to the job you're holding. O, I'll stand back of you as long as I'm able to, but the employés of the Mackay Publishing company, including John Cary," he underlined significantly, "have got to learn that your orders are as good as mine, and they've got to take them without question. That husband of yours has got to take them, too."

Goal of Lifetime Dangled Before Anne

General Manager! It was the position she had been working toward for five years but had never really hoped to reach. Now, here it was, dangling before her, and it might as well have been an apple in the garden of Eden. But it didn't tempt her—not with John Cary in the foreground of her life and John Cary's happiness her first duty. Anne looked at the Old Man and shook her head.

"He would be the last man to refuse my orders if I had the authority from you to give them," she said quietly.

"Then why the dickens——"

"But he'd be utterly wretched," Anne went on with deep feeling. "I don't intend that John shall ever be unhappy if I can prevent it. We'll have to find another general manager!"

"A nice suggestion! So that's all this business means to you." The Old Man was furious. "You've put in nine years here with me, learning every detail of my job from me at first hand. I've shown you every consideration and I've given you a lot of rope. Yet when an emergency comes up you're ready to ditch the business rather than hurt the silly pride of a third person."

"The third person happens to be my husband," Anne reminded him, "and his pride is not silly. It's the natural feeling of any normal man who has to take orders from his wife in a big business with hundreds of associates looking on. John would do it with decent dignity, but he's got a queer little streak of vanity and jealousy in him I didn't discover till we were married. He'd try his best not to let my new position make any difference in our home life and our happiness. But in the end it would wreck them both—and I simply won't let them be wrecked. I'm terribly sorry to disappoint you, but my decision is final."

The Old Man nodded gloomily.

"How about letting him run his department himself?" he asked without much hope. "No interference from you or me or any one else. Is he up to it—or would he land us in a mess?"

"He's up to it and would do it very well," Anne told him, turning the plan over in her mind as she spoke. "He's been developing very fast, as you yourself admitted again and again. But look at the position your plan would put him in! He'd be the only worker in the place who wouldn't work with and under the general manager. That would look nice, wouldn't it?"

"And would the boys talk!" the Old Man agreed. "Well, perhaps I'd better sell the business and get out. I've thought of that several times. It's about time I had some relief from business worries."

Anne smiled. He was like a mischievous small boy determined to give her a jolt.

"You've never really worried over this business," she said, "and you haven't given it an anxious thought for five or six years. You haven't needed to. It's like a splendid ship in a heavy sea. It's plunging ahead thru all these world conditions and making more money for you every year. You would no more sell it than you would sell your baby son if you had one."

"So what?" the Old Man asked wearily. "Where does that get us?"

"I can suggest a good general manager," Anne told him. He looked at her suspiciously. "Who is it?" he asked and added, "There's a glint in your eye I don't like."

"You may not like the suggestion, either, at first," Anne admitted. "But don't go up in the air till you've thought it over. I'm suggesting John Cary for the job."

"I'm disappointed in you." The Old Man spoke heavily. Then, seeing her flush hotly—he seemed always to be making his first assistant flush these days—he went on hastily.

"I don't say that, mind you, to belittle Cary. He has been steadily improving, as you say, but not enough. He's a routine man, born to take orders and carry them out faithfully. What disappoints me is your psychology. Do you understand him so little as to imagine he'd take a job as figurehead, and let you do the work?"

"No, I don't. He wouldn't be a figurehead and I wouldn't do the work. I'd stand back of him as his assistant, as I have been yours, and you be back of us both keeping us in the middle of the road. John has a fine brain. He would realize that he and I could do splendid teamwork. As to his being a routine man you're wrong for once in your notion that he isn't interested in any department of the business but his own.

"He knows pretty nearly as much about the business as a whole as we do. That isn't because I tell him about it, either. He won't let me. Don't forget that he's in a position to know exactly what our output is and what it costs and how much of it comes back and what our running expenses are. He's making our product! He's not a mixer, but the men like and respect him. There would be no criticism of his appointment as manager except by a few who want the job themselves and aren't up to it. And you can trust John's ability and justice and tact to see that he's no figurehead. Why not try him out for a year?"

The Old Man studied her thoughtfully.

"It will mean a new career for you," he pointed out at last. "You'll have to learn how to walk your tight rope all the time."

She nodded.

"I know—but I've learned that already. This simply means a longer, smaller rope to balance on—at first. I'll have to be very tactful," she went on. "I realize that. But as his first assistant he'll have to let me in on everything he's doing, and he will—as soon as he realizes that I'm not butting in. Besides, there will always be your personality permeating the place like an atmosphere whether you're in the building or not. And when you're away I can always get in touch with you in a few minutes."

The Old Man, who had been thinking fast as she talked, made up his mind.

"We'll try it," he said philosophically. "I think you've just about a 50-50 chance of making a go of the experiment."

Mrs. John Cary started her new job as her husband's first assistant on a fine note of matter-of-fact candor.

"Of course I spoke of you for the position," she said cheerfully when he taxed her with this. "Why wouldn't I? Is there any one else on the staff who would be better? The Old Man will continue to take up a lot of my time whether he's here or not. He's sending me off two or three times a year right now, to select his hotels and sanitariums and even his nurses when he has any. But my knowledge of detail and the routine of years here in the business will help you. I'll make myself useful to you both. Who are you going to appoint as head of your old department?"

Anne's Assurance Steadies Her Husband

She was taking his appointment so casually that her husband stared at her in amazement. It was an overwhelming thing to him. But her calm acceptance of it as almost a matter of course steadied him as nothing else could have done. It was the policy she had mapped out, and she followed it steadfastly as the months passed. She deliberately minimized her part in the joint association, making herself out a sort of glorified errand-runner for both men but getting in with skill and growing cunning the reminders and tossed off suggestions both needed.

"It's working out well," the Old Man admitted six months later. "John's forging right ahead. But how about you?"

"He's simply wonderful, if I do say it," she confided. "He has really taken hold as if he had been running this business for years. He talks things over with me in the most natural way and tells me his plans. Lately, he has actually asked my advice several times.

"He has taken it for granted that you can't spare me for any other exacting job and that his appointment was as natural as that of any other head of a big department would have been. As for walking a tight rope, there simply isn't any tight rope. John is too self-absorbed to be watching me or thinking about me."

It was two years before John Cary disillusioned her on this point. The night of the day Joseph Mackay gave him his second raise in salary, and a thumping slap on the back to go with it, John turned a pair of twinkling eyes on his wife as they lingered at their dinner table over coffee and cigarets.

"Well, darling, you've really put me over," he said cheerfully. "The Old Man admitted today that he couldn't get on without me, so you and I can drop our play-acting."

Anne's breath caught as she looked at him. She put down her cup quickly and dropped her shaking hands in her lap.

"Our play-acting?" she echoed faintly.

But she knew what was coming.

"Yes. Our elaborate efforts to fool one another and the staff of the Mackay plant. Those efforts succeeded, so that's all right. But now we can forget them and be ourselves again."

"I—I don't understand," Anne faltered.

"If you don't it's the first time you haven't understood everything since I met you. It was all clear enough from the start. The Old Man wanted to make you manager. You decided that would hurt me. You thought I wasn't big enough to stand the gaff. Well, that's right. I wasn't. But when I realized what you were doing—saving my small boy pride by giving me your job, putting me over and belittling yourself and your work to do it, it opened my eyes. The right return for me, and the only one I could make, was to be big enough to take the job and make good. But don't imagine I haven't known all the time what a trump you are. I could have knelt at your feet!"

He got up, walked around to her end of the table, bent down and kissed her.

"No more play-acting," he repeated firmly. "And what a relief that's going to be! I can stop posing as the highest authority in the publishing world and say simply and naturally, 'Annie, how are we going to crack this particular nut?' For from now on, my girl, I'm not going to be afraid to show the world I value your judgment as much as the Old Man does. But first I had to 'show you'—didn't I?"

"No more play-acting," Anne agreed blissfully. "But, O, darling, you did your acting so wonderfully it seems almost a pity to stop!"

could look more idiotic than the work of the chainmen and rodmen with their steel tape, stretched taut for a hundred feet as if they were measuring Mother Earth for a dress.

The man at the three legged spy glass hollered and waved and sighted and turned around and back-sighted. And every here and there, for no tarnation reason at all, a fellow would stick in a little wooden pole and hammer it deep. The places where they stuck the sticks made no sense at all. And the crazy loons were always writing some nonsense down in books, scratching their fool heads, and figgerin', figgerin', figgerin'.

Paw and Bop could have told them near enough for any honest purpose how long the Valley was and how wide the crick was and how high the mountains were. Those folks must be plumb insane making all that to-do over nothin'. Or else they might be just doing it to draw pay from the gov'ment. All the Kimbos knew and all they needed to know was that the aliens spent a hugeous amount of time and trouble and did a power of yelling and waving like as how it was maybe some kind of religion.

But whatever it might be, seeing what a fuss the furriners made over it, the Kimbos agreed that, if they went down after dark and put the stakes somewhere else, they would cause the visitors a mort of trouble and perhaps persuade them to go on away from there and leave decent folks alone. They talked this over a long while and chewed on it at supper.

The surveyors, for all their interest in their work, were much obliged to the western mountain wall for cutting off the rays of the setting sun long before it sank in the sea. The premature twilight brought an earlier end to the hard work. The air was suddenly cool and it grew swiftly cold.

Like tired cattle the men were glad to sprawl on the ground and chew the cud, discuss what they were doing and swap anecdotes. The odor of the coming dinner was incense and afterward it was pleasant to lie around a roaring fire that sent its sparks so high they seemed to join the stars. A few sat in lantern-lit tents and played poker; a few wrote letters; or read.

Far outside the circle the Kimbos squatted and stared at the surveyors. In the firelight returning from the lens reflectors of their eyes, they suggested a pack of coyotes reconnoitering a camp, tortured by the aroma of food and torn between cowardice and hunger. By and by the sparks in the Kimbo eyes went out. The pack vanished. The engineers, thinking of the early morning call, vanished into their tents.

The night was moon illumined and it never occurred to Sheeley to set a guard on the stakes. Nothing less tempting to a thief could be imagined. Even as kindling they were not worth lugging to a house surrounded by broken wood. So the surveyors slept the sleep of the guileless in a valley of peace.

But the Kimbos were defending their altars and their fires. They had the stupid cunning of Indians and the fanaticism of the redmen who had tried to prevent the railroad builders from laying tracks across their western plains. They could defend themselves with courage but for attack they preferred stealth and long range annoyance.

Paw and Bop Map Out Their Strategy

The Kimbos lacked the devotion of those tribesmen who used to lie down across the rails in the hope of stopping the locomotives, but they shared their spirit of vain war on what is called "progress"—and the word is a good one, because it does not necessarily mean spiritual uplifting. Progress means only progress, moving from one place to another.

When the watchers from the cliff had decided from the dying out of fires and the darkening of tents, that the surveyors were all asleep, Paw told the women to git into they baids and stay there. On the way down the path, he and Bop discussed their strategy in low tones.

"Me," said Bop, "I'm all for pullin' every one the sticks outen the graound and breakin' 'em to flinders."

"No, son, you're wrong," said Paw. "All we'd git out o' that would be them fellers comin' up and breakin' us to flinders and plantin' more them beanpoles. Hit's my idee to try a little experiment. From the way them fellers fiddled abaout fur haours an' haours settin' every stick just edzackly so and nowhere's else, I got a notion if we moved the last two or three of 'em jest a teenty-weenty mite, it mought flabbergast 'em wuss 'n' iffen we tore 'em out entirely. Leastways, we'll try it thataway tonight, and iffen hit don't annoy 'em some, we can try yore way tomorr' night."

To his venerable wisdom Bop yielded, and the two worked silently in the moonlight. They pulled up the farthest trio of stakes and replanted each of them a few feet to the west of where it had been. They scuffled over the ground to disguise the evidences of their work and their telltale footprints; then climbed to their beds in the consciousness of duty performed. When they had gone, hosts of nocturnal animals, ants, rats, skunks, snakes, owls, made their inspection of the new odors and odd doings of the trespassers.

The next morning the party woke reluctant to leave warm beds, but eager to attack the warm breakfast. The prolongation of the center line was begun and continued for some time before things began to work out wrong. There were consultations, investigations, backsighting and references to the records. Finally it was suggested that the last three stakes of yesterday might not be where they should be. Yet there was no sign of their being moved and there were hot arguments.

At length, Fleming suggested that the spirits who shifted the stakes might have come down from above. This struck Sheeley as a reasonable solution of an occult phenomenon and he was just about to lead an expedition against the enemy when down the Valley came the whole Kimbo family, Paw, Maw, all the children, and Bop, every one bearing gifts—for which they expected gifts—ears of corn, pumpkins, squash, baskets of eggs, fat hens. Paw and Bop lugged jugs of their own whisky, while Theby was sagging under the weight of two pails of milk frothing at the top from their sloshing progress.

Kimbo Tribe Denies Moving Party's Stakes

The Kimbos looked to be an agricultural mural come to life and the engineers studied their burdens with appetite, while Snowball the cook was already imagining himself serving the delicacies to his delighted family.

But Sheeley greeted the parade with a roar that stopped it dead in its tracks:

"Which one of you rats moved our stakes last night?"

The Kimbos stared as if he spoke a foreign language. Paw was the very spit and image of insulted innocence.

"Them sticks?" he said. "Them sticks y'all be'n plantin' so keerful? Move them sticks? Us? Whaffor we move 'em? What good it do us to shiff 'em? I don't even know why y'all take such pains puttin' 'em where you put 'em."

Sheeley glared into his old eyes and found no proof of guilt in those watery blue shallows. He rounded on Bop.

"You there! How about you?"

"Me move them rods las' night?" Bop faltered. "Why, Cap'n, las' night I was so tarred I was in my baid befo' the sun was in his'n, and I slep'—Glory, haow I did sleep!"

Unconvinced but baffled, Sheeley turned to Theby:

"Did you move those stakes, Miss Spitfire?"

"No, Mistoo Spittoon," Theby retorted. "I didn't touch ary stake. Was I to begin on them stakes, I wouldn't shift 'em; I'd tear 'em out and burn 'em."

Sheeley quashed the indictment. He knew that some of the Kimbos must be guilty but he had not enough evidence to try them even before himself. So he rendered the Scotch verdict:

"All right. You say you didn't and I know you wouldn't lie to me any more than a 'possum would play dead. But the next time you move any of our stakes, you'll wish you'd walked into a bear-trap—and maybe you will. Now get along about your business. Take those things to the cook. But first, I'll have a drink of that milk."

Snowball ran forward with a dipper and a cup, and as Sheeley lifted the foaming beaker to his lips he toasted Theby with a gesture:

"Your good health, miss. This is poisoned, I suppose."

"Not so fur as I know," said Theby, "but it's a good idea."

She threw a side glance at Fleming as if to include him in her malevolence.

Approach of Spring Brings New Ideas in Styles

Models for '41 Popular—Do Double Duty

By Rea Seeger.

Spring is the time when you'll find fresh, clever ideas in daytime clothes, especially in slim, distinctive looking, one piece dresses. These are the models that are deservedly popular because they double for duty now when any winter wardrobe needs rejuvenation, and later when you need smart street costumes to wear with fur jackets, fur capes, and with fur pieces. Still later they provide the background for high colored costume accessories, striped bags, matching hats, strong new dramatics of color in gloves and companion handbag, and so on.

Most of these dresses are of heavy crêpe, the all silk crêpes, the newest fine, thin wool crêpes, and the novelty mixtures in thick, crêpey weaves. This is the material that lends itself so smartly to drapery, to dressmaker details of shirrings, tucks, folds, and sidewise draping, in both bodice and skirt. Some of the materials are thick enough to wear without fear of a too transparent effect. Others are thin and as sheer as chiffon.

• • •

Detail and fine fashioning make these successful dresses. Altho they seem extremely simple in outline and trim, it takes a wizard with plenty of imagination to design them; a wizard at cutting, fitting, and swathing the streamlines. Sleeves, too, achieve new smoothness and clever bits of shirrings, tuckings, and other devices to make them click with the rest of the details in the dress. Insets, shirred sections, and drapery are repeated in the sleeves to match the larger sections of the dress.

This season skirts remain pretty much the same smart, short length. When they are flared the flare is contrived with knowing artistry. Hiplines still are smooth and still clinging. Waistlines are defined and bodices streamlined to follow every curve. Shoulder lines that curve or drop off the former high, square outlines are triumphantly featured. Sloping shoulders are here to stay! Necklines continue to flatter in comparatively high outlines, with softening effects of bows, double shirrings, stitched bands, appliqued designs, and intricate braidings for accent.

• • •

Black and navy divide the records for shopping popularity. Both are excellent backgrounds for white, pastels, and high colored accessories or furs, jeweled clips, bracelets, and costume jewelry of all kinds. Navy has a slight edge over black for the spring wardrobe collectors. This time you'll find plenty of flawlessly matched shades of navy in footgear, bags, gloves, hats, and even jackets.

These navy blue and black dresses are easily topped with checked, striped, plaid, and tricolored jackets for different and smart duets for any occasion.

Sketched . . . four new navy blue dresses with a brand new trim excitement, grosgrain ribbon. Such a contrast is crisp, fresh, and provides color without frou-frou. These are the smartest of daytime dresses for the shopper who desires simplicity without puritanical tailoring. For information, telephone Superior 0200.

Sunday, March 2.

A most excellent set of opportunities today; make record of new ideas, plans and inspirations that appear valuable—they probably will be. Week ahead is one offering many avenues of accomplishment, but look out for minor pitfalls.

Measure Your Progress.

Why do you think as you do? How many ways to think are there? Do you think today as you did, say, five years ago? Make a list of opinions you were sure of back in 1936, and then also write out frankly and honestly for yourself alone how many of your old ideas have since changed—and to what extent. By this means you can partially measure the progress you have been making recently.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead from this to next birthday brings opportunities thru domestic life, especially June, July, Dec. Estate can be bettered. Knotty past problems task mind: think hard, straight. Danger: May 20 to June 3.

A Friend in Need

By Sally Joy Brown.

Within the past few months, requests for men's apparel of all kinds have become more numerous and urgent. Many of them are the outgrowth of years of unemployment and consequent lack of means to purchase apparel. Others come from men who are ill and unemployable, living on meager incomes with no way to replace outworn clothing. Still others come from men who have been unemployed but, with the present increase in jobs, hope to get back to work.

Shabby clothing which has not been replaced for years is a serious handicap to a hopeful job seeker, a daily reminder of poverty to the unemployable, and sometimes, in the case of older, frailer men, lack of adequate clothing is a serious health menace.

• • •

Readers have been generous in helping with many items of apparel, but there are many requests still unfilled, particularly appeals for shoes. We need them in all sizes.

The case of Mr. J. is typical. He is elderly, and because he has an arthritic hip, he is unable to work and must attend a clinic regularly. His relief allowance permits only the minimum expenditures for food and rent. We have been able to care for all his needs, with the exception of shoes, size 10, wide, which we never have been able to find for him.

• • •

Mr. S. is in his sixties and also unemployed, altho he is anxious and willing to work. So far he has been able to avoid going on relief, but ekes out a most meager existence on occasional odd jobs. He needs shoes size 7, shirts 16½, and an overcoat size 44.

Mr. C. was successful in his profession until the depression. After months of unemployment, he was stricken with a severe cardiac disorder from which he never has completely recovered. He and his wife, who also is ill, now are on relief. They are provided with rent money and a food allowance, but Mr. C.'s clothing needs cannot be filled by the agency. He needs a suit, size 38, and, if possible, a topcoat. He is 5 feet 6, weighs 155. The address is on the near north side of the city.

Mr. H. lives on the south side of the city with his wife and two sons. He has been ill for the past six years, spending almost two years in a hospital, but now is slowly recovering his health, altho he still is attending a clinic regularly. His wife is not strong, and his oldest child, a boy of 9, has had infantile paralysis, which affected his spine and throat. Mr. H. needs a suit size 40 [tall], the boy, 9, needs shoes size 13, a coat size 10, and the youngest child, a boy of 5, average size, needs shoes size 9½.

Mr. T., also on the south side, is a young man helping to support his mother and three brothers and sisters. He recently underwent an operation on one eye, but hopes soon to find steady employment. If any reader, approximately 5 feet 9, weight 170, has a discarded suit, Mr. T. would be grateful for it.

Children Today Heavier, Taller than in Last War

Investigation carried out by a number of education authorities has proved that children are taller and heavier today than they were at the beginning of the last war. Girls are nearly 14 pounds heavier, on an average, and 3.4 inches taller.

Lists Will Be Help in Buying Meats for Two

By Mary Meade.

[Copyright: 1941: By The Chicago Tribune.]

The woman who cooks for only two appetites doesn't often serve roast meat because, as she expresses it: "Who wants to eat up the leftovers for a week, anyway?" It isn't necessary to buy a large roast, of course, but sometimes a small one of suitable size gets down close to the proportions of a steak or chops.

The nice big beef rib roast, the leg of lamb or veal, and the whole ham must be saved for occasions in a small household. But just what are the kinds of meat a woman can serve to a small family? Pork chops, lamb chops, steaks, and hamburgers, naturally, but what else, for a little variety?

MEATS TO BUY TO SERVE TWO PERSONS.

PORK.

2 pound fresh loin roast
2 pound smoked butt [boned]
1½ pounds spareribs
4-6 slices Canadian bacon [thin ones]
2-3 slices Canadian bacon [thick ones]
2 loin or shoulder chops
2 double thick loin chops for stuffing
2 butterfly pork chops
¾ pound ham slice
½-¾ pound tenderloin
½ pound bacon
¼ pound salt pork [fry and serve with gravy]
½ pound bulk sausage or sausage links for a mixed grill
2 pork hearts
2 kidneys
½ pound liver

BEEF.

2 minute or cube steaks
2 chip steaks [4 to cure a big hunger]
2 club steaks [1 steak 1½ inches thick will serve 2]
2 rib steaks
1 T-bone
1 pound round steak [2 inches thick for swissing]
½ pound round steak for combination dishes
2 pound tenderloin roast [very expensive]
3 pound rib roast, bone in
2 pound pot roast [rump, chuck]
2 pounds neck bones and meat for stew
¾ pound lean cubed meat for stew
1 flank steak for stuffing
1 pound ground beef for loaf [with ¼ pound pork]
½ pound ground beef for patties or casseroles
3 pounds corned beef
1 beef tongue
½ pound liver
4 large frankfurters
1 kidney
1 oxtail
1 heart

VEAL.

2 pound rolled rump roast
2½-3 pound round roast, rump or shoulder with bone in
2 loin chops
1 sirloin steak
½-¾ pound other steaks and cutlets
2 kidney chops
2 rib chops
1 pound neck or breast meat for stew or pot-pie
2 veal hearts
1 pair sweetbreads to combine with chicken, sausage, or ham
1 set calf brains
1 tongue
2 kidneys
2 veal patties
2 mock chicken legs
1½ pounds riblets
½ pound liver

LAMB.

2¼ pound shoulder roast
Small leg roast
1½ pounds rolled lamb breast
2 shoulder, rib, or loin chops, cut thick [especially rib, as they're small]
2 Saratoga chops
2 lamb patties
2 English lamb chops [with kidney]
2-¾ inch neck slices
2 lamb hearts
1½ inch steak from lamb leg
1½ pounds riblets
1 pound lamb cut up for stew
2 lamb shanks [bone and stuff]
2 kidneys
½ pound liver
¾ pound cubed lamb for curry or casserole

CANNED MEATS WHICH ARE HANDY.

Dried beef
Meat loaf, spiced ham loaf
Spiced tongue
Vienna sausages, cocktail sausages
Corned beef, corned beef hash
Chili con carne, chop suey
Canned meat stews
Ham a la king, deviled ham
Potted meats for spreads
Tamales
Boneless pigs' feet
Boned chicken, chicken a la king
Sardines
Shrimp, lobster, crabmeat
Anchovy paste, other fish pastes
Codfish
Salmon
Tuna
Flaked fish

POULTRY.

Many stores these days sell chicken by the piece so that the housewife may buy two breasts or two drumsticks and thighs or whatever other pieces she prefers. Chicken livers are widely sold by themselves. Half a pound is enough for two. Broiling chickens and ducklings are good thoughts in poultry. The frozen broilers [one will serve two] are beautifully prepared. A three pound frying chicken isn't too large for a family of two.

FISH.

½ pint oysters [stew or scallop]
1½-2 pound lobster
½ pint scallops
½ pound shrimps
1 pound fillets of fish [will serve three]
2 steak slices [salmon or other fresh fish]

Frozen fish are convenient and there's much variety to choose from.

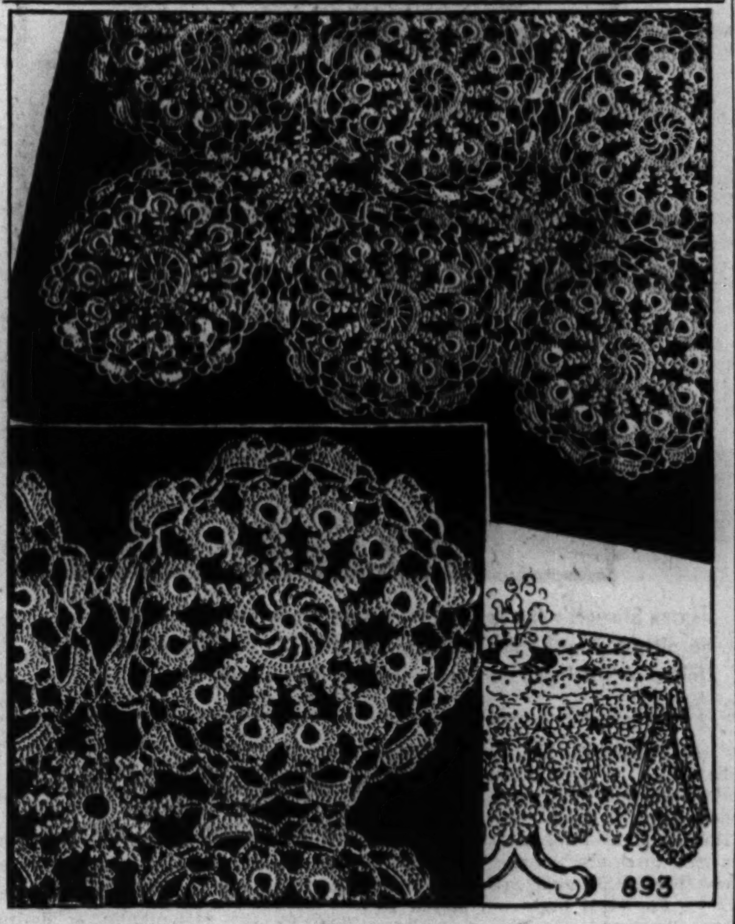
Snow Crystal Medallion



By Ellen Bruce.

Dainty snow crystals form the central motif of this lovely crocheted tablecloth, while the outer edge of the design is an adaptation of an Irish lace pattern. Ivory, mercerized, crochet cotton or fine ecru thread may be used to create the tablecloth. This same design is adaptable as a bedspread. The motifs are utterly simple to create, and they are joined together as made.

For instructions in crocheting the snow crystal medallion for a tablecloth, No. 893, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Household Forum

by Louise Bargelt

H. King, Chicago: Here's how I help heal the chapped and painful hands of my small children when they come in with wet, cold mittens. I have them soak hands in warm soapy water for at least five minutes and keep an extra soft brush for them to remove soil if necessary after soaking. Then they rinse hands in clear warm water and "pat" against towel till completely dry. After that they apply a hand lotion or cream and slip on loose white cotton mittens I keep just for the purpose. The treatment takes a little time but it helps those cracked and painful knuckles and hands.

Mrs. Virgina Smith, St. Louis, Mo.: Why aren't all bathtubs manufactured now with gripping rail as standard equipment?

* *

Helen Strong, Chicago: You'll find if you want to doll up some old clay flower pots you can use your children's crayons and achieve gay, soft finished effects with them. No waiting till they are dry, either. It's quite simple!

* *

Mrs. Ruth White, Milwaukee: If all fabrics were manufactured with a small measure on one selvage—wouldn't this permit a quicker measurement and a more accurate one?

* *

Dorothy Pringle, Chicago: If you want morning glories, sweet peas, petunias, and nasturtiums blooming early in your outside window boxes, do what I did last year. Late in the winter I planted these seeds around my house plants, and then when the seedlings had sprung up in soil I could set them out as soon as weather permitted.

Mrs. Grace Anderson, Chicago: My husband fastened a stiff clip about eight inches long on the underside of my lamp tables. I slip cords thru this clip and it keeps them off the floor.

Helen Fulton, Chicago: I keep a small whistle in the kitchen and use it to call my children into meals. It does save on ones voice. My mother and grandmother used a small bell for the purpose. I may be an old idea, but it helps!

On the House

By Louise Bargelt.

An interesting step forward in the control of household lighting now makes it possible to control ceiling illumination from a wall switch. If you wish soft light for conversation or rest, medium bright light for general purposes, or very bright light for special occasions, you need only turn to your wall switch to obtain the illumination desired.

Already the sun is getting stronger in our northern climate, and if you are planning new enclosed porches for your house, or new wings, or even new corner windows and window panes, it is of interest to note the developments made in a window glass which cuts down glare. This glass is a bluish tint and very clear and easy on the eyes. Its purpose is not to color light which comes in, nor to reduce it, but merely to soften it.

In case you have some room with a floor which is fairly far gone, and yet you don't want to go to the expense of a new one, check on ways of giving floor an old spatter-dash finish, the sort of finish used years ago, and now coming back into vogue. Such a finish is attractive since your basic floor color will be dark and the "spatter-dashes" can harmonize in color with some of the tones in your room's decorations. Cost is low for such a finish, too!

This Home-Mixed Cough Remedy is Most Effective

Easily Mixed. Needs No Cooking.

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of sugar syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granualted sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful medicine for coughs due to colds. It makes a real saving for you, because it gives you about four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love it.

This is actually a surprisingly effective, quick-acting cough remedy. Promptly, you feel it taking hold. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes and makes breathing easy. You've never seen anything better for prompt and pleasing results.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, a most reliable soothing agent for throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Duchin Paces Dynamic Show in Empire Room

By Will Davidson.

Eddy Duchin no longer claims those two red corpuscles. He says that only white ones course thru his Mephistophelean frame. But he's wrong. It's a steady stream of electrons.

How else explain that aura of magnetism that spreads thru the Empire room and out past Maitre Fritz Hagner's graciously guarded portal into the regal Palmer House lobby? Some day I'm going to take a galvanometer down there—and watch it go into hysterics.

Eddy's musicianship can't be questioned. His piano welds a fine organization into an exciting unit. His arrangements are vital, imaginative. Witness his recently recorded super-duper "Jenny," from Gertrude Lawrence's show. But the Duchin in person adds an indefinable but inescapable something that, for instance, makes the current Empire room show such a delight.

Contributing mightily, of course, are Eddy Howard and Maurice and Cordoba, Lorraine Sanchi and Bob Evans, Julie Robbins and the Muriel Abbot Girls. Alone they'd be grand entertainment. With Duchin they're a dynamo.

The music bookers of the nation must all be trying to get to Chicago fustest with the mostest. Look at the bands coming in. Ray Heatherton, an untried quantity here, look over the Continental room of the Stevens last night after singular success in New York's starchiest stubes. . . . Joe Sanders dragged his long white beard, the left handed one, into Mike [Michael for short] Todd's indoor grand canyon, accompanied by Les Brown's young band. . . . On the 25th of this month red cheeked Ramon Ramos returns to red walled Camellia house, in the Drake, to take up the hard task of replacing Bob Knight. . . . The Dukes and their Duchess [Gale Robbins] are already ensconced in the Buttery, as is Teddy Wilson and his elegant band in the Pump room. . . . And on Friday night Bob Crosby makes his Panther room debut at the Sherman. Looks like a great month for the song pluggers.

Ray Heatherton.

When Griff Williams went back to the Trianon last night he went with mightily increased stature. Three or four years ago he came there out of the west with excellent notices, but untried in the midwest. He stayed for months, and became one of those personality fixtures. Then he made his hotel debut here in the Continental room of the Stevens, and instantly found his perfect environment. As he had proved so beautifully on the coast, Griff has a warm nervous energy that finds expression not only in his own piano playing and conducting, but in the work of his men. Few are the bands that have such a high coefficient of humor and friendliness. Griff broke records at the Stevens like no waiter there ever broke dishes. And his parting gesture was typical—a cocktail party to introduce Ray Heatherton to the friends Griff was leaving behind for a while. A guy like that makes you wonder how there can be chiselers and war mongers in the world.

Following Matty Malneck into the Pump room is something like doing a quick trumpet turn right after Gabriel, but Teddy Wilson's the boy who can do it, I guess. This former Goodman pianist is a quiet and very personable young man, and he has a slick looking, impressive bunch of boys. They give you jive in a top hat, swing in mink, and jam in a golden jar. Try 'em for that tired, income tax feeling.

Altho quiet, charming Bob Knight dominates the Camellia house with his musical niceties, there's a velvet voiced little singer to add a bit of glitter to the shows. She's Patricia Payton, and altho methinks the lady doth protest too much, she is very, very listenable when singing, let's say, "It All Comes Back to Me Now," or "Music, Maestro, Please."

Boswelling the Bistros: Grandfather's Follies, the hit show at the Blackhawk, was born just four years ago in Paris at the Chez O'Dett [O, dat?] and it will celebrate the birthday Monday night. Flora Duane and Earl Leslie, leads and coproducers, dreamed up the revue during an ultramodern world's fair—a neat bit of contrast. Major change, they say, is ampler costumes. . . . Al Fuller, chief of the weeping-and-wailing-and-gnashing-of-teeth department at the Palmer House is recovering from adjective starvation in Arizona. . . . Nomination for the most fortuitous blend of diverse talents: Willie Shore and Jerry Bergen at the Hi Hat. . . . Gregorian Chants

A remarkably wide and inclusive selection of Gregorian melodies have been recorded on five disks and issued by the McLaughlin & Reilly company of Boston. The chants are sung by Marie Pierik, whose understanding of Gregorian rhythm, textual content, and melodic expressiveness is unusual. The records are designed particularly to be used in conjunction with Miss Pierik's book, entitled "The Spirit of Gregorian Chant." The record album bears the same title as the book.

Miami Beach Superplayground of Nation

By India Moffett

Miami Beach, Fla., March 1.—How can we write one letter about Miami Beach when our notes cover several pages?

It would take columns to develop every word that we have jotted down, thinking they could be made into an interesting paragraph. So, into the wastebasket go all the notes and we will just write about the things—and places—and persons that we remember without any penciled memoranda.

• • •

First of all, the growth of this place since last winter. It was big enough then, but now it's bigger. There wasn't enough land, apparently, so "they" built another island in Biscayne bay and called it North Bay Island, and lo, where last year there were only rippling waves, today there are houses and hundreds of tall palms. There were 17 houses the last time we drove across the 79th street causeway, from which one enters the new island, but that was several days ago, so there probably are more now, for the island is large enough to accommodate another 17.

The springing up of an island almost overnight is not really so surprising, however, when you consider that the first time we visited Miami in 1919 Miami Beach was just a dismal mangrove swamp with a narrow strip of bathing beach. Carl Fisher, Indianapolis millionaire, had begun to dream of building the Miami Beach of today—or had he? we wonder—six years before, but his dream was mostly still in his head when we first saw the beach, for it was nothing. Just a place to which to go to bathe in the surf if you were enjoying a vacation in the city of Miami.

Today Miami Beach deserves all the adjectives that Hollywood employs to describe anything remarkable, or not so remarkable sometimes. It is the super playground of this country with 261 hotels, 878 apartment houses, and over 3,000 homes. We did save that note!

• • •

In April, Miami Beach citizens are going to erect a monument to the late Carl Graham Fisher, the man whose vision started the Beach. The monument "won't be a gaudy, pretentious affair, for the man who wrested the nation's No. 1 winter playground from a mangrove swamp wouldn't have liked that," wrote a Miami newspaper man. Whew, it takes time to digest that one. What did Mr. Fisher think of Miami Beach before he died in the summer of 1939, we wonder.

Leiter-Clagett Rites a Lovely Capital Event

By Cousin Eve.

My proxy at the Leiter Clagett wedding in Washington writes me that as weddings go it was perfectly grand. The ceremony uniting Joe Leiter's Nancy, only daughter and co-heir of one of Chicago's great fortunes, with Charles Thomas Clagett took place in the huge Leiter brick house in Dupont circle. The crowd was enormous, the vast high ceiled rooms banked with spicy white carnations, and fashion was rampant. Nancy is a handsome girl and Tom, they say, is a very fine young man, wonderful looking, too, and the receiving line was something to see.

Juliet Leiter, mother of the bride, was resplendant in spring green and Ma Williams, Nancy's famous granny, wore regal lavender with toque of violets, while Mrs. Frederick Sterling, aunt of the bride, was stunning indeed in crimson velvet. Frederick Sterling, minister to Sweden, remains on in Stockholm. The wedding buffet was no mere matter of champagne and wafer like sandwiches. Nor was the wedding cake one of those "stooges" one hears about, just so much scenery. The buffet was gorgeous and the wedding cake one of those three-tiered cakes that are worth eating, with cold turkey, hams, salads, ices, champagne, sweets, and what not all in the most lavish, unending profusion.

Present at the Leiter-Clagett wedding was the next bride-to-be, Louise Stillwell, elder of Mme. Felipe Espil's two girls, who is to marry Randall Hagner Jr. in March at the Argentine embassy. My proxy informs me that young Hagner is a dear and the best parti of the town. It is a great love match. Inasmuch as Courtney Louise is a peachy, blooming and dazzling young thing, this is easy to believe. She is a daughter of "Babe" Stillwell and a blonde like him, and of all the girls dancing last summer at the Homestead at Hot Springs she was the most wholly attractive.

Mme. Espil, wife of the Argentinian ambassador, was a Chicago girl, Courtney Letts, elder daughter of the late Frank Letts. She is a slim, black haired beauty with violet eyes, and very clever, and has great vogue in capital society. The Argentine embassy is large and roomy enough for the prospective wedding, occupying as it does a big corner in the fashionable end of Washington near Massachusetts avenue.

Here in Chicago bowling is being done in a large way and at the time is the favorite indoor sport among members of the younger married set. The Racquet club has a bowling department second to none in the basement of its handsome quarters at Schiller street and Dearborn parkway. There are four gleaming alleys each with automatic devices for setting up the pins, and a bowling master in charge. In the past fortnight a bowling tournament has been under way, of which Mrs. Edward Van Alyea was chairman for the women and Col. Thomas Gowenlock for the men.

The contestants bowled whenever the spirit moved them on handicaps set up on averages taken during the winter. The women change into loose tennis outfits with rubber soled shoes, and the men as well, for these bowling evenings. And the wasp waists of the principals are something to write home about, for that is one of the benefits of bowling, a neat waistline.

Among the active bowlers in the tournament were Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer Jr., Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Van Alyea, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Meade, Mr. and Mrs. John Irving, Mrs. Byron Harvey Jr., Mr. and Mrs. James Meloy, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Carpenter, Dr. Eugene Talbot, Louis Buss, John W. Root, Mr. and Mrs. Ballard Moore, and Bryan S. Reid. The prizes, very delectable silver cups, were won by Mrs. James Meloy, Mrs. Byron Harvey Jr., and Mrs. Tom Gowenlock. Prize winning men were Harold Amberg, Ballard Moore, Bryan Reid, and Potter Palmer Jr.

• • •

The Racquet club is quite the liveliest club in town these days with backgammoning at teatime, bowling, movies, bridge and dinner parties. Our outdoor sports fans are not so lucky—poor darlings—as the bowlers. The James Forgans went down to their Vermont farm for the skiing season and Margaret Forgan is laid up with a broken leg. However, if one had to be hospitalized anywhere with a severe fracture, Burlington, Vt., with its clear mountain air and white, white snow wouldn't be so bad. Velma Baumann, handsome younger daughter of Reimund Baumann, Danish consul general, broke a leg here in town while having a peaceful skate at the Arena. This is the banner year for broken hips and legs at Passavant hospital—with 31 of the former in its wards.

• • •

Probably the most spectacular of our travelers are Mr. and Mrs. James Hopkins, who are taking boats and planes. Russell Tyson sailed with them to Jamaica for a three week stay on this lovely English isle, which has been the favorite of all winter resorts this year. Afterward the Hopkinses will proceed by plane to their favorite winter place over all others, the Ojai inn at Ojai Valley, Cal.

And yet they say there are more stay at homes than ever this year. Henry Voegeli came up to the box the night of the Burton Holmes opening—his 48th year in Chicago—and the popular maestro of Orchestra hall was ecstatic. Alone, single handed, without any charming ladies to assist or any committees whatever, he had sold out the Toscanini concert for the evening of April 24. This is the windup of the Chicago Symphony season, and Maestro Toscanini had offered his services as conductor in honor of the orchestra's golden jubilee. The mere announcement had sold 26 boxes at $100 apiece [many checks had to be returned] and the downstairs seats were snapped up like popcorn at $10 apiece. The funds raised by this concert will go to the pension fund of the Chicago orchestra.

Mrs. Thomas Hinde whispered in my ear that she had had Box H in Orchestra hall for Burton Holmes' lectures for 48 successive seasons. We were seated in Box H enjoying the distinguished traveler's witty remarks and beautiful color photographs about our neighbor to the south, Mexico.

Burton Holmes lives on Central Park in New York where he has an apartment full of treasures. But he was born in Chicago and feels at home here. Usually during his yearly stay he is met often in the current social circulation, and our most perennial bachelor, Frederick Bulkley Tuttle, is sure to entertain at dinner for him in his Victorian abode in South Michigan avenue.

• • •

Another guest at Mr. and Mrs. Hinde's party was Miss Mary Nixon of Florence, Italy, one of Chicago's most interesting women. Miss Nixon owns a beautiful Florentine villa, on the hills dominating the town, and she keeps in close touch with life there. Florence and Rome, it seems, have had a gay social life this winter. Many Americans have stuck to their homes in these fair cities, and in order to keep cheerful have entertained constantly. Opera has been going in Rome and in Florence, too, and symphony concerts have continued.

The one great lack is chauffage, or fuel. When one thinks of those marble floors thruout Italy and the vast rooms with high ceilings and the linen sheets, one shivers sympathetically.

A secondary lack is coffee, and cream and butter are quite impossible. But life goes on. The great party of the winter was Alexander Kirk's Christmas dinner in Rome. He invited his American friends to this great festivity in Via Nomentana including all the American girls who have married Italians and vice versa and lots of diplomats, and they all celebrated his safe return from the United States with cymbals and the psaltery. But alack! the news of their host's transfer to be American minister to Egypt was already en route in the great diplomatic game of stage coach. In order to avoid travel by sea Mr. Kirk has left Rome and is traveling via Jugo-Slavia by train and motor. At Istanbul he will cross by ferry to Asiatic Turkey and then proceed by train to Aleppo, and via the Holy Land to Cairo. This is all around Robin Hood's barn and will take time, but what a thrilling trip thru the growling dogs of war.

• • •

News from Ireland that Sir John Lavery has died at Kilmoganny in the home of Mrs. John McEnery, his stepdaughter. This was Alice Trudeau, only child of Hazel Martyn, one of Chicago's great belles, who became "a professional beauty" in London as Lady Lavery. Alice Trudeau was brought up in England along with Eileen, Sir John's only child, who became Lady Sempill, wife of the 19th baron, Francis Forbes.

Experts Offer Defense Hints to Homemakers

By Betty Browning.

Practical suggestions for the many women who are asking "What can we do to help further national defense?" have been offered by two women experts in this field during recent visits to Chicago.

Miss Mary Beard.
[Blackstone Photo.]

Miss Mary Beard, national director of the Red Cross nursing service for the last two and one half years, and before that an executive and research student in public health in this country and in many foreign lands, is one of the experts. The other is Miss Mary I. Barber, president of the American Dietetic association, who was director of home economics for a national foods concern until she was loaned recently to the quartermaster general as a "dollar a year" woman to supervise army menus.

• • •

The proper feeding of the nation, both agree, is women's prime responsibility, "as important to attain unassailable strength as anything we can think of," according to Miss Beard, and in Miss Barber's words, "our first line of defense." Miss Barber emphasizes that "15 to 25 per cent" of all men drafted have been rejected for not meeting health requirements, largely because of poor diet.

A "nutrition program" soon to be launched under the guidance of Dr. Helen Mitchell, a member of the American Dietetic association, will include a survey of persons qualified to train leaders who, in turn, will volunteer as teachers to bring information on nutrition to interested organizations.

Better home management, better buying habits, and greater knowledge of food values are to be fruits of this teaching.

The homemaker's responsibility does not end with her own family, both women affirm, but must extend to the community. "An improved social conscience, a desire to know the truth about community problems and to help solve them," is Miss Barber's way of phrasing it.

• • •

Miss Beard speaks of "disease, housing, sanitation, insufficient schooling, migrants, all the problems we were working on before, that now are intensified in many communities," particularly in the vicinity of army camps and defense industries.

The homemaker can make an important contribution to the general health along with nurses and physicians, Miss Beard asserts. Thru the classes in home nursing which the Red Cross now is expanding she can learn to take care of her own family and can even become a nurse's aid, thereby freeing professional nurses for other service.

To meet the need for nurses in the army and in industrial plants, Miss Beard explains, schools of nursing are increasing their enrollments and nurses retired after marriage are being registered as reserves. The army alone, she estimates, will need more than 4,000 nurses by July 1.

Providing wholesome recreation for soldiers in communities near army camps is another responsibility to be met in large part by women thru their clubs. Collecting reading matter for the boys at camp is another of Miss Barber's suggestions. Social service organizations of long standing need additional competent workers, she reminds, altho "volunteer workers sometimes are too ready to let social engagements interfere with their work."

• • •

It is noteworthy that these recommendations, in large part, already have been incorporated in the national defense program of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, which is suggesting that individual units make community surveys preparatory to carrying out these recommendations.

• • •

Other organizations may obtain further suggestions along these same lines from the women's division of the National Association of Manufacturers, 14 West 49th street, headed by Mrs. Lucy R. Milligan, and from Miss Sally Woodward of a Minneapolis, Minn., flour concern. Study outlines with practical suggestions for correlating club programs with national defense needs have been prepared by Mrs. Milligan and Miss Woodward, both of whom have had broad experience with a variety of organizations.

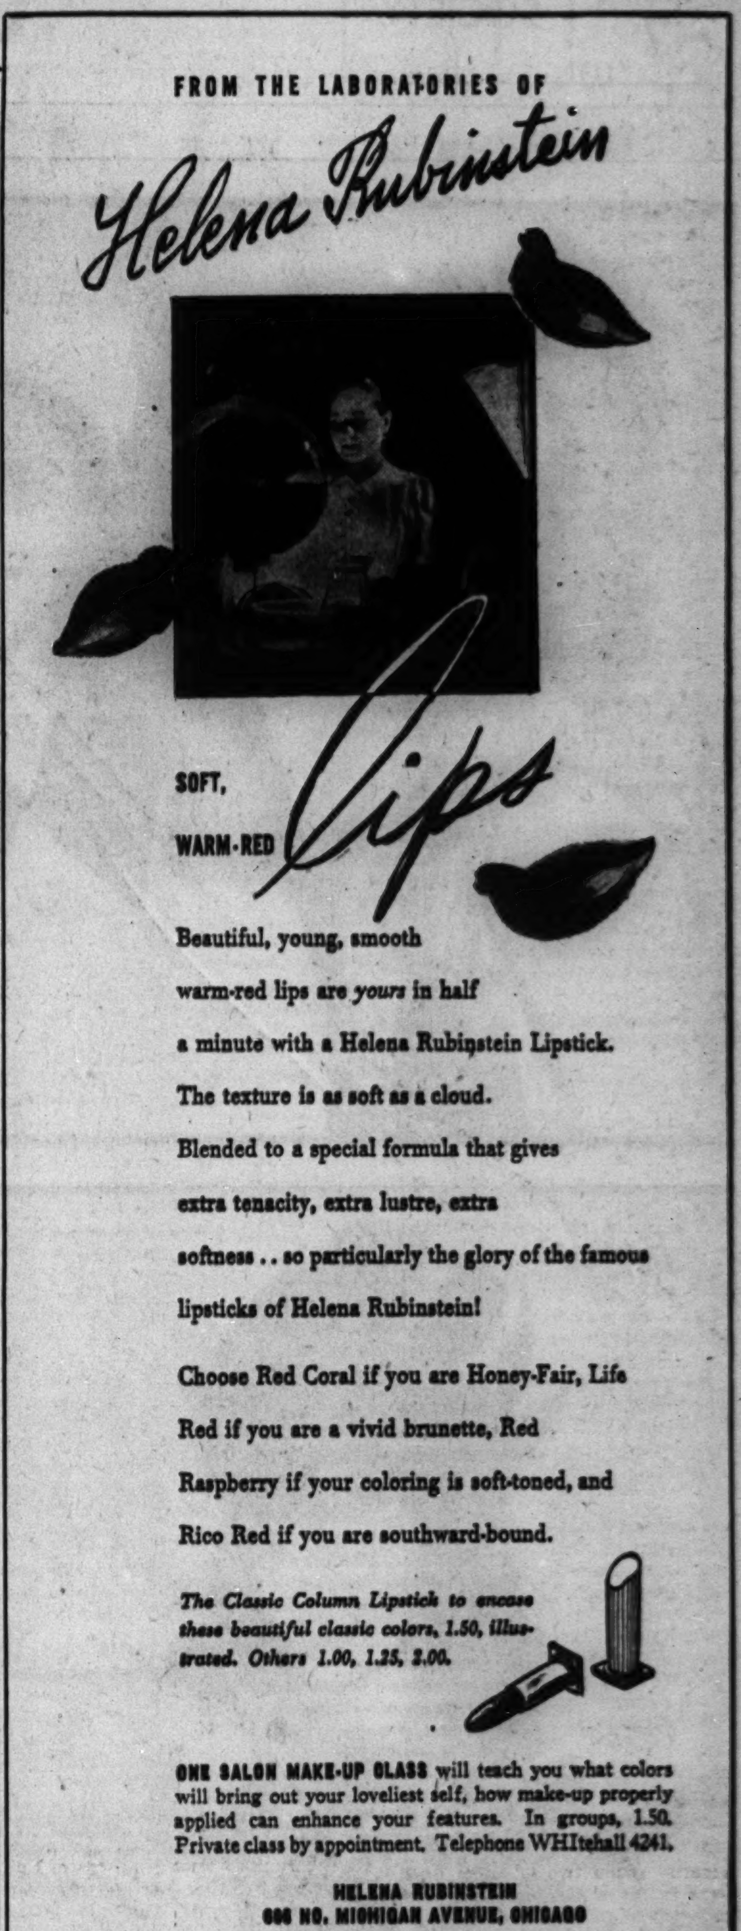
P.-T. A. Conclave April 22 to 24 at Belleville

"Individual Responsibility to the Community" will be the theme of the 42d annual convention of the Illinois Congress of Parents and Teachers, to be held April 22 to 24 at Belleville, Ill. The state executive committee announced tentative plans for the program following its recent meeting at the Stevens hotel. Howard Y. McClusky, assistant director of the American Youth commission, will sound the convention keynote, answering the question, "What Is an Individual's Responsibility to His Community?" Panels on education, health, and social service will develop the theme at subsequent sessions.

Three seminars on "An Individual's Responsibility to His School and Its Parent-Teacher association," dealing with the rural and the city elementary school and the high school and junior college, will be held the final day.



Miami Beach Nation's Super Playground

The Beach city council has given a public park to be called the Carl Graham Fisher park, and it is in it that what really will be a beautiful and simple monument will be erected. It is to be a double life size bronze bust of Fisher, done by Gustav Bohland, Beach sculptor, on a base of Florida cast stone. Rising behind the bust will be a 20 foot column of the same cast stone. The design for the monument was made by Russell T. Pancoast, Beach architect. The funds for the tribute to Mr. Fisher's memory were raised by voluntary subscription.

Last winter a child who was seeing Miami Beach for the first time said it looked like a huge world's fair. It does. It's as big as the Chicago, the New York, and the San Francisco fairs all put together, and then some. There are as many styles of architecture, too. And as many bright lights, and side shows, and good times. There are educational and cultural sections, as there are at every exposition, but they are not what attract the tourists.

• • •

In Miami Beach one plays, and plays, and plays, and goes to bed exhausted, and gets up the next morning to do the same thing all over again. If you're one of the great middle class you spend some time in the sun each day for you must have a tan to prove to the stay at homes that you've gotten your money's worth in Miami Beach—and you do need money here during the season—but if you belong to the upper class, you don't waste much time in the sun. You spend several hundred dollars a season for a cabana—in addition to your membership—at the Surf or the Bath club, the Beach's most exclusive beach clubs, but you don't use the cabana often. You go to the club constantly, to luncheon, to dinner, to a ball, to play backgammon, tennis, or bridge, or just to sit in a tricky bar, but you don't make use of the magnificent pool or the enormous beach that each club has to any great extent.

• • •

The Surf club has 275 cabanas and the Bath club 125. The hotel beaches and their cabana clubs and the semiprivate or public beaches are crowded every day, all day. Before we came south this winter we heard that Miami Beach was having a poor season; there is no evidence of it here and we have not been able to find any of the hotels that we were told had been closed due to bad business. Every hotel, restaurant, night club, and bar seems to be doing a boom business. One does hear, however, that the big business men who ordinarily spend two or three months here in the winter are only able to be here for a week at a time this season. Except for this, and for the number of women one sees at the beach clubs knitting, the war in Europe seems very far away from Miami Beach, much further than from Chicago.

• • •

The fact that defense is uppermost in every one's mind these days, tho, is brought home forcibly when the mosquito fleet comes out of the Miami harbor and rushes up and down the coast at the Beach. Rushes is the right word, too, for the little gray boats are said to go nearly 70 miles an hour. This morning we watched nine of them go thru maneuvers with several planes overhead and also the huge blimp that makes regular trips over Miami and the surrounding country. The effect was interesting, but terrifying. Terrifying because of what such a scene portends. Not so long ago sun worshipers and fun seekers on the Italian and French Riviera were watching, no doubt, the same sort of activities, paying no more serious heed to them than we did today.

Everywhere one goes in Miami or at the Beach, one meets Chicagoans, for they are here by the thousands. At the Surf club one is pretty apt to run into the Eugene Clarks, for they live in one of the club apartments. At present they have the Weymouth Kirklands visiting them. Last Sunday at the club's weekly buffet luncheon-dance in the beautiful patio there were four other Chicagoans in the Clarks' party—the George T. Leaches, who are visiting the Ross Judsons of Detroit at their stunning new home on Sunset Island No. 1, and the John H. Dingles. Mrs. Emily Battelle Offutt is another Chicagoan who uses the Surf club frequently, and she is one of those who really enjoy the cabanas and the beach.

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin has been visiting the John F. McCarthys on La Gorce Island. She became interested in a stray dog recently at the Surf club and since has been busy stirring up interest in trying to improve Miami's and Miami Beach's methods of caring for lost or stray dogs.

• • •

Mrs. Eugene F. McDonald Jr., always one of the prettiest and most distinctively gowned women wherever she is, has been busy studying piano with Harold Bauer at the University of Miami this winter, so she has not been seen at the Surf club as often as usual. Last Tuesday night Mrs. McDonald gave a farewell dinner for Mr. and Mrs. Bauer at the lovely home in North Bay road that she and little Marianne are occupying this winter.

Among the dinner guests was John Doctoroff of Chicago, who is at the Hollywood Beach hotel while he is doing some portraits in this neighborhood. Also Mr. and Mrs. John Bitter of Coral Gables. She is the former Dorothy Michelson of Chicago, and her husband is the director of the Miami Symphony orchestra.

• • •

The Junior James Simpsons of Chicago are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bonbright, who also live in North Bay road. The Gerald M. Butlers, whose home in North Bay road is aglow just now with a flame vine that covers the one story garage and sun room, are looking forward to having their children with them this month. Gerald Jr. comes from the Hill school on the 15th, and Joan arrives from Chatham hall on the 28th. Julia, the youngest, goes to a local school. Mrs. Stewart Johnson and Mrs. Henry C. Bartholomay will be here shortly for a visit with Mrs. Butler.

Mrs. Theodore S. Gary of Chicago is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hewett Brown of Louisville, in Coral Gables. Mrs. Brown gave a large luncheon at the Bath club on Friday for her daughter, who will be joined by Mr. Gary at the end of this month.

Mrs. David Joseph Molloy, whose husband is president of the exclusive Indian Creek Country club, has been ill with influenza, so has not been taking as active a part in Miami Beach social affairs as she usually does. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Bennan and their daughter, Miss Mary, are paying their annual visit to Miami Beach, where they are living at the Whitman hotel. Mrs. Albert Blake Dick is spending a month at the Pancoast.

Sigrid Schultz Is to Address Two Audiences Tuesday

Sigrid Schultz, chief of THE TRIBUNE'S Berlin bureau, just arrived from Europe, will address two organizations Tuesday. She will speak on "Report on Germany" at a luncheon meeting of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations in the grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel, and again that evening on "Inside Germany" at the Chicago Woman's club, 72 East 11th street. The club is opening the evening lecture to the public, and tickets are obtainable at the clubhouse.

Sigrid Schultz.

Born in Chicago and educated in France and Germany, Miss Schultz has been with THE TRIBUNE'S Berlin bureau since 1919, and has headed it since 1925. She is one of two women known to have been chief of a foreign press bureau, and is dean of the foreign press corps at Berlin.

Here Are Uses for Old Woolen, Cotton Blankets

Woolen and cotton blankets discarded as bed coverings make excellent table and ironing board covers, crib pads, or filling for light comforters.

In 1873 a woman in Riverside, Cal., received from the United States department of agriculture two small navel orange trees. Today California harvests millions of dollars worth of oranges.

Celebrations of Anniversaries on Club Calendars

Birthday anniversaries will be celebrated by several organizations this week. The 89th national Founders' day of Phi Mu sorority will be observed by the Chicago Alumnae association at a dinner Tuesday at the Chicago Woman's club. Mrs. A. J. Lauer, association president, will conduct a service commemorating the sorority's founding at Wesleyan college, Macon, Ga. Mrs. Hal Bishop, Mrs. Roy Willett, and Miss Lillias Raymaker will present a skit, "Old Days at Wesleyan."

Wednesday evening Chicago area members of Phi Omega Pi national Panhellenic sorority will mark the sorority's 31st birthday, also with a dinner at the Chicago Woman's club. Miss Marion Edwards of Chicago, national president, will be among the speakers, and Mrs. C. A. Benowitz will be toastmistress.

The 45th anniversary of the Chicago Culture club will occasion a tea tomorrow afternoon at the Republic building.

The Independent German American Woman's club will have Dr. George L. Scherger, pastor of St. Paul's church, and former presidents as guests at its annual birthday luncheon Wednesday at the Auditorium hotel. The Steele Solfronk duo will give a musical program.

Musical Fraternity Plans Interchapter Musical

Sigma Alpha Iota National Musical fraternity will hold an interchapter musical and tea at 4 o'clock this afternoon at the Woman's University club, 410 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. Ruth Sanderson Phillips, pianist; Mary Louise Holding, soprano, and Almada Biery Jones, violinist, will present the program. Miss La Verne Hand will be in charge.

Club Benefits Artistic in Their Nature

Benefits of the week are predominantly artistic in character. The Catholic Poetry Society of America, Chicago chapter, will sponsor a lecture, reception, and tea this afternoon at the Chicago Woman's club in order to finance prizes to be awarded annually to Illinois poets. Sister Mary Madelena, president of St. Mary's College of Notre Dame, will speak on "Frontiers in Poetry," and the Rev. Albert Durant, chaplain of the chapter, will give his "Prayer for Poets." Mrs. M. E. Moran is general chairman.

"A Night of Music" will be presented for the benefit of the Chicago Philanthropic Club Juniors at 8:15 o'clock this evening at the Fine Arts building. Hans Alten, baritone; Fred Spector, violinist; Marvin Gross, pianist, and Emma Brody, accompanist, will give a program of classical masterpieces. Kurt H. Heim and Mr. Gross have arranged the evening.

Themis, only woman's organization of the University college of Northwestern university, will hold an "All-American Carnival" Saturday evening at Thorne hall in order to raise money to establish a scholarship fund for women night school students. Dancing, games, and entertainment, much of it provided by students, will be in order. Miss Lucille Olsen is chairman of the benefit.

Miss Lucille Olsen.

A spring tea and tour of the studio of Fred M. Torrey and Mable Landrum Torrey, sculptors, will be sponsored by the woman's association of the Presbyterian College of Christian Education tomorrow afternoon for the benefit of the college. Mrs. Earl L. Vernon heads the arrangements committee.

The Chicago branch of the American Association of University Women will give a card party to benefit the Children's Scholarship league Saturday afternoon at Ida Noyes hall. Miss Louise Viehoff is in charge.

The Andoka Philanthropic club will give a luncheon and card party for the benefit of the Martha Washington Home for Crippled Children Tuesday noon at the home. Mrs. Rudolph Baumel is president of the club.

Third Red Cross Unit of O. E. S. Recently Opened

The Order of the Eastern Star of Illinois recently opened its third Red Cross unit at the Metropolitan Masonic temple, 3951 Wilcox street. Some 480 Chicago members now are active in the north side, south side and west side units, and 20 Chicago area members have received Red Cross pins for completing 144 hours of service. Mrs. Bertha M. Eagle of Chicago, past worthy grand matron, is state general chairman of Red Cross work for the order.

Golf Tourney Is Highlight at Bellair

Varied social and sports events are on the Florida calendar at Belleair for the coming week.

BELLEAIR, FLA. Golf will continue to lead in sports with the Belleair Open, for the Plant trophy, scheduled to take place at the Belleair Country club March 9 and 10. All the leading top flight pros and amateurs will compete, with a purse of $3,000 to be awarded to winning pros and silver prizes for amateur winners. The last open, formerly the West Coast Open, and the oldest golf fixture on the west coast of Florida, was held here in 1937.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Topping are at the Belleview Biltmore. Mrs. Topping, better known as Sonja Henie, has put aside her skates for sunbaths, swimming, and tennis at Belleair, and her husband, owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers football team, plays golf daily with his many old friends here. After a short trip to the east coast Mrs. Topping will commence work on her Hollywood production, "Sun Valley." Many dinner parties have been given for the Toppings.

• • •

Many Chicagoans are expected this week-end at the Belleview Biltmore. Mr. and Mrs. Jay N. Whipple, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Simmons, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall, and Mr. and Mrs. George F. McLaughlin among them.

Mrs. Solomon A. Smith gave a luncheon and bridge party this week at her winter residence. The Smiths' daughter, Mrs. Scott Bromwell of Lake Forest will join her parents here next Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Robert O. Law have as their guests Mrs. Edwin Henry and Miss Louise Mackie of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Milton Hardacre of Highland Park and Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Raymond of Evanston are residing this winter at nearby Indian Rocks where the Hardacres plan to build a new home shortly.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gould Foote of Chicago gave a large dinner this week at the Carlouel Yacht club. Mr. and Mrs. George Eversole will join them today.

Miss Gloria Douglas of Chicago has joined her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Douglas, at the Belleview Biltmore. Mrs. John McKinlay and her daughter, Mrs. John A. Middleton Jr. of Chicago will join Mr. McKinlay this week-end.

Chicagoans at the hotel include Mrs. C. M. Kittle, who is a fashion plate in both sports and evening attire; Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Palmer, Dr. Otho F. Ball, and Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Keller of River Forest.

The Approach of Spring Apparent in Club Meetings

The approach of spring is indicated in the calendar of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs this week. The spring meeting of the board of directors is scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday at headquarters, 30 West Washington street. The annual school of horticulture, sponsored by the garden department, will be held all day tomorrow at headquarters. William Head Gray, landscape architect; Paul E. Burdell, agromologist; Florence Zugel, hybridizer; Frank Balthis, horticulturist, and Mrs. P. W. Julstrom, expert on flower arrangements, will be presented at the garden school. Mrs. J. P. Edwards, garden chairman, is in charge. The state board will discuss the forthcoming state and national conventions and the program of work for the coming year.

Burros Barred from Dancing at This Shindig

By Frederic Babcock.

PHOENIX, ARIZ. Not that it had anything to do with the father of our country, but one phase of the celebration of Washington's birthday here was the annual Gold Diggers' ball at Camelback inn.

Nearly every part of the west likes to recall its pioneering days and in Phoenix the emphasis is placed on the days of the prospectors. Hence the reference to the gold diggers. The terms had a different meaning in those times from what it does now.

• • •

The ball was typical of the delightful informality with which the guests are treated at the winter resort hotels and dude ranches in southern Arizona. In the areas surrounding Phoenix, Tucson, and Wickenburg the millionaires are no better than the masses, and everybody loses his title of "Mister."

Here were the rules of this affair, as officially announced by Jack Stewart, manager of the Camelback:

"No Sunday-go-to-meetin' duds. Come all ready for fun in full western riggin'. Show up in the best costume and win yourself a prize.

"Park yore shootin' irons outside. This here is a friendly get-together, and we ain't standin' for no shootin' scrapes.

"No manhandlin' of the orchestry boys. They're doin' the best they know how.

"No prospectin' for gold in the posy beds.

"No horses or burros allowed on the dance floor."

• • •

Invitations were accompanied by this demand:

"The chuck wagon boss says he's got to know how much beans and sourdough to get ready for this shindig. So R. S. V. P., as they say in the highfalutin' society back east."

Everybody must have accepted, for the dance floor was jammed, and the supply of "beans and sourdough" was just about exhausted. And nobody tried to bring in a horse or a burro. Even the hotel's three pets, "Snowball," "Highball," and "Screwball," were forced to remain outside. [Snowball is a white burro, Highball its brown counterpart, and Screwball a fence-climbing goat.

• • •

Master of ceremonies was a he-man with the not very he-mannish name of Romaine Lowdermilk. Romaine looked and acted the part of one who had never prospected for gold [tourist or otherwise] east of the Rockies. But some of us dudes, prying into his past, recalled the time when he was one of the prize entertainers at the National Barn dance in Chicago.

Chief caller of dances was a real cowboy right out of the Wyoming foothills. Everybody called him Ed, and nobody bothered about his last name. He could, and did, announce the square dances, and the circle dances, and the Virginia reels with an éclat never achieved by any one born and reared in the city.

• • •

Mountain music was provided by the Bunkhouse band, with Lowdermilk as the leader and with the bandsmen yodeling of life on the lone prair-ee and the unfortunate endings of the careers of girls who didn't play square with their menfolk.

It was a grand and ripsnorting party.

This dude suffered only one disappointment. We met up with a modest young cowboy known as Ropin' Bill, after we had learned from others of his success in carrying off prizes at all the nearby rodeos. We felt certain this meant that he was a true product of the open range.

"Where you come from, pardner?" we asked, trying our best to adopt the vernacular. "I reckon you was born in the saddle somewheres way out west."

"O, sure," he said, with a wicked grin. "I come from around Decatur, Ill."

THE VOICE OF THE TRAVELER

Letters regarding travel conditions and experiences are welcomed. Please keep them brief. Address: Travel Editor, Chicago Tribune.

PROUD OF HIS STATE.

Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 15.—To the Travel Editor: Now that spring and summer are once more in the offing, I'd like to tell your readers about a trip they can make to the northern tip of Michigan. Three of us took it last summer.

After spending a week in fishing on our favorite northern lake, we went to Keeweenaw county in the Upper peninsula. There we saw historical Fort Wilkins, famous in the early Indian uprisings and now a part of a state park. Because of its scenic beauty, the park is much frequented by artists and writers.

From there we climbed Brockway mountain, and from the summit we had a grand view of the pine clad country for miles around. We were told that on a clear day we could have seen Isle Royale.

On the way back we passed thru the forest preserve owned by Henry Ford. It consists of huge maples, spruce, and jack pine. Then we suddenly came upon the quaint little model village of Alberta. It houses the people who run the saw mill that supplies the Ford Motor company with lumber.

We followed part of the new highway which, when completed, will extend along the shores of Lake Michigan for 50 or 60 miles. It was a beautiful trip. We came home thrilled over the fact that we live in Michigan. DWIGHT D. LOOMIS.

SOUTH AMERICAN WAY.

Beloit, Wis., Feb. 18.—To the Travel Editor: For several months I had the pleasure of receiving postcards from Mason Warner, picturing the various places he was visiting in South America. I was on the point of writing you to ask when his series of articles on that continent would be published in your paper, when the series began. It is quite needless to add that I and many other readers are enjoying these articles to the utmost.

H. B. MAGEE.

A LARGE ORDER.

Grandview, Ind., Feb. 10.—To the Travel Editor: In the last five years I have been reading the Tribune's travel pages with intense interest. I believe they are the greatest means yet discovered for dispensing authentic information regarding travel.

I have managed to comply with many of the requests of the shut-ins for cards and letters. Having done quite a bit of traveling myself, I shall attempt to answer descriptively any question, from any one, regarding our country, the Trail to the Star, Bethlehem, the Mount of Olives, or any other topic. J. CASPER HOLLAND, Box 136.

SHE WANTS MORE OF THE SAME.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—To the Travel Editor: The first thing I read in THE TRIBUNE is the travel section. I wish you could enlarge it, so as to include more of such experiences as Mrs. Dan S. Buck of McLean, Ill., recently described in her letter about her trip to Mexico.

Good luck to your department, and thanks for the many hours of informative and pleasant reading.

MRS. H. C. JOHNSEN.

Movies of Rio.

A movie in color entitled "Beautiful Rio de Janeiro in Carnival Season" will be shown Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 9 p. m. at the Hotel La Salle. The showing takes about 45 minutes and it is free to the public.

TIPS TO TOURISTS

What's your travel problem? Address queries regarding where to go, how to get there, costs, and accommodations to the Travelers' Guide, Chicago Tribune, inclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I am going to Florida this winter, and wish to visit a friend in training at Camp Blanding. Can you tell me where it is? —L. J.

Near Jacksonville.

The officers of our national sorority are planning a convention in Denver next summer. How big is that city, and how many visitors can it accommodate at one time? —C. I. H.

Denver has a population of 338,000. Its 300 hotels and lodging houses have facilities for 60,000 guests.

Is it true that the highest and lowest points in the United States are in California? If so, what are they?— A. M.

Yes, if you refer to the states only. Mount McKinley, in Alaska, is the highest point in the whole country. Excluding that territory, the honor goes to California's Mount Whitney, nearly three miles high. The lowest point is Bad Water, in California's Death valley. There the elevation—or lack of it—is 279.6 feet below sea level.

Why is San Francisco's Telegraph hill so called?—G. B. L.

In the old days the summit had a signal telegraph, which advised the settlement below of the approach of ships thru the Golden Gate.

Is cock fighting illegal in Florida? —P. J. McA.

No.

Women's Bar to Submit Bill on New Court

With a court of conciliation and a reduced divorce rate as its objectives, the Woman's Bar Association of Illinois will submit to its membership Thursday night a proposed bill to create such a court. The bill has been drafted by a special committee and approved by the legislation committee, headed by Mrs. Elisabeth H. Buchhalter.

The proposed bill will be submitted at a dinner meeting at the Chicago Bar association. Judge Joseph Sabath of the Superior court and Judge Cornelius J. Harrington of the Circuit court, both of whom are strong advocates of a court of conciliation, will be special guests. Charles R. Johnston, chairman of a special committee appointed by the Chicago Bar association to study courts of conciliation. also has been invited.

• • •

A. L. Auth, state representative, who recently introduced a bill to create a court of conciliation, and Edward P. Saltiel, state representative, who also is interested in this legislation, are to be guests, too.

The Women's Bar association, according to Miss Ellen L. Nylund, president, is to have its bill presented in the state legislature shortly after it is passed on by the women lawyers. It is proposed by means of the bill to provide for a court of conciliation andsomewhat similar to the children's court of conciliation of Los Angeles, thru which, in one year, hundreds of divorces have been averted and families kept together.

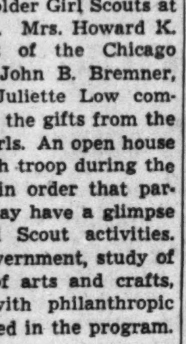
Ten thousand Chicago Girl Scouts, beginning next Saturday, will celebrate thruout a festive week the 29th anniversary of the founding of the Girl Scouts by Juliette Low in Savannah, Ga. A delegate and a leader from each troop will gather in the grand ballroom of the Palmer House Saturday evening for Chicago's annual Juliette Low Penny Night in memory of the founder.



Mrs. John B. Bremner [TRIBUNE Photo.]

In a tableau the leaders will present a penny for each scout to the fund which maintains an international summer camp for older Girl Scouts at Pleasantville, N. Y. Mrs. Howard K. Jackson, president of the Chicago council, and Mrs. John B. Bremner, chairman of the Juliette Low committee, will receive the gifts from the green-uniformed girls. An open house will be held by each troop during the anniversary week in order that parents and friends may have a glimpse of the many Girl Scout activities. Training in self-government, study of city government, of arts and crafts, and coöperation with philanthropic agencies are included in the program.

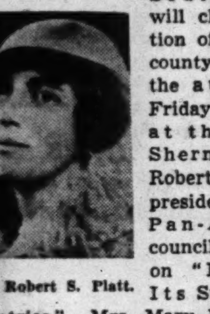
The legislative program of the American legion and auxiliary, and South America will claim attention of the Cook county council of the auxiliary Friday afternoon at the Hotel Sherman. Mrs. Robert S. Platt, president of the Pan-American council, will speak on "Brazil and Its Surrounding Countries." Mrs. Mary Berkemeier Quinn, legislative chairman, will present Mrs. Melville Mucklestone, former national president of the auxiliary, in a discussion of the legion legislative program preceding the regular meeting. Cook County Commander Francis Phelan will be a guest.



Mrs. Robert S. Platt.

Capt. John W. Bradley of the 6th corps area, United States army, will discuss "National Defense" before the Pilgrim colony, National Society of New England women, Thursday afternoon at the Blackstone hotel. Fred Guendal, violinist, will play.

"The National Defense Program of the Daughters of the American Revolution" will be discussed by Mrs. William F. Conlon, fourth division national defense chairman of the Illinois society, at a legislative luncheon of the Women's Advertising Club of Chicago, Wednesday at Carson Pirie Scott and company. Mrs. Camille Rathbun has arranged the talk.

• • •

James R. Young, former newspaper publisher and correspondent in Japan, will discuss his experience in the Far East at a tea of the Chicago Woman's Aid Tuesday at headquarters. Mr. Young was kept in "protective custody" in a Tokio jail for 56 days before Ambassador Grew succeeded in obtaining his release.

Melville J. Herskovits, chairman of the department of anthropology at Northwestern university, will give the the final lecture in a series on "The Story of Man," sponsored by the Geographic Society of Chicago, tomorrow evening at the Goodman theater. "Peoples of West and North Africa" is the title of this public lecture. Prof. Herskovits long has been interested in the relationship between New World and West African Negro cultures, and has directed expeditions to West Africa, Dutch Guiana, Haiti, and Trinidad.

Spring Show of Fashion Group Dated March 4

"On Our Own" is the title the Fashion Group of Chicago appropriately is giving its annual spring fashion show and luncheon Tuesday at 12:30 o'clock at the Drake hotel. This not only will be the first Chicago Fashion Group show for which American designers have developed fashions independent of foreign inspiration; the theme "On Our Own," also will be carried out in a section of the show devoted exclusively to Chicago-born fashions.

Another novel feature will be the showing of clothes suitable for every activity of a well dressed young woman's life, from wheeling the baby carriage on nurse's afternoon out to shopping or attending a fashionable benefit. Typical Chicago back grounds will provide atmosphere for each type of activity illustrated.

The Fashion Group, now in its tenth year, is a noncommercial organization of women leaders in the fashion world and in allied fields. The Chicago group is one of seven regional branches stemming from the parent group in New York. Miss Helen C. Wells, regional director, and others working on the show, are planning to present an "edited" picture of the season's important trends.

Exhibition by Chicago Artists Opens March 11

By Edith Weigle.

The most important coming event in Chicago's art field is the 45th annual exhibition by artists of Chicago and vicinity at the Art institute, which will be opened with a reception for members and artists on March 10. It will be on view to the public from March 11 to April 1.

This is the first time two juries have sat in judgment on the entries, one of them with conservative leanings, the other with modern. And the painters have been given the opportunity to choose one of these two juries.

Following is a list of Chicago painters and sculptors whose work will be seen at this exhibition:

Painters—Raymond Abel, Gertrude Abercrombie, Christian Abrahamsen, Walter Burt Adams, Calvin Albert, Ivan Le Lorraine Albright, Frances Badger, Viola H. Barloga, Macena Barton, Kenneth Becker, David Bekker, Edward H. Bennett, Tressa Emerson Benson, Claude Ronald Bentley, L. W. Bentley, Ewald Berndt, Ernestine Betsberg, Stanley Bielecky, Charles Biesel, Marie Blanke, Aaron Bohrod, Raymond Breinin, Edgar Britton, George F. Buehr, Karl Albert Buehr, Copeland C. The March exhibition of small paintings by the members of the North Shore Art guild will be held at the Tudor gallery of the Chicago Woman's club beginning March 5.

The artist showing at the Chicago Woman's aid is Gasper J. Ruffolo. This young painter studied in Italy before entering the Art institute here in 1925, where he won a number of scholarships. He has exhibited at the institute and the Chicago galleries, and in other cities, as well.

His small canvases done in Gloucester last summer are of the conservative school, well painted and full of color. His still life studies are more interesting than his portraits, except for "Nonnie," an excellently brushed canvas of an old woman dressed in black. All the paintings in the exhibition are small canvases. vases.

Today is the opening of the annual water color and black and white show held by the Austin, Oak Park, and River Forest Art league. Frederic Mizen will give a demonstration of portrait painting in the league building at 8 p. m. The gallery is open to the public every Sunday this month from 4 to 6 p. m. and on Thursday from 2 to 4:30 p. m.

Alfeo Faggi, former artist and sculptor, is having a representative exhibition of his work at the Albright Art gallery in Buffalo, N. Y.

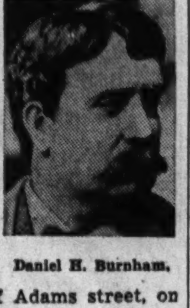
When Chicago Was Young

By Herma Clark

Letters from Martha Freeman Esmond to her friend Julia Boyd of New York.

Chicago, March 25, 1893.

Dear Julia: The World's Fair is the only theme of conversation in Chicago this spring. It is as if we had all suddenly awakened to the realization that its opening date is only a little over two months away. Feverishly workmen are laboring, hoping to be ready when the time arrives. The new Art institute building, facing the head of Adams street, on the lake front, is a hive of activity for it, too, must be ready for opening on May 1.



Daniel H. Burnham.

Will and I, driving past it today, stopped and went in to see how it is getting on. For six months it will be used for "congresses" connected with the exposition, after which it will become the exhibition building of the Art institute. The building was designed by Shepley, Rutan & Coolidge, architects, and is called Italian renaissance in style. Set back 80 feet from Michigan avenue, it is two stories high, with a basement which will be used for various purposes. It has no dome or tower, and some there be who think it is too plain. I heard one solid citizen complain that it should have had a "cupalow," but most of us are delighted with its proportions and adornments. The center of the building contains a great staircase, which is to be one of the important architectural features of the building. The central and rear portions will not be built right away.

During the six months of the fair the central court will be occupied by two temporary audience rooms seating 300 persons each. The Art institute collections will be moved in on May 1, but will be only adornments and not arranged as they will be later. We have some important works already in the institute, thanks to Martin Ryerson and Charles Hutchinson. These two men have taken many trips abroad, buying pictures and other art treasures, and among their purchases are some paintings from the collection of Prince Demidoff. So we now boast of examples of Hobbema's work, as well as that of Van Ostade, Rembrandt, Holbein, Franz Hals, Rysdael, Van Dyck, Jan Steen, and other masters.

W. M. R. French is director of the Art institute. John Vanderpoel is a teacher of painting, and others on the staff are Frederick W. Freer, Miss Caroline Wade, Pauline Dohn, N. H. Carpenter, Lorado Taft, and Louis J. Millet.

The cost of the building is about $650,000, of which the Columbian Exposition trustees furnished $200,000 in consideration of obtaining these rooms for holding the meetings of the congresses.

In New York Daniel H. Burnham, director of works of the exposition, has had a fine testimonial at the hands of his fellow architects in recognition of his labors in connection with the buildings out at Jackson park. A most splendid occasion this New York banquet in his honor must have been, the guests including not only great architects, but also men of letters, artists, great legal lights, and captains of industry.

Richard M. Hunt, who designed the administration building of the Columbian Exposition, presented a loving cup to Mr. Burnham, and there were speeches of appreciation. It was a deserved compliment to Mr. Burnham to have Mr. Hunt as master of the feast, for he is so well known in the east. Other men who were on the program were Richard Watson Gilder, who responded to the toast, "The White City"; Lyman J. Gage, Gen. Horace Porter, Charles Dudley Warner, and Joseph H. Choate—wit, wisdom, and learning personified! The Columbian Exposition is being called "The White City" a good deal now, because all the buildings are being painted or whitewashed by means of a gigantic squirtgun. When it is all finished it will have an ethereal appearance, reminding one of the description of the New Jerusalem in the Apocalypse.

You're surely coming out for the opening, aren't you? Your loving friend,

MARTHA FREEMAN ESMOND.

FOOT NOTES.

Letters still come to our desk recalling Benjamin B. Bullwinkle. George M. Germain, Bloomington, Ill., says of him: "He was the hero of all the small fry in early Chicago, of which group I was a member. He was prompt in getting to a fire and made many improvements in the methods of putting them on. The one strongest in my memory is his use of tarpaulins to protect furniture. He would have his men put everything in the center of the room and cover it, a great help in reducing damage from water as well as from fire."

Mr. Germain, born at 800 Wabash avenue in 1857, is a retired railroad engineer, but at 84 is still actively engaged in managing several Illinois farms. We are pleased with his commendation of articles on early Chicago, which he finds "surprisingly correct."

Arizona Rodeo Postponed by 'Unusual' Rains

By Lolita Linn.

"The sun shines on Brewery Gulch 330 days in the year, but there is moonshine every day."

TUCSON, ARIZ. So reads the masthead of the Brewery Gulch Gazette of Bisbee, Ariz.

For all we know, Bisbee or "Brewery Gulch," as the more forthright miners of an earlier day named the town, may be making good on its sunshine. Arizona as a whole is feeling a bit distrustful of its weather. Ever since Christmas, the sun has had a disturbing way of missing his appointments. For some time now, we have wished for the umbrella and galoshes which we so trustfully packed away upon arrival. But after three winters in Arizona, you simply cannot take rain seriously. You slip in the mud, listen incredulously to salvos of thunder, observe the cacti about to burst their sides from gorging themselves on water, and tell all the newcomers that it is most unusual. And the minute the sun shows his sheepish face around the corner, you go out and buy a white hat.

For the first time in history, Tucson's La Fiesta de Los Vanqueros [festival of the cowboys] gave a rain check. The Saturday rodeo was postponed until Monday. It was no doing of the cowboys. You could hear their loud muttering as they drowned their sorrows at the Santa Rita bar. Think they're a lot of sissies!

• • •

Among those who have returned to the San Marcos this year are the Benjamin Alexanders of Lake Forest, Col. and Mrs. Nathaniel L. Howard, the Russell T. Sterns and the Herbert Popes, all of Winnetka; the Charles H. Pooles of Glencoe, and the Charles G. Renshaws and their son, Charles Jr., of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore C. Butz of Winnetka came to Phoenix for the Western Open golf tournament and are now vacationing at the San Marcos. The Edwin M. Ashcrafts of Evanston are visiting with their daughter and her husband, the Gerald Smiths of Long Island, N. Y., at the Chandler resort.

In Tucson, there is time to do what you want to do. Perhaps in the frantic hum of the bombing planes which are about to find their base close to the town or just in the struggle to grow too fast, this priceless heritage of the older and wiser civilization will be lost. But now, unconsciously, your pace slackens and you take time to look around you—at the bowlegged cowboys propped against the walls, at the vibrant colors of the Indian and Mexican costumes, at the narrow streets of the old town, and at the glorious panorama of encircling mountains. Even the tourists are interested for they are so obviously enjoying themselves.

• • •

We gossiped about Chicago with the George H. Zendts and found endless enchantment in the mountain views from the windows of their desert home and in the snatches of song with which Marie Zendt punctuates her days.

Just at sunset we sat with Mrs. William Musser and her daughter, Dorothy, in the great window of their dining room and watched hundreds of quail, juncos and doves come to the desert garden for the supper which is always waiting for them. Mrs. Musser and her daughter call Iowa home, but spend a part of each summer in Chicago.

We watched the fiesta parade go by and chatted with the two men who stood beside us. Sure enough, one of them was Dr. Royal Rudolph, formerly a Chicagoan, and the other was Fred Nave who was born in Arizona but attended Northwestern university law school. You can't run away from Chicago in Tucson.

As we watched the parade go by, we mentally awarded prizes to the pack train of tiny burros bearing "Bundles for Britain," to the University of Arizona fraternity turned out as a confederate cavalry troop [Tucson was passed over as the capital of Arizona because of its southern sympathies], to the eastern youngsters from the desert schools who ride with all the nonchalance of the cowboys, to the old vehicles—landaus, carryalls, steam pumpers, phaetons, and covered wagons—making an annual appearance on streets which were once their rightful domain.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer D. Lininger of Evanston, costumed in the style of the gay 1900's, rode by in a buggy built for two. The tallyho used in the parade was given to Tucson by Walter R. Bimson of Phoenix, formerly of Chicago.

We chatted with Mrs. Margaret Wallace of Chicago, who rode in the parade with Lynn Carver of Hollywood and Paul Van Vorhees of Evanston. Mrs. Wallace's son, Nicholas Jr., rode with the children of the Arizona Sunshine school.

MARRIED

Mrs. Joseph William Baron and her bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Baron of El Paso, Tex., are at home on the south side. Mrs. Baron is the former Estelle Anne Gordon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Gordon.

Ideal Weather Adds to Lure of Palm Beach

By Helen Van Hoy Smith.

March finds this tropical island resort still knee-deep in art, shoulder high in events to aid Great Britain, and practically submerged in affairs of a purely social nature.

PALM BEACH, FLA. Everybody is entertaining, if not with a luncheon or dinner, then with a cocktail party. The last named are as numerous as the coconuts that festoon the gracefully leaning palm trees that line the ocean boulevard.

It is a matter of comment, too, that many who attend these cocktail parties imbibe only tomato juice, orange juice, or other soft drinks.

The perfect weather Palm Beach is now enjoying has added to the popularity of golf, tennis, and fishing. In contrast to the days of silver, blue, and gold, there are others when the sky is as drab as the color of the houses in the coal section of Pennsylvania, and when the sea is just one big pan of dishwater. On days like that the most ardent Palm Beach booster couldn't claim that there was a nickel's worth of glamor in Palm Beach.

• • •

This week saw the finish of the men's four ball, 18 hole, match play handicap tourney at the Seminole Golf club. Participants contested for the handsome Seminole cup presented by Wolcott Blair of Chicago and New York.

Chicagoans continue to arrive in Palm Beach for stays both short and long. Mr. and Mrs. Silas Strawn are at the Whitehall. Mr. and Mrs. William Mansfield are at the Everglades club for the balance of the season. Mrs. J. Brooks Fenno of Chestnut Hill, Mass., has joined her mother, Mrs. John A. Chapman, at the Brazilian court.

Mr. and Mrs. Casper W. B. Townsend of Merion, Pa., are arriving this week-end to be guests of Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock. Volney Foster recently returned to Chicago after a week as the guest of Mrs. McKinlock. Mr. and Mrs. William Allen Snyder of Chicago are at the Breakers.

• • •

Tours of Palm Beach estates, sponsored by the Garden club, are really proving something to write home about. They are attracting huge crowds. Mrs. McKinlock and Mrs. Donald R. McLennan express themselves as being both gratified and amazed at the response. Visitors bring notebooks and ask numerous questions. It isn't difficult to imagine that garden clubs in far distant states will soon be equipped with the beauties and opulence of this wonderland.

Mrs. McKinlock's garden at Casa Alejandro was included in a recent tour. It was on this occasion that Mrs. McKinlock had a joyous reunion with Mrs. George Gulick of Washington, D. C., whom she hadn't seen in years. During the world war Mrs. Gulick was head of the Red Cross canteen in Washington, while Mrs. McKinlock was "general" of the same army of workers in Chicago. The garden at Casa Alejandro is enveloped by a poetic grace and charm; it has an atmosphere of utter peace and tranquility.

The garden of Mrs. Charles Strout Davis also left visitors breathless with admiration. Adjectives were exhausted when applied to the broad expanse of lawn extending from the rear of the house to the "County road," the formal flower beds, the pink and blue larkspur, and the quaint ruffled hollyhocks against white walls. Dominating this garden is a giant ceiba tree, now in full bloom. The product of this tree is kapok, or silk cotton, widely used for stuffing sofa pillows.
